Quebec Applying Drastic Measures On Meat Import

OTTAWA, March 1. (CP)—Another set of restrictions was added Friday to those of various governments seeking protection against foot-and-mouth disease among Saskatchewan herds. Quebec announced that effective Friday, livestock and meats required the permission of the provincial veterinarian or his representative before being moved into Quebec. The restriction applied to all points outside the province. Meanwhile, in Ottawa Agriculture Minister Gardiner hinted at possible federal plans to expand financial aid to the livestock industry.

He said the Canadian government does not intend to let cattle producers bear the "whole brunt" of the consequences of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease near Regina.

"The situation is being watched carefully and as further measures to protect the interests of producers are required these will be brought into effect.

"What form these measures should take, if they prove to be required, has been inquired into."

May Pay More

Officials disclosed that within the next few days plans will be completed under which farmers whose cattle must be destroyed may receive greater payment than that provided under the Contagious Animal Disease Act. The act provides for payment of commercial value on all animals destroyed.

It was learned later that farmers whose hay and straw piles may be destroyed may receive aid. Aid also may go to farmers who are unable to market cattle at normal prices because of interprovincial and international embargoes resulting from the disease.

These embargoes included one by British Columbia, a blanket closure of the border which Mr. Gardiner referred to in his statement to the Commons.

The minister said "we think we have a way of dealing with it which will be effective and at the same time will not interfere with reasonable actions by the provinces. I hope that we shall be in a position to make some announcement about that."

Unconstitutional?

Federal authorities questioned whether the provincial bans were constitutional since under the Canadian constitution international and interprovincial trade

Nurse Accosted In Montreal, Says Mind Blank

STANLEY, N.B., March 1 — (CP)—Lieut. Elizabeth Sansom, army nursing sister who turned up Tuesday after being missing since Christmas Eve, says she was "accosted and pushed into a car" at Montreal Dec. 26 and after that her mind went blank, her father said Friday night.

She arrived back in this farm and lumbering town, 30 miles northeast of Fredericton, Friday and her father gave the first information on her experiences. But there were still many questions left unanswered.

The 26-year-old niece of Lt.-Gen. E. W. Sansom, Canadian overseas corps commander, during the Second World War, was reported to have been the victim of amnesia when she turned up in New York Tuesday. She disappeared after leaving the army hospital at Kingston, Dec. 24.

Her father, Herbert Sansom, Friday night released to The Canadian Press a paragraph from the letter which had given the first news of her whereabouts. She had mailed it from New York Feb. 21. He received it here Feb. 25.

Last She Remembers

She had written him: "The last I remember I was on the way to the station at Montreal to return to Kingston when I was accosted and pushed into a car. Since then my mind has been a blank. As things cleared I realized I was in a Salvation Army shelter in New York city. I am writing this to let you folks at home know where I am."

Mr. Samson who wouldn't elaborate on the contents of the letter, said that following its receipt he got in touch with the army. The attractive nursing sister was soon located. She arrived in Fredericton Thursday.

She was examined at Fredericton—headquarters for the New Brunswick military district—and an army doctor granted her two weeks leave.

She can take more if she wants. So far as the army is concerned she's "merely on leave."

Can't Remember

Her father says she has not yet recalled where she spent the period between Christmas Eve and the day after Christmas when she was accosted.

Mr. Sansom says his daughter had lost weight "but she's cheer-

Lanoie To Serve 14-Yr. Sentence

PEMBROKE, March 1—(CP)—Spr. Joseph (French) Lanoie, 35, today began serving a 14-year penitentiary term with the threat of a second trial for murder hanging over his head. He was convicted Friday of manslaughter.

Lanoie, dressed in his uniform and wearing two rows of ribbons won in the Second World War, heard Mr. Justice Wishart Spence tells him "it seems to me you were very, very close to conviction for murder."

His conviction was in connection with the death of Spr. James Wesley Caulfield, 20, of Pine Falls, Man., one of two mess stewards shot to death following a New Year's Eve drinking party.

A second charge of murder against Lanoie in the death of Craftsman Clifford E. Johannson, 19, of Saskatoon was ordered held over until the next assizes. The Crown will decide then whether to proceed with it.

6,000 Say Farewell To Little Pipe Major

TORONTO, March 1—(CP)—Six thousand jammed University Armouries Friday night to give a clamorous farewell to Pipe Major Jimmy Fraser, of the 48th Highlanders.

It was a spontaneous gesture on the part of his friends and the men with whom he served or trained during 60 years' continuous service with the Army, 39 of them with the 48th.

To honor the retirement of the little man with the twinkling blue eyes and white moustache, nine pipe bands marched and played for one hour. He took the regimental march past while he passed his pipes on to his pupil, Pipe Sgt. Archie Dewar.

Egyptian PM Resigns Before Talks

Hint King, Premier Have Dispute; Conference Delayed

CAIRO, March 1. (AP) — Prime Minister Aly Maher Pasha resigned unexpectedly today on the eve of talks he had confidently predicted would lead to settlement of Egypt's bitter feud with Britain. He stalked grim-faced from an hour-long emergency cabinet session and told reporters he had quit. He made no other statement.

Political sources said Maher became involved in a dispute with King Farouk, who installed his independent government Jan. 27 following bloody anti-British torch riots in Cairo.

It was reported Ahmed Maguib Hilaly Pasha, also an independent and one of Egypt's elder statesmen, may be asked to form a new government. He told reporters he had heard nothing about it.

Maher Pasha's son, Mohammed Aly Maher Pasha said the 69-year-old independent leader resigned because of "inability to work due to mysterious currents behind his back." King Farouk installed Maher Pasha after ousting the strongly Nationalist government of the Wafdist party leader, Mustaph El Nahas Pasha.

Talks Postponed

The prime minister was to have met this morning with British ambassador Sir Ralph Stevenson on re-opened discussions aimed at settling the dispute between the two countries over the Suez canal zone and the Sudan. Those talks were postponed only a short time before Maher resigned, and the announced reason was Stevenson had become ill with a "chill."

Those talks also were aimed at trying to reach some agreement which eventually would bring Egypt into a western-back-

March Lion Roaring In Prairies, Maritimes

By The Canadian Press

The March Lion is roaring in Alberta and Saskatchewan and in the Atlantic provinces while the March Lamb gambols on the Pacific Coast and in Central Canada.

If springtime weather follows tradition, the order should be reversed when the month ends.

A Canadian Press survey today found the eastern provinces by the sea bracing themselves for a new storm after a blizzard which struck Wednesday and continued into Thursday, causing at least two deaths. In the west, snow-flurries rode gales from the north into the Prairies, where a temperature drop to near zero ended a mild spell.

Calm weather continued in most of Ontario and Quebec, with the temperature expected to climb slightly above the freezing point and the sun strong enough to melt some of the snow on the streets. Hardly any snow remains in Toronto, which has basked all week in a mild spell.

Seeking Three Fishing Craft

HALIFAX, March 1. (CP) — The search for three small fishing craft, missing since Wednesday's blizzard, continued today as another storm developed in the Atlantic south of the Maritimes.

The disturbance was moving rapidly towards the Maritimes and will bring snow late today, but the two to six inches forecast will hardly be noticed on the 12-18 inches that fell Wednesday and Thursday, making the snowiest February since 1918.

Two men died and 11 are missing. The toll is expected to go higher.

A Lancaster bomber left Greenwood, N.S. early today for Nova Scotia's south shore, where the Idella Theta, the Little Clive and the Iram and Roger disappeared in turbulent seas.

Tornado Batters Town Churches, Homes Tumble

FAYETTEVILLE, Tenn., March 1—(AP)—A tornado landed with blockbuster fury on this Tennessee town Friday leaving two dead, scores injured, and a 300-foot-wide path of ruin in its wake.

The Tennessee highway patrol said 150 were either hurt by the crippling winds or burned in a rash of fires that followed the storm.

The twister skipped over other areas in middle Tennessee and northeast Alabama with less intensity.

The high winds smashed into the centre of Fayetteville (pop. 6,000) at 5:30 p.m. EST, ripping buildings apart, tearing up trees, and knocking out communications and power lines.

Charlie Vance, 56, a milk company worker, said he heard a roar and saw the "gray funnel" of the twister. Limbs of trees, parts of buildings and other debris swirled "as high as 500 feet in the air", Vance said.

The dead were identified as Willard McGown, 35, grocery clerk; and Mrs. Eugene McGehee, 55, a housewife. Both perished when their homes were demolished by the winds.

The tornado dispelled shirt-sleeve temperatures. Strong winds still howled over the city as thermometers neared freezing early today.

The blast hit first in the downtown area and swept away the Episcopal Church. Five other churches were badly damaged, as was the Lincoln county courthouse.

The tornado struck Donaldson hospital for negroes, tearing away the kitchen and dining room and scattering heavy equipment about the yard.

The wrecked hospital was left without heat and light as an emergency generator failed. Dr. L. M. Donaldson, superintendent, said 25 to 30 persons were injured there.

The tornado also raked the Lincoln Memorial Hospital, sweeping the roof from the maternity ward. Mrs. Kenenth Olstrum, in labor when the roof was whipped from that section of the building, gave birth to a boy shortly afterward as attendants worked by lights from an emergency generator.

SORROWING SURVIVORS — Robert Morton is shown with his daughter Isobel, 17, on his arrival in Montreal from Manitoba after receiving word that five members of his family had been burned to death when fire destroyed his house at Ville St. Pierre, Que. Isobel, who jumped from the second floor, was the only one to escape the fate which claimed her mother, two sisters and her grandparents.

Howe Believes U.S. To Halt Ban On Import Of Certain Dairy Products

OTTAWA, March 1. (CP)—Trade Minister Howe told the Commons Friday he believes the United States will rescind a ban, imposed last August, on the import of Canadian dairy products. He said there are "very encouraging" signs that the U.S. Senate will adopt legislation eliminating the restrictions, subject of a Canadian diplomatic protest when Congress put them into force last year. For that reason, said Mr. Howe, the government does not plan "in the present circumstances" to retaliate by banning certain American farm products, even though the American act is a "direct" violation of the Canada-U.S. trade agreement.

Mr. Howe made the statement after Percy Wright (CCF—Melfort) asked if a Geneva dispatch, published by The New York Times and reporting Canada was planning such action, was correct.

The minister said the dispatch was erroneous and had given the government "much concern."

Mr. Howe, in his statement of Canada-U.S. trade, said the situation "has not developed to the point where retaliatory measures would be either appropriate or effective."

Create Problems

The import restrictions had given rise to problems for Canada.

"The Canadian government," he added, "deplores the fact that, by introducing these new import controls, the United States government has taken action in direct contravention of her trade agreement with Canada."

Through the controls, the U.S. had "seriously impaired" the value of tariff concessions which she negotiated with Canada at various international trade conferences.

But Canada had been "greatly encouraged" by support being given in the U.S. Congress to repeal the restrictions.

RCAF Officer Under Arrest

KENORA, March 1 (CP)—An R.C.A.F. officer was arrested Friday after a Harvard training plane "beat-up" towns in this area, made a spectacular pass under the centre span of the 150-foot high Keewatin bridge, then crash-landed on a nearby lake. Officials said the flight was unauthorized.

The pilot, FO. Keith Christiansen, was alleged to have taken off from the air force station at Gimli, Man., 60 miles north of Winnipeg, early Friday.

His plane roared low over towns en route to his home town at Keewatin.

At Kenora, Norman and Keewatin, residents told how the aircraft narrowly missed buildings as it "beat-up" the area. A quick pull-out over Kenora kept the plane from striking the Bank of Nova Scotia and the Notre Dame Church spire. At another point witnesses said the plane was below the top of industrial chimneys in the north end of the town.

Two Killed On Way To Banquet

Car Skids, Upsets Near Owen Sound, Third Man Injured

OWEN SOUND, March 1, (CP)—Marjorie Louise Govier, 22, of Owen Sound, and Harold Miller, Jr., 21, of Wiarton, were killed Friday night on their way to a lake sailors' banquet when the automobile in which they were riding skidded out of confrol and overturned 10 miles west of here.

Carl Turner, 20, of nearby Wiarton, was injured in the accident.

Truck driver Clarence [illegible] Jr., 31, of Owen Sound, said he was driving up a hill when the car went by, almost striking his truck.

It appeared to be skidding and he glanced in his rear-view mirror to see what happened to it. He saw a swirl of snow at the side of the road, stopped his truck and walked back to investigate.

"What I saw made my stomach knot up in a way it hadn't done since I returned from overseas."

The car had ripped out four guard rail posts, snapped off a hydro pole, plunged down an embankment and rolled over in a farmer's field. Turner was wrapped around a doorpost of the smashed car.

When enough persons arrived to lift the vehicle, he was taken out and driven to hospital in Owen Sound. Miss Govier was killed outright in the crash and Miller died a few minutes later.

SUSPECTED CARRIER — Willi Bruntjen, 29-year-old immigrant, is suspected of unwittingly bringing a crisis to Canada's livestock industry. It is believed he accidentally carried virus of the feared foot-and-mouth cattle disease from his native Germany to the farm outside Regina where he was given his first work in Canada. Accompanied by an R.C.M.P. officer, he arrived Friday in Ottawa by air from Vancouver. Federal agriculture officials will test his clothing and other belongings for traces of foot-and-mouth virus.

Bachelor's Life Not Beautiful

AURORA, Ill., March 1 (AP)—A bachelor dressed as a woman Friday sat in a mock meeting of the Aurora city council consisting entirely of marriageable women. He escaped with his life, but he lost a pint of blood and $7.

Each leap year the government of Aurora is taken over by women, and for one day bachelors are subjected to highly-discriminatory legislation.

Herbert Phillips, 27, dressed in feminine garb and found a seat at the council meeting.

In ladylike fashion, he crossed and uncrossed his legs until someone chanced to note the size of his high-heeled shoes. Soprano screams sent Phillips into action. He clapped a hand over his fluffy hat and made for the door.

The shoes that tipped off his secret betrayed him a second time. The high heels threw him. He was seized by the council members and fined $7 and a pint of blood.

Twenty-five men who had been rounded up earlier by spinster policewomen for the day tried to break jail. The women foiled the plot and all were fined $5 and a pint of blood.

Reds Won't Drop Russia Off List

MUNSAN, Korea, March 1 — (AP)—Communist truce negotiators said today they would "eternally reject" efforts to keep Russia off a neutral supervisory commission, and a United Nation delegate acknowledged that there seems to be "no prospect" of an early Korean armistice.

Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby told the Reds it was apparent there would be no early truce and called for an immediate exchange of all sick and wounded prisoners.

The Communists promptly rejected Libby's request and accused the U.N. Allies of "deliberately serving notice" that they planned to delay the armistice negotiations.

Queen's Birthday To Be Holiday

OTTAWA, March 1 —(CP) — Queen Elizabeth's birthday, which falls on April 21, will be a statutory holiday in Canada, it was announced Friday.

Other statutory holidays yet to come this year include Good Friday, Easter Monday, Victoria Day, Dominion Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day, which is usually observed on the second Monday in October, Remembrance Day and Christmas.

Attack Europeans With Sticks, Set Fire To Cars

HONG KONG, March 1. (Reuters)—Five thousand yelling Chinese stormed through Kowloon today fighting police, burning cars, stoning Europeans, and damaging stores. A British soldier and a police officer, two Americans and several other Europeans were injured. Robert Ballantyne, U.S. vice consul, and Jack Leach, information officer at the U.S. information services offices, were stoned as they stepped from a taxi. Both suffered head injuries and Ballantyne was taken to hospital.

Police cordoned off the riot area in the British-leased mainland section and went into action with tear-gas bombs and batons.

They drove the rioters out of the busy business section into the Chinese quarter of Mongkok, [illegible] later.

The riot began when a Chinese Communist "relief mission," bringing relief supplies for Chinese who lost their homes in a fire last November, failed to arrive at Kowloon station from the Chinese-Hong Kong district border.

Recall Troops

Police said it had been unnecessary to call out British troops stationed in the colony. But one report said troops had been recalled to their barracks in case of further flare-ups.

Hong Kong Island radio broadcast advice to the people living in Kowloon — which was a large European residential area — to stay indoors.

Before the demonstrations started, the Hong Kong government stopped police leave, called out reserves and said the Communist mission would not be allowed to enter the colony.

A "welcoming committee" of Hong Kong Chinese which set off to meet the mission was taken off a train before it reached the border.

And then came a report from Canton that the mission — previously reported to have reached the border on the Chinese side— had "postponed" its trip. No reason was given.

5,000 March

A crowd estimated at between 10,000 and 20,000 waited for the mission at Kowloon station, in British territory across the harbor from Hong Kong Island.

Eight In Spy Ring Sentenced To Death

ATHENS, March 1—(AP)—A court martial today sentenced to death eight members of a 9-member spy ring.

Four others were sentenced to life imprisonment.

The military tribunal's verdict finished one of the most sensational espionage cases ever tried in Greek courts.

Eight of the 29 persons accused of spying and high treason were women. Their trial began Feb. 15.

Government witnesses produced codes, radio equipment seized last November, and copies of wireless messages for Cominform headquarters in Bucharest, Romania, and other Communist stations surrounding Greece in their cases against the conspirators.

Truman Officials To Fight Any Cut In Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) —The Truman administration has decided to fight any cut in its proposed $7,900,000,000 foreign aid program.

State Secretary Dean Acheson told a country-wide radio and television audience Friday night this program "deserves our utmost support" and is "vital" to the success of western European defence plans.

Other officials, following up the Acheson appeal, said the program had been carefully worked out by the state defence departments and the mutual security administration, and the new money requested is considered essential to enable other countries to carry out defence plans.

Acheson appealed for the "utmost support" for the administration's new mutual security program with two arguments:

First, that it is in the interest of the security of the United States and therefore a good investment; and,

Second, the Europeans have been doing a good job against great odds and have gone a long way toward establishing unity and co-operation in military, economic and political matters.

Acheson's speech was a report on what was accomplished on his diplomatic mission to London and Lisbon where he joined with other western foreign ministers in conferences designed to build up North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Europe.

Acheson said the meetings of the British, French, German and American ministers at London and a session of the 14-nation North Atlantic Treaty Council at Lisbon accomplished much.

But a great deal was yet to be done and many problems had to be solved before the decisions made were translated into troops, uniformed, trained, and ready for action.

"The days of danger are still with us," Acheson said.

Paul Reynaud Trying To Form Gov't

PARIS, March 1 — (AP): — Dapper, 73-year-old Paul Reynaud, who was Premier in the 1940 fall of France, bobbed back into the political spotlight today as the financial wizard picked to stave off threatening economic chaos.

Within an hour after flying from Britain at the urgent call of President Vincent Auriol, he accepted the job of trying to put together a new government.

Reynaud prepared to start talks at once with leaders of the warring factions in the national assembly which tumbled the 40-day government of Edgar Faure by voting record defence funds, then refusing a 15-per-cent increase in taxes to raise the money.

Not Easy Task

Reynaud's hope is to set up a government of national union—a small cabinet of technicians with greater powers from Parliament to restore order and beat off bankruptcy. His task will be far from easy.

Reynaud leads an independent right-wing group. If he succeeds in forming a cabinet, he will head a government far to the right of the middle-roaders who — with frequent shuffles—have governed France since the war.

A government of national union presumably would aim to include all parties except the Communists. If so Reynaud would have to take into his cabinet the leading followers of Gen. Charles De Gaulle.

The Gaullists' 117 votes are the largest bloc in the assembly. In the past they have turned thumbs down on coalitions because they could not get the leading role, but lately there have been hints they might co-operate.

Burglars Get $2,500,000 Loot

RENO, Nev., March 1—(AP)—Burglars entered the home of a millionaire investment broker Friday and made off with a 500-pound safe containing some $2,500,000 in cash, jewelry and negotiable securities. They left behind another $1,000,000 in securities packed in a suitcase.

The theft was discovered by L. V. Redfield when he returned home from an afternoon luncheon. His watch-dog was in a bedroom happily munching a ham-bone taken from the refrigerator and given to him by the burglars.

Redfield was described by a Reno business associate, who refused to be identified, as "the shrewdest man in the financial world today." He said Redfield owned vast amounts of real estate and commented "this (the burglary) won't hurt Redfield."

No Faulty Materials Used In Hull Building

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP). — Works Minister Fournier said on Friday he had been told that an accident at the new Federal Printing Bureau in Hull, Que., could not have been caused by faulty design or faulty materials.

Replying in the Commons to questions by George Drew, Progressive-Conservative leader, Mr. Fournier did not disclose the source of his information.

He said a coroner's inquest will undoubtedly fix responsibility for the accident which cost the life of one man and sent seven others to hospital. The accident occurred Wednesday when forms containing freshly poured cement suddenly collapsed.

Mr. Fournier said the construction of the building was being carried on by reputable firms. The responsibility for any damages rested with the contractors.

C. of C. Adopts Set Of Bylaws In Millbrook

MILLBROOK, March 1 (ENS)—The newly-formed Chamber of Commerce met in the council chambers on Thursday evening for its first meeting since the election of officers. There were 46 present.

Ivan Gray, the president was in the chair.

Frank North reported for the bylaw committee of which he is chairman. The bylaws, which conform to those of other chambers of Commerce of the district with some special ones to fit local conditions, were passed. It was decided that the name should be "Millbrook and District Chamber of Commerce". Meetings are regularly to be held in the council chambers.

Group Insurance

Homer Ouelette reported on the different types of group insurance available. It was decided to leave the matter of insurance until the size of the group was fixed, and until members had time to decide what they really wanted. Two or three different plans are to be brought in and a group manager will be asked to explain them at a later meeting.

Mr. Cathcart and Alex. Gilbert were appointed delegates to the convention being held in Toronto, March 13th and 14th.

The president asked the chairman of the various committees to get their groups together to plan for their activities in the coming season.

To date, there are 42 paid members.

Allied Tanks Attack Targets

SEOUL, March 1 (AP)—United Nations tanks today rumbled into action on the muddy Korean warfront for the second straight day.

A tank-infantry raiding unit, backed up by the intense artillery fire, hammered Red targets south of Pyonggang on the central front for more than an hour at down Saturday.

Chinese artillery and mortar fire damaged two of the tanks. The tanks were pulled back to Allied lines.

That brought to 12 the number of Allied tanks destroyed or damaged Friday and Saturday.

Allied fighter bombers balanced off part of this loss Saturday afternoon. The Mustangs and marine Corsairs caught a camouflaged Red tank convoy north of Pyonggang and destroyed three and badly damaged six.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather office at 9:30 a.m. today:

Synopsis.

A disturbance which moved rapidly eastward below the Great Lakes spread cloud across Southern Ontario Friday night, but the snow which accompanied this storm stayed to the south of Lake Erie. Early this morning most of the cloud had pulled out of southern regions and although temperatures will be somewhat below normal for this time of year March has made its entrance like a lamb.

A second minor disturbance is moving over Lake Superior this morning and spreading some light snow ahead of it over Northern and Central Ontario but it is weakening and little accumulation of snow is expected.

Regional forecast valid until midnight Sunday:

Lake Erie, Niagara, Lake Ontario, Windsor, Hamilton, Toronto cities: Sunny with a few cloudy intervals today and Sunday. A few very light snowflurries overnight ending before dawn Sunday. Colder. Winds light. Low tonight and high Sunday at Windsor, St. Thomas, Toronto, Trenton, St. Catharines and Hamilton 15 and 30.

Summary for Sunday: Mostly sunny.

Haliburton region: Sunny clouding over late this afternoon. Occasional light snow tonight ending before dawn Sunday. Mostly sunny Sunday. Little change in temperature. Winds light. Low tonight and high Sunday at Killaloe zero and 20 above.

More Confusion For Cattle Men

TORONTO, March 1 (CP). — Meat industry spokesmen have forecast more confusion among Ontario cattle men as a result of Quebec's decree that no livestock or meat will be admitted within Quebec boundaries unless a permit has been issued by the chief veterinarian of the province.

They also predicted a rapidly-rising market in meat in Quebec, which produces little beef. Most of it comes from the western provinces and Ontario.

Agriculture Minister T. A. Kennedy of Ontario said the ruling "would matter to Ontario, of course. It would hurt us."

C. D. Graham, Ontario's Deputy Agriculture Minister, would not commit himself on the affect of prices in Ontario. He said it would depend on how long the ban lasted. There are more than 2,000 head at the Ontario stock yards now, he said and the future price depends both on the duration of the ban and the amount of marketings.

ed Middle East defence program. Egypt's entry into such a set-up hinged on her demands that British troops first be withdrawn from the Suel canal zone and that the Sudan be placed under King Farouk's full sovereignty.

Maher Pasha, although standing on Egypt's Nationalist demands, was considered more moderate than his Wafdist predecessor. He was said to have pro-British feelings and was a close friend of the king's.

His resignation followed earlier reports today he had asked—and received—permission from King Farouk to suspend for a month the parliament, which still was ruled by a strong Wafdist majority.

There were some reports the king wanted to use his constitutional right to dissolve the parliament outright but that Maher asked only for a temporary suspension so that he could devote his whole efforts to the impending talks with British authorities.

(Whether this was the reason for Maher's dispute with the palace could not readily be determined from Cairo dispatches, which undergo heavy Egyptian censorship).

Love Of Home Foundation Of Better Life

LINDSAY, March 1, (ENS)—The love for one's home and community is one of the foundations for the development of that better life and "one of the bulwarks of our country" said Hon. Leslie Frost addressing, Friday night, the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

Premier Frost spoke on his recollections and impressions of the growth and development of Ontario in the past half century and particularly in the past nine years since he became provincial treasurer.

The said that at one time Hon. Mr. Harcourt held the record of having presented nine budgets to the people of Ontario, but that he has broken that record with ten budget. Where Hon. Harcourt budgets totalled $34,000,000 in his nine years, the Ontario government of today had budgeted for $2,700,000,000 in 10 years.

Today government economists tell me that Ontario's great expansion in the past 50 years has been due to (1) the invention of the internal combustion engine (2) the development of hydro electric commission and (3) the development of the Ontario-Northern Railway and the north country.

The premier said that development in the past decade or so in Ontario has been due to (1) the industrial expansion in Ontario. (2) The development of labor with collective bargaining and the co-operation between labor and industry. (3) The standard of living for the people of Ontario and the betterment in our way of life. (4) Science in industry has been one of the spectacular developments of the day.

He believed that it was the function of the government to further collective bargaining, to give every assistance possible in providing equality of education to all children, to provide for the good health of the people whereby they might live to the average age of eighty instead of seventy years. "I do not believe that moderate security destroys the initiative of the people, hence the pension scheme".

"Have confidence in the future—the world isn't going to the dogs. You ought to be glad to pay taxes in this great country, the best country in the world."

The B.C. Government was reported to be reconsidering its position and is checking to see if its restrictions can be eased without danger.

Meanwhile, work continued in the quarantined areas surrounding Regina to eradicate the easily-spread disease. First slaughtering of infected herds took place.

Two hundred cattle of a diseased herd were led to a burial pit and shot by R.C.M.P. constables with rifles. The carcasses were covered with unslaked lime and covered deeply.

That was the first of a number of such shootings which will see 650 more cattle killed at other sites during the next few days.

The search also was unabated for the origin of the disease which never before struck Canada. The possibilities were raised that it came from Mexico which suffered a disastrous outbreak in 1946 or from the United Kingdom.

The United Kingdom was written off as a point of origin because of a six-month embargo placed on cattle from there and a close watch for entries from this source.

Of Mexico as a source, it was pointed out that Canada buys no cattle from there and all Mexican motoring tourists must pass through the U.S. which enforces rigid inspection as a precautionary measure.

Howe Believes

"Our relations with the United States are cordial on both sides and the Canadian government did not consider it appropriate to threaten retaliation, as reported, on a subject which is at present receiving the constructive consideration of the United States Senate."

Mr. Howe spoke shortly before the Throne speech debate opened with E. W. George (L—Westmorland) moving the traditional motion for adoption of an address in reply to the Speech read Thursday at the opening of the new session by Rt. Ron. Vincent Massey, the new Governor-General.

Andre Gauthier (L—Lac St. Jean), speaking in French and briefly in English, seconded the motion.

Mr. George, a Maritimer, suggested projects which would harness the Bay of Fundy tides for electricity and link Fundy and the Gulf of St. Lawrence for navigation. The projects would hasten the industrialization of the Maritimes.

Pledge Loyalty

Both he and Mr. Gauthier paid tribute to the King and pledged loyalty to the new Queen.

Mr. Gauthier said the whole of Canada "rejoices of the well-deserved honor" conferred on Mr. Massey through his appointment as Governor-General.

At the same time, he wished "every success" to Earl Alexander, former Governor-General who now is British defence minister. He was a great soldier who had carried out his duties in this country "with so much tact and courtesy."

Mr. Gauthier said he welcomed the government's plans to establish a national library. This step would help in the development of culture and science among Canadians.

HOG PRICES

STRATFORD, March 1 (CP) — Truck hog prices were unchanged here today at $25.25.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, March 1 (CP) — Grain prices retained a firm tone on improved commercial demand Friday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Offerings were light and trading dull.

The demand included fair export buying in oats, based on reports that 200,000 bushels of Canadian oats had been worked for export to the United States. Upturns on United States markets prompted some buying here. Class 2 wheat and I.W.A. prices dropped one-eighth cent.

Attack European...

When the mission failed to arrive, about 5,000 of the crowd marched past the big British-owned Peninsular Hotel and up Kowloon's main street, Nathan Road. Chinese and European stores and restaurants on Nathan Road hastily put up steel shutters and fire engines raced through the streets to tackle vehicles set afire by the demonstrators.

Unconfirmed reports said there were also some incidents in villages in the New Territories—the British territory between Kowloon and the Chinese border.

Demonstrators began by attacking police and a police truck carrying a British inspector. They obstructed traffic and jeered at police officers. Then they set fire to a car and a motorcycle.

Armed With Stones

The rioters were armed with sticks and stones but had no firearms. They began to melt away when police fired tear-gas shells at them. Police said there were no deaths.

As they retreated, the rioters stoned Mongkok police station, breaking windows and littering the station courtyard with glass, stones and rocks.

Then violence broke out again in the teeming Mongkonk quarter. Shots were fired and tear gas used.

Police had disconnected the coach in which the "welcome committee" was travelling to the border but one member was allowed to cross the Chinese side of the border with instructions to tell the mission that it "cannot come in today".

In the New Territories, police set up roadblocks and checked all passengers, buses, taxis and private cars. "Unauthorized travellers" were turned back from the border.

Explosion And Fire Damage Tank Plant

DETROIT, March 1. (CP)—An explosion and fire threatened on Thursday night to wreck a $50,000,000 tank arsenal being built in suburban Livonia by the Ford Motor Co.

Apparently starting from an explosion in a paint shop, flames quickly spread through a large section of the plant, which still was burning two hours later.

No one was believed trapped in the partially-completed plant, the largest in the Detroit area outside Ford's gigantic Rouge factory.

Witnesses said that firemen were hampered at first by a scarcity of water hydrants.

Legislature Tries To Protect Stock Buyers

TORONTO, March 1—(CP)—A new requirement for promoters of capital stock issues, designed to protect prospective buyers, is contained in a bill d bated in the Ontario Legislature Friday.

The bill, an amendment to the Securities Act, would require that a summary of the prospectus of any new company selling stock be sent to prospective buyers with the first offer of sale.

The summary would be a simplification of the present type of prospectus, which has a complex legal form setting out a description of the company. Under present law the prospectus must be sent to the stock buyer before the completion of the sale.

Adjourned To Monday

Debate on the bill was confined to an explanation by Attorney-General Porter, and was adjourned until Monday when other government legislation will be debated.

The Legislature Friday also elected Wallace Downer (PC—Dufferin-Simcoe) as deputy speaker and chairman of the committee of the whole House.

Mr. Porter said the usual prospectus of a company often is not even read by a stock purchaser. The form and content of the proposed summary would be subject to approval by the Ontario Securities Commission and would aim at an easily understood description of the company selling stock.

It was not the duty of the Securities commission to rule on the worth of speculative stock issues. The new plan was "the most a government can hope to do" to protect buyers.

OBITUARIES

MRS. FRED BICKELL

Mrs. Fred Bickell, formerly of Peterborough, died on Friday in Oshawa General hospital following a prolonged illness. She was born in Otonabee township, Annie J., daughter of the late John Emmerson and Elizabeth Moncrief. Mrs. Bickell was employed on the sales staff of the A. W. Cressman Company of Peterborongh and later moved to Toronto where she worked with the Children's Aid Society. Her husband predeceased her.

She leaves one nephew, Clayton Emmerson, of Seattle, Wash., and a step-daughter, Mrs. Olive Petley of Oshawa. While resident of Peterborough Mrs. Bickell was a member of St. James United Church.

The body is resting at the Mather funeral home, Keene, until Saturday evening when it will be taken to the Belleghem funeral home. Service will be held there Monday at 1 p.m. and the Rev. H. D. McCormack of St. James United Church will officiate. Burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

GEORGE BATESON

George Bateson of 480 King George St., died Friday in hospital following a short illness. He was born in Otonabee township 91 years ago, son of the late Richard Bateson and Elizabeth Hope and when a young man moved to New Liskeard. Mr. Bateson farmed there until 19 years ago and returned to Peterborough to retire.

Lettie Davidson, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. Agnes Hynes of Cobalt and two sons, Alvin of New Liskeard and Lawrence of Hamilton. A sister, Mrs. Isabella Crearey, lives in Kirkfield. Mr. Bateson attended the United Church.

The body is resting at the Mather funeral home, Keene, until Saturday afternoon, when it will be taken to Belleghem funeral home, Peterborough, where funeral service will be held on Monday at 3 p.m. The Rev. E. W. Rowland of Grace United Church will officiate and burial will be at Keene cemetery.

Name New Constable For Marmora Village

MARMORA, March 1—(ENS)—Calvin McKenzie of Grimsby has been appointed to succeed Percy Embury as village constable, his duties to commence next week. Mr. McKenzie has had about 20 years' experience as a police officer and comes highly recommended. This will be the first time in the history of the village that the office of constable is a full time job. Elmer Moffatt commenced his new duties this week as caretaker of the various municipal buildings and overseer of street work and other municipal duties.

Russia Charges Vienna Plotting New Anschluss

VIENNA, Austria, March 1 (CP) — Maj.-Gen. V. Kraskevitch, Soviet member of the Allied commission in Vienna, accused the Austrian authorities Friday of planning a new Anschluss (union with Germany).

He opposed a request from Chancellor Leopold Figl for permission to use another telephone circuit between Vienna and Munich. An American communique on the Allied commission meeting quoted the Russian as saying he saw "no necessity for further extending communications between the two countries."

Relations between Austria and Western Germany are already too far advanced, he said. Propaganda for an Anschluss was increasing, and Austria was furnishing power and raw materials for Atlantic pact rearmament.

A coup d'etat by Hitler's Germany led to the prewar Anschluss between the two countries.

Earlier today, Walter A. Dowling, deputy U.S. high commissioner for Austria, said four-power relations have reached a new low.

"I am reluctant to conclude that it has become impossible for this body to discuss glider flying or a new telephone line without having to listen to a tirade of imaginary charges against one or all of the Western power," he said.

TO LOSE HERD — Farmer Leonard Waas, of McLean, Sask., will lose his herd of 37 cattle in the federal government's slaughter policy to eradicate the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in the Regina area. Waas, who has operated his dairy farm for 25 years, was the first to report the disease. He estimated his cash loss at $12,000. Below is his farm, where the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in the Regina area was first discovered.

RCMP Constables Kept Busy Slaughtering Infected Cattle

REGINA, March 1 — (CP) — R.C.M.P. constables, armed with rifles, slaughtered cattle today as authorities pushed their program to halt an epidemic of dreaded foot-and-mouth disease in its tracks.

The slaughtering in the Regina area won't stop until 850 cattle, 190 swine and 140 sheep have been destroyed.

Four R.C.M.P. constables Friday shouldered .305-calibre rifles and shot some 200 beef and dairy cattle in a 12-foot burial pit on the farm of Konstantine Haun.

Friday's slaughtering was the first in the drive to rid the area of animals suffering from the dreaded disease. The others will be killed at other sites where dynamite and bulldozers are already digging new graves.

Farmer Haun did not witness the shooting. Nor did any other district farmers, now under strict quarantine throughout 11 rural municipalities.

Within 45 minutes the animals had been killed.

Worked Swiftly

Workmen swiftly slashed the carcasses, a procedure followed on the Prairies in the burying of any whole animal, covered them with unslaked lime and bulldozers moved in to cover the grave.

Only authorized persons were allowed in the vicinity of the shooting. Federal veterinarians, Prairie farm rehabilitation administration officials, a few stock men and newspapermen added their eerie touch to the scene. Each was dressed in rubber coat and boots and each wore a sou' wester type rain hat.

Veterinarians, many of them flown here from Ottawa, are carrying out detailed inspections of every non-infected farm in the quarantine area, searching for any indication of renewed outbreak. The last case was reported Feb. 19.

Other veterinarians will aid farmers in cleansing their infected farm buildings after their animals are slaughtered.

Dr. L. B. Thomson, director of the P.F.R.A., the federal administration responsible for the excavations, said he expected trenches would be completed quickly enough to allow continuance of the slaughtering during the weekend.

None would predict how long th eslaughter would take, but officials said the shooting will likely continue into next week.

LONDON, March 1 (Reuters)—Traffic at London Airport was suspended today because of thick fog. Incoming flights were diverted to Prestwick, Scotland, and Manston, Kent. Fog held up shipping around the south and southeastern coasts and in the Thames estuary.

Hearing April 22

KARLSBRUHE, Germany, March 1—(Reuters)—The West German federal court has set April 22 as the date for hearing an appeal on behalf of the "witch of Buchenwald", Ilse Koch. Ten years ago a proud, beautiful red head, now homely and haggard, the widow of Buchenwald's Nazi commandant was sentenced in January, 1951, to life imprisonment for inciting the murder of Buchenwald prisoners.

Coal Industry Fears Use Of Diesels

By The Canadian Press

The conversion of Canadian railways from steam power to diesel engines was described Friday as a threat to the Nova Scotian coal industry.

A. J. Mason, a government supporter, said Friday during Throne Speech debate in the legislature at Halifax that "It must be obvious to most of us that before many years, the steam locomotive as we know it today will be a thing of the past."

He said it is imperative that the coal industry of his province seek ways of producing gas and synthetic fuels on a competitive basis with petroleum.

A plebiscite on sweepstakes in British Columbia was advocated in the House at Victoria. Both Tom Uphill, a Labor member, and A. B. Ritchie, Progressive Conservative, urged it, with Mr. Ritchie suggesting that money from the sweeps could be used to help finance the government's hospital plan, now showing a deficit.

Oppose Export

Export of natural gas from Alberta was opposed in that province's legislature by government backbenchers R. E. Ansley and L. C. Halmrast and by J. A. E. Liesemer, an opposition member. A provincial board has investigated the gas export question and, if its report is completed during the current session, the Social Credit government will make a recommendation to the legislature on whether gas should be exported.

Schools have closed in almost 1,000 rural Saskatchewan districts because of the decrease in rural population since 1940; the provincial education department said in its annual report tabled in the legislature. The report said enrolments in those districts are so low that schools cannot operate economically.

Two resolutions seeking greater benefits for Manitoba in freight rates and farm assistance were passed at Winnipeg. But the legislature defeated a C.C.F. motion asking higher pensions.

Supreme Grand Officer Visits Odd Fellows

The regular meeting of Cyzicus Sanctorum No. 24 Ancient Mystic order of Samaritans was made exceptionally interesting by the attendance of Supreme Grand Calipher Sheik John Griffith who flew over from Baltimore, Maryland for the occasion.

Coming from Baltimore the city from which Odd Fellowship had it's roots in this country over 132 years ago Sheik Griffith was able to describe in detail the many exhibits in the museum at Supreme Grand Lodge. The founder's chair which Thomas Wildey used and many of his original charters and other documents were amongst the scores of items he mentioned during his most interesting talk.

SPENDING A TWO-WEEK vacation in Great Britain has become possible for the average wage earner now that new low airliner rates are being introduced. One of the loveliest spots in England is the Lakes District. Lake Derwentwater (top) is beautiful and this is the view seen from Keswick. William Wordsworth, the poet, spent his boyhood near here. A familiar landmark to London visitors is the Palace of Westminster (lower) better known as the Houses of Lords and the House of Commons. This view shows the House of Lords and Victoria Tower (left) and the House of Commons and Big Ben (on right) with Westminster Bridge in the foreground.—(United Kingdom Information Photos)

Can Enjoy Two-Week Holiday In Great Britain For Approximately $600 This Year, Going By Plane

Now anyone with a two-week vacation can take a trip to Europe ....factory worker or stenographer. Going abroad stepped out of the mink class when airlines announced the new trans-Atlantic air tourist fares that go into effect May 1.

For as little as $549, you can fly to London and have a seven-day trip of the English Lakes district, Yorkshire Moors, Peak of Derbyshire, Oxford and Cambridge. This package tour includes 800 miles of motoring. Broken down ,the air fare is $477 and the trip $72. This includes reserved seats, hotel accommodations, regular meals, sightseeing, tips and taxis.

Or for $549 you can fly to London and have a 7-day trip through the Welsh Highlands and Wye Valley including the Mountains of Snowdonia, Mid-Wales, Shakespeare country, Malvern Hills etc. The air fare is $477 and the trip cost $69.

Those with a few more dollars and wishing to use up their two weeks can fly to Britain and for $621 have 13 days touring the English Lake District and the Scottish Highlands. This includes seeing the Shakespeare country, Chester, Oxford, Cambridge, English Lakes, Scottish Lowlands and Highlands, Robert Burns Region, Scottish Lochs and Glens, Edinburgh, Sir Walter Scott country, the Spa of Harrogate and the Cathedral cities of York and Lincoln. The cost of the motor trip in Britain is $144 (everything included) plus the air fare of $477.

Something Different

Or for $588 you can fly to London and from there take a nine-day tour to Belgium, Luxembourg, France and Switzerland.

A seven-day tour of France and Belgium, starting from London, can be enjoyed with all expenses for $552. The actual trip costs $75 and includes visits to Paris, Versailles, Brussels, Malines Antwerp, Ghent and Bruges.

For $651 you can luxuriate in a 14-day grand tour of Switzerland. The fare—on the continent is $174, and the air fare is $477.

If the glamor of the Riviera lures you as you slave in an office, you can take in the French and Italian Rivieras for $594, by flying direct to Paris from Montreal. A tour offered here includes 14 glorious days visiting Paris, Nice, Monte Carlo, San Remo, Route Napoleon and Grenoble. The return trip to Paris is $117.

Need Detailed Planning

If you prefer to do it on your own, instead of by tour, detailed planning is the key to economical travelling overseas. Willy-nilly wandering runs into dollars. Write down the time and money you have, where you want to go, what you want to see and do. Then get travel folders and data from a travel agent and balance your vacation budget. Be sure and figure out the extras as closely as possible and add 25% in case of emergencies. It is always wise to carry your money in travellers cheques. In planning your schedule, you should allow yourself more time than seems necessary because appointments and lunch hours take longer in Europe.

There are three choices open to the traveller. He can take an all-expense tour conducted as a group tour and operated by a travel organization; you can have your agent or tour company plan a tour, selecting your own itinerary, hotels, sightseeing trips and paying basic costs in advance; or you can gather all the data you need and make your own reservations and arrangements. Be sure and make a detailed plan and reservations before leaving if you are watching time and funds.

Not Difficult

Making arrangements for an independent itinerary is almost as easy as buying a package tour. Simply go to the agent with a rough outline of where you want to go, the time you have and the amount of money you have to spend. The agent can give you practical advice and when arrangements are completed will give you a booklet of coupons arranged in order for trasportation, hotel rooms, meals, sightseeing, baggage transfers, etc. The services of the travel agent are always free to the traveller.

If studied in detail, some of the trips mentioned above give excellent value for your money. The English Lakes tour which leaves every Monday from London, June 2, September 8, is as follows:

First day—Shakespeare country. Leaving King's Cross coach station in London at 9.15 a.m. via Middlesex, Buckinghamshire, the Chilterns to Oxford, Woodstock, Broadway, Shakespeare country, Stratford-on-Avon to Warwick.

Second day—Peak District — from Warwick to Kenilworth Castle, Linchfield, through Dales of Derbyshire to Matlock, Rowlsey, Chatsworth, Mansion of the Duke of Devonshire, Bakewell to the Spa of Buxton.

Third day—Lake District—continuing from Buxton northward to the Lake District, Windermere, Ambleside, Rydalwater to Keswick.

Fourth day—Circular tour of the lakes visiting Bassenthwaite, Derwentwater, Thirlmere, Grasmere, Coniston and return to Keswick.

Fifth day—Yorkshire Moors — from Keswick continuing via Penrith, Appleby, Greta Bridge, Catterick, Ripon Cathedral, Harrogate to York.

Sixth day—Cathedral cities — visit York Minster, Selby on the Ouse, Barnby Moor, Foothills of the Pennines to Lincoln.

Seventh day—Return to London —from Lincoln via East Anglia to Peterborough, Huntingdon, birthplace of Oliver Cromwell, Cambridge university city and southwards through Hertfordshire to London.

The Rivieras

Twelve days starting from Paris:

First day—VICHY—leave Paris by motor coach via Fontainebleau and Nevers.

Second day — AVIGNON — through le Puy and the Auvergne.

Third day—NICE—via Aix-en-Provence and the Cote d'Azur.

Fourth-eighth days—the French Riviera — afternoon drive to Cannes and return; also to San Remo and an evening excursion to Monte Carlo.

Ninth day—Grenoble—via the famous route Napoleon (4210 ft.).

Tenth day — Leave Grenoble via the Jura Mountains to AUTUN.

Eleventh day—Continuing via Avallon and Auxere to Paris.

Twelfth day—Paris.

The fares include reserved seats on trains or buses, meals en route, conveyance between stations and hotels, porterage, sightseeing and excursions as detailed in itineraries, including entrance fees and tips; full board accommodations at hotels, consisting of plain breakfast, table d'hote luncheon, table d'hote dinner and bedroom, gratuities and all taxes at hotels and the services of an experienced tour manager. Tour rates presented here are based on the December 1951 schedule. Information on these and many other delightful tours may be obtained at the TEM Travel Agency, George St.

UK Psychologists Test Canadians At Korean Front

OTTAWA, March 1—Canadian infantrymen climbed up and down a 200-foot hill in Korea recently without moving out of a squad tent.

Impossible?

No, it's just one of the many tests a British physiology team is conducting on some 300-odd members of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. The team members, Major James M. Adam, Bromley, Kent, Dr. W. S. S. Ladell and their assistant, Sgt. Enoch Harper, are gathering data to observe the effects of the Korean War on the front-line soldier. These facts will be studied at the British War Office.

During each test, the blood count and pressure is recorded for later study of the circulatory system. Each man's weight, height body temperature and condition of clothes is also entered in the report.

Hardest Test

The Harvard Pack Test is the hardest on the man.

"I'd much rather climb the real hill than do it this way," puffed Pte. E. L. Bulger of Halifax, N.S. He had just finished "climbing" a 200-foot hill with a heavy pack on his back by stepping 150 times on and off a platform 12 inches high. The test lasts for five minutes.

About the easiest is the "tilt" table test. The soldier relaxes for fully 20 minutes before being swung to a 75 degree angle where the blood pressure and count are taken to record the change.

"The major just told me to lie down and think pretty things," laughed Pte. H. C. Henry of Charlottetown, P.E.I. But a few minutes later while linking metal rings together with chilled fingers the husky Pat was all seriousness. This manual dexterity test nearly tripped him up.

The team works as close to the front as possible. They take some equipment, the weighing and height machine, plus other smaller pieces and conduct their tests.

By the absence of certain white cells in the bloodstream they know just how much stress the infantryman has undergone when he returns from a patrol action.

The team arrived from England in January and continued their experiments throughout the 1st Commonwealth Division until the middle of February. They expect to process about 10 per cent of the division's strength in Korea.

Adjudicator Praises Ottawa Staging Of Candida

An audience of 800 saw the Ottawa Little Theatre's accomplished performance of Shaw's "Candida" Friday evening at the Collegiate, the fourth evening of the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival. Adjudicator Pierre LeFevre praised the superior craftsmanship and excellent balance of the company.

"There was a great deal of good acting," he said. He highly commended the technical direction and the set. He thought, however, that the production failed to give the proper ascendancy to Shaw's thought, wit and Irish humor. "For the first time I have sat through a Shaw play and not been intellectually excited by it."

The performance missed the "knife-like edge of Shaw's humor, mind and cleverness," Mr. LeFevre said. "The brilliance of words, the lightness of his thought and the entertainment value of his Irish abundance and volubility are the very things which should be played." Instead, he felt that the actors had accented the emotional and serious aspects. He noted a flavor of Ibsen in Act 3.

Swift Thought, Light Wit

The first two acts were a bit "dead." A "gloom" settled over the middle of the second act. "The swiftness of his thought and the lightness of his wit are inescapable in reading the play, and we have a right to find them in the acting."

Mr. LeFevre felt that the flaw in the interpretation was partly due to individual portrayal of character. The Reverend James Morell, played by Paul Redhead, "imprisoned himself in an attitude," an attitude "put on like a coat."

The character of Marchbanks, played by Christopher Taylor, was strongly revealed but "the tenderness and fragility of the character were not exploited quite enough." Marchbanks is the young man who is in love with the idea of love and with Morell's wife Candida. Both Morell and Marchbanks were "portrayals of great sincerity," Mr. LeFevre said.

Candida, played by Florence Fancott with a high degree of accomplishment, was too cool and collected in her speech, which gave her time to appear to be calculating, instead of creating an impression of candour and feminine unpredictability. She must be shown to be adorable, generous and uncalculating.

Shavian Paradoxical Style

The adjudicator pointed to the paradoxical style in Shaw, sardonic at the very moment when he is most emotional, emotional when sardonic, bursting into comedy at the peak of an intense situation. "One should sail through the play without any time to think; one should be caught into the whirlpool of paradoxes."

Mr. LeFevre said that Christine Drever in the part of the secretary "got the Shavian flavor more than others." She "went straight for the humor." He praised especially her acting in the final scene after returning from the champagne supper. "Most delightful, really witty; not for a second was it a conventional stage portrayal of a tipsy person."

Burgess, Candida's father (played by Bruce Swerdfager) had great freedom in his acting, but was not quite breezy enough and was handicapped, the adjudicator felt, by the Cockney accent he assumed in the role. The young clergyman, played by Roger Proulx, was good, but since the part was intended for relief in the play, Mr. LeFevre thought that it should have been acted out a bit more, given more gaiety and "lift."

The play was directed by Betty Zimmerman.

The adjudicator found the actors' craftsmanship very good, and the integration of movement and use of the stage notable, but he did not feel Shaw's presence in the theatre.—T. J. A.

Denies Intent

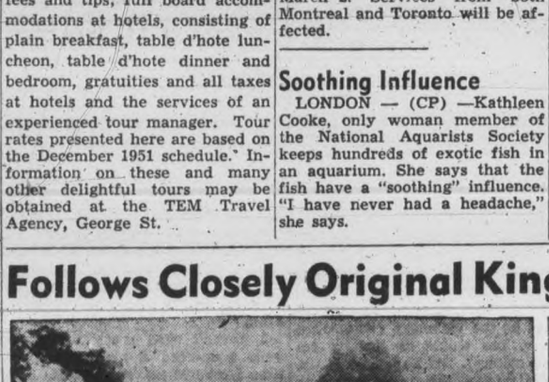
WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) —Owen Lattimore denied Friday that he had knowingly favored Communist writers while editing Pacific Affairs, a quarterly magazine of the Institute of Pacific Relations, from 1934 to 1941. He told the Senate internal security sub-committee, however that he had accepted contributions from the Soviet Council of the institute.

Urges Juvenile Courts

TORONTO, March 1 —(CP)— Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court said Friday night he hopes juvenile courts will be established in all Ontario municipalities "before too long." At present, they operate only in large communities.

Follows Closely Original King Home Reconstruction

SPENT EARLY DAYS—The late William Lyon Mackenzie King, former Prime Minister of Canada, spent his early days at Woodside, the picturesque home of his family at Kitchener, Ont. The house, which was a near-ruin when rescued by the Mackenzie Woodside Trust, was torn down and rebuilt from the original gray brick. Mr. King, before his death in 1950, collaborated with the Kitchener architectural firm of Jenkins and Wright. The house is to be an historic site, with books and furnishings from Mr. King's boyhood on display.



MACKENZIE KING HOME—The boyhood home of the late William Lyon Mackenzie King, former Prime Minister of Canada, has been rebuilt, using the original grey brick of the building in Kitchener, Ont. Mr. King's father, John, secured the home when the future statesman was eight. The house was taken over by the Mackenzie King Woodside Trust and will become an historic site. Books and furnishing and other mementos of the early days of Mackenzie King will be on display in the house.

KITCHENER, Ont., March 1—(CP)—Reconstruction of the boyhood home of William Lyon Mackenzie King is nearing completion.

"Woodside," the unpretentious home of the late prime minister's father, John King, will eventually be opened to the public.

The house, a near-ruin when rescued by the Mackenzie King Woodside Trust, was torn down and rebuilt. Mr. King, before his death July 22, 1950, collaborated with the architects to see that all details were as close as possible to the original.

The Trust, which estimates fnds needed to bring the project to completion at $75,000, has received donations from across Canada. But more money is needed to finish the project and a campaign with a target of between $10,000 and $20,000 is getting under way locally. Later, a national drive will be held.

Of the total, $55,000 is for reconstruction of the house and $20,000 for furnishings and work on the 11-acre grounds.

J. Harper Schofield, president of the Trust, said efforts are being made to obtain a large collection of books and furnishings used by the King family.

Mrs. H. M. Lay of Barrie, Ont., sister of Mr. King, plans to donate many articles of the original furniture, including a piano which belonged to her mother, a daughter of the historic rebel, William Lyon Mackenzie.

Ground Floor Windows

The approach to the house is from the rear. A wall with no doors runs the width of the house. The building has many ground-floor windows. At the front, under a covered porch is the entrance with the living room extending frontwards on the left side.

Work under way includes reconstruction of bookshelves for the spacious library from one of the originals owned by Mrs. Lay and the gracious stairway, which climbs straight and then curves towards the top.

The servants' quarters were rebuilt as they were, except they are fitted with modern equipment for a caretaker and his family to give a spacious two-floor apartment with basement.

Though the residence remained a favorite spot with Mr. King throughout his life the property apparently never belonged to the Kings.

During his last visit to Kitchener in September, 1947, he spent several hours in his boyhood home.

A National Library

It was fitting that Mr. Massey, first native-born Governor-General, should read in his first Speech from the Throne an announcement of the Government's plans to establish a National Library. His Excellency was the prime author of the report on Canada's cultural circumstances, now known as the Massey Report. In it the establishment of a national library is advocated. Undoubtedly His Excellency has a deep personal interest in the matter.

* * *

A national library can be both custodian and cornerstone of a nation's culture. Canada is now emerging as a country with a culture of her own. The National Library will not only give it a physical manifestation; through its services to scholarship and the arts and the very fact of its existence, it will also foster the cultural development of Canada.

* * *

There are special needs in Canada for such a library, apart from its national symbolism. The people and universities of this country are spread across thousands of miles. Their scholarship and arts seem to exist in isolated pockets without a coherence to relate East to West, prairies to Maritime fens. A National Library will be a focus of the scattered cultural interests, and a fountain for their nurture.

* * *

Canada has no national institutions like the library of the British Museum and the Bodleian at Oxford. Nor has it anything as comprehensive and serviceable as the Library of Congress in Washington. The Parliamentary Library, excellent as its store of books and its services may be, is what its name indicates: a library of and for the Parliament. A National Library in Ottawa will relieve the overcrowding of the Parliamentary Library and extend its services and scope: it will be a national reference library; a public archives; and an institution which is not merely an annex to Parliament.

* * *

The core of the new Library is already made in the store of the Parliamentary Library. A selection from this will provide the firm basis of Canadiana on which the National Library will be built. The National Archives will afford a rich and necessary collection of documents of use to scholars. The new institution will relieve both of their overcrowding and unhandiness. In the past the Archives and the Parliamentary Library, despite the courteous efforts of their staffs, have been cumbersome and unhandy. The new institution will fill a need and give a fresh impulse to the heart and mind of Canada.

What Was Done At Lisbon?

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization conference held at Lisbon achieved its purpose of "bringing military matters into economic perspective." NATO military planning now is said to have a prompt, effective and practical program.

The precise list of all the things which the fourteen member States, under the chairmanship of L. B. Pearson of Canada, pledged themselves to do this year and to try to do in the years ahead is highly varied and highly secret. Only two figures were released officially: "NATO nations agreed to provide approximately fifty divisions in appropriate condition of combat readiness, and four thousand operational aircraft in Western Europe, as well as strong naval forces." That was the official statement. It is expected that only about half that number of divisions can be equipped and brought into combat readiness by the end of this year.

How fast, and to what extent the targets can be reached depends on two things outside NATO control: the Korean war which, so long as it continues, will have priority requisitions on American equipment, and which will determine how much else goes to Asia and how much to Europe. The other controlling factor is economic and financial: the solvency and internal strength of France which has become the principal hinge of the Western defences.

The extra air bases, the vast networks of headquarters, barracks, lines of communication and supplies for the increased armies will take time and money to prepare. A collective program costing $450 millions was approved at Lisbon. The United States will pay more than a third of this.

The agreements on collective defence were notable for a related and important move to include Germany in the European army, and to link NATO forces with it. This allayed the fears of the nations contributing to the European Army that Britain and the United States would wash their hands of European defence once Germany was again rearmed.

The official declaration issued at Lisbon looked to the future—"to the time when the energies of their association can be less concentrated on defence and more fully devoted to co-operation in other fields for the well-being of their peoples and the advancement of human progress. Then, as now, NATO will have its part to play and to this end it has been agreed in Lisbon to strengthen its structure so that it may become a still more effective association of like-minded nations." Meanwhile, the like-minded nations are worried about two problems: that present inadequate defences could bring their destruction from without; and that the very heavy defence effort might destroy them from within.

Electricity Invades Art

With a good deal of surprise we read that the pictures to be seen in the forthcoming show of the Ontario Society of Artists were chosen by means of an electric voting machine. The machine was operated by the members of a selection committee, of course; as the pictures were brought before them the five judges pressed buttons provided for them, in such a way that their decisions were known only to a secretary. It is said that this method of choice has produced a show of very high standard, and that there could be no possible bias in the choices made.

Perhaps so, but we don't like it. We have our own notion of a jury of artists choosing pictures for an exhibition, and it does not include any electric buttons. We like to think of a jury of distinguished men, in a beautiful room, sitting in comfortable chairs as sweating porters show the pictures on a giant easel. We like to think that the jurors refresh themselves at their work with choice wines, rare viands, and pinches of snuff. We like to think that some of them wear cloaks, some fur-collared coats, and that all are mildly eccentric. We like to think that they habitually refer to one another as "my dear colleague." We like to think that they sometimes disagree about a picture, and fall to pulling hair, spitting in each other's eyes, shouting in several languages, and stamping out of the jury-room, to be soothed by beautiful artist's models in tightly fitting satin gowns. The notion that they make their choices by pushing electric buttons disillusions us, and in a world as harsh and gritty as this we have all the disillusion we can cope with.

The show will be on view from March 7 to April 14 at the Toronto Art Gallery. We shall go. But we shall not be able to forget those abominable electric buttons.

Dichotomy In Ottawa

We have nothing against the word "dichotomy", though we do not as a rule like the people who use it most; in the main they are economists, psychiatrists, and others who like to dazzle and confuse their humbler fellow men. But we must use "dichotomy" now to describe a condition which exists in newspaper circles in Ottawa. Dichotomy means the division of something into two mutually exclusive parts, and it seems to us that the Ottawa newspapers are doing that to the Canadian people.

The Ottawa Journal, to begin with, strongly rebukes those who describe Canadians as a dull and stumble-footed race, illiterate, slow of wit and a prey to ill-defined terrors. "This is a magnificent country, and a magnificent people," says the Journal, "and least of all should Canadians seek to belittle them."

When we turn to the Ottawa Citizen, however, what do we find? For days its columns have been filled with letters to the editor solemnly arguing about the evils of having groceries delivered in beer cartons. It appears that some Ottawa grocers use empty beer cartons for delivery, and many Ottawans fear that their neighbours will think that beer is being purchased and (Oh, calamity!) consumed in their households.

Now if this isn't a dichotomy, we don't know a Grade A, copper-bottomed dichotomy when we see one. The Journal says Canadians are an intelligent, large-souled, open-bowelled, questing, mettlesome and adventurous tribe: in the Citizen they reveal themselves in a light which makes Ananias, Tartuffe, Pecksniff, the Rev. Stiggins and Elmer Gantry look like the Glorious Company of the Apostles. Such a dichotomy impels us, striking the Wordsworthian lyre, to declare——

Two voices are there: one is of the deep;
The other is an old, half-witted sheep;
And Canada, both are thine!

NOTES AND COMMENT

Two men dug a woman's car out of a snowbank last week, thereby proving that shovelry is not dead.

Mr. Abbott says that his $700 million surplus is enabling Canada to "do its national duty." Does that mean that he budgetted for $30 million, knowing that it was not enough for us to do our national duty? Who does Mr. Abbott think he is kidding?

BIBLIOMANIA

In The Foosteps Of James

THE SEASONS' DIFFERENCE by Frederick Buechner (McClelland and Stewart.)

THIS IS A MIDSUMMER fantasy rather than As You Like It (from which the title was taken); a New York escape to New England rather than a court flight to Arden. The book may be important in the history of the American novel because it seems to rebound from the realism and brittle writing of the generation between the wars. It has delicacy of mood, fantasy of sophisticated woodland, and the taut suspension, in imagination, logic and even prose style, of Henry James.

One cannot escape a feeling that the young writer (Frederick Buechner was born in 1926) has imbibed freely of the bubble of Henry James and is stepping on the same pebbles of the stream of consciousness. Consider the characteristic opening sentence: "Although it was eventually to reach a point where there was no longer a great deal upon which they were able to agree, none of them ever denied, either silently to themselves or aloud to one another, the extraordinary summer beauty of the place". So—with conditions, pauses and the shadow of vexation at having to say anything so positive—it was a fine summer day.

There is in the novel a tortuous reluctance to make a fact or mood plain; something also of the James' genius in creating a taut psychic atmosphere and reiteration of mind over suave lawns, tennis, cocktails and conversation, a similar refined and apparent reluctance to introspection, while being introspective.

On the fourth of July the circus came to town. "Against the background of 'Put Your Arms Around Me', a blonde girl in a pink kimono minced through a canvas flap to stand upon the platform, squinting slightly at the brightness of the day, yet smiling, with her arms outstretched in a nonchalance of supplication while the crowd was promised five more, count them, like her, for a fee that was nothing so much as laughable. She paid no heed to this, the moustached voice that published, loud above the alien din, (why 'alien') her beauty and renown. She responded to no single cried or gestured impropriety from the throng before her, but let one fair and general smile suffice. Her hands and wrists alone acknowledged the music; yet at a motion from the manager, at which the phonograph was turned up twice as loud, the cymbal was struck once more, she drew back the folds of her kimono with the fervour and will of an infidel at the curtains of a creche, then fired at them, with a little cry of almost pain, the mortar of her sequin-baffled thighs, and fled back through the tent flap to the final plea of the moustache, the ticket seller's doxology".

We all know this scene. It is accurate and full in its detail (throughout the book there is the same precision of observation); but it is all somewhat unreal as seen through the Jamesian eyes and related in the Jamesian perambulations of Mr. Buechner.

* * *

FOR THIS mode and style the author has well chosen a tale in keeping with it. Ordinary well-to-do summer colonists from the city are having an ordinary summer holiday, with quiet games and bonhommie cocktails. Intruding into this hot-house scene is the children's tutor for the summer, who believes that he has had a supernatural visitation; a sincere young man. Sincerity does not fit the social artificiality of the colony, neither its shaven lawns, its twitter, nor its suave agnosticism. And so the man of simple belief that he has seen God becomes a Gothic gargoyle among the sweetness of the painted pomp of flower gardens, the little wood and soft green grass. Even the children (oh! so precocious—a precocity and childishness which the author's pen understands)—even the innocent children of the hot-house make the visionary tutor seem an embarrassment of nature.

A man called Lundrigan is the devil's advocate and the shadowy bystander. There is a Reverend Dr. Lavender, a teacher at the same school as the visionary (who, were it not for his visions would be socially acceptable in the colony). Dr. Lavender is the fanatic victim of vision, the missionary who believes God has spoken, but does not hear the voice calmly.

* * *

REALLY NOTHING HAPPENS in the story, in the reality of the trimmed lawns and holiday sun, except that the tutor with the vision cannot conjure it for polite scoffers, and Dr. Lavender, after presiding at a grotesque marriage of children, has a fatal fall from a tree in which the children were playing. He was climbing to them to convince them of the sublimity of faith. His death is a Gothic climax to the book. After it there is a concerted effort to return to 'normalcy'.

This is a difficult novel to understand, and one wonders if the author himself knows what he is trying to set down and if he does, whether it is worth the effort of others to understand. The emotional responses to the novel may be varied, but it is a tribute to the author's style and evocation of minds and moods that there actually is an emotional response.

THE PORTABLE MELVILLE, edited by Jay Leyda (Macmillan)

WHAT IS MELVILLE without "Moby Dick"? And yet in this Portable of 746 pages only twelve are from Melville's mightiest work—Father Mapple's famous sermon to the whalers. We can see at once why Mr. Leyda has been so grudging toward the Great White Whale; once let that leviathan into any book and he will quickly consume the whole thing. So Mr. Leyda has given Moby Dick one short nod, and has filled the rest of his Melville anthology with some short stories, letters, passages from Melville's journals, and two of the shorter novels in their entirety—"Typee" and "Billy Budd". If you want to know anything about Melville, you must have this book and a copy of "Moby Dick" as well.

Risking the wrath of the Melville enthusiasts, we suggest that "Moby Dick" is really the only book of Melville's which demands to be read. The other books have their fine passages, but they are no more deserving of attention than hundreds of other minor works by writers of genius. The letters and poems in this collection did not especially interest us; frankly, this business of publishing the letters of notable men has gone too far, for few of them are great letter-writers; they save their good things for their books, and properly so. Perhaps we are stupid, but Melville's poetry reads to us like the sort of thing which Canadian newspapers occasionally accept and often reject, every day in the year. To somebody intoxicated with Melville—and such people are numerous—these poems and letters are doubtless of keen interest. For most of us the Melville of "Moby Dick" is the only Melville we care about.

But what a Melville he is! Certainly that is one of the greatest novels in our language. If it is a book which has possessed you, even for single reading, you will wish to look into this Portable, which contains so much of Melville, while evading what was essential in him.

"WHERE'D THEY EVER GET THAT IDEA?"

Letters To The Editor

LESSON IN DRAMA FESTIVAL

Sir: I think you are all much too hard on Mr. Dunlop, there is method in his madness—even the Devil has a purpose—he (the Devil) at least believes in God, but many college graduates do not; and belief for or against is essential—one must have a purpose other than just art or music or athletics—not that those are wrong, but that they must express more than a pleasant occupation or a time-passing; we are not birds, we are looking for a "Kingdom of Life," not just self-will.

At the Drama Festival (but of drama I know little) last night I was very taken with the 'Boy and Cart': this boy had a purpose; the audience I sensed had more feeling for this play than for the others; it revealed that in a more spontaneous clapping, and the deeper silences; the boy allowed nothing to stand in his way, that was because of his great belief. That is what education should do for us—help us find our true selves; our church.

Mr. Dunlop, the government or the powers over us, know that our country is threatened, that when it comes to the test, it will be short of man-power, especially the farms.

When the 'Son of Man' said we cannot live by bread alone, He did not mean we could live without it; He saw fields of golden grain, and pastures alive with cattle, as well.

E. L. S.

REASON AND TOLERANCE

Sir: When I heard that plans for testing new atomic weapons were progressing, I thought that the announcement of "Brotherhood Week" that I heard on the same 5-minute radio news-cast was merely the reflex of a guilt complex; then a few days later I read your editorial "Tolerance Requires Brains" and it reminded me that there are always some people who are interested in the social enlightment of mankind.

I haven't read many books, and seldom have I re-read a book or an article; one time I read Milton's "Paradise Lost" and the "Rubaiyat" of Omar Khayyam; I have read only a few verses by Burns or Riley a second, or more times, yet I have just re-read your editorial in last week's Examiner: Friday Feb. 22—and I like it.

You have wisely said that " . . . peace . . . brotherhood, unity and toleration cannot be achieved by merely wishing for them." And you have explained that mere mental activity: Impulse, passion, prejudices (summed-up by you as 'soft heart") it not sufficient to understand the problem; that mere impulse prompts us to the useless effort of merely wishing, or praying.

Back in the early thirties I overheard my six-year-old son wishing that he had a million dollars, "do you think" I chided him, "that you can get it by wishing?", he looked up with a wistful grin and replied "wish I could." I don't suppose that the lad could count farther than ten at the time, and he certainly had no more idea of the immensity of a million dollars than humanity has of peace and tolerance. Like the majority of us he was quite able to wish for something big, even though he would probably have settled for a nickle; a point that fathers and Statesmen apparently realize.

Education seems to be of little help. It has been written that it is harder to change the mind of a misinformed intellectual than that of a misinformed ignoramus. I glance across the page to "Notes and Queries" and down in the third column I see a mild example of how education seems to prepare a person: a question re: the duties of the Governor General is asked in a somewhat crude statement, and the answer is hardly any better; if the question and answer were in quotes a man might think that they were quotations from characters in Bernard Shaw's play "Back to Methuselah". I would suppose that the person whose job is to give the answers would have achieved whatever is available by a fair education, but the final statement in the answer: "If you have an aversion to Governors General, why don't you migrate to a Republic" sounds about the same to me as telling him to "go to h---" and doesn't give any indication as to the whereabouts of a suitable Republic.

I am not quite in agreement with your statement that: "the people of Israel understand the nature of tolerance, because they have known intolerance." I think the same requirements apply to them as to us: a capacity to reason: a mental process, no less.

Respectfully,
W. H. ROSEBUSH

RUSH AT LUNCH HOUR

Sir: So far I have agreed with every one of the three letters about the Monaghan Road bus service, and now I would like room in your paper to voice my own gripe. It also has to do with this rush-in-rush-out business at noon. It seems to me that when I arrive home at 12:15 p.m., I have only time to run in the back door grab something to eat and rush out the front door just in time to miss the bus. Once in a while there is a short, pleasant driver who sees me coming and waits. Most of them, however, can hardly wait to get going when they see me running.

I, like the last student, would like a bus at one p.m. as would many others who are too timid to speak up.

Thank you very much for this space.

Yours hopefully,
"LATE FOR SCHOOL"

FINE LOCAL MUSICIANSHIP

Sir: Once again it was my pleasure to attend the Members' Concert of the Peterborough Community Concert Association this year.

Though performances in past years have been most enjoyable, I was particularly pleased with the calibre of the artists appearing last week.

With the exception of Agnes Logan Green, whose piano artistry has long been a credit to our city, the program was comprised, to a great extent, by recent arrivals to our concert stage.

May I express, through your columns, my deep appreciation of their efforts and that of the Community Concert Association in providing Peterborough with such fine entertainment.

Sincerely,
GORDON HILL

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Wherefore, holy brethern, partakers of the heavenly calling, consider the Apostle and High Priest of our profession, Christ Jesus. (Heb. 3:1)

* * *

For every high priest taken from among men is ordained from men in things pertaining to God, that he may offer both gifts and sacrifices for sins . . . And no man taketh this honour unto himself, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron. So also Christ glorified not himself to be made an high priest; but he that said unto him, Thou art my Son, to day have I begotten thee. As he saith for ever after the order of Melchisedec . . .

And being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all that obey him; called of God a high priest after the order of Melchisedec. (Heb. 5: 1, 4-6, 9, 10.)

* * *

For the law maketh men high priests which have infirmity; but the word of the oath, which was since the law, maketh the Son, who is consecrated for evermore. (Heb. 7:28.)

Who To Tax

(The Winnipeg Free Press)

Although Will Rogers, the most popular U.S. comedian of his day, has been dead for 15 years, some of his broadcasts of long ago are being revived from old recordings and compressed in a new series present by the American Broadcasting Company. In greater measure than seemed probable while Rogers was alive, a durable quality is now evident in many of his quips and wisecracks. Here, for instance, is the schedule, he laid out for Congressmen to follow in levying taxes:

"Monday—Soak the rich.

"Tuesday—Begin hearing from the rich.

"Tuesday afternoon—Decide to give the rich a chance to get richer.

"Wednesday—Tax Wall Street stock sales.

"Thursday—Get word from Wall Street, 'lay off us or you will get no campaign contributions'.

"Thursday afternoon—Decide, 'We are wrong about Wall Street'.

"Friday—Soak the little fellow.

Saturday morning—Find out there is no little fellow. He has been soaked until he drowned.

"Sunday—Meditate."

And this may have been Rogers' most astute observation of all about the government of the United States: "On account of us being a democracy and run by the people, we are the only nation in the world that has to keep a government four years, no matter what it does."

They Just Split

(London Free Press)

It may be hard for American ship owners to get crews for their vessels if many more U.S. freighters "split" while at sea. There was the Flying Enterprise which, before she was taken in tow, broke her back in the Atlantic. Another freighter split in the Pacific and all hands were lost. Now we have two other American tankers split into four pieces off Cape Cod. Granted that there have been gales and heavy seas running the last few weeks but ocean-going ships are not expected to "split" at sea if they are efficiently loaded and the cargo properly distributed.

"O.K., you just keep playing around out there—you'll soon see why it's better to stay indoors."

A-F-I-E-L-D with NICK NICKELS

While hoof-and-mouth disease in Western cattle is scaring the dickens out of everyone this week, and we are waiting momentarily for some expert to blame it on Communism, the dreaded Dutch elm disease is making its appearance near county borders. It has been located in South Monaghan township in isolated areas.

White, rock and slippery elm are all susceptible to the scourge. Elm ranks fifth among the 14 Canadian hardwoods in value of production. The hard, strong tough wood is used for the manufacture of slack cooperage, fruit baskets, crates, cheese boxes, low-priced furniture, wagon wheel hubs, shipbuilding, axe handles and hockey sticks.

The elm is of most importance as an ornamental tree. It is planted in great numbers for street shading, in parks and private grounds and grows wild along highways to enhance them. Southern Ontario without its shady elms would be a barren place indeed.

Winter is no time of the year to look for symptoms but when the trees leaf out, watch for wilting about mid-June through to August. It is caused by a fungus. As a parasite it develops in the water-conducting vessels of the sapwood where it produces spores and a poison which is carried in the sap stream to distant parts of the tree. The fungus continues to grow and produces another type of spore on the inner surface of the bark, on the outer surfaces of the wood and in the insect galleries of both.

Spores adhere to the bodies of elm bark beetles and so the disease is carried from tree to tree. Experts have traced Dutch elm disease from Holland to the United States in import shipments of veneer logs.

Perhaps winter woodcutters will have noticed a continuous brown ring on the outer sapwood which may be The Thing, or, two other native elm diseases. Wood samples may be sent to the Division of Botany and Plant Pathology, Science Service, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, or, further information may be had from a dozen places, a list obtainable from the writer.

English sparrows, starlings, carp and now Dutch Elm disease —all imports—are really making things tought for us.

Jeepers Creepers

Other pests will take our attention in early spring. Come tree-leafing time this year, experts say that the American Tent Caterpillar is really going to put on a show. They are said to be a peak cycle. That's what we thought last spring.

How high is a peak? Do-o-o-o-oh . . .

Drifters Die

Niagara Falls may mean a Mecca to honeymooners, but in winter it's a death trap to wildfowl. The seeming-placid open water above the cataract attracts birds by the thousand and while dreaming at night they also drift, over the brink. Some of the lighter sleepers may waken in time to fly out of the trap, but they are few.

Conservation officers who gather the dead bodies have compiled the following scorce this winter to up Jan. 31:

Ducks—Nine American and 21 white-winged scoters;
—79 American Goldeneye;
—76 Canvas-backs;
—86 Greater and four Lesser Scaup;
—3 Mallards;
—3 Baldpates;
—16 American and 19 Red-breasted Merganser
Loons—3 Commons and one Red-throated Loon:
Grebes—10 Horned, 1 Holbeill's and 6 Pied-billed.
Gulls—1 Ring-tailed, 16 Herring and 1 Greater Blackbacked.

Some of the specimens found were greasy or oil-soaked, some emaciated and a few wounded by hunters.

Heaviest casualties occur during migration periods.

Blast From the Everglades

Perry (Oak Orchard) Alexander can't get the thoughts of Kawartha fishing out of his mind at his winter resort in Clearwater, Fla. He writes:

"Has any agitation been started for the elimination of fishing for pickerel in the bass-sprawning season?

"It's a crime the way the law is abused. Let 'em fish all through May for their pickerel but all the waters should be closed in June when our bass are on the beds.

"What's the use of expensive hatcheries and so forth when this bass slaughter goes on? You chaps in town do not realize how much of this goes on."

Oh, yes, we do.

Douro A Pleasant Quiet Place With An Interesting Past

By NICK NICKELS

If you were to drive out to Douro hamlet one of these winter days you would possibly think it is one of the quietest settlements anywhere. Dominated by the square hand-cobbled tower of St. Joseph's Church, the dozen-odd homes, a general store and large graveyard are all there are to it, on the surface. And yet, to visit a little while with the parish priest and the general storekeeper, you would find that Douro is the solid hub of a very solid settlement. But the pace of life is leisurely.

It was named after a river in far-off Portugal—or for a victor of a Peninsula War victory there, Wellesley, later Duke of Wellington, who was, in 1808, created Baron Douro. It is one of the oldest settlements in Peterborough County. The Southern Irish settled the country roundabout. They fastened their roots to the soil and they have stayed to become prosperous.

It was not a kindly country nor were the first settlers equipped to cope with it. But famine and adversity in the Ould Land fitted them well to try, and their industry and Irish humour in the face of it all pulled them through.

At The Rectory

I knocked at the door of the rectory.

Father McCarthy opened it himself and ushered me into his spacious study. He looked me up and down with shrewd grey eyes. We talked of many things concerning the Parish of Douro, of its 600 parishioners, schools, and of social activities. Father McCarthy showed me the interior of the fine old church built from Dummer limestone in 1893. We admired the trim grounds and on the way back to the rectory, a neat woodworking shop. Here the priest made all manner of things, chiefly cabinet work and furniture which he has installed in many rooms of the rectory.

In the dining room was a large completed stage set that he had made, the interior of an Old Country store, complete to the last detail.

"We are putting on our annual Irish play in March". The father leafed through a bulky scrapbook of past plays. "This year we are presenting Dublin's Abbey Theatre play 'Cupboard Love,' Royalties cost us $15 a night."

One-Man Historical Society

Inquiring of some of the ancient history of the settlement, Father McCarthy, who had only been in the parish for the past 15 years, suggested that I talk to Bill Towns, the eldest of the storekeeper brothers across the street.

"He is a one-man historical society," said Father McCarthy.

Indeed, I found Mr. Towns surrounded by cartons of merchandise and pouring over some old books on a wide counter.

We went into his neat white frame house behind the store. At his dining room table we examined township council minutes in fine old copperplate writing. These were not the first records but a century old, nevertheless.

What was on municipal minds at the end of February, 1852?

Old Records

Township clerk Daniel Sullivan —£10 per annum—had little to report. Reeve George Clark was in the chair with councillors Col. Samuel Strickland, Francis Thomas Stewart (son of the Hon. Thomas), James Moher and Dennis Leahy, all correct and present.

Since they were meeting in Mahoney's Tavern—and there was bad blood between it and Leahy's Tavern up the road—a statute was laid down to govern roadhouse rules. The minutes said:

"That tavern keepers must have stabling for four span of horses, sheds for six span, beds for two travellers with necessary provender and provisions for the foregoing."

In an endeavour to keep up thoroughbred stock the council dealt with the problem of wandering breeding animals by passing a resolution.

"That stallions, running at large, shall pay a fine of five dollars and when damage can be proved . . . the fine to be doubled. Rams, 10s, bulls 10s and boars 10s."

Good Breeding Stock

Records compiled by the Hon. Peter Robinson on various townships in Canada West showed that the Douro settlers, after the first year of occupation, purchased more first-class breeding stock and cleared twice as much land as their neighbours.

Earliest records of parcels of land in Douro township is a roster of prominent people—the Stricklands, Thomas Traile, J. W. Dunbar Moodie and the Hon. Zaccheus Burnham. The largest holder, the Canada Company instigated by Alexander Galt, owned thousands of acres.

As Mr. Towns and I prepared to leave his house he happened to mention casually that the building was the original Mahony's Tavern. His father, P. G. Towns, moved it from its original site many years ago and had the log walls covered with modern clapboarding.

From brawling tavern days to the presentation of Abbey Theatre plays, Douro has come a long way in 127 years of settlement.

PRIEST OF THE PARISH of Douro, the Rev. J. J. McCarthy, administers to a congregation of 600 people. The religious centre of the predominately Roman Catholic village is handsome St. Joseph's Church, hub of the district. Built in 1893 to replace the original wooden structure, its weathered cobbled limestone, Lower Photo, is a place of beauty in the wide sweep of the open countryside.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Next Few Weeks Are Best Pruning Time

By HENRY FREE (NEA)

Spring will soon be here and that means a lot of work crowded into six short weeks during March and early April.

The wise gardener starts now—if only to plan his work. That means putting all your chores on paper and listing them in order of their importance.

Now is the best time to trim and prune trees and shrubs. Are they in good shape? That means are they healthy and in good form, not crowding one another and full of dead branches.

Or are there many gaps where new shrubs should be planted? How about your fruit trees, brambles and grape vines? Do they need pruning and fertilizing?

Beautiful as they may be in bloom, their efforts are wasted if they do not bear a sufficient quantity of edible fruit. Diseases and insects can be kept to a minimum by following a regular spray program. If you want a bountiful harvest, it is a necessary garden chore.

So look over the supply of pesticides, and frtilizers, too, left from last year and replenish as needed when the seed order is placed.

As this winter may be followed by an early spring it is essential that winter spraying iof fruits not be neglected. Otherwise an unusually large horde of insect pests may survive to prey upon the fruits this yar. The old gardener suggests pruning your fruits before applying the dormant spray.

Pruning a little each year is better than letting trees grow and then slashing them back hard. When apple trees get to a desired height, prune to side branches which point away from the centre of the tree. Then the weight of the fruit will bend the branches outward.

Once upright branches start to bend down, merely make a few cuts each year to keep them from becoming so thick that light is shut out. Pears are pruned like apples. Cherries need little trimming. Peaches are borne on new, succulent growth. Cut back old branches to force a new top to form. Each year, prune two large limbs severely.

Grapes should be pruned before their sap becomes active. Like peaches, grapes bear fruit on the first three or four buds of the new growth. Cut new shoots back to four or five buds.

Remove all shoots less than one-eighth inch thick. Each year, cut back a few old shoots to cause new canes to form for renewal purposes.

Do not start seed indoors on plants that develop quickly and cannot be set out when they are large enough. Thousands upon thousands of tomato, cabbage and other vegetable seedings are wasted each spring as well as resulting in disappointment for the novice gardener who failed to learn more about their culture.

Seed sowing can wait until the middle of March because mid-May is sufficiently early for transplanting to the garden.

Early spring pruning insures good plants through the year.

Gardening Questions

Q—An old Barberry hedge bordering our drive has grown much too large for its allotted space and is full of dead wood. Should it be pruned or severely cut back, and when?

A—Early spring before the buds begin to swell is the best time to cut back overgrown material of all sorts. Cut back to within six inches of the ground, removing all dead canes down to the crown of the plant.

Enrich the soil with a 10-6-4 fertilizer, using one pound to each 10 feet of hedge, to induce a thrifty growth.

Q—Smut has been prevalent in our corn patch for the past three years. What can be done to get rid of this disease?

A—The old gardener suggests that you rotate your crops, avoid the use of manure, sow seed only of those varieties known to be more or less resistant to smut, and remove and immediately burn smut boils when first discovered as well as burning all corn debris at the end of the season.

The Day To Wear The Leek

By The Canadian Press

The big day of the year with a real and lively meaning for the Welsh, St. David's Day, is celebrated today.

Welshmen at home and abroad pay their tribute to the saint who founded 12 monasteries, lived a life of self-abnegation, and set an example that has inspired his countrymen for nearly 1,500 years.

Actual dates of David's birth and death are confused, but he probably was born shortly before the year 500, and died near the end of the sixth century. He was one of the devoted Celtic missionaries who carried Christianity throughout Wales.

More than 50 churches in South Wales still bear the name of the saint whose life gave rise to a score of legends. It is said that the ground where he stood raised itself into a mound so that the audience might better see the venerable David.

Fame Traditional

His fame increased after his death. Tradition says his bones were taken to Glastonbury some 300 years after his death, and by the time William the Conqueror crossed the Channel David's sanctity and importance were generally recognized. He was formally canonized about 1120 by Pope Calixtus II, at the request of King Henry I.

The leek, the national emblem of the small principality of Wales, is credited to St. David. The story goes that in the confused battle between the Saxon invaders and the fighting Welsh, the latter could not tell friend from foe. David told the warriors to pick leeks and pace them in their hats to show they were Welsh, and the Welsh carried the day.

A great national festival in London today features choral singing for which the Welsh have been famed for centuries. The band of the Welsh Guards and trumpeters of Royal Military School of Music are also taking part.

The tiny principality of Wales and Monmouthshire nowadays occupies a total area of 8,006 square miles on the Irish Sea and the Bristol Channel, with a population of 2,500,000. Its people are a proud and distinct nationality with a language and literature of their own.

Petes Yank Out a 3-2 Win Against the Eagles In Hot Senior "B" Struggle

The Petes wound up their regular O.H.A. senior "B" schedule here last night before a hefty crowd by pulling out a 3-2 win over the second-place Eagles. In a speedy, clean contest, the Petes racked up a 2-0 lead in the first frame and, after Eagles got one in the second, played on even scoring terms in the 1-1 third chukker. Eagles had a good margin on play most of the third period but failed to sew it up. Just before the game started, Gus Leonard of the Petes was presented with the Jimmy Drummond Memorial Trophy by Dave Kerr as the most valuable senior player in Peterborough this season. He also received a suit of clothes from Black's, a Dunhill pipe from his club, a fishing pole from Clapper's, a bridge set from Ben Swartz, a hat from Ed Riley and a Ronson lighter from Dave Kerr. Mrs. Drummond also presented the runner-up, Keith Montgomery, with a gift.

One Apiece

Ted Collins, Chum Fryia and Junior West were the Petes scorers, with West, Jake Wade and Gus Leonard each earning an assist in the tight tussle. Dootch Vitarelli and Bill Berwick scored for Eagles, and Jim Munroe drew the only assist. Both goalies had lots to do, and Ray Harding had to rise to starry heights in the hot third stanza as Eagles swarmed in hard in a vain effort to sew up the tilt. Ray's young daughter was bruised on the face when hit by a flying puck in the stands during the game.

Hill was gated early for boarding but was back when Dugan got it for slashing as two referees kept a close eye on the fast-stepping struggle. Play was pretty even and quite speedy for a spell with each goalie in turn on the jump. It went 13 minutes before Ted Collins counted around defence with a sizzling backhander that caught a net corner. Hill and Dugan were chased for high-sticking and later Montgomery went over for boarding. All were back when Fryia hit the hemp when he tipped in Wade's long shot on West's pass at close range just before the frame finished.

A Close Frame

Petes pressed for a space in the second, but Eagles got the only goal after six and a half minutes of play when Vitarelli backhanded home a rebound on Munroe's drive at close range. It was fast and even then, Montgomery serving a kneeing penalty and returning with no damage done. Eagles scored but it was called back for Greenlaw closing his hand on the puck just before shooting from the crease edge. Eagles went on the prowl to press and they gave Harding a busy time when Earl Leonard went over for elbowing and was just back when Horton got the nod for tripping. But they held Eagles off the rest of the period.

Montgomery almost tallied to start the third, and play was ragged but fast for several minutes. West counted nicely from Gus Leonard on a partial breakaway, with but one to beat, as Eagles ganged up to make it 3-1 at 7:02. Montgomery and Fred Mortimer nearly got through for one and Eagles pressed in earnest. They hemmed the Petes in and hammered away at Harding, forcing the other side to ice the puck. Finally, Berwick got through alone on a fine side solo to blast an angle shot into the rigging and make it 3-2. They kept pouring in but couldn't get another past Harding, and the Petes at times threatened Nicholls at the other end as play kept fast and furious to the end. Nicholls was pulled in the final 10 seconds but Eagles still failed to get the equalizer.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Horton and Peters; centre, West; wings, G. Leonard and Fryia; alternates, Garvey, Collins, Floyd, B. Robinson, Dugan, J. Mortimer, Wade and E. Leonard.

Eagles: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Montgomery and Armstrong; centre, F. Mortimer; wings, Stewart and Greenlaw; alternates, Hill, Crowley, Vitarelli, Samalenko, Wilson, Berwick, Munroe and Smith.

Referees, W. Holway and M. Walsh.

Summary:

First Period

Petes—Collins 13:04
Petes—Fryia (Wade, West) 19:21
Penalties—Dugan (2), Hill (2), Crowley, Montgomery.

Second Period

Eagles—Vitarelli (Munroe) 6:32
Penalties—Montgomery, E. Leonard, Horton.

Third Period

Petes—West (G. Leonrad) 7:02
Eagles—Berwick 12:40
No penalties.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER—To the victor go the spoils, and Gus Leonard of the Petes (in centre) is shown receiving the Jimmy Drummond Memorial Trophy from Dave Kerr (left) while Mrs. Drummond looks on. He was presented with the trophy—and a number of other gifts—at Civic Arena last night after being voted the most valuable senior hockeyist in Peterborough this season. A suit of clothes from Black's, fishing rod from Clapper's, bridge set from Ben Swartz, pipe from his club and hat from Ed Riley, were also given the classy centre man just before the Petes-Eagles' game. — (Examiner Staff Photo).

Ace Reid Leads T.V.L. Snipers Northern Group

Ace Reid of Havelock led the northern division of the Trent Valley Hockey League in scoring this season during the regular schedule. He scored 38 goals and had 11 assists for 49 points in 18 games, and Ace did not serve a penalty. Bob Thorpe of Norwood was next with 48 points. Brian Mulvihill of Belleville topped the southern division with 63 points in 13 games, as Joe Scott of Wellington and Ken Trumble of Marmora tied in the central section with 32 points each in a dozen tussles. Mowry Bangs Out 831

McGillis' of the Men's City Bowling League, led by Captain Hollie Mowry with an 831 triple, practically swept all individuals this past week. They rolled a total pinnage of 3696 which included a single fame of 1305. It was left to John Basciano of Bassel's to lead in singles with a neat 346.

Len Anthony with 331, William Boon with 331 and Hollie Mowry with 319 were good single games rolled.

Shut-outs were registered by Madill & Post, DeLaval and Ted Moore's over Kawartha Garage, Sunocos and Anthony's as 4-2 point margins were taken by Bonds and McGillis over their opponents, Clapper's and Bassel's respectively.

G. Braund's Rink Winners Lindsay 'Spiel

By HERB. MARTIN.

Playing at Lindsay for most of the week in the big open mixed rink bonspiel, the local boys and girls made a real showing. Gar Braund's rink captured the Gruen Trophy which is the main event. Dr. R. Morgan's rink was runner-up in the Eaton Trophy. R. F. Downey's rink was runner-up for the Benson Trophy.

When you consider that there were 64 entries from all parts of the province, it just makes the wins more outstanding. It was a real tribute to local curlers.

Winners At Lindsay

First—Gruen Trophy, and each a Gruen wrist watch—Mrs. H. Worton, Dr. H. Worton, Mrs. R. Miller, G. Braund, skip.

Lindsay And Neill's Capture Hoop Tussles

Drubbings highlighted girls' city basketball Friday night when Lindsay Merchants trounced the Normals 47-15 and Neill's cagers whipped Black's 31-17.

In the first game the Normal lasses were no match for Lindsay, who drifted in time after time for points throughout the game. Marj Owen, tricky Lindsay forward, almost single-handedly defeated Normals with a 21-point scoring spree.

Owen began to hit the basket regularly in the first half when she totalled 11 points on five field baskets and a foul shot. Ruth Gilson, Shirley Meath, Lois Cullis and Biddy Green added 12 to enable Lindsay to take a 23-5 half-time score. Normals' B. J. Waddington scored four of the five points.

Owen continued her hot pace in the second half, this time dropping in six field baskets for 12 points. At the same time Gilson, Meath, Green and Shirley Algar matched her 12 points as Lindsay again outscored Normals, 24-10.

Betty Osborn, who totalled the foul shot point in the first half, worked in for three field baskets in the second half for Normals while Bettty Merrett dropped in two shots for the other four points.

Again Victors

Neill's although they had a slightly more difficult time than Lindsay, easily remained undefeated for the past two seasons by clipping Black's 31-17. Black's never were close enough to threaten them.

Joan Dunk, who has made a habit of leading Neill's scoring this year, again was tops with a 14-point effort. She hit her stride in the first half, scoring 10 points on five shots, while Neill's took an 18-9 halftime score. Reta Naylor, with two field shots for four and a foul shot, led Black's with five points.

The game was slightly closer in the second half but Neill's kept a comfortable margin as S. Bestard, DeWarga, Dunk and Borland dropped in 13 points. Naylor again led Black's, scoring four out of the team's eight in the half.

Lineups:

First game: Lindsay (47)—Gilson 6, Copp, Owen 23, Wakelin, Meath 6, Cullis 3, Vanstone, Green 7, Algar 2.

Normals (15)—Orsborn 7, Todd, Waddington 4, Faircloth, Scollard, McCulloch, Merrett 4.

Second game: Neill's (31) — Bestard 4, DeWarga 3, Byers 5, Smith, Dunk 14, Callan, Borland 5, Poast.

Black's (17)—Hollingsworth 5, Vint, Pollock, McGill 1, Nayler 9, McIlvena, Raper, McIlhagga 2.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Two referees will handle the main pro mat match between hateful Hans Hermann and popular Bobo Brazil at the Brock Arena next Tuesday night. And they won't stand for any head butting by the big Negro. However, he will likely confine his activities in that direction to the squarehead German. Had him on the limp last time they met till he made the mistake of bumping heads with Ref Sam Gotter, who disqualified him. It should make for another lively grapple bout. Strangler Bob Wagner comes back after a lengthy absence to tackle newcomer Lu Kimm in the semi-windup go of the card, while Jim (the Bull) Wright mixes with tall Bill Stack in the prelim.

Rarely indeed does a Peterborough team get to bask at a national championship. Last fall our senior lecrossers did out in Vancouver and they captured the Canadian title. But we can't recall a previous local winner over all competition in this large country. Nor even back in the horse-and-buggy days, we are sure. But next week Dr. Ralph Clark's curling rink of Peterborough represent Ontario in the Canadian curling championships of 1952 in Winnipeg. An outstanding feat to get that far, and knights of the besom and stane throughout the province will be pulling for this quartet to take it all. But the competition will be mighty, mighty stiff.

Leading T.V.L. Scorers

Three divisions of the Trent Valley Hockey League are down to finals now as spring approaches. Some rousing hockey will be seen about these districts from here in. Brian Mulvihill of Belleville won scoring honors in the southern section with 63 points in 13 games. Ken Trumble of Marmora and Joe Scott of Wellington tie for top spot in the central part with 32 each in a dozen frays. Northern division saw Ace Reid of the Havelock team win out with 49 in 18 tilts, one more than Bob Thorpe of Norwood. Lists are in elsewhere. A lot of Peterborough puckists perform in this section of the T.V.L. this season, making for some hotly-contested games.

Our three minor hockey representatives in second-round O.M.H.A. playdowns have done well up to this writing — though we haven't at the moment results of two jousts last eve in Kingston. They dumped Oshawa opponents into the discard in the first round, and won opening jousts here two nights ago against Belleville juveniles, and the bantam and midget teams from Kingston. Survivors should be nearly ready for provincial quarter-finals, we would think. The local Marines juves, Martin-Hewitt midgets, and St. Peter's bantams are doing their share in sports this semester to bring honor to Peterborough. In any case, they did well to get this far, and some at least will go a lot further, we feel confident.

Petes Squeeze Out Win

Playing for keeps right up to the finish of the senior "B" schedule, the Petes pulled out a 3-2 win o'er Eagles last eve before a goodly gallery. Neither side asked nor gave any quarter, yet play was quite clean and very fast. They certainly stepped it off high, wide and handsome, and there was little to choose betwixt the clubs. Petes led 2-0 in the first frame, Eagles had a 1-0 edge next heat, and both sides scored once in the redhot third chukker. Gus Leonard was honored before the game as most valuable player in the city, getting some nice gifts, and a shower of silver for the polio fund was held between periods. No particular stars in a good puck tussle. Each side used one junior from the Oddfellows.

* * * * * * *

As Belleville and Kingston battled to a 9-9 overtime draw last eve, it'll be necessary to run off that replay between Petes and Eagles here Monday night. At present, Kingston have 28 points with all their schedule games played. Eagles have 27 points but can vault alone into the coveted second slot by beating Petes in the Monday night replay of the protested Petes-Eagles' game of November. A loss for Eagles that night would clinch second place for the K's. So, we get one more chance—possibly the last of this season—to see Eagles and Petes in furious puck action to start the week, a game of utmost importance to the Vitarelli pack. Semi-finals likely start Wednesday.

S. Rutledge Leads

Sandy Rutledge hit a single of 340 this week in the Mercantile Bowling League to lead lasses, as Zita Spencer's 746 triple was high. Ken Watkins topped men with his 371 single, and Frank Worsencroft rolled high three of 731. A & P led teams with 3178. Blanks were hung up by Utilities over Neill's, A & P against Braund's No. 2, and Loblaw's over Bond's, as Crowe's beat Prudential 3-1, and Braund's No. 1 split with Austin's.

Good singles included: Z. Spencer 291, Verna Hopkins 284, Marcelle Lake 260, Bessie Smith 295, Jack Gimblett 252, F. Worsencroft 264, Bob Willshaw 253, Jack Martell 259 and Bob Hopkins 263.

P.C.V.S. Seniors Take Win From Lindsay

Coach Bev Goulding's P.C.V.S. seniors moved to within one game of the C.O.S.S.A. basketball finals Friday night. The Collegiate cagers jumped to a 17-point lead over Lindsay where they won the first game of a two-game series 55-38.

In an exhibition game, Jack Cullis' P.C.V.S. midgets dropped an exhibition decision to the Lindsay school bantams 44-39. Lindsay recently won the Peterborough-Lindsay bantam grouping but lost out to Bowmanville High by 16 points.

The Garnet and Grey seniors wind up the Lake Ontario district Wednesday night on the P.C.V.S. court in the return game with Lindsay. They're expected to win handily by 25 or 30 points.

The small Lindsay floor, the smallest the Collegians have played on this year, temporarily caused a P.C.V.S. slowdown in the first quarter. They also found the hoops and backboards deader than those at P.C.V.S.

But Goulding's cagers carried a slight edge on the field shots and managed to work a two-point, 9-7, lead at the first quarter. Then they began to hit their stride and the second quarter showed what they can do. Drifting in seven out of 18 field shots, the Garnet and Grey surged ahead 31-14 at the half.

From therein they slowed down, keeping a healthy lead in both the remaining quarters. They were up 43-23 at three-quarter time and then finished off with 12 more points in the fourth.

Zone Defence

For the first time this season the Collegiate cagers opened with a zone defence, partly due to the small floor. They switched to the man-to-man system in the second half to practice for today's Ontario junior playdown game with St. Catharines' Stars in Welland. Lindsay chose a man-to-man defence and stayed with it throughout the game although P.C.V.S. was breaking through easily.

The Garnet and Grey showed a decided improvement in the foul shooting department, scoring 17 out of 30 shots compared with Lindsay's record of 10 good of 25.

The whole P.C.V.S. teams was hitting the hoop. Lionel Hempstead topped the scorers with 11 points on set shots from the foul circle. Bryon Young drove in from the guard position in the second quarter for a game total of nine points while Murray Grafstein notched nine also on driving in and foul shots, scoring five for five. Jack Graham was Lindsay's best with game total of 14 points, while Smith had eight and Schenk six.

In the midgets' encounter, Paul Davis, still of bantam age, hit his season's best pass. Showing improvement since early season, Davis was driving in for close field attempts and led P.C.V.S. scoring with 14 points. Ash and Keeting each had eight.

Lineups:

Senior Game: P.C.V.S. (55)—Ash 6, Young 9, Grafstein 9, Hempstead 11, Brown 8, Langhorne 8, Cunningham 3, Cranfield.

Lindsay (38)—Maidens 2, MacDuffee 3, Graham 14, Taylor 2, McLean 2, LLogan 1, Smith 8, Schenk 6, Windrem.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

The refusal of Ray Ross to sign a contract with Seattle Ironmen of the Pacific Coast Hockey League today threw a snag in the deal which was to send Ron Stewart from Barrie Flyers to Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Stewart was in Guelph Friday and was expected to play against the league-leading Toronto Marlboros Friday night, in a game Marlboros won 4-2. However, Bill Hanley, O.H.A. secretary, informed the Biltmores management that Stewart was not to play until the Ross situation was cleared up. The Biltmores had received permission to obtain a replacement when Ross was ordered to the Seattle team. But until he signs a professional contract, the Biltmores are denied a replacement.

Hap Emms, Barrie coach, made made no report of the amount of money involved in the deal but said the Flyers would have rights to a Guelph goaltender, excluding Marv Brewer and Doug Lessor.

Meanwhile, nobody knows where Ross is. Rumor is that he is on his way back east and may return to Guelph.

United States and Canadian skiers have begun filing entries for the 1952 North American ski championships here March 8 and 9. Meet officials here announced Friday that entries have been received from Sun Valley, Idaho and from Revelstoke, B.C., and Banff.

Martin-Hewitt Midgets And S.P.S. Bantams Oust Kingston Pucksters

KINGSTON, Mar. 1—The bantam and midget teams from Peterborough eliminated both young Rangers' clubs of Kingston at the community centre last night from further O.M.H.A. playdowns for this year. The midgets won last night's game 5-4 to take the round 14-5; the bantams, winning 3-2 last night, won the round 9-6.

The Peterborough clubs, St. Peters bantams and Martin-Hewitt midgets, now meet Owen Sound in further playdown. Kingston had ousted Belleville in the first round.

The midget game between Martin-Hewitt and Rangers was fast and rough especially in the last frame when 13 penalties were served. Kingston started off as though they were going to erase the 9-1 deficit facing them. S. Anderson scored from Botting, with McIntosh from Frahne making the score 2-0. Peterborough came back with Strickland and Floyd combining. Roy was banished for slashing and "Moon" Wootton's crew ganged up on Kingston with Floyd scoring from Godfrey.

Tied The Score

Three Peterborough goals in seven minutes of the middle period tied the verdict down with Gardiner, Godfrey and Brooks the marksmen. Brown from Burnett scored Kingston's lone goal. Penalties were handed out to Walton, Heffernan and Perry for tripping and Holland and Smith for roughing.

One goal by Holland, Kingston and the 13 penalties featured the final period. Walton was given the first two penalties and followed by Gardner for elbowing, Perry for tripping, Holland high sticking, Kane, playing with a broken stick, Wheeler and Brooks, holding at 12:35 and 12:40, Perry for high sticking, Stewart and Walton for roughing and Stewart and Floyd at 19:50 for roughing.

Clean And Fast

The bantam game was clean and fast with only two outbreaks of fighting, one in the second and the other in the third period. It was a much better played game than the midget with St. Peters winning 3.2 and taking the round 9-6.

Mahoney put Peterborough one goal up on a pass from Baker. Turner came back assisted by Hegarty and Frawley to tie the game. Two goals by St. Peter's topped Kingston's output in the second period. Douglas from Atkinson and Atkinson alone scored for Peterborough with Gerry Lowe, assisted by Barry Lowe, scoring for the locals. Baker was given a tripping penalty at the 12-second mark while Mahoney was banished for roughing later.

There was no scoring in the third period with penalties going to Turner for high sticking, Walton and Atkinson for fighting.

Teams:

Bantams

Kingston: Goal, O'Neill; defence, De St. Remy and Thurlby, centre, Hegarty; wings, Turner, Frawley; alts., Love, Walton, Lowe, Stewart, Huff, Cooke, Martin, Carl, Stephenson.

Peterborough, Goal, Masterson; defence, Blodgett, Parry; centre, Godfrey; wings, Heffernan, Floyd; alts., Stewart, Chambers, Smith, Roberts, Kane, Strickland, Gardner, Brooks, Simmons.

Referees—Ralph Wakelin, Perry McIntosh.

Ontario Tankard Tourney Baffled Peterborough Club

Man, there has been some grand curling through the years in Peterborough, you will often hear from some of the older curlers when watching a game from Number Eight Ice. However good the curling has been it has not brought championships to the Peterborough club.

Curling is the oldest sport in this district, but it has been left to the other sports to bring Canadian and Ontario titles to the city. There have been lacrosse championships, the hockey championships, the rugby titles and in fact, in every other line of sport, in this sportiest city in the province. But nary a curling title.

Veterans curlers used to blame Lindsay, and Lindsay curlers did on many an occasion stop the locals cold, but of late things seem to be changing and the locals have been holding their own and doing better in their district.

However, it may not be quite correct to say that there never has been a curling championship for just 20 years ago a rink of boys skipped by Ralph Clark and made up of W. R. Widdis, V. Armstrong and L. Chesler captured the Ontario Boys' Tankard. That was back in the early days of this competition. Then Burritt Harrison skipped a rink last year to capture the Ontario Colts' competition.

But once again Dr. Ralph Clark is skipping a rink and this time not in the Ontario title series or Ontario Tankard as it is known for they have by-passed that and are representing this province in the Canadian Championship series opening on Monday in Winnipeg.

With Dr. Clark are Burritt Harrison, Ken Bissett and Vic Brown. The last three men are employed by the Canadian General Electric Co.

Burritt (Bert) Harrison is lead and has been curling for eight years. He learned the game at the Peterborough Curling club. Ken Bissett has curled for 25 years and learned the game in Western Canada. Vic Brown, the vice-skip, also had his first curling in Western Canada. He has been at it for 15 years and last year was a member of the Colts' rink. Dr. Clark started as a junior in 1929, skipped a rink to take the Junior Tankard in 1932. Then studied medicine and had a turn with the R.C.A.F. during the war. He has on a number of occasions skipped the Peterborough Tankard entry in the district playdowns and this year skipped the rink which captured the Seagram trophy in the Quebec bonspiel.

So for these curlers we hope for them the best of curling in Winnipeg.

Represented Twice

But back to that elusive Ontario Tankard. Peterborough has only been represented twice in the Ontario Tankard finals, 1892 and 1917. The first time they lost out to Toronto Granites by six shots and in 1917 to Owen Sound by 10 shots.

In the tankard playdowns in 1892 Millbrook, Keene, Lakefield, Campbellford and Bobcaygeon clubs were put together in one group while Peterborough, Lindsay, Oshawa, Whitby and Scarboro were grouped together. Played in Peterborough, Millbrook was seven shots up on Keene, the score being 45 to 38. Lakefield defeated Campbellford by nine shots, the score being 36 to 27. In the second draw Bobcaygeon was six shots up on Millbrook, 44 to 38, and in the final draw Lakefield was 28 shots up on Bobcaygeon.

Curling for Millbrook's two rinks, skipped by R. Kells and W. Wood, were men who through the next 40 years played an important part in many of the bonspiels held in Peterborough. They were John Steele, David Hampton, F. Clarry, J. A. Vance, H. Hunter and Charles Needler. Keene's rinks were skipped by Robert Campbell and W. McIntyre and the others were R. English, R. McCamus, J. Dixon, R. Brown, W. C. McRea and J. R. McCrea. Lakefield's skips were G. Postlewaite and R. Strickland with players R. Graham, T. Wallace, A. Strickland, T. J. Bird, J. P. Strickland and J. Grylls. Campbellford had skips E. Gaudier and C. Smith with curlers D. J. Lynch, R. Loury, D. Kerr, F. Smith, M. Galvin and R. Dinwoodie.

Peterborough had to go to Oshawa and there they defeated Oshawa in the first round by 12 points, while Whitby was 12 up Lindsay. In the second round Scarboro put Whitby out, and in the final Peterborough eliminated Scarboro by 13 shots.

Peterborough's two rinks were skipped by W. G. Ferguson and Tom Rutherford. Mr. Ferguson had George Hatton as his lead, R. S. Davidson played second stone and Charles McGill was vice-skip. Mr. Rutherford had A. McNeil as lead, G. Fitzgerald as second and Sam Ray as vice.

Playing in the finals in Toronto the two rinks skipped by Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Rutherford defeated the Hamilton Thistles by nine shots, the score being 46 to 37, and then eliminated the Collingwood rinks by 17 points.

Peterborough, Belleville, Galt and Toronto Granites went into the semi-finals. They eliminated Belleville and they went down to defeat at the hands of the Toronto Granites in the finals, 36 to 30. Mr. Ferguson was down 11 shots and Mr. Rutherford up five. The Toronto [illegible] reporting the game said, "Only Tom Rutherford is undoubtedly one of the finest curlers that ever stood on ice."

Manitoba Out To Break Losing Streak

By AL VICKERY.

WINNIPEG, March 1 (CP). — Manitoba will be out to break its longest losing streak—two successive years—when play opens Monday in the five-day Canadian curling championship.

Since the championship started in 1927 when Nova Scotia's Murray Macneill of the Halifax Curling Club was victorious, Manitoba rinks had never lost in two straight years until 1950 and 1951. Northern Ontario won in 1950 and Nova Scotia last year.

And Billy Walsh, bespectacled skip from Winnipeg's Fort Rouge Club, this year will be out to gain Manitoba's 13th victory. The province has rolled up a record of 12 wins in the 22 competitions—there were no matches in the war years of 1943-45—including three victories by Ken Watson of Winnipeg Strathcona. Watson is the only three-time winner on record —1936, 1942 and 1949.

Alberta rinks were second with four wins, followed by Ontario and Nova Scotia, each with two and Northern Ontario and British Columbia, with one apiece.

Draw Sunday Night

The draw for the 1952 classic will be held Sunday night. Times already have been set. Thursday is the big day, with draws morning, afternoon and night.

Play gets under way at 3 p.m. C.S.T. (4 p.m. E.S.T.) Monday, following a motor parade to the amphitheatre rink, normally a hockey arena. The second draw is at 8 p.m.

Two draws will be held Tuesday —9:30 a.m., and 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, will see the rinks take to the ice at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. Rounds are at 9:30 a.m., 2:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

The 10th draw will be played at 9:30 a.m. Friday, and the final round at 2:30 p.m If a playoff for first position is necessary, it will be held Friday at 8 p.m.

Each rink will sit out one round in the unbalanced schedule.

Those On Rinks

Personnel of the competing rinks:

British Columbia—Doug McGibney, Roy Stone, William Smith and Reg Stone, skip. (Trail Curling Club).

Alberta—Norm Dalsto, Ron MacLean, Aubrey Gore and Art Simpson, skip. (Bassano Curling Club.)

Saskatchewan — Fritz Ostberg, Al Turner, Nels Witherow and Frank Hastings, skip. (Nipawin Curling Club.)

Manitoba — Johnny Watson, Andy McWilliams, Allan Langlois and Billy Walsh, skip. (Winnipeg Fort Rouge Curling Club.)

Northern Ontario — Raymond Parnell, James Fregeau, Jack Pike and Jimmy Guy, skip. (Kenora Curling Club.)

Ontario—B. C. Harrison, Ken Bissett, Vic Brown and Dr. J. R. Clark, skip. (Peterborough Curling Club.)

Quebec—Jim Turney, Joe Hawkins, Ches McCanoe and Ken Weldon, skip. (Montreal St. George Curling Club.)

New Brunswick—Dick Malloy, Craig Cartwright, Art Limerick and Ralph Limerick, skip. (Fredericton Curling Club.)

Nova Scotia—Larry Hatfield, Ted Henry, Avard Mann, and Henry Blanchard, skip. (Truro Curling Club.)

Prince Edward Island—Harry MacInnis, Charles Kydd, James Gallant and Frank Hansen, skip. (Charlottetown Curling Club.)

Newfoundland—Austin Boyd, Bud Fisher, Norm Wood and John Tomelin, skip. (Corner Brook Curling Club.

Sixth Race Divided At Dufferin Park

Clinton D., owned and driven by Don Murphy, of Elmont, N.Y., and Frisy Frisco, owned and driven by Cam Wannamaker, of Consecon, Ont., each won a heat to divide the sixth and featured harness race at Toronto's Dufferin Park Friday.

Single F., owned by G. Kingston, of Napanee, and driven by Alan Pacey, and Resolution, owned by the Cruise Stable, Shepherdeville, K.Y., handled by Jimmy Cruise, were the heat winners in the fifth and secondary feature.

Boston-Leaf Twin Clashes Weekend Payoff Games

By CRAIG SWAYZE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Boston Bruins, two full games out of the National Hockey League's fourth and final playoff slot, clash twice this weekend with Toronto Maple Leafs in games that loom as the most important of the five scheduled during the two-day interval. The Bruins currently trail New York Rangers by four points while weekend opposition is a game out of second, two points behind the runner-up Montreal Canadiens. A single victory on either side of the fence could shake up the six-team standings and tighten the final stretch drive to Stanley Cup play.

With but 12 more games on their schedule, the Bruins could use a victory or two during the weekend to close that gap between themselves and the Rangers. By collecting even a single point, they might gain on the blueshirts who have no easy task in facing Montreal Canadiens tonight and Detroit Red Wings at home Sunday.

Boston coach Lynn Patrick, who has been confident of his club's chances all season long, is still sure it will make post-season play. He looks for the Bruins to collect at least half of the 24 points available to them over the rest of the schedule.

"If we can do just that," he said Friday night, "I'm sure we're in. My club's not beaten yet. Just watch us from here on in."

Leafs Stirring

In Toronto, the Leafs have shown signs of stir after the would-be experts had tagged them for third place and the alarming fate of meeting Detroit in the first round of Stanley Cup play.

With the return of their inspirational manager, Conn. Smythe, the players turned in one of their best games of the season Wednesday at New York when they downed Rangers 3-1 for their first victory in seven starts.

The Leafs are out for all they can get in their two games against Boston, knowing full well Canadiens can draw even further away on their weekend schedule. Rangers have never been too potent in Montreal and then the Habs have never had much trouble with the tail-end Black Hawks whom they meet Sunday in Chicago.

Vics Eliminate Lindsay Kinsmen

LINDSAY, March 1—(ENS)—Kingston Vics eliminated Lindsay Kinsmen here last night in O.H.A. junior "B" group semi-finals. They wound up in a 3-3 overtime draw before a noisy crowd of 1,140 fans, but it meant curtains for the injury-ridled Kin, as Kingston had won two games and earned two ties in the best-of-five series. Vics now meet Belleville for group honors.

Play was fast, clean and close throughout. Lucas and Powell played for Lindsay with broken hands, and Schevington is ill in bed. Kingston got the only goal halfway throughout the first frame, Chevrefils tallying. Powell, Tozer and Shinkel drew penalties. Lindsay fought back for a 2-1 edge in the second to tie the count. Shinkel tallied first from Marshall and Deeth. Hagarty got that back for Vics on a three-way play with Montgomery and Redmond. Lacey hit the twine late in the heat from Dysart and Hall. Penalties went to Montgomery, Reynolds, Deeth and Marsh. Smith slapped one in from Copeland on a nice play halfway through the third to put Lindsay up, but Reid slid one into the cage corner on Vallier's pass late to sew it up. Marshall drew two penalties, and Powell, Hagarty and D. Senior one each.

Both sides battled furiously in the redhot overtime heat and both goalies had to make some great saves, Lindsay driving in particular. But neither side could dent the hemp in the penalty-free extra inning, and it wound up in victory for the Vics and elimination for the Kinsmen.

Christianity, Communism

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Repeatedly in the account of the early Christian church in the first few chapters of the Book of the Acts it is stated that the disciples had all things in common.

It was an ideal situation, for "great grace was upon them all," the common fund was distributed "unto each according as any one had need," and nobody lacked.

Moreover, it was a voluntary sort of communism, very unlike the modern day dictatorships established in violence and force.

Yet this apparently ideal early Christian communism did not last, and the various attempts to establish ideal communistic communities have failed, though some like the famous Oneida Community, became economically profitable.

Why did early Christian communism fail? Chiefly because the Christians themselves failed, but also because by its very nature communism denies a wholesome sense of individualism in faith and action and substitutes enforced discipline for a free and voluntary expression of the impulses of brotherly love.

If all Christians, both then and later, had been as nobly unselfish as Barnabas, whose whole course as recorded in the Book of the Acts ought to be studied for its inspiration, much might have been and still might be, possible. But there were Ananiases and Sapphiras (Acts 5) in that early church, whose secret motives were selfish.

Just why that couple should have been among the Christian disciples at all is not clear. They were under no obligation to profess something in which they did not believe. In fact it is difficult to account for the presence of some in the early church who seem to have lacked any deep or real sense of the religion they professed.

What worldly motive could have induced any one to join a small company, subject to derision and persecution seems hard to understand, yet Paul's Epistles make the facts quite plain.

Loafers, grafters, and sycophants are always in evidence where they can prey upon the kindliness and good will of others.

The notion that Christians should love one another, and the evidence that they did so apparently impressed some who set out to take advantage of that love.

No man believed in brotherly love more than the Apostle Paul, but he was an eminently practical man and no shallow sentimentalist.

He supported himself by working at his own craft of tent-making. When he saw lazy, loafing professed Christians using the doctrine of love to assert the obligation of others to support them Paul laid down the law in no uncertain terms: "If any would not work, neither should he eat."

The Christian Gospel and the Christian life enjoin brotherly love, but they enjoin equally individual responsibility.

Paul found no inconsistency in putting together two texts: "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ," and, "Every man must bear his own burden."

That is great and important teaching for today.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

COMING SOON

Put up optimistically last fall, the sign on the Drive-In Theatre began to have some significance this week. It reads: "Spring Will Soon Be Here . . . In Technicolor."

PENNY-A-DAY-DRIVE

Friday, the opening day of the Penny-a-Day Drive being held in 19 schools netted $111.52. This was an increase of $28.03 over the opening day total in 1951.

THIRD BIRTHDAY

The south end branch of the Public Library is marking its third anniversary today with a special puppet show for the children. Three showings will be given: at 9.30 a.m., 10.30, and 1.30 p.m.

TWO TAX RATES

For the first time in many years, Lindsay has two tax rates. Public school supporters will pay on the basis of a 44½ mill rate, separate school supporters on a 39½ mill rate.

BELL CLUB PARTY

About 140 Bell (Telephone) Social Club members attended the dinner and dance at the Empress last night. James Scott, president, was chairman. A presentation was made to John Charlton who was recently transferred to Oshawa.

A WORTON IDEA

Thrust into the job of putting on an evening program at the Spring Show—March 26-27-28, Exhibition Park—Doc Worton has it all arranged, featured with an inter-county square dance competition. With new emphasis on the revival of that old fashioned recreation, it sounds like a real attraction, and novel.

MORE LION THAN LAMB

That was not the fiercest of March lions the chill west wind blew in from Monaghan this morning, heralding the arrival of spring. Neither was it a frolicsome lamb such as these new arrivals in various sheepfolds of Warden Dick Stewart's country.

WRIST BROKEN IN CRASH

Clifford Irwin, 34, a merchant from Hartley, received a broken right wrist, cuts and bruises when he was involved in a car accident Friday night on Highway 35. Hartley is 12 miles northwest of Lindsay. He was treated by Dr. J. C. Woodman, of Woodville, and in Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay.

SHED BURNS

An old shed at the rear of St. George's Anglican Church, Braidwood Ave., burst into flames shortly after 4 a.m. today and burned to the ground. The Rev. H. J. Scuse, rector of St. George's, said the shed was of no value and would have been pulled down before except for the fact it could serve as a tool shed when rebuilding got underway.

READY TO NEGOTIATE

Production workers at the Peterborough Lock Co. have drawn up a list of proposals for a 1952 contract with the company. The negotiating committee was elected Thursday night with Gerald Gordon, chairman. The present one-year contract ends in April but negotiations for the new one should begin shortly. Local 527, United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America, are the bargaining agents.

FROM NEWFOUNDLAND

Art Douglas of Quaker Oats, back by plane from business in Newfoundland, says eggs were $1.20 (a dozen); and the weather carried the balm of the Gulf Stream, up from Miami,—sunny with little of the depths of snow he sidestepped in the Maritimes. It seems the Islanders once got a shipment of low quality eggs from the mainland, and they neither forget nor forgive.

Financial Help Given Pupils In Grades IX, X

The Ontario Department of Education for the first time is giving high school students financial assistance in purchasing text books.

A circular received Friday by the Peterborough Board of Education said textbooks will be provided for pupils in Grades IX and X up to the value of $3 a pupil.

"A step in the right direction," said K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools. He pointed out, however, that by the time a Grade IX student has bought his loose-leaf fillers, textbooks, etc., his bill comes to about $12. A Grade X student also spends $12 or more.

The grant will be based on the average daily attendance for the previous year, not on actual enrolment. Selection of books will be from a list prepared by the Department of Education.

At present there are 761 students in the two grades.

The free books will mean that students and parents will pay $3 less for books than formerly. The school board will do the actual purchasing (probably selecting one or two books that come to the $3) and then issue them to the students. Later the Department of Education will re-imburse the school board.

Mr. Wightman said that there is a joker in the offer so far as the school board is concerned.

When the board is computing its daily average attendance for re-imbursement purposes it cannot include students from the county or from the suburban area boards. As with grants, the Department pays the suburban area board separately.

Just how this textbook offer will work out for "outside" students is still obscure, said Mr. Wightman.

Fires Destroy Victoria Homes

LINDSAY, March 1—Two Lindsay district homes were destroyed Thursday by fire, and nine people were left homeless.

Overheated chimney pipes were blamed for a Kinmount blaze that left a family of seven without a roof over their heads early Thursday night. Owner of the house was Bill Swinson, an employee of a lumber firm.

The other blaze destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Skarit of Taylor's Corners. A crowd of neighbors and passers-by were forced to watch the house burn. Damage was set at about $3,000.

CAR CUSHION BURNS

A misplaced cigarette butt that dropped onto the front cushion of a car, owned by Art C. Hunter, 801 Morphet Ave., started a fire at 5.20 a.m. today. Firemen put out the fire with a handpump. The front cushion and upholstery were damaged.

Dutch Band Visits Cemetery For Canadians

Bandmaster Gerry Routly of the Salvation Army received a letter from a friend in Holland recently telling of a Dutch band's visit to the Canadian Military Cemetery at Holten.

His friend, Gerrit Knippenberg, also a bandmaster with the Salvation Army, wrote this way of the visit

"Then we arrived on the top of the hill at the Canadian Cemetery, lying very solitary and lonely there.

"Imagine a cemetery, very simple, hidden in a wonderful nature. The back . . . and left and right bounded by woods. The front side offering a splendid view downward, giving you a chance to look far and far away.

"It seemed that the snow made everything still more lonely and more silent. Very slowly the band marched into the cemetery . . . all the time playing solemn tunes. Arriving at the monument, the band circled around the big cross . . .

"Then the leader of the National Band, Brigadier Ruijsink, read a portion of the Book of Revelation and afterward we prayed altogether the Lord's Prayer.

"Standing there, a deep emotion came over us and with warm gratitude we thought of the 600 young Canadian soldiers, resting there under the snow, who gave their lives for our liberation.

"I was deeply thrilled, seeing so many small stony crosses, all bearing a name. A name, representing for some persons in Canada a world of expectation, hope, anxiety, uncertainty and finally deep sorrow.

"Our National Band considers it a great privilege to have had the opportunity and the honor to bring a respectful and grateful salute to so many brave Canadian soldiers."

Another letter, written the next day, tells of Mr. Knippenberg's hope to come to Canada, at least for a visit. Rather wistfully, he writes, "Perhaps there is a chance."

In the same letter, he speaks of an incident in which Princess Wilhelmina, formed queen of the Netherlands, figured. The former queen attended a concert given one Sunday morning by Mr. Knippenberg's band, and he remarked: "She didn't want that any notice should be taken of her presence. She sings with her lady all songs most heartily and listens most intensely."

CAMPBELLFORD'S NEW HOSPITAL waits to be finished. Although only interior work remains to be done, the hospital board is stalled by lack of money. Shooting construction costs have forced them to halt work until more money is raised. Lack Of Funds Halts Work On Campbellford Hospital

By Wm. W. REID

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 28. (ENS)—A hospital which will be one of the best constructed, and most modernly equipped institutions of its size in the province, stands idle in this town. The hands of the hospital board are tied, as far as further work on the building is concerned, for the same reason that has held up construction of institutions of its type all across the country—lack of money.

In the case of the Campbellford Memorial Hospital, this lack of money is not as serious as it may at first appear. Only about 10 per cent of the total estimated cost of the entire institution is still required to complete it.

The Campbellford Citizen's Association has recently undertaken the job of raising $16,300 by public subscription to help with this work. The Hospital board is hoping for an additional grant of $10,000 from the Seymour township council, and if this is forthcoming, the hospital can be completed in a few months.

Few people realize the effort put into the hospital by members of the hospital board. Archie J. Meyers, chairman of the board, needs no coaxing to tell of the benefits of the new building, and what it will mean to Campbellford and Seymour.

Personal Contribution

What he won't mention is his personal contribution to the building. Mr. Meyers personally paid for the heating of the building both last winter and this.

Last year he used cordwood to heat the place, at a cost of over $400. This year, fuel oil is used and the total cost for this season will be in excess of $1,000. Mr. Meyers has paid for this out of his own pocket, because he does not want to see the building damaged through not being heated during the winter months, and does not want to see capital funds used for operating expenses.

Original estimated cost of the hospital in 1945, when the board received its charter from the Provincial Government, was $150,000. That was $5,000 per bed for a 30-bed institution.

The Department of Health for Ontario advised the board later to increase the number of beds to 38, boosting the estimated cost at that time to $190,000. With the increase in building costs since 1945, the cost of the 38-bed hospital is now $250,000, and to date, the board can lay its hands on about $225,000 of this amount. The amount is made up of the following grants:

Ontario Government	$43,666
Dominion Government	43,666
Town of Campbellford	60,000
Township of Seymour	20,000
United Counties Northumberland and Durham	15,000
Miscellaneous Subscriptions	42,700
Total	$225,032

The township of Percy has given the board $3,000. This will be spread over a period of three years.

Ninety per cent of the material to complete the work has been paid for and is at the site. The board has paid out a total of $187,356 in cash for work already completed, and still owes $65,264 to contractors who still have some work to complete. This figure covers $10,000 for a terrazo floor finish on the main floor. The board has on hand at present about $40,000 to pay for this work, and the actual amount required to complete the entire job is $25,257.

Y Shape

The building is constructed in the shape of a "Y", with three wings on one floor. All that remains to be done is to connect up lights and plumbing, install equipment, plaster and decorate the interior and glaze the windows. This could be done in a few months if the money was available.

The town of Campbellford originally gave a grant of $40,000 and Seymour township a grant of Local Farmers To Organize Association

Committee Named From Vendors Using Market Square

Peterborough and district market gardeners took the first step in organizing a market vendors' association Friday night.

Since the market was moved to its new location at George and Rink Sts., its status has been somewhat "doubtful," Henry Sharpe, president of the county Federation of Agriculture which called the meeting told the more than 50 attending.

The meeting was held in the agricultural office.

"It is difficult to deal with problems as individuals," said Mr. Sharpe and the purpose of the meeting is to set up a market organization.

After outlining the reasons for calling the meeting, Mr. Sharpe invited sugestions from the floor, and the consensus was that an organization was necessary.

Need Association

"I'm convinced of the value of unions, and we must have an association," declared Sid Boyles of Cavan.

George Thorne of Carmel said he agreed but added, "we must have an organization with some weight behind it."

When Mr. Sharpe asked for a show of hands for those in favor of setting up an organization, it was nearly unanimous in favor.

A committee of 10 was named to find out how other municipal markets are operated and the meeting also recommended that the committee meet with the city and county councils as soon as possible to discuss the market site and the possibility of getting a covered building erected.

The members of the committee are: Fred Clifford, Springville; William Hutchison, Otonabee township; Harold Doig, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. John Gaynor, South Monaghan; Melville Wood, Millbrook; Edgar Fallis, Cavan; Norman Dolley, Cobourg; Mrs. Joyce Millar, Cavan, and Sid Boyles also of Cavan.

Get Advice

John Kitney, secretary of the county federation of agriculture acted as secretary of the meeting and relayed information received from George F. Perkin, chairman of the Ontario Marketing Board. Mr. Perkin, he said, advised that the first move of the organization should be to investigate the operation of similar produce markets in nearby cities.

Mr. Kitney also informed the meeting that the local Chamber of Commerce had offered to advertise the market in every housekeeping summer resort in the district free of charge. "This might mean an increase in business," he said. "Kingston market has a big tourist trade and we get many visitors from the United States who are used to buying on farmers' markets at home."

Support of Federation

There were some suggestions that the Federation of Agriculture should act for the market vendors. However, Mr. Sharpe said that by giving the impetus to getting the organization started, the federation was doing the same for market gardeners as it had for the hog producers. "They are looking after themselves now, and the market situation should be handled by the people who use it." He assured the meeting of the support and assistance of the federation but said that an organization of the vendors themselves would be able to deal most effectively with the various problems which arise.

Warden Dick Stewart pointed out that the county council had already gone on record as being willing to assist in any way possible to further the interests of farmers selling produce on the market.

He added that the county had been "hesitant to appropriate money for the market, because 38 per cent of the vendors come from outside the county."

Mr. Stewart said that the coun-

Absent-Minded . . .

Usually public school children arrive home for dinner shortly after noon, so when a whole class from Queen Alexandra school hadn't reported at their homes Thursday by 12:30, their parents became worried. Some feared the worst. A parent inquiry at the teacher's home solved the matter. The teacher with a few minutes to spare after the last morning's lesson told the chilren to remain in the classroom while he put his hat and coat on. But while doing this he completely forgot about the children until the telephone call at his home.

Leap Year Boys Outnumber Girls In City's Births

This may be leap year but the boys are still in command, at least in the Peterborough hospitals. The boys dominated the action in the maternity wards at St. Joseph's and the Civic hospitals as they outnumbered the girls born, five to three, on Friday, Feb. 29.

At St. Joseph's hospital it looked for a time that the statistics for Canada which show more girls than boys would be increased even more for the girls. The first baby born there was a six-pound 1½-ounce girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Guy, 533 Gilmour St.

But the tables turned in favor of the boys late in the afternoon when sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. William McIntyre, R.R. 8, Peterborough, and to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Cahill, 705 Young St.

The girls rounded out the day's activities when a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mcnaghan, R. R. 1, Norwood, at 11:15 p.m.

The boys' margin was noted at the civic hospital. There the first two babies were boys, to Mr. and Mrs. George Rayburn, 391 Armstrong Drive, and to Mr. and Mrs. Luther Olan, R.R. 2, Millbrook. Later a baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Hall, 563 Bolivar St. and a son to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Routley, 561 Douglas Ave. The girls had to let the boys throw their weight around. The heaviest baby was the Cahills' boy who tipped the scales at eight pounds, five ounces.

The day's total was higher than the usual number of births in one day for the two city hospitals.

Camera Club To Hold Open House At Library

The club is having a color slide show for the public. Members will contribute their latest color slides of 1951 for the shows.

Next week will be the last opportunity to see the exhibition of members of the Camera Club and prints from Hamilton and Oshawa clubs.

See Causeway For Narrows At Pigeon L.

Soundings have been taken at Gannon's Narrows as a preliminary to erection of a 1,500-foot causeway.

Gannon's Narrows joins Pigeon and Buckhorn Lakes, 13 miles northwest of Peterborough. At present the narrows are spanned by a floating, wooden bridge, linking up Ennismore and Harvey Townships.

This week engineers from the Department of Highways finished core drillings at intervals of every 100 feet along the channel bed. Purpose of these drillings was to find out the depth and composition of the channel bed—necessary information in estimating the amount of rock fill required.

An estimate on fill was made once before by Jack Kean, county road engineer and road superintendent, but the drive for building a causeway petered out last winter when County Council were told that construction steel, needed for the swing-span, was unobtainable.

Steel in Fall

Since then it has been learned that steel will be available by fall, and Reeve Charles Flynn of Harvey Township is pushing the project.

The Department of Transport have not yet committed themselves and they would be responsible for installing the swingspan (or high-level bridge, which is reportedly favored by departmental officials). As yet the department has received no data on the proposed construction and have not allocated anything in the estimates for it. However, this could easily be done when the supplementary estimates are struck in June.

Mr. Kean previously estimated that 60,000 to 65,000 cubic yards of fill would be required if a causeway were built with swing-span to allow boats to go through. At 1950 prices this would come to about $105,000.

However, should an overhead bridge be built much more fill will be required.

When the Chemong Causeway was built the Ontario Department of Highways paid 80 per cent of construction costs. The remaining 20 per cent was divided among the county, the city and the municipality directly involved (i.e., Ennismore).

Split Decision Given Chico Over Pruden

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP). — Chico Vejar, 20-year-old welterweight, came off the canvas as he often does to win a split decision over indestructible Fitzie Pruden of St. Catharines, in the 10-round main bout at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Pruden, a ring-wise veteran at 24, started off as if he were going to confound the odds-makers who made him an 11-to-5 underdog. He dropped Vejar for a six-count as the first round ended. But he lost out to Vejar's strong finish.

Pruden weighed 147½, Vejar 149½. A crowd of 6,846 paid $23,-431 to watch the rousing bout which was also seen by a national television audience.

Referee Ruby Goldstein voted eight rounds to two for Vejar, judge Harold Barnes called it 5-4-1 for the battler from Stamford, Conn., and judge Charley Shortell voted each fighter five rounds and six points.

Vejar, a freshman at New York University, was fighting his fourth bout since he started boxing as a pro on March 25, 1950.

Makes Strong Finish

He had to put on a strong finish to keep his latest winning streak intact. Pruden dropped him with a long left to the jaw in the first round and staggered Vejar several other times.

But Chico roared back with flying fists each time after he was hurt and made Pruden break ground. In the final round, Vejar's best, he chased Pruden all over the ring, battering him with left jabs and short rights to the head.

Vejar was bruised about both eyes, cut over the left, and was bleeding from the nose. Pruden, who had a reputation for cutting badly until he took recent brine treatments and had scar tissue removed, suffered a cut over the left eye. It wasn't nearly as bad as cuts which have hampered him in past bouts.

Many of the rounds were extremely close and it wasn't surprising that the officials differed widely in their scoring.

Breeders, Veterinarians Meet In Concern Over Disease Outbreak

Concern for the livestock industry of Ontario and the rest of Canada pervaded the meeting here Friday of veterinary technicians and other officials of eight agricultural groups of the province engaged in the artificial breeding of cattle.

Their chief purpose was to draft a constitution of the organization they set up last year, but they also gave considerable thought to seeking any means of helpfulness to the livestock industry of Ontario in the present confusion and worry arising from the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan.

Dr. Russell McDonald, Woodstock, technician with the Oxford and District Cattle Breeders, and president of the association of breeding units, was chairman.

Now Big Business

W. P. Watson, Toronto, Livestock Commissioner of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and R. H. Graham of the Livestock Branch, were present. Their attendance was further indication of the interest of the Department in the artificial breeding of cattle since its inception a comparatively few years ago. From small local groups of farmers, in most instances, influenced by the reports of the effectiveness of the artificial method in other countries, the units have separately and collectibely developed into big business.

They have been instrumental in helping farmers to increase the numbers of their beef and dairy cattle at reduced cost, introducing a new element of economy and quality on many farms.

Unit memberships have expanded largely, and have also reached out into new areas of the province. It was recognized Friday that the farmers' business was of primary concern to the units, and it was felt that through their fieldmen they might be able to give some guidance to breeders in what is likely to be a period of unexpected difficulty probably for the next five or six months at least.

Compare Notes

Breeding unit officers were here from a broad cross-section of Ontario, from Lambton to Kemptville. At their organization meeting in Guelph last year they set their planning on trying to bring together practical ideas from experience and to amalgamate them for the benefit of the whole industry. They also wish to interchange views and practical knowledge with similar groups in the United States.

The Ontario units represented here Friday have a rural membership whose herds comprise a total of around 200,000 cows.

Some opinions were expressed as to possible consequences in this province of the western outbreak, but in the present early stage of combatting the foot-and-mouth disease in the west it was considered too early, and the situation too clouded yet, to offer specific advice. It was hoped that farmers would avoid marketing panic especially.

Sixty Blind People In City Aided By National Institute

By COLLETTE FERGUSON

There are 60 blind people in Peterborough.

This group of visually handicapped is completely dependent on one organization to meet the needs resulting from such a handicap — The Canadian National Institute for the Blind and its Peterborough Advisory Board.

A Successful Work

The consequences of such a handicap in daily life require no explanation. It is the amazing and successful work carried on by the Canadian Institute in such cities as Peterborough that needs to be a subject of frequent refresher courses for public consumption.

Unless directly affected by having a visually handicapped relative or friend, we too often forgot the extent of the services carried on by such an organization.

In Peterborough as in other communities across Canada, the services of the C.N.I.B. are divided into two main sections — service to the blind or rehabilitation, and prevention of blindness.

These services to the blind have developed to meet the needs of all ages, both men and women, in every walk of life. From the local C.N.I.B. office the following seven-point program operates Social Service — the help given to a blind person by C.N.I.B. staff members, who with special knowledge and understanding, deal with personal problems arising out of the experience of blindness, and material help in emergencies out of loss of income.

Home Teaching — instruction is given to the blind person in his home in handicrafts, embossed reading, typewriting and other subjects to develop the use of his hands and his sense of touch, and to give him useful and interesting hobbies. Specially trained and experienced workers give counselling and instruction to preschool blind children and their parents.

Employment — securing of industrial jobs, development of business enterprises and opening of employment opportunities for the blind person by the C.N.I.B. employment specialists.

Library—several thousand embossed books, and more than 1,000 recordings of books are available on loan to blind persons, and specially adapted electric phonographs (talking book machines) are placed on loan or may be purchased by blind persons.

Concessions. — C.N.I.B. has obtained for blind persons such concessions as free radio licenses, free attendance if escorted at many theatres, free transportation on city buses and reduced railway and bus fares.

Special Services — a sales department is maintained through which blind persons may purchase many handicraft materials and appliances such as radios at cost.

Recreation — a recreation department makes available a trained recreation worker to help groups of blind people develop a satisfying and enjoyable recreational and social program

Purchase of Glasses

The prevention work done by the institute includes appointments with eye specialists for both adults and children and the purchase of glasses for those who would otherwise not be able to buy them.

This rehabilitative program makes it possible for the 60 blind in Peterborough to be restored to the greatest physical, mental and economic usefulness of which they are able. Instead of being a complete burden, they are able to contribute to society.

In our city, four children of pre-school age are visited by the staff of the pre-school blind child service. One school age child attends the Ontario School for the Blind in Brantford.

Many adults, young and old, receive instructions from the home teacher. Six blind adults are in regular employment. Books printed in the braille and moontype and talking books are borrowed regularly from the Institute library by more than 20 people. Regular monthly social evenings and weekly bowling are enjoyed by many local blind people. And arrangements for eye treatment foth both adults and children are being made continually through the Institute's Peterborough office.

This community cannot obtain anywhere else the services required for rehabilitation of its blind people. It is to finance this local rehabilitation program that the Canadian National Institute for the Blind is making its appeal through the Red Cross and Community Fund compaign, March 7 to 15. Although a national organization, the C.N.I.B. actually operates as a local organization and the amount it is asking for through the community fund campaign is equal to that spent on the blind in this community last year.

In 1952, the C.N.I.B. received

Hastings Triumphs

NORWOOD, March 1 (ENS)—Provided their protest is not upheld, Norwood have been eliminated by Hastings in T.V.L. semi-finals, losing here last night 9-5 before more than 800 fans. It was a lively tilt all the way, and Magee came out of it with a cut below the eye.

Colby and Stevenson scored for Hastings in the first, an assist each going to Peterson, Parsons and Morrow. Isaac drew the only penalty. Hastings' goals next heat were by Huard and White, with an assist each to Colby and Parsons. Norwood notched three, Brydges getting a pair and Griffin one, Thorpe helping on two. Penalties went to Thompson, Peterson, Jeffs and Colby. Norwood added two in the third by Payne and Robinson, with Ferguson and Whitnall each in on one. Hastings clinched it with five goals, Stevenson and Herrington each getting two and White one, as Morrow had two assists, and Ferguson, Whitnell, Oliver and Parsons one each. Creighton and Colby drew penalties. Teams:

Hastings—Batley, Isaac, Peterson, Blake, White, Herrington, Huard, Colby, Jeffs, Stevenson, Oliver, Morrow, Parsons, Taylor.

Norwood — Jones, Magee, Creighton, Griffin, Thorpe, Brydge, Payne, Thompson, Kelly, Rogers, Ferguson, Whitnall, Robinson, Webb.

Referees, Garson and Sparrow.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Gordon Hudson's Strathcona rink of Winnipeg won the Dominion curling championship with an undefeated record 23 years ago today. That was the second of five successive victories for Manitoba from 1928 to 1932 inclusive. Manitoba has won 12 times since the 'spiel started in 1927, compared with four for Alberta, the next best.

Milltown Boys Take Round

CAMPBELLFORD, March 1 — (ENS)—A crowd of 700 fans, the largest of the season, saw Campbellford OMHA Midgets put on a superhuman effort in the third period of a closely contested and hard fought hockey game to emerge on the top end of a 14 to 6 score with Bobcaygeon Friday night.

The local lads were one goal down. They had been defeated in Bobcaygeon on Monday night 11 to 10.

Campbellford missed many chances around the Bobcaygeon nets, and seemed to miss the services of Dooher, who suffered a wrist injury in the first game.

The score was tied 5-5 at the end of the second period, putting the locals one goal down on the round. The fans, who packed the arena, many of them from Bobcaygeon, thought it might be the end of hockey this season for the local team, but the lads came back strong in the third and scored four goals in as many minutes. Excellent goal-tending by both goalkeepers was responsible for keeping the score as low as it was.

Near the end of the second period, a rifle-like shot from the blue line careened into the crowd and caught four-year-old Pamela Poulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Poulton, of Healey Falls, on the head. She was rushed to the dressing room where she was attended by Dr. W. W. Baker, who stitched up the two-inch cut above the left eye.

Campbellford will likely meet Richmond Hill or South River in the fifth round.

The following is the lineup and summary:

Scoring summary:

First Period

Campbellford—Garvey (Wilson) 5:25
Campbellford—Wilson 10:51
Campbellford—Gibson (Field) 15:05
Bobcaygeon—Poole 18:41

Referees—Messrs. Bill Leggett and Ed. Woodcock of Peterborough.

Brantford Redmen Survive Frantic Stratford Drive 3-2

By The Canadian Press.

Brantford's Redmen survived a frantic last-period Stratford assault Friday night to coast home to a 3-2 victory—their second straight triumph in the best-of-seven Senior A Ontario Hockey Association semi-finals.

The penalty-sprinkled third frame saw the desperate Indians haul their goalie out with 40 seconds to go, and almost score. But the Redmen coasted home on three second-period goals despite seven penalties in the finale against the Indians' four.

Meanwhile, in the Junior A series, Toronto Marlboros clinched first place by downing the second-place Guelph Biltmores 4-2 before a sell-out crowd of 4,200 Guelph fans. The victory gave the Marlies a five-point lead with two games left in the schedule. Biltmores have one left.

The junior season ended at Barrie and St. Catharines, with both teams celebrating their final home games with wins. Barrie Flyers defeated Kitchener Greenshirts 8-6 and St. Kitts Teepees trounced Oshawa Generals 5-1 for their sixth straight victory over Larry Aurie's crew.

Take Deciding Game

In the north, South Porcupine Porkies came from behind three times to win 6-4 over Abitibi Eskimos of Iroquois Falls in the seventh and deciding game of the Porcupine Senior Hockey League semi-finals. Porkies now enter the finals against Noranda Copper Kings.

North Bay Black Hawks roared back into contention in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior semi-finals by beating Sudbury Wolves 4-2 before a capacity house at Sudbury of 6,000 fans. It tied up the best-of-five set at two games apiece.

In the Brantford game, the two Stratford goals were scored by Elwood Ritchie and Jack White while Ferguson scored two and Russell one for Brantford.

Chuck Henderson scored two goals for the losing Biltmores in the Guelph game and Earl Balfour, Eric Nesterenko, Chuck Lumsden and Gus Karrys shot in Marlboros' scoring points.

Two players each scored three goals in the Barrie game. Orv Tessier (3), Garry Collins, Graham Joyce and Duke Edmundson were the Kitchener marksmen and Doug Mohns (3), Hillary Menard, Paul Emms, Fred Pletsch, Johnny Martan and Chuck Wood scored for Barrie.

In St. Catharines, Chuck Marshall, Joe Schnurr, Gerry Foley, Britain Cullen and Willie Haas scored for the Teepees and Joe Kastelic scored Oshawa's singleton.

Remand Youth Out Of Custody

COBOURG, March 1 (ENS) — Francis McKee of Baptiste, was remanded out of custody to appear when called upon when he pleaded guilty to joyriding and to breaking into a schoolhouse. The 17-year-old youth took a truck in South Monaghan and abandoned it in Hamilton and stole $1.45 from a collection jar in the school at S.S. 19 in Cavan township.

Provincial Constable Lyle Erskine arrested him at Baptiste and the investigation revealed that he had broken a pane of glass in the schoolhouse and stole a small quantity of money. The truck was picked up in Hamilton where the boy had driven it on his way to see his father. Defence counsel Harvey Brent said that the accused had hitch-hiked a long distance and broke into the school for a place to rest. His parents were living apart and he was on his way to Hamilton where his father lived. A job had been secured for him at Hamilton and the probationary officer had given the youth a very good report.

James McNeil, no fixed abode, was sentenced to 15 days in jail for obtaining food in a Bowmanville restaurant by false pretenses. He was previously convicted at Pembroke for the same offence and the magistrate yesterday warned him that if he were picked up again in this district for the same offence he would go to the reformatory.

Wins Top 3 Prizes

TORONTO, March 1 — (CP) — Fair-haired Olga Kwasnick, 16, of London, Ontario, Friday night won the top three prizes in the violoncello classes of the Kiwanis Music Festival. In the church choir classes, St. John's United Church, of Stratford, took first place, after winning the number two award last year—their first try at the festival. Wesley United Church choir from Brantford won second place this year.

Ingenious Cadets

SCHREIBER, ONT. — (CP) — The cadet corps of the continuation school in this northwestern Ontario town won the Strathcona trophy for general proficiency, instruction, organization and administration. They had no equipment except a shooting range rigged up in the basement.

Ontario Tankard

Tankard in 1917.

In 1917 the Peterborough rinks were skipped by William Lang and R. M. Waddell. They defeated the Queen City club on an extra end, 36 to 34 in the semi-finals, while Owen Sound eliminated Galt, 33 to 26.

In the final game Mr. Waddell held his opponent to a 15-all score, but Mr. Lang was down 10 shots, 32-22. On the Waddell rink were J. Brightman, lead; G. H. Logie, second, and D. Davidson, vice; and on the Lang rink were Dr. Wightman, lead; Harry Foote, second, and Sam Ray, vice, the same position he played in the 1892 tournament.

The Owen Sound curlers that year were the dark horses of the tournament. It was their first tankard victory, although they had been in the finals three years before. The finals were played on the Lakeview rink in Toronto for the first time in the history of the competition.

Haircuts Up

ATIKOKAN, ONT. — (CP) — The two barbershops in this northwestern Ontario town are joining the trend. Effective March I price of haicuts was increased 25 cents, to $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. A spokesman said this is the first increase here since 1948.

Student Record

VANCOUVER — (CP) —University of British Columbia students claimed a North American collegiate record by donating 3,-004 pints of blood to the Red Cross. A spokesman said the crown was lifted from the university of Texas which contributed 2,811 pints.

Friend of Birds

VICTORIA, B. C. — (CP) — Thomas Ward, a crippled newsboy who daily feeds pigeons, noticed one bird could no longer pick up food because of a malformed beak. Ward arranged for an operation on the bird and paid its "board" while being treated.

U.S. To Accept Canadian Bacon

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP). — The United States will accept import of treated Canadian hams and bacon though it has banned livestock and animal products because of the prairie outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease, the agriculture department said Friday.

The department said information from the U.S. Bureau of Animal Husbandry was that properly treated Canadian ham and bacon would be accepted if accompanied by a certificate from the meat inspection service of the department of agriculture.

But there are these qualifications:

All bones must have been completely removed in the country of origin; the meat must have been held unfrozen fresh for at least three days immediately following slaughter and the meat must have been "thoroughly cured through the application of dry salt or by soaking in a solution of salt."

Hams and bacon cured by the injection method will not be accepted for importation into the United States.

NEW HOME FOR UN SESSIONS— Members of the United Nations Trusteeship Council open their 10th session at a meeting in the new $11,000,000 conference building in New York. The council's first tasks are the annual accounting for four Pacific territories administered by the UN, and preparations for adoption of a 21-item agenda.

Red Students Organized Club

DETROIT, March 1—(CP)— A former F.B.I. investigator said Friday that Communist students at the University of Michigan, Michigan State College and Wayne University had been banded together into an organization called the "Wayne County Youth Club."

Mrs. Bernice Baldwin—an F.B.I. undercover agent who spent nine years in Detroit Communist circles—told the House Committee on UnAmerican Activities that three Communist "branches" had existed among Wayne students.

A Lansing, Mich., group had included local teachers and two professors from Michigan State college.

She admitted that her information on Communist activity in university circles dated from 1947-48.

The 40 year old grandmother's appearance before the committee was the highlight of the week-long inquiry. In testimony before the Subversive Activities Control Board in Washington she named 26 Detroiters as Communists.

Committee witnesses this week have cited 116 Detroit residents as Reds.

Friday's was the fifth and last of the committee's current sessions. Members said they expect to re-open hearings here March 10.

A MODERN CHURCH featuring well-lighted auditorium and soundproof nursery rooms among its many innovations has been built by the Pentecostal Church on Dublin St. It will be dedicated at a special service Sunday. Pastor of the new church, on which members of the congregation have done so much labor, is the Rev. Fred W. Parlee. In the upper photo, the well-lighted auditorium with its orchestra shell behind the pulpit can be seen and the front of the church with its marquee is shown in the lower photo. — (Examiner Staff Photos).

New Pentecostal Church Fashioned After Style Of Modern Tabernacle

Fashioned after modern tabernacles of the United States, the Pentecostal church on Dublin St. will be officially dedicated Sunday afternoon by the Rev. C. B. Smith, general superintendent of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada.

The church is a definite departure from the conventional style churches, following the modern trend of churches in the United States. It features an illuminated front, an aluminum marquee, a sound-proof nursery, a spacious foyer, recessed lighting and a five-speaker public address system.

Costing close to $110,000, the church will be paid for by the voluntary offering system. Already the congregation has subscribed $7,200 for this year. They hope thatt he full amount will be paid off in 10 years.

The actual value is more than $110,000 for the men of the church contributed hours of work, doing general laboring jobs in the evenings. This work alone has been valued at $15,000.

Sunday School Rally

The opening ceremonies will begin on Sunday morning when there will be a city-wide Sunday school rally at 10 a.m. More than 500 children from the 13 afternoon Bible clubs are expected to hear James Miller, Toronto.

Former pastors at Peterborough will conduct the morning service at 11 a.m. The Rev. W. B. Greenwood of Belleville will be the guest preacher while the Rev. Elmor Morrison of South China will assist the Rev. Fred H. Parlee in celebrating the communion service.

Then at 2:30 p.m. Mr. Smith will dedicate the church, assisted by the Rev. Harry Found, president of the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College and the Rev. Charles Ratz, college principal.

Other speakers will be: the Rev. Charles Boyd, chairman of the Peterborough Ministerial Association; Mayor Hugh Waddell; M. E. Phippen, Christian Business men's Association; the Rev. Ralph Hobson, Youth for Christ; Harold Swanson, Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

The evening service will be conducted by the Rev. W. G. MacFerguson, Evangel Temple, Toronto. He will be opening a week of evangelistic meetings, to be held every day next week at 8 p.m.

Seat 800

The church, constructed by Archie Greenwood, will seat 800 in the church auditorium, 300 in the lower auditorium besides the 19 individual Sunday school classrooms. The public address system is arranged with the five speakers located throughout the church, enabling everyone to hear the speaker.

Unique in Peterborough churches, is the sound-proof nursery, situated at the back of the church auditorium. There the parents with their children may sit, hear the sermon over a loudspeaker, see the minister and not annoy the congregation with the baby's cries.

Also unique in city churches is the illuminated front design. The church entrance at each side is of glass blocks which are brightly lit at night while above the entrance is the aluminum marquee.

The church foyer is probably the largest and most modern of all Peterborough churches. The walls and ceiling are of light birch panelling while the floor is patterned in a sunburst array, with beams directed to the church auditorium entrances.

The main auditorium is rectangular, without arches and beams, a departure from the conventional church style. There is a spacious orchestra well, backed by an illuminated baptistry.

The church also offers off-the-street parking. On the east and south sides of the church, there is parking space for 40 cars.

Fete Bride On Four Occasions

There have been four entertainments recently to honor Miss Mary Martyn for whom the number "four" will have a special significance in coming years for her wedding anniversary will be February 29th, coming only once in every four years. Her marriage to Mr Gerald A. Jones took place quietly on Friday afternoon. Her associates on the staff of the Bank of Toronto surprised her when they gathered at her home and presented a shower of gifts. Miss Margaret Jones, cousin of the groom, entertained at a cup and saucer shower at her home, George St. N. Another surprise shower of gifts was given at the Salvation Army Temple this week, and neighbors of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Martyn of South Monaghan, presented a shower at the community hall.

MISS SYLVIA McWILLIAMS who is graduating today from the famed Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago. She is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy McWilliams, formerly of Peterborough and now of Belleville, and spent her early life, until public school age, in this city. Her uncles, Mr. William and Mr. Jack McWilliams, live in Peterborough and she is granddaughter of the late Thomas McWilliams.

St. Patrick's Day Entertainment Planned By Club

LAKEFIELD, March 1 (ENS)—Plans for an evening of entertainment and fun, followed by the serving of refreshments were made on Tuesday evening when the Missionary and Service Club of the United Church met for their February meeting at the Manse. This event will be held on March 17th and will carry many of the traditions of Old Ireland. The general plan for the evept was presented by Mrs. Douglas Davis of Group A of the Ways and Means committee. It was decided to charge 25c admission and each member will also bring a fancy cup and saucer to be donated to the church.

A second member of the ways and means committee, Miss Merle Crawford, recommended the giving out of "Talent Money" again this year and that a visiting committee be appointed to visit the sick, aged and newcomers to the village. Both recommendations received the full approval of the Club. The talent money will be given out at the next meeting. Following up the recommendation for a visiting committee, the village was divided into four divisions and the following committees were appointed: district No. 1, Miss Merle Crawford, Mrs. J. R. Hull, Mrs. Clare Chittick and Mrs. G. E. Renwick; district No. 2, Mrs. W. H. Fife, Mrs. Theo Down and Mrs. C. Payne; district No. 3, Mrs. George Carey, Mrs. Wilbert Frankish, Mrs. T. Payton and Mrs. S. E. Richardson; district No. 4, Mrs. C. H. Hunter, Mrs. J. L. Fraser, Mrs. J. O. Huddart and Mrs. S. A. Grylls.

The president, Mrs. W. H. Fife presided for the business period. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Robert McCracken and the treasurer's report, showing a bank balance of $253. Mrs. Fife spoke briefly on the new Training School for Leaders of the United Church of Canada to be built in Toronto. Cost of the building will be $600,000 and of this amount Lakefield United Church is asked to contribute $500. Mrs. J. R. Hull was appointed as representative from the club to meet with representatives of the other societies regarding this matter.

Miss Irene Madill was in charge of the worship service and gave the Bible lesson. The scripture was read responsively and Mrs. G. Carey led in prayer.

The new study book, "From Lakes to Northern Lights" was capably introduced by Mrs. Alex Graham, Mrs. S. Henderson and Miss Madill.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. W. H. Tonge, assisted by Mrs. John Bell, Mrs. Stanley Hart and Mrs. Sidney Whiting.

Day Of Prayer At Bridgenorth

The annual World's Day of Prayer was held in the Bridgenorth United Church. Bridgenorth, Selwyn, Fairview United Churches and Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church ladies were represented. Mrs. Ralph Scott, presided.

Gilmour ladies took the parts of adoration and intercession led by Mrs. Ralph Scott. Selwyn ladies took penitence led by Mrs. Chalmer Sweeting. Fairview took the assurance section led by Mrs. Wesley Bell. Dedication section was taken by Bridgenorth and led by Mrs. Albert Nicholls. Mrs. J. Gordon Mann, Mrs. W. D. Wilson, Mrs. Clifford McIlmoyl, Miss Olive Sidey and Rev. D. P. Morris led in prayer.

Rev. Morris delivered the address. A pleasing interlude was a solo sung by Mrs. Gordon Roy of Bridgenorth. Mrs. Clayton Telford presided at the piano. Rev. Morris pronounced the benediction. All ladies went down to the basement and enjoyed a lovely lunch and social hour together.

Mary Trotter Becomes Bride Brothers-In-Law Officiate

Lighted candlebra and spring flowers formed the setting in Christ Church, Bobcaygeon, today, March 1st, for the wedding of Mary Margaret Trotter, daughter of Mrs. Trotter and the late Mr. B. W. Trotter, of Peterborough, to Mr. Alvin Miller Blackmore, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blackmore of Cookstown.

The Rev. G. J. Ball, rector, assisted by the Rev. W. B. Day, both brothers-in-law of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Miss Olive Aylesbury presided at the organ and Mr. John H. Trotter, of Kingston, brother of the bride, was soloist. Before the ceremony, he sang "The Lord's Prayer" (Malotte) and during the signing of the register sang "I Love Thee" (Greig).

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. George Peacock of Bellevue, Ohio, and wore a gown of bridal pink slipper satin and Chantilly lace. The lace bodice was fashioned with a Peter Pan collar and long sleeves coming to points over the hands. The full skirt of satin formed a train and a large bustle bow completed the gown. Her finger-tip veil of pink tulle was edged with seed pearls and held in place with a braided halo of satin. She carried a white Bible showered with white tufted carnations, stephanotis and satin streamers.

Miss Joyce Trotter, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a gown of turquoise taffeta fashioned with bouffant skirt and draped overskirt. Her halo was of matching taffeta and she carried a muff showered with pink carnations and ribbons. Little Sharon Ruth Ball, niece of the bride, was flower-girl. She wore a floor length gown of pale yellow taffeta, matching bonnet and mittens and carried a colonial nosegay.

Mr. Ross Davis of Toronto attended the groom and the ushers were Frederick B. Trotter, brother of the bride, and Charles Benson of Toronto.

A reception was held in the Parish Hall where the bride's mother received wearing a dress of navy faconne crepe over satin. Her hat was of navy straw and she wore a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother also received wearing a dress of navy crepe, navy hat and corsage of pink roses.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to New York City. For travelling, the bride wore a dress of mid-blue transparent velvet, finger-tip length coat of black seal and pink straw hat. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Guests were present from Peterborough, Marmora, Bellevue, Ohio, Toronto, Woodstock, Cookstown, Alliston, Barrie.

This date March 1st, also marks the wedding anniversary of the groom's parents.

O.E.S. Leap Year Dance

About 320 guests had a delightful evening Friday at the Leap Year dance of the Peterborough Chapter of Order of the Eastern Star. Setting was the Brock Ballroom where an emblematic star with three golden rays to the letters "O. E. S." of glittering silver was the feature decoration, and cabaret tables were centred with blue and silver stars.

Worthy Mafron of the local Chapter Mrs. S. M. Ward and Worthy Patron Mr. Orville Kidd were on hand to extend a welcome assisted by Mr. Ward and Mrs. Kidd, and by Mayor Hugh Waddell and Mrs. Waddell.

The guest register was attended by Miss Evelyn Bailey and Miss Lottie Legon and favors were given to the ladies by Mrs. G. Northey, Mrs. E. Johnston, and Mrs. Lovey M. Bennett. Miss Cora Bailey was selling tickets and they were taken at the door by Mr. Alfred Newton.

Decorations were the work of Mrs. R. Hutton, Miss Evelyn Bailey and Mrs. P. D. Windrim.

Conveners of the dance were: Mrs. P. D. Windrim and Mrs. A. Knott.

Havelock Ladies Meet For Prayer

HAVELOCK, March 1 (ENS)—The World's Day of Prayer service was observed in Havelock United Church on Friday afternoon when a good attendance of women from the various churches of the village formed a part of the circle in which women of 104 countries united in services of praise, penitence and dedication from dawn on the Fiji Islands to dusk on the Arctic Island of St. Lawrence.

"Christ Our Hope" was the theme of the service, which was opened by Mrs. R. G. Newman, president of the W.M.S. of the United Church, with a call to prayer and worship and led the portion of the program under the heading of "Adoration". Mrs. R. D. Duncanson led the portions "Penitence" and "Assurance", Mrs. H. W. Roche, president of St. John's Anglican W.A. led the "Intercession" and "Dedication" periods when prayers were offered by Mesdames F. McKay, W. Woodbeck, Ralph Bullock, Mrs. D. Kirk and Mrs. M. Esler.

The address was given by Mrs. H. E. Peasgood who took as a basis for her remarks the text "Ye shall be witnesses unto Me, both in Jerusalem and in Judea and in Samaria and unto the uttermost part of the earth". What do we see she asked when we survey the wondrous cross? Do we see Christ who died for you and me or have we the wider vision of the Savior of the world? Mrs. Peasgood stressed the need of witnessing in the home, the influence that should be exerted on a child at the crucial age from three to seven years, the imporance of influencing children to take a stand for Christ and assume responsibility in the Church. The great need for men and women in the work of the Church especially the Sunday School was also stressed. Mrs. Peasgood also spoke of the task of placing proper literature in the hands of millions of adults who are being taught to read and told how the offerings from the World's Day of Prayer services are used.

Mrs. Austin Wilde and Mrs. G. Whitney received the offering which was dedicated by Mrs. R. G. Newman who following a minute of silent prayer, for the sick, shut-ins and those in trouble, in the community offered a prayer in their behalf. Mrs. W. Goadsby was the soloist with Mrs. D. Kirk as accompanist. Mrs. Harry Watson was the pianist for the service. The benediction was pronounced by Mrs. Newman.

Fashion Tips

Straw handbags and white flowers will be early spring fashions.

Little white pill boxes and tiny bonnet type hats of flowers are mid-winter headliners.

For women who like to wear their tartans in the summer, they are now to be had in organdy—and very smart.

A bunch of violets tucked in the neck of a dress or coat is as springlike as the first pussywillow.

New Yorkers like quilted skirts for their square dancing, which is sweeping the country.

Ask for, and insist on, shrink-proof and wrinkle-proof materials when buying. They are to be had, so do not be satisfied with an "I think so," from the sales clerk.

Jones-Martyn Rites Feb. 29

A Leap Year Day wedding was solemnized Friday afternoon at five o'clock in the Salvation Army Quarters by Capt. Douglas Sharp, when Mary Constance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Martyn of South Monaghan, became the bride of Mr. Gerald Albert Jones, the son of Mrs. Edith Jones of Peterborough.

The bride was wearing a brown pic and pic suit with accessories in maple shade and her corsage was of Talisman roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Carol Martyn, who wore a brown suit and matching accesories and had a corsage of pink roses.

The groom's attendant was his cuosin, Mr. Reginald Jones.

A reception was held at Hooper's Palm Room. The bride's mother was receiving, dressed in navy with blue accessories. The groom's mother, similarly attired, was assisting.

After a short wedding trip the couple will live at 139 River Rd. N.

In four years they will observe their first wedding anniversary.

WATCHING THE BIRDS FEEDING from the window is something that every small boy and girl delights in during the winter. Food put out in specially prepared places, near the window or even on the sill, will draw many of the feathered creatures who spend their winters in Ontario.

Marmora Ladies Meet For Prayer

MARMORA, March 1 (ENS) — St. Andrew's United Church was the venue for the World Day of Prayer in which women of St. Paul's Anglican, St. Andrew's United and Marmora Free Methodist churches took part. The service was according to the printed program. The call to worship was given by Mrs. G. D. Young. Mrs. E. Hewitt led in adoration. The leader of the Penitence section was Mrs. Stewart Hardy. Assurance was led by Mrs. R. Frost, Mrs. Russell Wells led in intercession assisted by Mesdames R. J. Appleton, R. G. Winters, R. Walker, C. Tupper and S. Bache.

Mrs. E. C. Prentice led in the dedicatory section. A brief address was given by Mrs. J. M. Brownlie.

A solo was sung by Mrs. R. Long accompanied on the organ by Mrs. H. C. Barlow who was organist for the service. The offering was taken by Mesdames W. J. Park and T. Pearce. The benediction was pronounced by Mrs. G. D. Young. The service was well attended.

Household Hints

A Few Do's . . .

Use your sterling silver every day.

Rotate the use of pieces, so each gets equal use and care.

Wash promptly after using—in hot, soapy water.

Use a mild soap for washing—liquid, cake, chip or powder.

Rinse thoroughly in fairly-hot, clean water.

Dry each piece carefully, while it is still warm.

Polish your silver periodically.

Keep your silver in a clean, dry place.

And Dont's . . .

Don't store silver away for just special occasions.

Don't put silver away while it is still warm.

Don't stack your soiled silverware for postponed washing.

Don't clean decorated patterns in a salt and soda bath.

Don't worry about fine scratching.

Don't store sterling silver in flannel cloth for extended periods of time.

Don't use a rubber band to close a flannel cloth containing silver—rubber causes rapid tarnishing.

FEAR DEPRESSION

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) —A special committee warned Friday of a danger of "economic depression" in Detroit if civilian production continues to be cut faster than defence work comes in. It said Detroit will get about $500,000,000 worth of defence contracts in the first five months of 1952, but that more is needed to combat unemployment.

FOR PARENTS ONLY

Hunger And Not Cold Kills Birds During The Winter

By NANCY CLEAVER

"The first pet I can remember was a blue jay." Jack Miner writes in his fascinating autobiography "Jack Miner and the Birds." He was eager to keep his pet alive but unfortunately he didn't follow the right diet. Although he stuffed him with fish worms, Jack Miner admitted that "The next morning the blue was there, but the jay was silent."

Countless boys and girls have tried to make a pet of a wild bird but most of them have had more success with feeding the grown birds and leaving the care of the fledglings to their parents.

Throughout the spring and summer when they sing in the early mornings with such abandon, in the autumn when many of them gather in flocks to migrate to the South, birds are a never-ceasing source of interest.

"I'm glad to feed the birds in the winter time," one bird watcher said enthusiastically, "They give me so much happiness that I am just repaying a little of the debt I owe to them."

It is true that birds have existed without much help from man. Some species such as the whooping crane have become almost extinct because of the ruthless killing by hunters. But during the long winter months in a climate like ours, especially after a heavy snowfall or an ice storm which forms a glazed covering on the trees and the ground, birds are often kept alive by providing food for them. It is hunger and not cold which kills many of our songsters.

On snowy days birds search for weed seeds and bushes with berries. A sunflower head, a few rows of wheat or stalks of corn with cobs are real treasure to the hungry feathered folk.

There are quite a number of people who throw a few crumbs on the ground after a snow or ice storm. But if this is only a spasmodic gesture, the birds cannot depend on the food supply. Feeding the birds faithfully is a rewarding leisure-time family project.

A wooden plank fastened firmly to form an extended windowledge shelf is often used. Additional boards can be placed to form a shelter at one end from the prevailing winds, and a slanting roof erected to keep the snow off the food. A branch or two of pine or spruce in front of the shelf also provides some shelter. The birds like to light on a limb before eating. A thin glass curtains prevents the birds flying away in alarm when someone comes to the window to watch.

Sometimes a square feeding box with glass on three sides (so that the birds have shelter from the wind and can also be observed) is swung by stout wires from a sturdy branch of a tree. This can also be placed on a wooden post. A deep metal band on the trunk of the tree or around the post will discourage cats. This can be shaped in the form of a funnel with the edge slanting downwards.

Avoid metal trays or dishes if you want to feed birds in zero weather. Sometimes the poor birds' wet feet will freeze to the [illegible] as he struggles to remove the suet.

Keep the feeding place as rustic as possible. Shy birds are wary of brightly painted wood. Nuthatches, woodpeckers and chickadees are all glad to work hard to obtain the suet rubbed on the rough bark of a tree. Holes can be bored in a stump with a bark on it and these filled with melted grease.

An empty dried half of a grapefruit skin makes a handy container for melted grease. A food hopper can be constructed by punching holes along the upper edge of an open can, filling it with corn or rye or oats, and then inverting over a large wooden dish. This can be arranged so that the food will gradually drop down and flow out of the holes. All kinds of scraps of food from the kitchen—crumbs, bits of cereal or fruits such as apple cores, bits of dried meat, nuts and scrapings of peanut butter are quickly consumed.

Birds like drinking water in the winter. It quickly freezes and so it is well to put warm water out in a wooden bowl.

In the summer time the birds can forage for food. But a little food and water supplied regularly at the feeding station attracts the feathered folk. The parent birds will sometimes be observed showing their young one their feeding place in the midsummer.

In the warmer months, a bucket or pail with a small hole in the bottom, filled with water and suspended over a large shallow dish such as the cover for a big garbage can attracts the birds. Place gravel in the dish and watch how this running water acts as a magnet!

The Canadian National Parks Branch, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, has a useful pamphlet available on request on "Attracting Birds with Food and Water." On the New Book Shelf in the Public Library look for Leon A. Hausman's "Beginners' Guide to Attracting Birds." Purchase an inexpensive book such as the "Golden Nature Guide" by Zim and Gabrielson (Simon and Schuster). Buy or borrow P. A. Taverner's "Birds of Canada" or R. T. Peterson's "Field Guide to the Birds" so that you will know the names of the feathered friends who enjoy your food and water.

DOROTHY DIX

Pretty, Self-Centred Girl Can Upset Life Of Family

DEAR MISS DIX: I have two daughters, one finishing college and the other high school. The older girl is pretty and knows it, so she expects everyone to cater to her good looks and selfish disposition. Result: She hasn't any friends, either boys or girls, but doesn't blame it on herself — she manages to find another reason. Her attitude is that everyone is stupid but herself.

While the younger girl is not very pretty, she makes the most of her looks by being neat and clean and has a happy-go-lucky nature. She speaks to young and old with a smile and has lots of friends, especially boys, which makes her sister jealous. My husband and I have stopped inviting our friends and relatives because we are ashamed of our older girl's manners. She is rude to everyone who comes in, lounges in a housecoat most of the time. I am tired of making excuses and seeing the raised eyebrows of our guests. She is only 20 and is scared she'll be an old maid; frankly, so am I, unless she changes her disposition. She is making life miserable for everyone in the house.

MRS. W. G.

ANSWER: It is certainly a waste of nature's good gifts when an attractive girl throws away her endowments. It is, however, a consolation to the Plain Janes that beauty isn't everything; in fact, is nothing whatever unless accompanied by charm and graciousness. Your younger daughter has learned the secret of happiness and will be forever blessed for the knowledge.

Make Her Behave

You and your husband are very wrong in letting the haughty miss ruin the family's peace and harmony. Since she is living under the parental roof, is attending college at her father's expense, and is dependent upon him for her clothes and spending money, he is the one to crack the whip—not your daughter. You have apparently let the reins of authority slip from your hands into your daughter's. Better get them back—and quickly! If she cannot face your guests with a smile, make her stay in her own room for the evening and reduce the allowance until she can act like an intelligent girl of 20. It isn't too late yet for you to exercise a little discipline, but time's a-wasting, so don't put it off too long.

Disillusion your girl about her mental capacity. She is being so stupid that she's probably the laughing stock of half the folks in town. Bring that interesting fact home to her! Bad manners are as certain a sign of ignorance as I know, and all the college degrees in the world won't remove the stigma. Being smart takes more than the ability to pass exams and get a diploma the ability to get along with people is the surest mark of intelligence. What she does with her life will be her own business, but you must insist that she stop running and ruining the entire household. This much you, as the mother, owe your husband and younger daughter. Keeping harmony in the home is your job; if you can't handle it, call upon father's disciplinary measures, but whatever form the authority must take, see that it is exercised.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 13 years old, 4 feet 10 inches tall, and would like to get taller. My big sister says I will stay small like her. She is 20 years old and 4 feet 11 inches. What should I do to get taller?

TESSIE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: My, my, my, you're a lucky girl, Tessie, and don't realize it. The petite miss is always the envy of her larger, more robust friends. It is easier for a small girl to buy—or make—her clothes; she can wear a much greater variety of clothing than a tall girl. Besides, there is absolutely nothing you can do to increase your height, so better be content with your blessings. I'm sure your sister will point out many advantages she enjoys as a junior miss.

DEAR MISS DIX: Should or shouldn't a girl telephone a boy for a friendly conversation without a good reason? Is 13 too young for two or three couples to go to the movies?

MARIE AND CLAIRE.

ANSWER: Few prerogatives are left the male in this topsy-turvy world, but the privilege of telephoning is still primarily his. A girl does not call a boy for purely conversational reasons: if she has a reasonable excuse to phone him—extending an invitation, for instance—she may properly do so. Otherwise, no!

The question of 13-year-olds dating is one that should be settled by parents. It's rather a young age for going to the movies in couples, but if your parents know and approve of the boys and an early curfew is set, it would be permissible.

Paris Styles No Challenge London Writers Claim

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON — (CP) — We've seen it all before.

This was the unexpected reaction of British fashion writers attending Paris spring shows, after previously viewing the London collections.

This season, London had anticipated every Paris couture line of any importance, thereby knocking at least one hole in the old belief that Britain cannot compete with Paris in production of "new" lines.

London designers can also boast that the "masher" suit by Lachasse, its unwasted jacket half-belted low at the back, previewed the Fath-Dior agreement on hip-length waistlines.

Independently, the two masters of Paris houte couture showed around 600 dresses with the waist-around-the-hips look. Dior showed a low waistline emphasized by a cuff, belt or band, above a long straight skirt. London designers gave the same hip emphasis above full skirts.

Another similarity was the "breadth without thickness" look shown in London by Digby Morton and in Paris by Desses. Colors and materials also followed a general trend. In London, colors were dark gun-metal greys, all-black, all-white and pinky beiges. Paris followed suit and also favored the London use of silk tweeds, silk straw, Paisley-patterned silks, cloudy prints, donegal tweed and shantung.

London Has It

British women who want a Dior touch to their spring wardrobe can get it right in London. They can buy a gun-meal grey dress and combine it with the straw or moss green velvet hat. Dark wool coats with contrasting lining of polka dot or print silks that match a summer dress, are also procurable on the home market. And it's easy to find a brilliant silk coat to wear over a plain summer frock.

In fact, British buyers who usually pay thousands of pounds for reproduction rights on French styles have this year been holding back, says Audrey Whiting of the London Daily Mirror. For the first time, she adds, they have told French designers: "Women in Britain prefer the simplicity of British designs."

Certainly the unpinched, unpadded waistline favored this year by a majority of the Paris style dictators, cannot challenge the exquisite English tailoring of suits and coats by Norman Hartnell, Lachasse and others of London's Big Ten that favor classic styles with tiny waists and curved hiplines.

Millbrook News

Throughout Lent prayer meetings are being held each Wednesday evening by members of St. Andrew's United church in the various homes. The village is divided into two groups with the Rev. A. M. Butler conducting the services in the west end and the Rev. Margaret Butler in the east. On Wednesday the groups met at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Bentley and Mrs. John McKnight. Next week they will be held at Mr. and Mrs. A. R Payne's and Mr. and Mrs. J. H.Barringer's homes.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harrington visited her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Conover in Toronto, returning home on Thursday. While in Toronto Mr. Harrington attended the hydro convention. Dr. J. W. Wright, the reeve, was also in attendance.

Orange Corners

The social club held a very successful euchre party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Windrem. Eleven tables of progressive euchre were played. Mrs. Harry Jackson and Mr. Walter Magee had high scores.

The ladies' guild held a social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCall on Monday evening. Bingo and euchre were played, followed with a program. The proceeds of the evening were donated to the missions.

Mrs. Orville Fields, Port Hope, was a weekend visitor with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Magee.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Windrem, Peterborough, visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. B. McConnell.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Sullivan, Peterborough, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. Crowe.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Foster attended the Rodgers-Morley wedding in St. George's Church, Peterborough, on Saturday.

What's Right?

A young man you have recently started dating asks you for your photograph.

WRONG: Write some phrase of endearment on it.

RIGHT: Don't advertise your affection to all who see the picture by writing anything personal on it.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION: The paper is sent to me daily by my father although I have been away for a period of years.

I would like to tell you how much I enjoy your column, in fact it is practically the first item I look for. I do think your recipes are splendid and so helpful. I would greatly appreciate it if you would send me a recipe for oatmeal cookies. I have made several kinds but I find they are all very sweet. Perhaps it is more like the old-fashioned oatmeal cookies, not the crisp kind. It would also be grateful . . . for a real good date and nut loaf recipe. . . Dorothy mentioned to me that you had been one of her guests last summer.

Irene B.

ANSWER: Small world isn't it? Full of nice people too. I loved being Dorothy's guest too and will never forget her beautifully laid table.

Old-Fashioned Oatmeal Cookies

One cup fine oatmeal, 1 cup coarse rolled oats, 2 cups flour, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon soda, ¼ cup lard or good shortening, ½ cup hot water. Mix first six ingredients. Melt shortening in water and add to first mixture. Roll out as thinly as possible on lightly floured board—1/16 inch thick is not a bit too thin for these wafers. Shape with floured cutter or cut into strips as some Scottish cooks do. Bake on buttered sheet at 325 deg. Fahr. to bake and dry out but not brown. These should be biscuit-coloured.

Oatmeal Cookies No. 2

One egg, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ cup thin cream, ¼ cup milk, ½ cup fine oatmeal, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt. Beat eggs until light, add sugar, cream and milk; then add oatmeal, flour, baking powder and salt, mixed and sifted. Roll out on floured board, cut into desired shapes and bake at 350 deg. Fahr.

Date and Nut Bread

One-half cup coarsely broken walnuts (or pecans), 1½ cups of stoned chopped dates, 1 teaspoon each baking soda, salt, baking powder and vanilla, 1⅛ cups boiling water, 2-3 cup brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon butter, 1¾ cups flour. Add soda and boiling water to cut up dates and stir. Let stand covered while you proceed. Cream butter into sugar then beat in egg and vanilla. Sift the flour with the salt and baking powder. Stir the date mixture into the sugar mixture, then sprinkle flour mixture over and stir in. Stir in nuts. Pour into greased loaf pan—I like to line mine with buttered paper—and bake 1¼ hours in slow oven of 275 deg. Fahr.

Question: Three years ago I wrote for help with a dieting problem, also the calorie chart. Both chart and suggestions helped as I lost over 40 lbs. However I am gaining weight again. Will you please send me another calorie chart? A friend from "South of the Border" begged mine, as she said she could not find one equal to it—I agree with her.

I have been using a reducing mayonnaise made with mineral oil—1 cup mineral oil, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 2 egg yolks, ½ teaspoon each salt and paprika, 2 teaspoons mustard, which my doctor recommended.

Now a nurse tells me it is not wise to use it, as mineral oil interferes with the digestive process, preventing vitamins being absorbed into the system. Is this correct?

Is finnan haddie (smoked) high in calorie value? Have you any idea how many calories there are in a teaspoon of —— or other such coffee substitute? I have been using skim milk in tea, and am told tea should be always taken clear, and milk taken alone, on reducing diets. Why is that? From what fish is chicken haddie produced and what is its calorie value.

This is a lot to ask . . . but you never seem to mind helping . . . my family does not care for liver but pronounced your recipe for liver sauce with spaghetti excellent (popular savory liver)—and asked for more.—Frances R.

ANSWER: I was glad to hear you had heard Mrs. Bates speak. Anyone who knows her or who has heard her speak has had an enriching experience.

I'll answer your questions in order: (1) I have heard what your nurse friend said about mineral mayonnaise. I do not think your doctor expects you to use it every day. My advice to reducers is to limit themselves to 1 teaspoon vegetable-oil mayonnaise per day and then use such pleasant moisteners as cottage cheese, and skim-milk-cheese boiled dressing with their salads. Skim-milk-cheese salad dressing is merely boiled dressing with ½ to ¾ cup skim milk cheese added while it is hot. (2) Judge for yourself about the haddock: Fried fresh haddock measuring 3 x 2 x ¾ inches has 100 calories; creamed finnan haddie measuring 2-3 cup has 255. (3) No, I do not know calorie count of the instant coffee you mention. It is so infinitismal it is not worth worrying about. I will not contradict your adviser, but always advise using skim milk in tea where reducer is a tea drinker. Drink 1 pint milk (skim) besides this. Chicken haddie is young haddock, canned; 3½ oz., 71 calories.

6—In Memoriam

HOLMES — In loving memory of Martha Clark, beloved wife of Albert Holmes, who died February 23, 1919.
She suffered patiently and long.
Her hope was great, her faith strong.
The love of Jesus filled her breast
And in His arms she sank to rest.
—A better wife and mother God never made. Ever remembered by Dad, and daughters.

LEHMAN—In loving memory of a dear niece, Marie James Lehman, who passed away four years ago March 2.
Tonight the stars are gleaming
On a lonely silent grave,
Where sleeps in dreamless slumber
One we loved but could not save.
May heaven's wind blow softly
O'er that sweet and hallowed spot,
Where one we loved lies sleeping
Never to be forgot.
—Ever remembered by her aunt, Mrs. Wilson, Adaline St.

READER—In loving memory of Kenneth Reader, who passed away March 1st, 1944.
Eight years have passed since that sad day
When one we loved was called away.
God took him home—it was His will;
Within our hearts he liveth still.
—Always remembered by Mother and Dad, sisters and brother.

WILSON—In loving memory of Percy Wilson of Norwood, who passed away a year ago, March 2, 1951.
Gone dear brother, gone to rest.
Away from sorrow, care and pain,
May you rest in peace, dear brother,
Until we meet again.
—Lovingly remembered by his sister, Mrs. Allan McGee.

Farmers Union Mutual Re-elects Fred Eason

The Fifty-Sixth annual meeting of the Farmers' Union Mutual Fire Insurance Company was held in the town hall Lindsay. President, F. A. Eason reviewed the affairs of the company and reported increase in assets, and insurance written. Profits earned warranted payment of refund from surplus No. 5 in the amount of $30,185.56 which will be paid by cheque in the course of the next few months.

Officers and directors elected were—President, F. A. Eason, Keene, vice-president, Mr. J. C. Cummiskey, Bethany; executive committee: president vice-president and director, J. J. Robertson, Dunford; directors re-elected: F. A. Eason, J. C. Cummiskey, L. R. Webster, Little Britain, Wm. D. Weir, Omemee, James C. Butler, Lorneville.

Local Farmers

ty council last June asked F. D. Kerr, Q.C., then county solicitor, to compile a history of the market. Mr. Kerr has completed a brief on the history of the market property, now being used as a parking lot which dates from 1832, said Mr. Stewart.

"We want to make sure the market is going to stay," said Harold Doig, who asked for a vote of confidence as a committee member. Mr. Doig termed himself a "huckster," and said there appeared to be some feeling that the organization should be composed entirely of growers marketing their own produce. He was given a unanimous vote of confidence by the meeting and assured by several committee members that they were glad to have him on the committee.

"The council claims we don't know what we want, so they don't know what to give us," was how Sid Boyles summed up the situation in regard to getting the present site decided upon as a permanent market and getting a suitable building erected.

Friendly Hearing

"The city has even gone so far as to get an estimate on the cost of building a cement block building with a timber-ribbed roof," said Mr. Doig who added that he was sure the committee would receive a friendly hearing from the city council.

Reeve Jim Gifford of Ennismore warned the committee that it should "get busy right away, if it wanted to keep the market where it is. The passage of the private bill in the legislature in 1947 when the city took over the property should have been opposed," said Mr. Gifford. "We have lost our main bargaining power. The county is already committed to do all it can to help sponsor a market organization."

The meeting adjourned until the committee has a chance to ocmplete its preliminary work and report on its findings.

Waverley Quits Over Abuse On Tax Post

LONDON, March 1 (Reuters)—Lord Waverley, former Chancellor of the Exchequer recently appointed to head a tax investigation, resigned Friday night in protest against Socialist charges that he is prejudiced.

He told Prime Minister Churchill he is resigning as chairman of the Royal Commission on Taxation because Labor Party leaders had said he is a right-winger and lacks impartiality.

The commission is investigating ways and means of taxing profits and income.

Waverley said in his letter to Churchill that the Socialist attacks were "wholly unjustified personal aspersions."

Waverley, who was Sir John Anderson until he was made a peer last month, was Exchequer Chancellor from 1943 to 1945. He was also Home Secretary, Lord Privy Seal and Lord President of the Council.

Socialist leaders started a storm of protest when his new appointment was announced by Churchill Tuesday. Labor spokesmen said the chairman of the commission should be a man of acknowledged impartiality and without a political background.

Lack Of Funds

$20,000. Early last year, a joint meeting of the Seymour and Campbellford councils, and the hospital board was held, and the board asked at that time for an additional grant of $20,000 from the Campbellford council and for an additional $10,000 from the Seymour council. Campbellford has since paid the $20,000 grant, bringing their total contribution to $60,000, but the $10,000 from Seymour is yet to come.

The heating system has been installed in the building and uses fuel oil.

The board has been criticized a number of times and probably the most prominent criticism is the apparently slow progress of the construction. Most of the work however, cannot be seen from outside. The building looks complete, but the amount of work inside is tremendous. Most of this has been completed, although most people do not realize this as only a handful of citizens of the district have ever set foot in the new building.

Too Large?

Another criticism is that the board took on a building larger than was necessary for the district. To this criticism, Mr. Meyers answers by saying the hospital was not built with a view of serving only the town of Campbellford. It will serve an area having a radius of about 15 miles around the town, and the estimated population of this area is 15,000.

The Department of Health recommends that a hospital serving this great an area should have at least 75 beds. The Campbellford Memorial Hospital will have 38 beds, which will certainly not be too many.

The basement of the building is at present piled high with plumbing fixtures, ready to install when the money is available. These are all paid for. There are four complete bathrooms and showers in the building, a total of 28 toilets will be installed, as well as a complete modern nursery with accommodation for 15 or 16 babies. The operating room will be completely equipped, and an X-ray department, with lead-lined walls, film storage space and complete darkroom facilities with up-to-the-minute equipment will be installed.

Nurses' stations are located in each of the three wings on the main floor. A laundry chute on the main floor is connected with the sterilizing room in the basement, and clothes dropped into the chute on the main floor will be whisked to the basement, washed, sterilized and partially dried within minutes of the time they are tossed into the chute on the main floor.

Great Need

When the hospital was first planned, Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Welfare in the Ontario Cabinet, said:

"At the present time, there is indeed a very great need for a modern, moderate-sized hospital in Campbellford. The citizens of the district now cannot obtain a service of this type without travelling considerable distances with the attendant dangers, suffering and inconvenience.

"We should not lose sight of the probability that although we are now enjoying good health, there are few families that will not eventually have need of the services that can be rendered by the proposed hospital. Let us make this area a better and a safer one in which to live, by giving freely to the construction and equipping of this modern hospital."

The cornerstone for the new building was laid in October, 1948, by the late Hon. Russell T. Kelly, minister of health at that time.

Mr. Meyers says he is repeatedly asked the question: "Will the hospital pay when it is finished?" He answers this by saying: "Hospitals are in the same class as schools, churches, community halls and sports arenas. These are all built to serve the citizens of a community, to serve the citizens of all ages and all denominations. They are not built to operate at a profit."

The bronze memorial tablets in the entrance hall will be installed at considerable expense, by the local branch of the Canadian Legion.

The building of the Memorial Hospital is a task dear to the heart of Mr. Meyers, chairman of the board. He told The Examiner, "The building and equipping of hospitals is one of the greatest of all humantiarian and charitable works which the citizens of a community undertake. In our progress towards better things, we are convinced that there is a great need for a modern hospital. We are putting our best efforts into this task, which is now well on its way to completion.

"The hospital will be the gift of our generation to our sons and daughters, to our grandchildren and great-grandchildren. This will be their heritage from us. Let us therefore make it worthy of our generation, so that those generation who will follow down through the future years will rise up and say of us, 'They did their part—their work was well done'. No greater praise than this can be given to any generation."

Rules Member Justified In Firing Rifle In Riot

MONTREAL, March 1 (CP)—Court of Appeal ruled Friday that Arthur St. Pierre, member of a beleaguered Social Credit election meeting in 1948, was justified in firing a rifle from the window over the heads of a crowd of "rioters."

The incident occurred at nearby Varennes during the political meeting April 26, 1948.

St. Pierre was first charged with seriously wounding Jean-Paul Boisseau. The charge was dismissed and Boisseau took a damage action in superior court and was granted $615. The appeal court now has set aside the damage judgment.

Mr. Justice Bernard Bissonette, who gave the appeal court's judgment, recalled that 200 rioters had gathered about a dwelling armed with eggs, stones and other missiles which they hurled at the building. Inside were some 20 persons listening to a political address.

His Lordship said St. Pierre had no intention of shooting anyone, but fired only to warn the attackers and that apparently a bullet had ricocheted and struck Boisseau. His Lordship considered the defenders were seriously alarmed and were justified in defending themselves.

Jail Perfect Wife 5 Years For Murder

VERSAILLES, France, March 1 —(AP)—Mrs. Amelie Rabilloud, described by neighbors as "a perfect wife", Friday was sentenced to five years imprisonment for murdering her husband and cutting his body into 67 pieces.

She tossed a parcel containing his head over a wall into a park, where it was fond by a stroller. Later, 29 other parcels containing various parts of his body were recovered.

Mrs. Rabilloud claimed that her husband, Georges Rabilloud had treated her brutally, applying strict military discipline in the home and keeping the family's food provisions under lock and key.

Opens New Centre

TAMWORTH, Ont., March 1—(CP)—Premier Frost Friday night opened the new Sheffield community centre built almost entirely by voluntary labor last year. The arena, which will seat 2,500 persons, cost $30,000. Tamworth is 30 miles northwest of Kingston.

Art Gallery Uses Pans In Rainstorm

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—The National Gallery of Art uses big pans to catch water that drips through the roof during hard snowstorms. Harry A. McBride, gallery administrative officer said so Friday in asking money from Congress to fix a skylight in the gallery, which houses some of the world's greatest masterpieces. The pans are placed directly beneath the skylight—out of sight of visitors.

Cuts Loaf Of Bread Finds Sparrow

LONDON, March 1 — (AP) — Mrs. Florence Sparrow of London's Twickenham District sliced into a loaf of bread—and found a sparrow.

The circumstances were related in a court Friday and a co-operative society which runs a bakery was fined £25 for selling food unfit for human consumption.

A bakery spokesman figured the sparrow must have flown in through a hole in the roof of the bakery.

Welsh-Born Members Filled With Pride

TORONTO, March 1 (CP). — The only two Welsh-born members of the Ontario Legislature were filled with pride Friday.

The Rev. M. C. Davies, speaker of the House, and T. D. Thomas (C.C.F.-Ontario) looked fondly on a giant basket of daffodils standing beside the speaker's throne.

St. David's Day—the Welsh national holiday—isn't until today but the House doesn't sit today and the Welsh players of Toronto sent the flowers Friday. Daffodils and leeks are both considered to be the Welsh national emblem.

"We are of course, very proud of the land of our birth," Mr. Thomas said. "But we are also proud of being Canadians."

Western Oils Climb, Optimism Felt

By DICK BAIDEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The lure of quick gains and long term investment profits saved Toronto western oil stocks from the lethargy of a slowly declining stock market this week as strong speculative and investment support buoyed most issues.

As the only group to buck a sinking market—the Exchange's index climbed about nine points since Jan. 2—western oils reflect the guarded optimism of some professional observers. Industrials, which have dipped about 15 points during the same period, however, pose a severe challenge.

Inflation—decrease or increase—traders say, is the crux of the matter. Investors who think inflation has about run its course are plumping for a lower market. Opposing this view are investors who contend that, technically, there has been no indication of a major break in the long bull market. If inflation is about over, they say, we'll wait and see what happens.

Some support for the pessimistic outlook lies in an early survey of company reports. Most earning have been below expectations. That investors are treating the market gingerly is shown by gradually decreasing daily turnovers, particularly in industrial issues.

Stiff Resistance

Golds have shown stiff resistance to downward pressure and have thereby attracted growing interest. Many professionals consider golds undervalued and claim they present encouraging investment and speculative opportunities.

Toronto opened the week Monday with a mixed irregular market. With the exception of a few sporadic rallies that merely slowed a general decline, the week's trading produced few features. Simpson's was an exception, however, as the stock climbed sharply late in the week following reports of company expansion.

Montreal groups also slipped during the week except for a brief rally Thursday that carried into Friday.

New York issues made little headway Monday and edged lower Tuesday. Mild support appeared Wednesday and extended into Thursday. Prices showed little trend yesterday.

From Friday to Friday the Toronto Stock Exchange indices showed industrials down 1.85 at 325.72, golds down .04 at 81.11, base metals down 1.98 at 193.31 and western oils up 2.64 at 134.88.

In the Montreal averages banks were down .04 at 30.01, utilities down .08 at 85.3, industrials down 3.2 at 214.0, combined down 2.4 at 171.1, papers down 17.32 at 740.68 and golds down 1.11 at 63.43.

In New York, The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed 30 cents to $97.90.

Breaks Store Window Man Given Job

TORONTO, March 1 — (CP) — Because David Holmes thought that only if he were in jail would his wife and son be looked after, the 30-year-old unemployed painter broke a plate-glass window Wednesday and was arrested.

Charged with malicious damage, he told his story in magistrate's court and was released. Police set out to help him find a job.

By Thursday night he had several offers. Donations which poured into a newspaper office were turned over to his wife.

He went to work as a carpenter-painter Friday, the first steady job he's had in three months.

Coldsprings WI Holds Leap Year Dance

COLDSPRINGS, March 1 (ENS) — A capacity crowd attended the Leap Year dance, in Coldsprings hall on Thursday night sponsored by the W.I.

Mrs. N. D. McIntosh and committee were in charge.

Novelty dance prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Jamieson, Warren Buttars, Elaine, and Elmer Minifie, Miss Grace Wilton, and Mrs. Lou Buttars.

The door prize went to Ivan West, and the birthday prize to Bill Moran, Cobourg.

The committee in charge sold hot dogs, coffee, and drinks.

Mrs. Isaac Moore

Funeral for the late Mrs. Isaac Moore, of R.R. 2, Peterborough (Fowler's Corners), was held on Friday at the Belleghem funeral home. Mrs. Moore died in hospital on Wednesday following a short illness. The Rev. Horace Kaye officiated. Pall-bearers were Wallace and Bruce Darling, Ron Moore, James Hall, K. Bardsley and D. D. Bringeman. Burial was at Emily cemetery.

Appoint Bishops

OTTAWA, March 1 —(CP)— Msgr. Ilde-Brando Antoniutti, apostolic delegate to Canada, today announced appointment of the Rev. Frank Klein, parish priest of Quinton, Sask., as Roman Catholic bishop of Saskatoon. Msgr. Antoniutti also announced appointment of the Rev. Lionel Audet, rector of the Major Seminary at Quebec, as titular bishop of Tibari.

Floors Of House Play Subtle Role In Color Scheme

Floors are not an intrusive, obvious part of a room, but they play a subtle, quiet role in forming your opinion of a room or a house. You may not be aware of the factors which influence your appraisal of a decorating scheme, but you can be sure that underfoot appearance has a great deal to do with the result.

Wood flooring is available in sufficient varieties of color, style, and form to match any architectural mood. A wood floor may be hardwood or softwood, solid or laminated, edge grain or flat grain or narrow boards, wide boards, mixed widths, in patterns of boards in blocks. It may be nailed, laid in mastic, or pegged to an underfloor. It may range in color from the lightest shade to a deep dark hue. It may be formal, informal, or downright rustic.

First choose the style of floor best suited for the various parts of the house, then the kind of wood, the grade flooring, the type of finish, and finally, understand the rudiments of its installation.

Floor Style

Shall it be a strip floor . . . or a pattern floor? A strip floor is composed of boards, narrow, wide or mixed width, which all run in one direction. A pattern floor is made of units of short pieces, or assembled units of wood which can be layed in a design. The pattern may be checkerboard, herringbone, basket weave, or many others.

Strip, or board flooring, is traditional, popular, and most extensively used. It may be employed with good taste in any kind of a house . . . in any room. Most standard wood strip flooring today offers boards which range from 1½ inches to 6 inches in nominal width. Wider boards or a mixture of widths is generally employed to express early Colonial design.

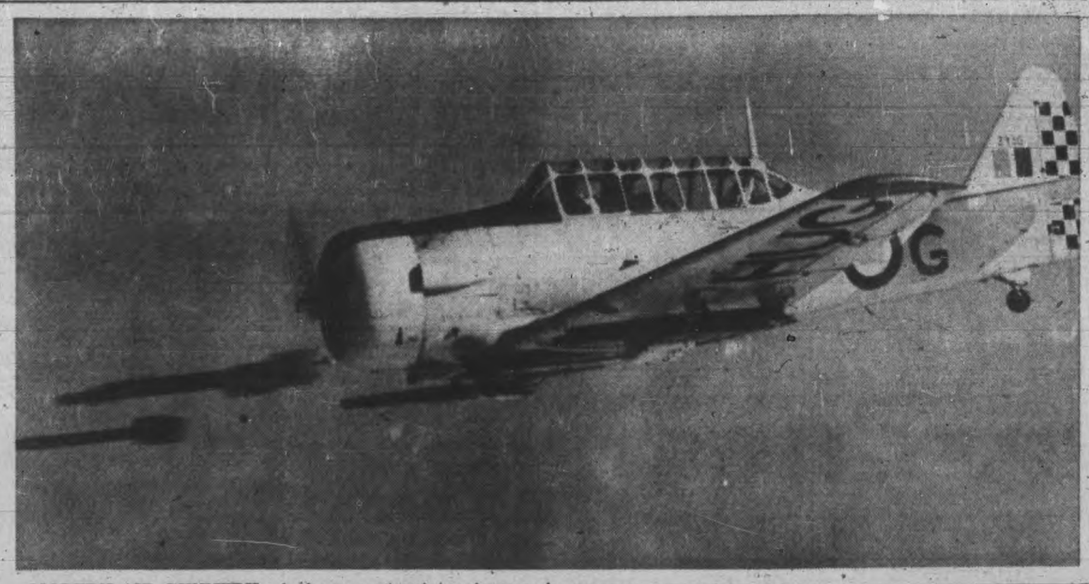
Flooring designed to be layed in a pattern is most often selected for use in rooms of a formal or period character, although pattern flooring composed of short lengths formed into blocks in the laying, or which are already preformed into blocks, are popular and may be used with propriety in any house.

All of the commercially important species of woods which are normally manufactured into flooring will produce a good floor and choice rests largely in personal preference. Hardwoods and softwoods both produce good flooring. Points of choice are color, texture and whether or not a certain species is available in the styles selected.

The good way to select either grade or species in flooring is to look at samples and with the advice of your architect, builder or lumber dealer, pick the material you like best. Variations in the cost of grades is not sufficient to affect appreciably the cost of a house.

Finish Floor Installation

Laying of the finish flooring is one of the last operations in the building of a house. The finishing of the floor should be the very last. Unless dry built construction is used a building job is not ready for its finish flooring until all of the moisture which can reasonably be extracted from its plaster walls (if it has them) has been dried out and the subfloor is clean and smooth. The amount of moisture in a building at the time the finish flooring is laid is a matter of importance. Good wood flooring has been kiln dried to a moisture content whih will give it greatest stability and freedom from shrinkage. Being cellular, wood will absorb moisture from its surroundings, and, if previously dry, swell and increase in size across the grain (across the width of a board). Dry flooring installed in a wet house and drawn up tight in the laying may pick up water from the rest of the structure, swell and cause an unsatisfactory floor. Flooring which has absorbed moisture before it is laid will shrink when the house is eventually dry and the joints between the boards will spread. Finish flooring should not be stored on the building job while waiting for the building to dry, but should be delivered as near to time of application as possible. It should not be stored out-of-doors at any time.



MODERN AIR GUNNERY—A sharp contrast to aircrew training during the Second World War is illustrated in this striking photo of a Harvard trainer firing four rockets at a ground target. Wartime training in Canada did not include rocket warfare. However, this phase has been added to the regular bombing and machine gun training given R.C.A.F. pilots. Invisible to the naked eye when they leave the launching rails, these rockets were captured in flight by the camera through close radio co-ordination between the "attacking" pilot and the photographer, making it possible for the cameraman to click his shutter at the exact instant the pilot pressed the firing button to send the rockets on their speedy way.—(National Defence Photo)

Justice Inquiry Cost Ontario $14,430

TORONTO, March 1 (CP). — The Ontario Legislature's investigation into the administration of criminal justice last year cost $14,430, it was reported to the house Friday in a reply tabled by Premier Frost. The question was asked by Harry Nixon (L-Brant).

Last year's committee on rent control cost $4,990, Premier Frost reported in reply to a question by Aurele Chartrand (L-Ottawa East).

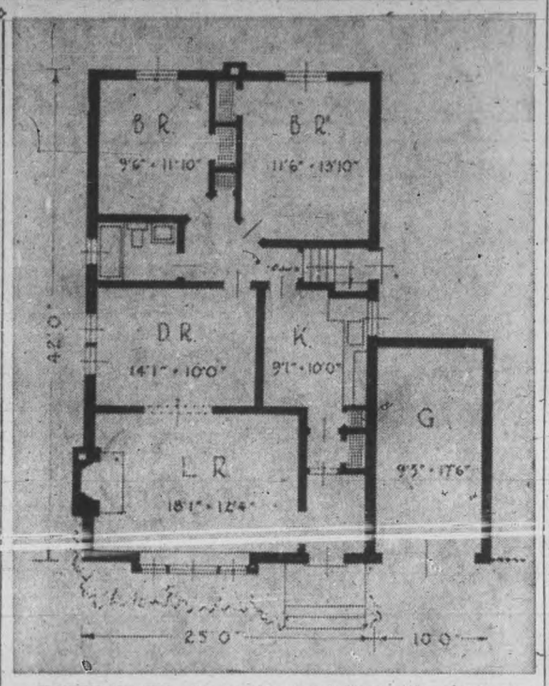
Both committees were appointed last spring and expired with the dissolution of the Legislature before last fall's election.

Fairer Deal Asked

TORONTO, March 1 —(CP)— Mayor Allan Lamport and the Toronto Board of Control Friday presented a brief to members of the Ontario Legislature asking for a "fairer deal" in municipal grants.

Nurses To Resign

CALGARY, March 1 —(CP)— All but one of the 82 graduate nurses at the city-owned General Hospital will hand in their resignations Saturday in protest against working conditions.



HOUSE No. 727—An architectural firm with a keen understanding of small family needs designed this little home. Of special interest is the large living room with its huge bay window overlooking the front garden. Both bedrooms are at the rear of the house, and are separated by a wall of closets. In the basement is a large rumpus room with fireplace. Outer walls are of variegated red brick, and the roof is of autumn shades of asphalt shingles. Omitting the garage the house contains 21,000 cubic feet. For working drawings, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Loudspeaker System Planned For House

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP). — A definite step has been taken to obtain a loudspeaker system for the Commons.

Works Minister Fournier announced Friday that he has been authorized by the government to enter into a contract with a British company and a Halifax company for the installation and operation of a "sound-reinforcement" system. He gave no indication as to when work on the new system will start.

Win Civil Suit

SARNIA, March 1 (CP)—The widow and two children of William Robert Young of Sarnia Friday were awarded a total of $13,450 damages in a civil suit against John Henry Dunn of Sarnia. Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly said that Dunn was solely responsible for an automobile accident Dec. 15 in which Young was killed.

Start Parking Meters

TORONTO, March 1 —(CP)— The first few of Toronto's downtown parking meters went into operation Monday. Police reported Friday one of them had been broken open during the night.

Given $818,000 Cheque

TORONTO, March 1 —(C)— The University of Toronto has received a cheque for $818,000 as a grant from the Federal government to higher education, it was reported Friday. The money is to be used to retain good academic men who frequently have been induced to leave university for more remunerative fields. A total of $7,100,000 is expected to be distributed in Canada.

Tents Out of Fashion

TORONTO, March 1 —(CP)— Tents have gone out of fashion for Ontario summer camps, delegates to the Canadian camping convention were told Friday. John Hoyle, one of the delegates, said cabins get the vote from most camping officials these days because they are brighter than tents, stand up under prolonged wet weather and are much freer from insects.

Consider Meyer Case

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP)—The cabinet is is expected to consider fairly soon what to do about the Kurt Meyer case if an Allied appeal court is set up to reconsider German war criminal penalties. Canada is being kept informed on the progress of four-power negotiations for a German peace contract in which the appeal tribunal is expected to be embodied.

Flowering Crab Trees Planted Along New Provincial Highway

Written For the Canadian Press By PERCY GHENT

Dreaming of the day when Ontario citizens and an ever-growing stream of tourists would approach Toronto along highways adorned with flowers, the late Thomas Foster, one-time Mayor of the city, left $100,000 as a start toward the realization of that dream. Income from the bequest, at the direction of the Department of Highways, was to be expended on the planting of decorative trees along suitable roadsides.

An encouraging start has been made. About a thousand flowering crab trees have been planted along the new Barrie highway running north from the city.

Flowering crabs are especially suitable, not lone for their opulence of bloom, but also for growth habit low and spreading, and hardiness suitable for winter survival. They have become, too a distinctly Canadian tree. At the Ottawa experimental farm spectacular success has rewarded research in the creation of many new varieties of great beauty and hardiness.

Flowering trees by the roadsides have more than a purely aesthetic value. They will provide nesting sites for hundreds of native insect- destroying birds in rural haunts devoted to pasture lands where, often enough, trees are none too plentiful.

Canadian naturalists will appreciate and support the planting of decorative trees beside roads. So will the bee-keepers whose success depends upon an abundance of flowers. In Ontario alone in 1951, the honey and wax crop reached the record value of $4,300,000.

Protect Wild Flowers

Trilliums, violets, trailing arbutus, pink lady's slippers, in eastern Canada; the wild tiger lily of western plains and the wild Easter lily of British Columbia are all too precious to destroy for the enjoyment of future years by radical and senseless picking, especially when found within easy reach of motor roads or of towns and villages. Enjoy them in their native haunts, take color picture of them there, and so treasure lovely memories.

Nature clubs across the land and national and provincial parks officials help by placing signs — "enjoy-don't destroy"—and other pleas are useful. But nature lovers in Ireland, we learn, have a subtler appeal. Some of their signs read: "let it be said of these wild flowers that they died with their roots on."

Canada has a wealth of wild flowers. Blue wild hyacinth, purple satin flowers, those miniature blossoms of the cyclamen family "shooting stars", Columbines, blue lupins, fringed and bottled gentians — enjoy them all in their wilderness haunts and leave them there. Generations to come will thank you for your thoughtfulness.

Store Explosion Kills 2 People

ROYAL OAK, Mich., March 1 (AP).—Two men were killed Friday night in an explosion that struck like a "bolt of lightning" and crumbled a sporting goods store in this Detroit suburb.

Claude Parmalee, 58, an employee of the store, and Norman E. Friden, 48, of nearby Birmingham, lost their lives in the blast. Friden was a customer.

Both were found alive by rescue workers probing the ruins, but died later in hospital.

A search continued for other possible victims. Two men and a teen-aged girl, reported in the store a short time before the unexplained blast, had not been located.

One eye-witness, describing the explosion, said "there was a flash of flame and the whole place just lifted right up in the air."

Detain Immigrants In Smuggling Racket

MONTREAL, March 1 (CP).—R.C.M.P. Friday night detained a 52-year-old Polish immigrant and sought a half-dozen others in an effort to stop a new gem-smuggling racket.

Hertz Birenbaum was arrested when police raided his west-end home and seized 300 smuggled Swiss watches, five uncut diamonds and other jewels. Total value of the goods was estimated at $8,000.

May Curb Diplomats

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP).—The North Atlantic Treaty powers agreed at Lisbon to look individually into the possibility of restricting the movement of Russian diplomats and then to consult later on possible joint action, an authoritative source said Friday. No joint action was agreed. Canada, along with the other 13 N.A.T.O. countries, now is considering the question.

46 Die In Accidents

TORONTO, March 1 (CP). — Forty-six persons died in traffic accidents in Ontario last month, acting highways minister Dunbar announced Friday. The total was one less than January last year.

BUILT AMID RUBBLE left by departed armies are these new Korean homes, typical of hundreds going up in the war-ravaged country. The barbed-wire entaglement running past the houses gives evidence of former defence line.

Generous U.N. Troops Help Korean Orphans In Seoul

By BILL BOSS, Canadian Press Staff Writer

SEOUL, Korea, March 1. (CP)—The fire in the orphanage stove was so small that the director clasped his hands around the pipe for warmth. Sam Sung Orphanage was once rated Seoul's finest. Municipally built in 1946, its staff included 12 specially-trained teachers for 100 children.

Today Sam Sung and its 62 children are just getting by. There are several others like it here.

Many Korean orphanages are positively embarrassed by the generosity of United Nations troops who have "adopted" them. But the embarrassment doesn't lead to voluntary sharing, so it's feast or bare subsistence depending on the orphanage visited.

Orphanages like Sam Sung which are not sponsored must get by with what help the United Nations Civilian Assistance Command is empowered to give through the civilian government.

U.N. pays half the cost of an orphan's upkeep. It provides three bowls of rice a day, milk for one bowlful three times a week, and cod liver oil three times a week. There is some money for vegetables.

Some Are Lucky

Orphanages closer to public highways than Sam Sung get the attention of the troops When the hat was passed around the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade last Christmas time to help Seoul's Bowha orphanage, the fund topped $8,000.

There have been three shopping expeditions to Japan to buy clothing and supplies for the children. There's still more than $4,000 in the kitty.

In contrast, Sam Sung's director said, at Christmas time his institution had one visitor—a corporal from the armed forces radio station.

"The children were so disappointed—they had learned special songs".

"The problem", says provincial welfare officer Jack Purves of Cranbrook, B.C., "has been to work out a system which lets all the children benefit from the troops' good-heartedness".

Purves has no jurisdiction in the city but has found a solution for the 19 orphanages outside Seoul. The money which units used to send to individual institutions now goes to him and he turns it over to the welfare office. The Korean officials are told how units want the money distributed and heed the instructions. But they also can bring to the soldiers' attention institutions that may not be faring well.

In Seoul, however, no such system operates. Sam Sung is getting by in a neglected, rickety way while others flourish.

One group of United States air force officers with a sizable fund is considering buying a building and appointing a Korean board of trustees to carry on the work after the airmen go home.

ORPHANS SUFFER—Sam Sung Orphanage in Seoul was once among the finest in Korea. Now the buildings are damaged, the orphans are on short rations, the playground is littered with broken equipment. But the rickety swing still works and small children spend hours on it.

U.S.N. Opposed Filming Of Best Seller

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 1 (AP)—Producer Stanley Kramer plans to go ahead with filming the best - selling "Caine Mutiny" whether the U.S. Navy approves or not.

The producer has had several conferences with navy brass over the story, which is an account of a fictional mutiny aboard a U.S. ship in the Second World War. So far, the navy has turned thumbs down on co-operating on such a project.

"We're working on a script now and I'll show it to them," said Kramer. "I hope they will approve it because I am convinced that the story is pro-navy. I would like their co-operation, because they could provide me with the ship I need—an old four-stacker destroyer.

"But right now I am of a mind to go ahead with the picture, whether the navy approves or not. What convinces me is watching the best-seller lists. I am informed that 'The Caine Mutiny' is approaching the sales made by 'Gone With the Wind'."

Writers' Banquet

Party of the week was the annual dinner tossed by the Screen Writers Guild at the Palladium Dance Palace.

The writers always put on a sprightly show exposing the foibles of Hollywood. Highlight of the program was a panel discussion in which actors described their methods of work. Alan Young declared he was a pebble-kicker, the Gary Cooper-Jimmy Stewart type who kicks imaginary pebbles as he tells the gal he loves her.

Edmund Gwenn testified that he was a chin-chucker, the lovable old rascal who was nice to children but had a penchant for larency.

PINT-SIZE PUGILIST — Where he found them nobody knows. This discarded wom- out pair of over-large boxing gloves is likely his only plaything. Korean children stay cheerful despite the tragedies of warfare. Many, like this lad, are the picture of health on the country's meagre diet. — (CP from National Defence).

Church Board Alarmed As Liquor Advertising

TORONTO, March 1 (CP)—The United Church Board of Evangelism and Social Service Friday expressed alarm at the Ontario government's decision to consider changes in the liquor laws to recognize liquor advertising.

Premier Frost Tuesday told a delegation of the Ontario Temperance Federation, which asked a ban on all liquor advertising, that the question of liquor advertising had caused the government "considerable concern."

He said that Ontario allows "institutional advertising and I am inclined to think that it might be better to allow liquor advertising in Ontario when we would be able to keep it under strict control."

The United Church group, in a telegram signed by the Rev. J. R. Mutchmore, chairman of the board, urged the government not to extend liquor advertising and to consider advertising temperance in newspapers, on billboards, over radio and on television.

Smuggling Gold

MEXICO CITY, March 1 (AP)—Customs officials said they have arrested a man bound for Central America with $76,000 worth of Mexican gold coins in a special vest. The coins weighed 130 pounds. Mexico does not forbid the export of gold but requires a special licence for it.

Man Refused $5 Shoots At Brother

WINDSOR, March 1 — (CP) — Joseph Bendick, 37, of Windsor was charged Friday with attempted murder. Police said he fired two shots at his brother early today because his sister-in-law refused to give him $5.

Police said that Bendick, after spending Thursday night drinking, appeared about midnight at the home of his brother, Richard. He asked Mrs. Jean Bendick for $5. When she refused, he told her he was going home to get a gun.

Mrs. Bendick said she and her husband locked the doors and windows of the house. When Joseph returned, however, he broke down a rear door and gained entrance.

Police said Joseph fired one shot at his brother inside the house. Then he left, calling to Richard to come outside. The brother did and another shot was fired.

Name Robison Commissioner

WICHITA, Kas., March 1. (CP)—The National Baseball Congress today named J. E. Robison, of Indian Head, Sask., commissioner for Canada.

He will supervise extensive league and tournament programs this year in preparation for the world's non-professional international baseball tournament to be staged at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, in 1953.

Canada is one of eight countries to be given priority consideration for representation at the tournament. The United States, Mexico, Japan, the Philippines, Puerto Venezuela and either Cuba or the Dominican Republic are the others.

Alternate countries are Australia, Italy, Germany, England, Formosa, Ecuador, Argentina, Panama, Netherland Antilles and Colombia.

Robison last year supervised the western Canada area which included five leagues and 13 tournaments in Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. Sceptre Nixons of Saskatchewan won the western Canada title in 1951.

Canada and the United States have engaged in three North American series in the last five years, with the U.S. titlists winning twice.

Havelock W.A. Joins Anniversary Party

HAVELOCK, March 1 (ENS)—The W. A. of St John's Anglican church met at the home of Mrs. William E. Anderson, Belmont township, on Tuesday. Mrs. H. W. Roche opened with prayer. Bible reading was given by Mrs. W. M. Campbell and the third chapter of the study book on the work in South America was taken by Mrs. H. E. Peasgood.

The treasurer, Mrs. A. E. Buckland, reminded the members of the pledge they were assuming for the ensuing year and also gave a statement of the receipts.

The meeting closed with prayer by the Rev. H. E. Peasgood. After the conclusion of the meeting about 20 persons enjoyed a very pleasant period of singing. A solo was sung by Mrs. W. Goadsby and to the delight of all, several vocal numbers were given by Lynda Anderson, 4, accompanied by her grandmother, Mrs. W. E. Anderson.

The hostess was assisted by her daughter-in-law Mrs. Jesse Anderson, in serving dinner.

The event was also the occasion of the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, and hearty congratulations were extended by the Rev. H. E. Peasgood to the hostess and her husband.

On behalf of the W.A., the Parish Guild and other church members present, Mrs. Roche extended the thanks of all to the two Mrs. Andersons, for the enjoyable afternoon. Mrs. W. E. Anderson replied.

Bar Gallico Book In New York Schools

NEW YORK, March 1—(AP)—Eight textbooks and Paul Gallico's "farewell to sports" have been barred from New York city school libraries on grounds that the books slur minority racial and religious groups.

The Board of Education announced the action Thursday, with one board member describing Gallico's book as "viciously anti-semitic.'

He said one section contended that Jewish athletics excell in basketball because that sport calls for "shifty tactics rather than brute force. Gallico's book was published in 1938.

The banned textbooks included "Strange Insects and Their Stories" by Hyatt Verrl, which contained "invidious references to the superiority of white ants over black ants."

3 Girls Awarded $55,000

WINDSOR, March 3. (CP)—A Supreme Coourt jury Saturday brought down a $55,000 verdict in favor of three Detroit girls who sued an Ontario contruction company in an automobile accident case. Mary Kraljevich, 20, who bears permanent scars as the result of injuries received in the October, 1950, accident, was awarded general damages of $36,020. Her sister, Florence, 19, was awarded $9,840 and Mitzie Frye, 19, a friend, $4,788. Special damages to relatives of the girls totalled $4,429. The three girls were injured when a convertible driven by Mary Kraljevich crashed into a trailer-transport driven by Lawrence Muxlow, Courtright, Ont., an employee of the Shaw Construction Company, Sarnia.

The jury found Muxlow 100 per cent responsible for the accident.

Isidore Levinter, Toronto, counsel for the Shaw company, said the verdict will be appealed.

Evidence indicated that Muxlow was backing his vehicle onto a highway when it was struck by the automobile.

Former Alnwick Woman Killed By Hit-Run Driver

ROSENEATH, March 3. (ENS)—A former Alnwick township woman was instantly killed Saturday night when she stepped from a bus in front of her Lakeview home and was struck by a hit-and-run driver.

After the fatal accident the O.P.P. constable investigating was beaten by two men who wanted the body removed from the highway where it was lying.

The dead woman is Mrs. Carrie Wilson, 68, of Lakeview. She is the former Carrie Martha Linton, daughter of the late James Linton and Mrs. Isabel Patterson.

Mrs. Wilson stepped out of the bus in front of her home at the Lakeview emergency housing centre, started across the highway, and was struck by an eastbound car. The accident was under a flashing amber warning light.

Driver Failed To Stop

The driver of the car continued on.

Jack McCullough, 32, of Lakeview walked into Port Credit OPP headquarters early Sunday morning and said he was the wanted driver. He was booked on charges of dangerous driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

A bizarre scene followed after the death of Mrs. Wilson. OPP Constable John Dick was attacked by two men who came out of a large crowd of onlookers and demanded that the body of Mrs. Wilson be removed from the highway.

Trade Punches

Constable Dick, who reportedly weighs only 120 pounds and is suffering from ulcers, said Mrs. Wilson had been killed instantly and the body could not be moved until the district coroner gave permission.

Cost-Of-Living Figures Ready

OTTAWA, March 3 — (CP) — Canadians will know Tuesday, if they don't know now, whether it cost them more or less to live in January. That is the day the Dominion Bureau of Statistics releases its official cost-of-living index.

At this time last month, Canadians learned that the cost-of-living index hit its highest point in history at Jan. 2. The jump of two-fifths of a point was sparked then by small price increases for meats, vegetables, dairy products, coal and a number of other items.

At Jan. 2, the index stood at 191.5 compared with 191.1 at Dec. 1. The index is based on 1935-36 prices equalling 100.

The increases out-weighed small declines for eggs, fats and women's wear. They wiped out the drop of one-tenth of a point registered at Dec. 1 from the previous record high of 191.2 in November.

Badoglio Mobbed

ROME, March 3 (CP)—Marshall Pietro Badoglio today was rescued from an angry crowd of women shouting "traitor" and "assassin." Badoglio, leader of the Italian campaign against Ethiopia, was recognized by the women as he left memorial services for the Duke of Aosta, who died in a British prisoner-of-war camp 10 years ago.

New Cure Discovered?

X-Ray Merry-Go-Round Knocks Out Many Cancers

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

CINCINNATI, March 3 (AP)—An X-ray merry-go-round has knocked out cancers in dozens of apparently-hopeless patients, the second National Cancer Conference was told today.

Some have no signs of cancer two years later. But it's too soon to call any of them cured.

The merry-go-round is a revolving chair. The patient sits in it while a 2,000,000-volt beam is aimed at his hidden cancer. As the patient spins slowly, the beam concentrates on the cancer. The spinning means less damaging X-rays on his skin and healthy tissues, and thus a bigger dose hitting the cancer.

The merry-go-round method was developed by Dr. John G. Trump and associates of Massachusetts Institute of Technology in research supported by the American Cancer Society.

So far, 186 patients have been treated. The great majority had advanced cancer that couldn't be cut out or treated with ordinary X-ray methods.

Today, 157 have no signs of cancer, and some have been clear for one to two years. But cancer isn't considered cured until at least five years have passed with no recurrence.

Forty-seven have died, some of other diseases; 19 have cancers that spread, 12 have persistent cancers and in five the cancers returned. Another 46 are under treatment still or finished it too recently to be called free of the disease.

Canadian Makes FBI Wanted List

WASHINGTON, March 3 — (AP) —A Canadian, described as extremely dangerous and wanted for the killing of a woman in Michigan, today was added to the Federal Bureau of Investigation's list of "10 most-wanted men."

He is Isaie Aldy Beausoleil, 49, known by the nickname "Frenchy." Records Listed his birthplace as in "Simcoe County, Ontario."

Michigan authorites have charged him with murder in the roadside slaying of Rose Trahan, 47, of Danielson, Conn., and Worcester, Mass.

Miss Trahan's body was found in a ditch on Aug. 17, 1949, with her head caved in.

RCAF Gives Up Search For 10 Lost At Sea

HALIFAX, March 3 (CP). — The R.C.A.F. today gave up the search for 10 men lost at sea after last week's blizzard.

A dragger left Lockeport meanwhile to examine the derelict Idella and Theta, sighted Sunday about 65 miles off Nova Scotia's south shore. There was no sign of her four-man crew.

The battered Erma Rog, out of Port Latour, N.S., was found grounded at Sea Island off Yarmouth Saturday, but there was no sign of her three-man crew.

The Little Olive, out of West Barraco, NS., with three men, still is missing.

The vessels were hit by near-hurricane winds that struck the Maritimes last Wednesday and Thursday. Another storm hit the Maritimes during the weekend, dropping from three to 11 inches of snow in many areas.

Sentenced To Death

KUALA LIMPUR, Malaya, March 3 (Reuters).—A Chinese terrorist was sentenced to death today for an attempt on the life of British Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton. Neo Sam was arrested outside a government office just before Lyttleton's arrival here during his recent visit to Malaya. He carried a hand grenade in his pocket.

Pinay Agrees To Form New Gov't

Consider Abandoning Indo-China Fight As Crisis Deepening

PARIS, March 3. (CP)—Antoine Pinay, 60-year-old Moderate Conservative, today accepted President Vincent Auriol's invitation to try to form a new French government.

Pinay announced his decision to newspaper men after a talk with President Vincent Auriol.

"My first impulse was to refuse," he said, "but when the president insisted I consented to consult my friends and make an effort."

Pinay is the third political figure approached in an attempt to relieve the crisis which deepened following failure of Paul Reynaud to patch together a National Union Coalition cabinet.

Uupopular Job.

After Reynaud gave up trying to form a new government to succeed Edgar Faure's administration, Auriol called on another former premier, Rene Pleven. But he refused to try to cope with the manifold divisions within the French national assembly.

Then Auriol approached Pinay, out-going Transport Minister. Pinay is a slightly right-of centre member of the Independent Republican Party.

Highly Doubtful

Pinay would be expected to try to form another government in the image of its predecessor's middle - of - the - road coalition. Whether this can be done now is highly doubtful.

France's financial and ministerial crisis has stalled development of Western European defence and may mean that much of the west's defence planning will have to be reshaped. The muddle even has caused some officials to think seriously about dropping the costly anti-Communist fight in Indo-China.

The French Socialist party dashed Reynaud's hope when it refused to join a government with followers of Charles De Gaulle—the Reassemblement du Peuple

Haunted House Startles Airmen

LAKENHEATH, Eng., March 3 —(AP)—Six American airmen, who spent the night in the "most haunted house in Britain", on a dare, said tonight they don't believe in ghosts, but...

The place where they kept their nocturnal visit Saturday night is Abbas Hall, 14th century manor where, legend says, the disconsolate ghost of a nun wanders through the corridors and rooms strumming on a harp.

The airmen agreed they don't know whether the ghost of the nun was about, but they told these experiences in hushed voices:

They heard the strumming of a harp or the pealing of muted bells two or three times during the night.

Four of the Americans, sleeping in one bedroom, were awakened at 2 a.m. with a start, "and with fits of the shudders".

Cpl. John Deandy described their reactions as a "weird attack of twitching and shaking—something unearthly about it".

NEW ENVOY — Gen. Sir Archibald Nye, a native of Dublin, has been apointed Britain's new High Commissioner to Canada. He succeeds Sir Alexander Clutterbuck who is taking over the post of High Commissioner to Australia. Sir Archibald was Governor of Madras in 1948 when he was chosen to become Britain's first High Commissioner to India.

Outnumbered U.S. Jets Tackle 250 Red Planes

SEOUL, Korea, March 3 (AP) — Outnumbered United States Sabre jets today shot down two Communist Mig-15 jets today and damaged five others as an estimated 250 Red fighters swept south of the Yalu river.

Allied losses, if any, were not announced.

The Sabres tangled with the Migs in four separate battles. The two Red jets the air force said were shot down boosted to 200 the number of Migs destroyed by Fifth Air Force planes in Korea a spokesman said.

Far South

Some of the Communist jets streaked far south of their usual haunts, almost to the battle line. Two Migs atacked a pair of propeller - driven F-51 Mustangs south of the North Korean capital Pyongyang, but both Mustangs hedge-hopped safely back to base, the air force said.

It was the first time in two days that the Red combat planes ventured across the Yalu River boundary from their sanctuary in Manchuria.

Along the battlefront, Allied forces restricted action to patrol scouting. Sunday an Allied tank force muscled a two-pronged squeeze on Chinese hill positions northeast and northwest of Chorwon in western Korea. The tankers reported 25 Communist bunkers wiped out and eight damaged. No tanks were reported lost.

In the east, the Reds tossed in another 45 artillery and mortar shells carrying propaganda leaflets.

Army Doctors In Korea Praised For Work

TORONTO, March 3 (CP). — Lieut. James Cowan returned to Toronto today from the Korean war and praised the "wonderful job our doctors and medical assistants are doing in the front lines."

He said 75 per cent of soldiers wounded in his platoon were back in action and that morale was high because, when wounded, a soldier knew he would be in hospital within a few hours.

"The most dangerous job in the army goes to the stretcher-bearer," he said. "We lost all our stretcher-bearers in our first action."

Also arriving here today was Sgt. Glen Armstrong, 26, of Lindsay.

Injured Merchant Skipper Propped Up In Bed Directs Battered Ship Toward U.S. Port

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP) —An injured merchant skipper, propped up in bed and refusing morphine to ease his pain, today directed his storm-battered Liberty ship toward port.

The damaged Rachel Jackson, a 7,100-ton freighter, was headed in the general direction of New York, the coast guard here said.

The coast guard cutter Mendota was escorting the freighter as it proceeded under its own power, and was ready to assist if needed.

The captain, William R. Thomas, was injured Sunday when high seas smashed part of the ship's bridge and damaged the steering gear about 350 miles southeast of New York city.

The Mendota, which was in contact with the freighter's officers, reported by radio that Thomas was in considerable pain and running a fever but able to command the ship from his bed.

He suffered cuts and bruises over much of his body and had a possible ankle fracture. There was no report of injury to any of the other 37 men aboard the Rachel Jackson.

Plane Crash Kills 37 Near Nice

Say Flock of Gulls May Have Caused Airliner's Accident

NICE, France, Mar. 3. (AP) — An Air France airliner crashed in an olive grove near this Riviera city today, killing 37 persons, including an American ballet dancer and two French actresses. A woman taken alive from the wreckage was reported in critical condition.

The four-engine plane had just taken off from Nice airport. Instead of heading out as usual over the Mediterranean on the flight to Paris, the plane turned back. It lost altitude, then smashed into bits in the olive grove, just missing a group of houses where 20 families live.

Airport employees said pieces of sea gulls' wings and feathers had been found in the air intakes of the plane's engines, and this might have caused the crash. The two left enginnes had apparently failed.

The American ballet dancer killed was Brooklyn-born Joan Harriet Katzman, 21, who danced under the name of Harriet Toby with the Marquis de Veuvas company. She appeared Sunday night at Cannes in a ballet called "Del Amor y de la Muerte" (Of Love and Death).

Lise Topart, 24, and Michele Verly, 41, were the French actresses who died. Eleven other victims had British addresses. Others listed their addresses in France or Italy. The pilot, Theau Farrugia, 29, a veteran of 4,500 hours flying time, and his wife, were killed.

Taken Out Alive

Mrs. Margarite Delpy of Paris was taken alive from the wreckage. An Italian woman similarly rescued died en route to the hospital.

The plane was a Languedoc, used in European and North African services. Normally it carries a crew of five and has a capacity of 3 passengers. Today it had 34 passengers and four crew members. Air France officials said it was the first fatality suffered by that type of plane in the six years the company has used it.

The plane crashed at 9:05 a.m. (3:05 a.m. EST). The scene was 150 feet from the railway station at the village of St. Augustin, the last stop before Nice three miles away.

Car Smashes Into House

BELLEVILLE, March 3 (CP)— A car Sunday crashed through a guard rail on Highway No. 37, just north of the city, went down a shallow embankment, through a picket fence and ripped into a house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Markle.

A 10-foot hole was ripped out of the side of the house. The car came to rest with the engine and radiator in the living room. Six persons sleeping in the house escaped injury as debris and splinters showered the bedrooms.

A second car followed the path of the first a few minutes later and crashed into the wrecked automobile.

The dust had hardly settled when a third car followed the same route and came to rest in the front yard.

The only person injured was Mrs. Maurice Reid driver of the first car. She suffered bruises and head cuts.

Five Children Perish In Newfoundland Fire

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 3 (CP).—Five children, ranging in age from three to 11, were burned to death at Nicholsville in western Newfoundland Saturday night. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cross, and the eldest child of the family, Vaughan, 15, were absent when fire destroyed their frame bungalow.

Marvey, 13, carried his nine-months-old brother, Hughie, to safety, Henry, 8, and Elsie, 13, also managed to get out in time.

The victims: Roland, 11; Stirling, 9; Wavey, 7; Allan, 4, and Valetta, 3.

By the time residents of nearby Deer Lake reached the scene the house was destroyed.

Plan Buffer Zone In Infected Area Gardiner Reports

OTTAWA, March 3. (CP)—The Canadian government, in an apparent effort to break Quebec and British Columbia restrictions on inter-provincial livestock and meat shipments, today imposed rigid import controls to block buying from foreign suppliers. As a result of this step taken under the Emergency Powers Act and announced by Agriculture Minister Gardiner, the provinces either would have to re-open boundaries or face the possibility of a meat shortage. Provincial restrictions were implemented in an effort to prevent spread of the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak in south Saskatchewan.

Mr. Gardiner, in a 2,500-word speech over a CBC trans-Canada network also announced that losses by farmers whose livestock must be destroyed will be covered by increased federal payments up to any amount considered "fair and reasonable."

He said details of payments will be worked out by a board set up in Regina.

Extra Precautions

At a press conference held later he said the government is taking extra precautions against the possibility of the disease being carried into Canada by new immigrants.

Instructions have been issued to have a boatload coming from Europe go through a decontamination station at Montreal. It was possible that a new sterilization centre may be set up at Halifax and changes made in the Canadian Immigration Act.

To prevent a flood of beef and pork to Canadian markets resulting from the U.S. embargo to hold animals on farms for longer periods and announced that premium payments on hogs will be changed to cover heavier weights.

Normally Canada is not a heavy importer of livestock and meats, but there would be a heavy movement of American and other foreign products into British Columbia, for example, if the action had not been taken. That province

Two Groups Trade Gunfire

TORONTO, March 3 — (CP) — Police today blamed an exchange of gunfire between two groups of youths for the fatal shooting Saturday of John Gorassini, 16. A companion, James Mabley, faces a charge of manslaughter.

Gorassini was struck by a .22-calibre rifle bullet which richocheted off a tree beside which he took cover.

Police quoted Mabley as saying six youths on a hike with their rifles broke into separate groups. He said he found himself near a target at which some of the other boys were shooting.

Investigators in suburban North York said Mabley told them that, when bullets started to "come too close" to him, he fired three shots at a tree, near which the marksmen were standing, to attract his friends' attention. Gorassini was hit by the third bullet, he said.

Believe Russia Insisting On Peace Role

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER.

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP) —Russia apparently is so determined to gain a role in Korean peacemaking that she may wreck the truce talks in the attempt.

Some highly-placed officials offered that explanation today for the present deadlock in the armistice talks at Panmunjom. They assume, as Washington has generally assumed from the first, that the Kremlin is masterminding Communist strategy in Korea.

The Reds' insistence that the Soviet Union be included in a proposed commission of neutral countries to police the truce, if and when one is agreed upon, is thus regarded here as a move inspired and doggedly persisted in by the Soviet government itself.

First Easing Step

The first sign of a possible backdown from this position came during today's negotiations. When the Reds were told objections to Russia could not be removed, Chinese Col. Chang Chung san replied that the Allies had the right to reject any nominee but should give logical reasons.

United States officials said here as United Nations negotiators have said in Korea, that they will never agree to accept Russia as a neutral. The U.S. stand is that Russia told the North Koreans to start the war in the first place.

What the U.S. would agree to —and what might prove to be the way out—would be to drop the idea of a neutral commission and go back to the original suggestion by the U.N. side that the truce be supervised by a joint commission of belligerents.

Russia and the U.S. would then be represented in equal position, provided Russia was willing to acknowledge a belligerent status.

Million Dollar Fire Destroys N.S. Plant

AIRICHAT, N. S., March 3 — (CP)— Damage was unofficially estimated at $1,000,000 today in a fire that destroyed a large part of a new fish plant at nearby Petit De Grat, owned by Booth Fisheries Company Limited, with parent headquarters in Chicago.

Telephone lines to Petit De Grat were cut by weekend storms but according to information available here only the freezer and power house were left standing following the outbreak.

Value of the plant, under construction for a year, was placed at $1,500,000. It was in incomplete operation.

The plant was of major importance in the economic life of this fishing area.

Resist Rearmament Plan

See Communist Campaign In U.K. Slowdown Move

SHEFFIELD, England, March 3 —(CP)—Two hundred and fifty shop stewards, claiming to represent more than 250,000 British workers, were pledged today to resist the rearmament program and protest recent reductions in social services.

The delegates did not call themselves Communist but their program followed the Communist line. Their pledges were made at a meeting here Sunday night convened by an organization known as The Sheffield Action Committee, in co-operation with a national council of engineering and Allied shop stewards.

Resolutions passed included a demand for an increase of at least 30 shillings a week for engineering and shipbuilding workers; banning of overtime in areas where there is short-time working or unemployment; and resistance to "Tory cuts in the social services."

The committee has no official trade-union backing — speakers strongly criticized the appointed leaders—and what results the resolutions may bring will depend on the support delegates can rally in individual areas.

One resolution said that in disputes arising from stewards resisting redundancy—which is to say dismissals—"the whole area should be brought into the campaign to expose the real cause of the sackings and to demand full employment."

In South Wales, workers marched in protest against proposed cuts in social services. Communist Will Paynter, president of South Wales miners, said in a speech the miners will be called on for mighty demonstrations and to use if necessary "our organized industrial strength."

The weekend events in Sheffield and South Wales are believed by most British observers to mark the start of a deliberate Communist campaign.

New Premier Suspends Parliament

Will Purge Corruption In Reform Regime Egyptians Promised

CAIRO, Egypt, March 3. — (AP) — Egypt's new prime minister, Ahmed Naguib Hilaly Pasha, announced suspension of parliament for 30 days and today headed into a reform regime dedicated to purging corruption from the government.

He also began preparing for new talks with Britain on control of the Suez Canal zone and the Sudan.

Announcement of the parliamentary suspension, which his predecessor, Aly Maher Pasha had refused to approve, was a first major action of the 60-year-old jurist and independent Sunday night following swearing in of his cabinet.

School Closed

The new government also suspended indefinitely operation of Egypt's biggest school, Fuad University in Cairo, after students began a sit-down strike protesting continued martial law and any agreements with the West.

Maher Pasha resigned unexpectedly Saturday. Some political leaders had wanted him to dissolve parliament and call new elections. This was sought as a move against the strongly Nationalist Wafdist party, which now dominates the legislative group.

(The Cairo dispatches, which are strictly censored, did not say who issued the first suspension decree, but presumably it came from King Farouk's palace.)

Studies Position

Hilaly said he was starting at once to study Egypt's position in relation to Britain, but that he would need time before he could begin new talks aimed at settling the Anglo-Egyptian dispute.

The week-end political upheaval came just as such talks were due to start between Maher Pasha and British Ambassador Sir Ralph Stevenson. Sir Ralph postponed the first meeting Saturday, however, with the announcement that he had a sudden chill.

In a letter accepting the King's mandate, Hilaly pledged he would wipe out disturbances and clean up the government. He would, he said, crush "corruption in politics which has become a trade used for a source of income."

Nine Die In Jam At Mountain Shrine

MEXICO CITY, March 3 (Reuters—Nine persons were trampled to death and 25 injured Saturday when two groups of pilgrims jammed the gates of a mountain shrine.

A procession of 500 pilgrims tried to enter the shrine as hundreds of people were leaving. The occasion was the pilgrimage to the Shrine of Chalma, which annually attracts 20,000 worshippers.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather office at 9:30 a.m. today:

Synopsis:

A developing storm in Oklahoma has spread an extensive precipitation area over eastern United States and Southwestern Ontario. Thus far reports would indicate the precipitation to be fairly light and there appears to be a good chance that no more than an inch or two will fall in the Lower Lakes region and proportionately less further north.

Warmer air is moving across southern regions from the southwest but cloudy skies will prevent the thermometer from rising much above 35 today, but with the temperature hovering close to the freezing mark what snow falls will be damp and will probably become mixed with drizzle or freezing drizzle during the day.

Niagara, Lake Ontario regions: Hamilton, Toronto cities:

Intermittent light snow today ending about dawn Tuesday. Cloudy Tuesday clearing by evening. A few light snowflurries in the morning. A little milder. Winds southeast 25 this afternoon, east 15 tonight and Tuesday. Low tonight and high Tuesday at Toronto, Trenton, St. Catharines and Hamilton 30 and 32.

Summary for Tuesday: Cloudy clearing by evening.

Burglars Stuck With $2,500,000

RENO, Nev., March 3 (AP).—The burglars who made off with L. V. Redfield's $2,500,000 got so much more than they expected that "they're just stuck with it now," said the victimized millionaire.

"They might as well light their cigarettes with the two $10,000 bills they got," said Redfield. "Bills that large are quite rare."

The burglars entered Redfield's home Friday, in his absence, fed his dog a ham bone and hauled away a 500-pound safe which Redfield said contained $320,000 in currency, about $2,000,000 in securities and around $200,000 worth of jewelry.

"The best place to pass hot money is right here on Reno gambling tables or in Las Vegas, but I don't think there's a club that will take a $1,000 bill today without checking it pretty closely," Redfield said.

He added that the securities, all endorsed by him, are not likely to be accepted by any brokerage house. Proper identification would be required. He said the jewelry "is of such an outstanding nature that it can be easily detected."

There was only about $25,000 in bills of $100 denominations or less he reported.

Redfield was playing roulette, winning what he called "peanuts," during the burglary.

Prices Irregular On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 3 — (CP)— Prices drifted irregularly today in early afternoon stock market dealings as support turned mixed.

Early trading was brisk but activity slowed as the session progressed. Industrial dealings were confined mainly to leading issues but a wide list of golds and western oils showed activity. Volume for the first three hours was 1,687,000 shares.

Steels formed Industrials' strongest section while agricultures, constructions and retail stores drew firm support. Papers and textiles weakened.

Western oils posted a majority of declines. Losses ranged from pennies to about 25 cents as Calnorth, Calmont, Fargo, Federated Petroleum, Jupiter, Model Oil, North Canadian, Trans Empire and Triad traded lower.

Base Metals were mixed. Anacon Lead, East Sullivan, Golden Manitou, Quebec Manitou and Silver Miller strengthened while Barvue, Consolidated Smelters, Hudson Bay, International Nickel and Labrador weakened.

Senior golds were firm. Giant Yellowknife, Lake Shore and McIntyre pushed upward. Secondary issues, however, made little headway.

Health Service Cost Brings Mine Strikes

CARDIFF, March 3 (Reuters)—A one-day strike by 30,000 Welsh miners in protest against certain changes in the hitherto-free national health service Saturday spread to pits in Scotland and Kent.

In South Wales, 50 pits were closed while miners stayed at home for the fourth Saturday in succession.

Two Scottish collieries in Midlothian also closed in sympathy with the boycott. Two thousand miners at Betteshanger pit, Kent, stayed away for the same reason.

The Conservative Government recently announced a nominal £1 fee for a visit to the dentist and a nominal 14-cent charge for medical prescriptions.

Labor Congress Battle Out In Open

OTTAWA, March 3 — (CP) — Warfare has emerged openly in the 350,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor, where a subsurface struggle for power has been waged for months.

Outwardly dormant since September, the explosive issue has been revived by a sharp attack on the Canadian chief of the big United Steel Workers of America. It came in the official journal of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, which is headed by C.C.L. president A. H. Mosher.

The magazine says in an editorial that Pat Conroy quit the secretary-treasurership of the C.C.L. in September because "an unashamed drive for power, conceived in cunning and carried forward with craft, was aimed at changing the Congress from a vehicle for many to a juggernaut for one."

The editorial adds Conroy, in walking out of his job at the Vancouver convention, "hoped his action would rouse the membership to the danger they faced, to the danger the Congress faced."

Aimed At Millard

The C.B.R.E. organ did not name the object of its attack, but the Sunday punch was unquestionably aimed at Charles Millard, of Toronto, Canadian director of the 55,000-member steel union, about the largest single body in the Congress.

Millard headed the behind-the-scenes forces that scored a win over Conroy and a majority of the C.C.L. executive on an involved issue of internal Congress politics. The upshot of his defeat was that Conroy, for several years the C.C.L's chief policymaker, quit immediately.

Openly, the scrap was over the election of members of the Congress executive. Behind that were the fears of Millard's opponents that, with the backing of some other big international unions, he was trying to pick off too much power.

Those fears now are expressed openly for the first time in the C.B.R.E. editorial. Up to now, the parties on both sides of the dispute have been saying nothing for publication on its actual causes, apparently hoping that the rift might be closed without having it dragged into the open.

U.N. Small Ships Win Blockade

LONDON, March 3 (Reuters)—Small ships of the Allied naval forces in Korean waters have tipped the balance between defeat and victory by blocking the Communist sea supply lines, the British Admiralty said Sunday.

In a report from one of its observers, the Admiralty assessed the part played by the small ships in 18 months' fighting and said:

"From the British naval point of view, the Korean War has proved a war of blockade, a seaman's war of the traditional pattern."

Commonwealth naval ships watch the west coast of Korea, while American ships look after the east coast. Canadian destroyers are taking part in the operation.

Main tasks of the two forces are to deny sea communications to the enemy, harass troops and supplies in the coastal regions.

Francais. Socialist leaders accused De Gaulle of "anti-republican tendencies" and implied that his followers would enter such a coalition only to seize outright powers for themselves.

Reynaud had proposed that leaders of all parties except the Communists join him in the cabinet to map out a common program for salvation of the country's currency and equilibrium of the country's finances.

All Agreed

Spokesmen for De Gaulle agreed. So did leaders of other parties although some, like the Mouvement Republicaine Populaire, attached conditions which in effect would have excluded the Gaullists from cabinet posts.

With runaway inflation staring the country in the face, some way must be found for France to meet the obligations for western defence which she assumed at the North Atlantic Treaty Organization conference at Lisbon last month.

Damage $300 As Blaze Burns Roof Of House

LINDSAY, March 3. (ENS) — Three hundred dollars damage was done in a house fire here on Saturday night. Firemen were called out at eight p.m. to the home of Miss Olive O'Neill.

The fire had started at the rear of the home in the upper storey in the partitions and had started to burn through the roof. Firemen remained at the scene for almost two hours before the flames were completely extinguished. A booster pump was used and cause of the fire is as yet unknown.

Plan Buffer Zone

produces only about 10 per cent of its requirements.

Quebec has a plentiful supply of hogs but does not produce all the beef it needs and plants normally buy from Ontario. Under the Quebec permit system, this movement might have been restricted and some plants either shut down or started buying from the U.S.

Mr. Gardiner's broadcast covered these new steps:

1. As a result of the embargo placed by the United States on Canadian livestock and meats, the government, under the Emergency Powers Act, will restrict imports in order that the Canadian market may be retained for domestic production.

2. Payments to farmers whose animals must be destroyed to prevent the disease from spreading will be paid for the animal destroyed and all losses which may be "fair and reasonable," including feed and equipment.

Plan Buffer Zone

3. The government is throwing up a buffer zone as a second line of defence against possible spread of the disease. Until further notice all animals which come from within 50 miles of the 10-municipality South Saskatchewan quarantine area "will be slaughtered at the nearest available packing plant."

"The Federal government will not ask any province to take live animals from the prairies, even though the extra buffer zone protection is being provided. But if any province wants to admit the live animals, "we do intend to set up an inspection which makes it perfectly safe for them to do so."

"If any province asks to have live animals forwarded, they will be able to obtain them with a certificate which makes them as secure against the disease as it is possible for them to be when obtaining animals from anywhere in the world," Mr. Gardiner said.

Must Be Requested

"They will not, however, be permitted to go unless the province in question asks for them."

The emergency restrictions on imported livestock and meats appears to be the Federal government's reply to provinces which have put restrictions on interprovincial trade on livestock and meats to safeguard against the spread of the disease, and possibly also to avoid "dumping" of surplusses from other provinces into their own.

British Columbia, whose producers supply only about 10 per cent. of the province's requirements in livestock and meats, has banned imports from Alberta and other prairie provinces.

Quebec has placed imports of meat and livestock from all provinces under a permit system. The outlook resulting from the federal government's announcements is that either these provinces will lift restrictions or face a possible meat shortage.

50 Miles Square

Mr. Gardiner said the scourge is in an area about 50 miles square in 10 municipalities around Regina. The disease has not spread, but inspectors are watching the area outside the 10-municipality quarantine.

"I make a special appeal to all those reached through this broadcast," he said, "that they do not hesitate to report any suspicious cases. We require the co-operation of everyone in our efforts to confine the disease to this small area and stamp it out completely there."

By providing increased payments to farmers the government believes the farmer will be encouraged to make reports quickly.

The Contagious Diseases Act provides that owners of animals which may be destroyed will be paid commercial value. The Act will be amended to cover all losses which may occur as a result of the destruction of animals, feed and equipment.

Expects Agreement

"I know the taxpayers will agree to the necessary costs being paid," Mr. Gardiner said.

Though Mr. Gardiner did not detail the payments, officials previously disclosed that they will include cost of, say, a dairy cow, and loss of revenue which might have bene obtained from that cow.

A special board has been set up at Regina to which farmers may appeal for compensation. Members are:

George W. Robertson secretary of the Saskatchewan wheat pool; Raymond Youngman, in charge of Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act Pastures; and G. W. Stead of the finance department.

These will pass on proposed settlements and make recommendations to the agriculture minister as to payments which may be considered "fair and reasonable."

Mr. Gardiner, referring to the economic results of the outbreak, said Canada appreciated the co-operation of the U.S. to help eradicate the disease. However, the American embargo on Canadian livestock and meats will remain in force for at least 60 days after the outbreak has been eradicated.

"This leaves us in a position with no other market than the Canadian market for most of our livestock and livestock products."

Had To Act

"We have, therefore, under the Emergency Powers Act, provided that no livestock or meats may be imported into Canada except on permit.

"I am sure that those outside Canada will agree that we must hold this market for our own producers until such time as the disease is removed and is no longer a danger to ourselves or to other countries.

"This will maek it necessary for all within Canada to get their supplies of meat from Canadian producers."

The government is exploring every possible outlet for any surpluses which may develop in Canada as a result of the American embargo. But it has found out that there is no market for Canadian bacon in the United Kingdom "at present."

"If markets become available which remove the necessity of retaining this (the Canadian) market for the Canadian producer, the restriction on imports will be removed."

Aimed At Beef, Pork

Mr. Gardiner indicated that the import restrictions are aimed mostly at beef and pork.

"It will be noted that I have not mentioned sheep and lambs. We think that with outside meats under permit there should be no difficulty in marketing all mutton and lamb in Canada."

That likely will mean New Zealand and Australia, which have been shipping a little mutton and lamb to Canada, likely will have no difficulty getting government permits.

Mr. Gardiner said he felt confident the Canadian consumer will absorb all the meats that come on the market during the next eight months.

W'e' feelt haiatt aeanhCdn thm

"We feel that the Canadian consumer can take care of all the meat provided from animals which need come on the market during the next eight months," he said.

For that reason, the government does not believe it will be necessary to go farther "than we have gone at present in controlling or affecting prices, but I am sure it will be agreed that if it does become necessary, we have a set-up under which we can act on the shortest possible notice."

Animals C[illegible]ed.

All animals on the Prairies will be checked to make certain they do not come from within the buffer zone— 50 miles of any quarantied area. These will be available for shipment to other provinces to supply packing plants. If provinces do not want the animals, they will be slaughtered in Prairie plants and the meat made available for distribution to all parts of Canada.

Dealing specifically with the cattle and hog markets, Mr. Gardiner said there are more cattle coming on the market than are necessary to supply the demand for beef.

"Farmers," he said, "are advised only to put on the market cattle that are ready for market and to keep all others on feed at home wherever possible anywhere in Canada."

Canada, in the past, has been able to absorb almost all pork production, with little left for export, but deliveriers during the last two months have been heavy.

Watch Quality.

To ensure that the markets are not over-supplied, farmers are being asked to feed hogs at home until there is no danger of the quality being lowered by too much feed.

Canadian have developed a taste for long lean bacon, but it was important that "our storages should not be over-loaded with pork which cannot be sold."

"We are, therefore, asking farmers not to put hogs on the market if it is possible to avoid doing so until they are over 200 pounds liveweight.

"There is no market for bacon in Britain at present. There is, therefore, no reason for encouraging the lighter hogs to come immediately on the market."

Grading and other government regulations will be amended to provide that there will be no premium paid on hogs which weigh less than 200 pounds alive.

The government previously paid the farmer a premium of $2 on grade A hogs weighing between 140 and 170 pounds.

Confine Premiums

"It is proposed that the premium on A's be confined to hogs weighing from 200 to 240 pounds and the premium on B's be confined to hogs from 241 pounds upward."

The premium of $1 was paid previously on hogs graded B-1, weighing between 135 to 175 pounds.

In other words, the government is planning to keep light-weight hogs off the market by refusing to pay premiums on the old basis.

"Farmers should weigh their hogs before taking them to market to make sure they weigh well over 200 pounds, preferably not less than 220 pounds if they desire to obtain the premium paid for A's and B's," Mr. Gardiner said.

"On Feb. 16, 1952, it was announced that a floor price of 26 cents basis A grade hogs at Toronto would be paid for hogs throughout Canada. The relative prices were well established across Canada in the last three weeks of February.

Reasonable Basis

"There will be taken as a reasonable basis from which to check payments made from the same plants from now until Sept. 30, and the Minister will be given authority to refuse to pay premiums for hogs delivered at plants where floor prices are not maintained.

"I trust I have made myself plain. It is my desire to emphasize that for the time being and until further advised, we feel that deliveries should be held down and we know of no way this can be brought about in these critical next two or three weeks excepting to discourage in every way possible the bringing of light hogs to market and by assuring at the same time that quality grading and returns will be maintained on the higher weights.

". . . Right now it should keep some pork on the farms rather than in the storages until it is needed."

Meanwhile, plows cleared snow-blocked roads in Saskatchewan so the slaughtering program, designed to eliminate diseased herds and thus check the disease, could resume.

Continue Killings

The storm forced postponement of Saturday's killings but they were held Sunday when R.C.M.P. herded 164 animals in a deep grave and shot them. The carcasses were then covered with unslaked lime and a thick layer of earth.

That was the second mass-killing. Friday 236 cattle and 68 sheep went before the firing squad in a burial pit on the farm of Konstantine Haun just west of the Regina city limits.

Newspapermen covered the event, unique in Canadian history, and their stories drew criticism from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The society labelled the reports "sordid."

The S.P.C.A. also claimed the shootings were "brutal" and "cruel". But Dr. N. D. Christie, federal veterinarian for Saskatchewan, said the society's suggestion of individual shooting for each animal couldn't be carried out.

He said a live animal couldn't be induced to enter a pit where dead animals lay.

Hint Queen Expects Child

LONDON, March 3 (CP)—Two London newspapers hinted Sunday that the Queen might be expecting her third child. They suggest this might be the reason the coronation will not be held until late in the summer of 1953.

The tabloid Sunday Pictorial puts it delicately, suggesting the Queen may have a "personal reason" for postponing the coronation.

"The official explanation for delaying it—that governments of the Commonwealth must be consulted and that time is limited—is hardly a tribute to the speed of the planners.

"Nor does another explanation, that it will be timed to raise morale at the crux of the economic slump next year, seem any better. The country needs the heartening effect of a coronation as soon as possible.

"In the circumstances it is natural that there should be rumors of a sentimental nature. They spring from a visit by Sir William Gilliatt, the famous gynaecologist, to Clarence House. Sir William visited the Queen the day after her return from Africa.

Reds Concede Allies Can Reject Russia

MUNSAN, Korea, March 3 — (AP)—Communist truce negotiators today angrily accused the United Nations command of lying and stalling. But the Reds acknowledged that the U.N. has a legal right to reject Russia as a neutral inspector of an armistice.

North Korean Col. Chang Chun San conceded that the U.N. has the right to reject Russia, but insisted that the Allies give logical reasons.

"We had a thoroughly unproductive and most unpleasant session," Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby told reporters after an acrimonious session of the prisoner-exchange sub-committee.

At one point North Korean Maj.-Gen. Lee Sang Cho became so angry that Libby interrupted to ask him to stop screaming.

Determined To Serve

Highly placed Washington sources said there were indications Russia is so determined to serve as a neutral inspector that it may wreck the truce talks.

These sources said the U.S. never will accept the Soviet Union as a neutral, but might go back to the original Allied proposal to supervise a truce by a joint commission of belligerents. They said if Russia is willing to acknowledge that she is a belligerent she then could legally help police a truce.

Lee touched off the verbal explosion in the prisoner-exchange negotiations with a tirade in which he accused the U.N. of lying about treatment of prisoners. He also charged that the U.N reneged about treatment of prisoners. He also charged that the U.N. reneged on a promise to hand over information on about 44,000 prisoners the Reds claim are "military personnel of our side." And he accused the Allies of lying when they said Sunday the Communists had repudiated an agreement to exchange information on all war prisoners and another agreement to nominate neutral countries acceptable to both sides.

Drunk Jailed 4 Months

Lloyd Smith, 22, River Rd., pleaded guilty to a drunk charge in police court today. He was sentenced to four months in Ontario Reformatory.

Smith admitted two previous convictions for drunkenness during the last year, one on September 10, 1951, and another on February 12 of this year.

Magistrate W. R. Philp added a recommendation that Smith serve his time at Mimico where he can be given treatment for alcoholism.

CAVAN, March 3 (ENS)—The North Group of the W.A. of St. Andrew's United Church, Millbrook, met at the home of Mrs. W. Elson Wednesday evening, with a membership of 12 present.

The group leader, Mrs. Aubrey Fallis, presided.

Mrs. Eric Fallis was elected as secretary, succeeding Mrs. Earl Armstrong who filled the post for two years. Mrs. John McKnight was appointed assistant leader.

Mrs. T. Douglas and Mrs. Eric Fallis were in charge of the devotional exercises and Mrs. A. Fallis led in prayer. Mrs. Edward Armstrong played the accompaniments for the hymns.

The committee in charge served lunch. The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Aubrey Fallis.

NOTICE

The Peterborough Utilities Commission announces that its office on Simcoe Street will be closed after 5.00 p.m. on Friday, February 29, and it will re-open in its new office at the corner of Aylmer and Dalhousie Streets at 8.30 a.m. on Monday, March 3, 1952.

All accounts for electricity, water and gas will, after that date, be payable at the new office.

Consumers who so desire may pay their accounts at any Bank or Trust Company, which will charge 7 cents for each account under $15.00 and 10 cents for accounts over $15.00. They will not accept payment for overdue accounts, which must be paid at the new office.

Forestry Laws' Twofold Aim Told By Forester

Developments in forestry legislation were the basis of a radio address Saturday by A. B. Wheatley, district forester for the Department of Lands and Forests.

The purpose of forestry legislation, he said, had two simple objects in view: 1, that forest lands be made to produce a maximum amount of forest products per acre; 2, that no forest land should be allowed to lie fallow or unproductive.

In Ontario, the three pieces of legislation that performed this job were the Forest Management Act, the Forest Fires Prevention Act, and the Trees Conservation Act.

Enabling Legislation

The Trees Conservation Act was designed as enabling legislation to permit county or municipal councils to pass bylaws by which control could be exercised over the removal of timber from woodlots or wasteland owned privately.

The Forest Management Act established the forest inventory now being carried out on the 200,000,000 acres of crown land within the province. This inventory is the first requirement for the setting-up of any cutting plan designed to balance the annual timber cut with the annual growth.

"In our progress toward a fuller life there are laws which we cannot break with impunity," Mr. Wheatley said. "Those are the laws of nature. Once natural forces have been unloosed there is no redress; we simply take the consequences."

"Come here, boy . . . I want to Talk to you."

This is the first picture in the Examiner's Baby Picture-Quote contest. For the first five days of each week the Examiner will publish a baby picture and quote from the collection of Constance Bannister and on Saturday will publish the winning local pictures. In the Examiner's contest readers are being asked to submit baby pictures and the trick is to write a suitable caption implying what could have been on the baby's mind to create such an expressive picture. Every home where there are children has an unusual baby picture, so look over your family album, pick out and write the caption and send picture to Baby Photo Editor, Examiner, Peterborough. Pictures must be of babies two years and less. Two prizes of five dollars a week are given and a grand prize of ten dollars at end of contest.

Bancroft Lions Stage Carnival, Mocassin Dance

BANCROFT, Mar. 3. (ENS)—Annual skating carnival and moccasin dance, staged by Bancroft Lions club, attracted a large crowd to Bancroft arena Friday night.

Elsie Fisher and her group of figure skaters stole the show, although the teen-aged girls have had only a few figure skating lessons. Their efforts drew round after round of applause.

Opening the show was a march by the girls, followed by two solos by Miss Fisher. A quartet of Rosemary Merritt, Shirley Merritt, Elizabeth Ann Hibbard and Lorraine Watson glided through their routine cleverly.

Rounding out the entertainment were races, a costume parade, a badminton game on skates, a broomball tilt between Bancroft and Whitney Lions clubs, a Moccasin dance, and two clowns, Sad Sack and the Mad Russian.

Bancroft public school's relay team, captained by Cyril Cutler, won over North Hastings and Maynooth.

Bert Wright, aided by a committee of Lions, was in charge of the event. Jack Fallis acted as master of ceremonies and director of traffic on the ice.

Reds Running POW Camp Under UN Officials' Noses

By WILLIAM JORDEN

KOJE ISLAND, Korea, March 3—(Delayed by Censor)—(AP)—Compound 62, a barbed-wire enclosure housing some 5,900-Communist-led troublemakers, is a festering sore in the huge United Nations prisoner-of-war camp on this South Korean island.

More violence has erupted in 62 than in all the other 28 compounds for Korean civilian prisoners.

Two weeks ago, the inmates of 62 attacked United States soldiers who had been sent in to prevent trouble while prisoners were interviewed. The riot was quelled only by rifle fire. Fifty-five Korean prisoners were killed and 159 were wounded. Twenty-three of the wounded died since. One American soldier was killed and 39 were wounded.

Antagonism was apparent in 62 as long ago as last June. Information specialists and teachers said the prisoners often were deliberately rude, scornful and insulting. The education program had to be abandoned in that compound last December.

Anti-Communist inmates were scorned, tried in mock courts and beaten. Several months ago about 300 inmates were moved out of 62 at their own request.

No Explanation

Camp officials have been unable, or unwilling, to explain how the Communist element has been able to take over control of the internees. Some observers suggest that by accident or design prisoners with violent Communist affection have been concentrated in 62. Officials deny any such plan.

Other observers expressed amazement at the lack of inspection inside the compound in recent months. When the inmates attacked American troops Feb. 18, they obviously were well prepared. Minutes after the soldiers entered the compound, they were showered with a rock barrage. Shortly thereafter, prisoners poured from their buildings and tents armed with crude but effective weapons.

Camp officials admitted the compound had not been searched for weapons since December, when the compound spokesman had warned the U.N. camp authorities he "could not guarantee the safety" of any unwanted persons who entered the compound.

Officials tacitly admit the internees of Camp 62 virtually are running their own show.

The interviewing was resumed this week only after the men of 62 had proposed it and after their condition that a minimum of armed guards be used was accepted

New Zealand Topic As Church Groups Meet

CAMPBELLFORD, March 3 — (ENS) — Members of St. John's Young Adults Club played host to the Norwood 50-50 club here on the week-end when the two [illegible] joined forces to enjoy an evening of entertainment arranged by Cozette Barnum of Campbellford.

Everette Steele, president of the local club, welcomed the large representation from Norwood, and Marion Smith led in a sing song. Betty and Walter Elliott conducted the devotional period.

Feature of the evening was a talk on New Zealand by V. T. B. Rout of the Campbellford High School staff. He was introduced by the Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith.

Mr. Rout told how the name "New Zealand" had originated from the days when Tasman, the Dutch explorer had chosen to refer to the land by the name of a province in his native Holland.

Automobiles are scarce and expensive. Electric refrigerators and other such household utilities are not found in the average home. Standards of wages are lower, and the country's sterling currency discourages the importing of luxuries, because of its low value. The cost of living is just about one third that of Canada, so far as essentials are concerned. Butter sells for the Canadian equivalent of 20c per pound and good beef goes at about 25c.

New Zealand has been a leader in social legislation through the years and were perhaps the first nation to give women the right to vote in 1899. Old age pensions with a means test were instituted in 1898.

Thorton Waters thanked the speaker. Stanley Flett, president of the Norwood 50-50 club, moved a vote of thanks to the Young Adults Club for the evening, and extended an invitation for a return visit to Norwood.

Jr. Ski School Declares Champs

The junior ski school wound up its most successful season Saturday with the school's senior, intermediate and junior boys and girls championships.

A giant slalom course was set up down the length of the slope and all contestants, more than 60, [illegible] tween flags for the trophies and prizes.

Ross Dobbin and Ann Arnold won the senior races, for skiers over 12 years, while Gerald Wood and Peter Ashby in the boys and Joan Weir and Nancy Townsend in the girls were second and third respectively.

In the intermediate division Allan Wood and Wendy Slater won the boys and girls races. David Ross and Ted Arnold were second and third while Barbara Bonning and Robea Purdon placed just behind Miss Slater.

Paul Ross won the junior boys event, edging out Alwood White and Rick Krug. Judy Slater was the junior girls champ.

Presented Trophies

Wilfred Langan, representing the recreation commission which sponsors the school with the ski club, presented the trophies to the first place winners. They also received wooden plaques, made by Hurrell Dodds, a former member of the recreation commission. The second place holders were given prizes by the club.

Snow conditions were fair, a thin layer of snow well-packed and in some places icy.

Driving Ability Affected; Man Fined

Robert Beatty, 67, 261 Perry St., pleaded guilty in police court Saturday to driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

He was fined $50 and $2.50 costs.

Beatty was stopped on Lansdowne St., just east of the Lock's [illegible] ing by OPP Constables Ralph Tremills and John Cawood, who notified the city police.

Stealing Fish From Nets

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., March 3 (CP)—Commercial fishermen say someone has been stealing their fish and tearing their nets at Gros Cap on Lake Superior, northwest of here. They blame sportsmen who have about 80 fishing smacks on the lake ice.

The sportsmen deny the accusation. They suggest commerical fishermen are destroying the nets themselves in an effort to have the sport fishing stopped.

Lands department men say they can do nothing about the dispute. Quimby Hess, district forester, said today the department is concerned only if the Fisheries Act is broken.

Fraser, a resident of the Six Nations Indian reservation was found dead last night outside a home on the Sour Springs Road. An autopsy has been ordered.

Burned To Death

WELLAND, March 3 (CP) — George Roy Hodgkins, 63, was burned to death today in his home at Allanburg, five miles north of here. He is believed to have suffered a heart attack and slumped across a stove. Tenants in his house smelled smoke and extinguished the flames consuming his body.

IS YOUR TRUCKING JOB DIFFERENT?

DODGE IS THE ANSWER

Take your loads and roads, for instance. Naturally, they're different. Your loads may be big or little, heavy or light, bulky or compact. Your roads may be paved or rough, level or hilly. So your truck must fit your particular trucking job. And there's a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck that's factory-engineered to do just that for you . . . with economy.

No matter what loads you haul, you'll carry them surely and safely in a Dodge truck that's "Job-Rated" for that job of yours. Its load-carrying units (frame, axles and springs, for example) will have the strength and capacity your loads demand. You'll haul bigger payloads. Your truck will perform better, last longer and save you money.

No matter what roads you travel, you'll move your loads quickly and economically in a truck that's "Job-Rated" for your job. Every load-moving unit (such as engine, clutch and transmission) will stand up under severe operating conditions. Why not see your Dodge dealer about a truck that fits that different trucking job of yours?

The Impact Of The Festival

During the last week ten plays were performed on the stage of the Collegiate as entries in the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival. It was the first time that the Festival had been held in Peterborough. The local committee responsible for the arrangements could not know how Peterborough would take it, or how the festival players would take to Peterborough. The infection was good and mutual.

* * *

A theatre audience of strength and discrimination has grown in Peterborough where for the past several years the Little Theatre has performed major Shakespeare plays; the professional Summer Theatre has had three successful seasons, and two two-day district amateur festivals have been held. But a six-performance Regional Festival of the Dominion Drama Festival is a large undertaking to support. Doubt was dispelled by the response of citizens and when preliminary plans were being made; and by the large and appreciative audiences which, even on Saturday afternoon, continued their attendance. All told more than four thousand people attended the plays staged by ten theatre groups from Peterborough and east to Ottawa and south to Brockville. The majority of the audiences were Peterborough people. There were several hundred from outside points, and, of course, large acting companies from other centres. These outside people seemed pleased with the arrangements for their reception, and with the city.

* * *

It is particularly gratifying to the host city that the adjudicator had warm praise for the Peterborough entries, and in his summary Saturday evening, made particular mention of the good acting of half a dozen local people. Two of them were judged the best actor and best actress in the entire Festival.

* * *

The impact of the Drama Festival upon Peterborough was stronger than the committee had anticipated. And conversely it must be said that Peterborough's impact upon out-of-town groups in the competition was a factor to be reckoned with. Again and again members of companies acting in this city for the first time commented upon the quality of the attention which they received from the audience, the generous responsiveness of the audience, and the quick wit of the audience. Whether our visitors expected us to be passive and cow-like in our attitude toward their work we cannot say; certainly they were delighted with the Peterborough audience. Perhaps we may permit ourselves complacently to say that it is good for people from the other communities of Eastern Ontario to visit Peterborough; it gives them a lift. Undoubtedly their appearances here gave Peterborough a lift.

* * *

The festival was extremely fortunate in its adjudicator, Mr. Pierre LeFevre. He was never niggling, and never dogmatic. He went right to the heart of each play as he criticised, and dealt with every performance and every detail of production on the ground of whether or not it served the play, revealing its inner meaning. His adjudications were a series of admirable lessons in the appreciation of drama. Audience and competitors alike were enriched by the experience and sensitivity which he brought to his work, and he left Peterborough with the goodwill and thanks of hundreds of people who saw him only on the stage, as well as the gratitude and admiration of those who benefited most directly from his wise and patient advice.

* * *

After such a successful festival, there can never again be any doubt as to Peterborough's fondness for the theatre. But that fondness does not extend to bad or insincere theatre work. In the past travelling companies, performing cheap plays in a cheap way, have visited our city, and have induced local organizations to sponsor them. The poor quality of their work disappointed both sponsors and audience. But theatre on the level attained during the greater part of last week's festival finds a warm welcome here, and it appears that theatre-going is now high on the list of Peterborough's favourite entertainments.

Chess In Three Dimensions

As a player who has grappled with the difficulties of chess for several years, while remaining a hopelessly mediocre player, we can only gasp at the news that a three-dimensional version of this greatest of table-games has been devised by Dr. Ervand George Kogbetliantz. The board for this game is in fact eight chessboards, made of glass and set in a rack one above the other; pieces move not merely to and fro, but up and down from board to board on the 512 squares. There are also four new pieces—the superqueen, the archbishop, the fool and the hippogriff, each with a special move of its own. For example, the hippogriff can move three squares ahead, two squares to the side, and one board downward. We cannot begin to guess the degree to which this further complicates an exceedingly complicated game.

To play master chess requires a type of genius. The difference between a first-rate player and a master can only be explained on the ground that the latter has an affinity for the game which no amount of practice or study will produce. Among the masters, how many will be equally masters of three-dimensional chess?

We marvel at Kogbetliantz's invention, and having marvelled, we return to our own perennial chess problem, which is to try to plan at least two moves ahead, and to avoid having our Queen snatched by a wily opponent too early in the game.

Will There Be Another Democratic Split?

Current indications are that the Southern wing of the United States Democratic Party is planning to break away from it again if President Truman decides to run again. This has been made apparent by strategy meetings attended by such Southern leaders as Governor James P. Burnes of South Carolina, and Senators Richard Russell of Georgia and Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia. This development is causing more apprehension than the similar move in 1948, since the Democrats are in a decidedly defensive position because of revenue and reconstruction finance scandals. And Senator Taft of Ohio, seeking the Republican Presidential nomination, quickly recognized it and has sought to make political capital of it.

It must be conceded that, whatever his other qualities, Senator Taft is an eminently practical politician. His announcement that he would appoint one or two Southern Democrats to his Cabinet, if elected President, was about the shrewdest move he could make; although the strategy meetings referred to above tentatively decided to form a third party and run candidates if Mr. Truman ran and was opposed by Senator Taft, the promise of Cabinet posts might bring a change of mind. On the other hand, if a Southern party felt certain of holding the balance of power in a new Congress, it might feel that it could bargain for Cabinet posts on its own terms.

Observers are not overlooking the fact that Mr. Truman, confounding virtually all political prophets, won in 1948 despite the secession of most of the South. Mr. Truman and his Administration, however, are in a considerably less favourable position now than then. The revolt of the South in 1948 was a hurried development following the Democratic convention; if Southern leaders go ahead with their present plans, they will be well organized long before the convention. Furthermore, it is thought that the scandals mentioned above will prove really costly to the Democrats at the polls.

The formation of the next Administration of the United States is of vital importance to the allies of that country, particularly to Canadians. It is regrettable, therefore, that there now appears to be little hope for an Administration with a clear working majority in Congress. That has been the situation for the past four years, and it has produced much of the policy confusion that has become increasingly apparent during the latter half of that period.

The End Of Tuberculosis?

News that specific cure has been found for a dread disease must be approached with great caution. At present reports have been made public that a specific for tuberculosis has been found, which has cured laboratory animals infected with the disease, and has brought about remarkable recovery in a group of hospital patients far gone in tuberculosis. If the treatment is as effective as it now appears, it will banish one of the most terrible of all the ills of mankind. The new drugs used in the cure can be produced fairly cheaply, and in unlimited quantity.

Responsibile physicians would not have made public statements about the new treatment if they were not convinced of its worth. However, time alone can tell whether the cure is permanent and whether it is free from undesirable effects. It is not so long ago that great hopes were entertained of streptomycin as a cure for tuberculosis, but it was found to have effects which made it an unsatisfactory instrument of treatment.

Tuberculosis is one of civilization's great killers. To bring it under control would be an even greater boon than the control of smallpox. The new treatment holds out great hope, but until it has stood the test of use under all conditions and climates, we dare not say that tuberculosis is beaten.

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

THIS YEAR is the centenary of the birth of an Irishman who did more than almost anyone else to promote the English renaissance in music at the turn of the last century. He was born in Dublin in 1852, and moved to Cambridge as an undergraduate in 1870 as Choral Scholar at Queen's College. The normal duties of a choral scholar at one of the colleges of Oxford or Cambridge consist in singing in the daily services held in the college chapel. There is no doubt that the young Irishman took full advantage of the opportunity of steeping himself in the fine repertoire of English church music, a unique style that has been aptly deseribed as "ecclesiastical chamber music." Hubert Parry's gifts soon became generally known, and in 1873, while still an undergraduate, he was appointed to the position of organist of Trinity College, the largest and in some respects the most important of the Cambridge colleges, in succession to J. L. Hopkins, a doctor of music. In 1874 he took over the leadership of the University Musical Society, and in the same year found time to graduate in classical honours.

✧ ✧ ✧

HE SOON started pouring out a vast number of compositions of various types. All the time he was leading an extremely busy life conducting, playing and teaching. His fame spread to London, and little by little the metropolis engaged more and more of his time. Eventually he settled in London, giving up his organ but retaining the post of Professor of Music at the University to which he had been elected in 1887. His official work in London included the important post of head of the department of composition at the then newly formed Royal College of Music. It is hard to think how he could have combined all these exacting and responsible positions and at the same time maintain a large and steady output of compositions. As a teacher he was unrivalled. There is scarcely a single English composer of any consequence during the next generation that did not pass through his hands. Vaughan Williams, Holst, Howells, Goossens, Bridge, Ireland, Bliss, Boughton, Dunhill and Dyson; not a bad lot of pupils! He always insisted on good craftmanship; anything sloppy was an abomination to him. A traditionalist at heart, he was out of sympathy with the developments initiated by his pupils, but they all had the greatest respect for his gifts as a teacher and there is no doubt that the sound training that he gave them saved them from much woolly and slipshod writing.

He received a knighthood in 1901 for his services to music, and continued active until his death in 1924. His published compositions extend to 177 opus numbers, and when one remembers that some of these include operas, symphonies and other extended works his output is very considerable. His church music alone is of first-rate importance, inasmuch as he lifted nineteenth century English church music out of a rut and was the first to apply symphonic methods to settings of the canticles. His cantata, The Revenge, is still popular, and revivals of his operas have usually met with a certain success, though they have never taken such a hold on the affections of the public as of the critics. But the vast mass of his work is seldom heard nowadays. This is a pity, for though it may be said with justice that the influence of Brahms is rather too strong at times his best music is always graceful to play or sing and full of racy Irish wit. I wonder how many of my readers have got so far without guessing the identity of this many-sided genius. His name is Sir Charles Villiers Stanford.

✧ ✧ ✧

STANFORD's name is often coupled with that of his contemporary Sir Hubert Parry, whose career ran on parallel lines to him. Parry was, it is true, born into rather more patrician surroundings than Stanford, but whereas Stanford became Professor of Music at Cambridge, Parry reached the same position at Oxford and at the same time was first principal of the Royal College of Music. It was an age of pluralsim of appointments, yet there were men big enough to fill them. Nowadays the Grand Cham of music after the style of Parry, Stanford and Allen (the last of his race in England) is a vanishing phenomenom. The field is being more and more taken by specialists. Sir Ernest Macmillan in Toronto is one of the few survivors of the race, and it does not appear that he will find a successor: the kingdom will be divided amongst his lieutenants. Let us not, in our enthusiasm for democracy, overlook the positive benefits of a benevolent autocracy. The influence of Parry and Stanford is felt to this very day in England, and the results has been a tremendous upsurge of native talent, especially of the creative order. Setting aside his "Jerusalem", Parry's music has made less headway than Stanford's. Personally I find it sincere and earnest but rather stodgy, lacking in fire and passion. His writings on music, however, in spite of modern research, are full of sound scholarship backed by wise and discerning judgement and are still very readable. Making allowance for the fact that his view of musical history was to a great extent coloured by the prevailing Victorian optimism concerning progress the reader of today can gain much from reading such things as his volume on the seventeenth century in the Oxford History of Music. For one thing his style is lucidity itself, a welcome relief from the tortuous style of certain learned American musicologists of Central Eurpoean provenance. The new science of musicology has, alas, given rise to a new language: it is certainly not English in the ordinary sense of the word; it might be aptly named Refugese.

✧ ✧ ✧

INCIDENTALLY Parry was mainly responsible for a minor revolution in English social life. Not only did he, a product of Eton and Oxford, deliberately choose the life of a professional musician, an almost unheard-of thing in those days, but he succeeded in convincing a goodly number of the embattled ranks of the middle and upper classes of Victorian England that music was just as suitable (though considerably less remunerative) a profession as the law, the church or medicine. The fact that he was interested in all outdoor sports and was a keen skater and yachtsman served to dispel the notion, if it ever existed, that he was "eccentric". Nowadays I feel that the musical profession has become almost too respectable and genteel. Not that it is wrong for a musician to dress more or less conventionally and pay his bills with tolerable promptness: the silly Bohemianism of the 1830's is dead as a doornail. All the same the professional musician of today badly needs a greater sense of vocation. Parry himself possessed that sense without feeling the necessity to pose as a languid aesthete or a lonely Titan. May he long serve an example of single-hearted devotion to the art of music.

Letters To The Editor

TO PROSPECTIVE COUNTY OFFICERS

Sir: There has been two letters to the Editor in your paper concerning the proposed bylaw, for cutting trees and lumber in farm wood-lots.

When does a man own his farm? When he has lived on it for ten years? Or has had a clear deed of it for ten years? Or has been bound by a mortgage prohibiting the cutting of timber on his farm? or has squatter's rights?

If anyone knows how they can fine a man on circumstances other than a clear deed kindly follow up with a letter to the Editor.

One of the letters your paper mentioned teeth in the bylaw; these teeth are all broken and in a foolish head for they bite only those who support them. A man in the timber business will invest his money with the prospect of making a gain of twenty per cent or should, and would not mind paying you, our County Council the lousy sum of fifty or one hundred dollars when he makes two thousand. But a farmer breaks your bylaw and cuts fifty dollars worth of undersized logs and you will possibly receive the money in fines.

If a farmer loses all right and say of his wood-lot and reaps no harvest, and his wood-lot becomes a dependent instead of a supporter, I for one shall turn all the wood-lot I can into a demonstration wood-lot and allow the government all say of it. I understand in part the plea of our County Council, in stopping men who buy farms, with no hope of ever farming them, but only cut the woods, leaving a wilderness of worthless gads, and selling the farm again.

On our farm there is fifteen acres of good timber, and thirty acres of fair timber and wood. On this area we have planted in the past twelve years, approximately fifteen thousand young trees supplied by the Department of Lands and Forest, and the beginning of this bylaw is the end of our planting.

If our county council finds the need of hiring two or three capable men for inspectors of wood-lots they may find one where they found the county assessor. The people in our county it would seem are too ignorant and uneducated to qualify, for such well paid and unimportant positions. Since a small boy I have heard it said poverty and comment always begins at home.

I would suggest that members of the reforestration committee would take the time, which now grows short, to go to the county forest and see if they can locate any pine stumps measuring more than eighteen inches as a result of that (profitable) cutting carried out last winter (or is this water under the bridge.)

I understand we have a man now who upon request who will come to our wood-lots if we are interested enough in selective cutting, and tell us the trees that should be cut and not cut, and is paid I understand by the Department of Lands and Forests.

I am not an objector and will take back some of the things I have said I would do if and when our county council passes a bylaw that would protect our forests by giving selective cutting and without paying the unnessary forest inspectors, and raising our taxes, which now is a larger load than any farmer should be asked to carry.

Any of you gentlemen who are interested in this bylaw, and ratepayers of the county should not let this bylaw pass unchallenged, and then say what a hell of a county council we have. These men represent the people of each township and if they do not know what we want how then can they do what we want done.

God knows there is plenty of expenses to be paid in our county, with county roads, causeway, bridges and above all education, without adding unnecessary spending to enforce such bylaws.

I am, your truly,

TAMARACK.

THINKS GOD OPPOSES TIMBER CONTROL

Sir: This talk of stopping people of cutting timber, even on their own farms, sure will soon be as bad as tho' in those dictator countries. Talk of democracy; Call it a mockery of freedom! The next thing, to give a job to some white-collared gents, they'll be coming round telling us farmers what to grow, how much to put in, and how much to use of it for ourselves, etc.

Get a few padded cells ready and the next one that has a brain wave to reform, or some new invention, chloroform and get him in one of those cells, until he comes out of his dillusion as to bettering the world. I should think people can see where all these inventions, organizations and all these new set-ups, with a half-dozen titles ahead of what they're trying to tell, has got the world where it is today. Never was everything in such a mess. I wonder if this cattle disease plague isn't to show some folks the result of keeping meat at such an extreme price, so much so, that there is people right here in Canada actually so meat hungry, they are drove to eating horse meat, our most intelligent and loving animal, except the dog. It's a wonder they don't start on them. Why? just greed and poor judgment. The people vote our leaders in office with all their fine promises, it looks after they get in (of course their time won't be too long), so they'll grab all they can while grabbing is in their reach. Well our Bible speaks of 'em, tells how they will oppress the people and eat the fat of the flock. God notes all of this, and the day of reckoning is to come, when justice will be dealt to all.

The poor will be just as equal as any then, and have all the rights as well as the rich. So there! Us old timers can well remember when there was liberties and freedom, but now, each year tells of closing in till it will all be gone. Forestry has been more of a curse than blessing as Mrs. Hamilton told of its results. Any tom-fool theory that comes up, some folks, oh yes.

"OLD TIMER."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then Paul stood up, and beckoning with his hand, said, Men of Israel, and ye that fear God, give audience. The God of this people of Isreal chose our fathers, and exalted the people when they dwell as strangers in the land of Egypt, and with an high arm brought he them out of it. . . . And afterward they desired a king: and God gave unto them Saul the son of Cis, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, by the space of forty years. And when he had removed him, he raised up unto them David to be their king; to whom also he gave testimony, and said, I have found David the son of Jesse, a man after mine own heart, which shall fulfil all my will. Of this man's seed hath God according to his promise raised unto Israel a Saviour, Jesus . . .

Men and brethren, children of the stock of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is the word of this salvation sent. For they that dwell at Jerusalem, and their rulers, because they knew him not, nor yet the voices of the prophets which are read every sabbath day, they have fulfilled them in condemning him. And though they found no cause of death in him yet desired they Pilate that he should be slain . . . .

And we declare unto you glad tidings, how that the promise which was made unto the fathers, God hath fulfilled the same unto us their children, in that he hath raised up Jesus again; as it is also written in the second psalm, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee. (Acts 13: 16, 17, 21-23, 26-28, 32, 33.)

In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him . . . . And we have seen and do testify that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world. I John 4: 9, 14.)

On A Tight Rope

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

How wonderful it would be to wake some day and learn that all the bad news had come to an end—that the human race had ceased to be as recklessly irresponsible, irreligious and irascible as it is!

Our generation is like an unending nightmare. Tragedy, crime, corruption, prices, taxes, wars and rumors of war fill the news and fill men's thoughts with worry and despair. Ordinary folk everywhere live from day to day as if walking a tight rope in a high wind or the brink of a precipice in a storm.

Protest Charge Of Rackets In Printing Bureau

OTTAWA, March 3 (CP)—The Welfare Association of the Department of Public Printing and Stationery, an employees' organization, Sunday protested against publication of a recent series of articles concerning alleged "rackets" in the Government Printing Bureau.

The articles said that "a wide range of rackets" is flourishing among civil servants in the bureau and that certain employees act as loan sharks, bootleggers, bookies and peddlers of contraceptives and suggestive literature to other employees.

In a letter, W. W. Wallace, president of the association, said the conditions outlined in the articles "might be characteristic of 35 years ago. The records of the department indicate that in 1917 the employees numbered 1,300, the majority of whom were appointed under the patronage system." In 1919, stricter measures in appointment were brought in.

Vouch For Honesty

The letter said that each division of the department is represented by two members of the Welfare Association with "a most complete knowledge of all activities of the department, and we are prepared to vouch for the honesty and integrity of the employees.

"Generally speaking the rotten apple can be found in any barrel and our barrel is no exception, but, under the present system, it is not long before our rotten apples are discovered and discarded."

The system of appointments in the department was similar to that of other departments, with all appointees having to undergo written or oral examinations, security screening and character checks.

"We can see no reason why the department . . . has been singled out for special attention," the letter added.

Beecham's Tour Cancelled By Illness

LOS ANGELES, March 3. (AP)—Conductor Sir Thomas Beecham has been taken painfully—although not seriously—ill and has cancelled the rest of his American and Canadian concert tour, it was disclosed Saturday. His tour included Toronto.

Conductor of Royal Philharmonic Orchestra of London, Sir Thomas conducted here last Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Dr. F. M. McKeever and Dr. J. C. Wilson said Beecham is suffering from "severe low back pains caused by degenerative arthritis of the lumbo-sacral joint."

$2,000 Bail

MONTREAL, March 3 (CP)—Albert Sancoucy, wealthy dry-goods jobber, deposited $2,000 bail Saturday following a charge of receiving stolen goods. Sancoucy surrendered to police Friday before he had been served with a warrant charging him with receiving bolts of stolen cloth valued at $5,000.

Sees Relatives After 46 Years

NEW YORK, March 3. (CP)—Mrs. Mary Glosner, 61, was reunited at Bellevue Hospital here Saturday with relatives she had not seen since she left the Mohawk Indian reservation at Ohsweken, 10 miles south of Brantford, 46 years ago.

Among them was a sister, Mrs. Lena Davis, 42, of Port Colborne, whom she had never seen before.

Mrs. Glossner, a widow now living in New York and doing domestic work, was admitted to the hospital for surgical observation, Feb. 18.

She gave the reservation address as that of her next-of-kin and the hospital advised her relatives.

Mrs. Davis arrived Saturday with another sister of Mrs. Glossner, Mrs. Lucy Powless of the Ohsweken Reservation; a brother, Andrew Hill, 58, also from the reservation, and a niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thomas of Buffalo.

The visitors say they hope to persuade Mrs. Glossner to return to the reservation after her recovery.

Teller Makes Mistake Gives $1,000 Extra

RICHMOND HILL, Ont., March 3 (CP)—Short of funds while returning home Friday from a business trip, salesman Edward Allan cashed a cheque for $1,300 at a Kapuskasing bank.

Unknown to him, the teller gave him $1,000 too much and did not realize her mistake until some time later.

Provincial police were notified and got in touch with Mr. Allan when he arrived home Saturday. When Constable Ronald Seyfert went to the Allan house to tell Mr. Allan of the mistake, the salesman was just getting ready to count "his $1,300."

Explanations were made and Mr. Allan turned the $1,000 extra over to the constable.

Fathered Murdered Police Seek Son

BATHURST, N.B., March 3. —(CP)—Fred Gauthier was slain on Saturday night in his Tetagouche home, 12 miles from Bathurst, and police have begun a search for his son, 24-year-old Wilfred.

Police said the son fled from the house immediately after the shooting. Other members of the family, including the victim's wife, were present at the time. The father died of a bullet wound in the neck.

It was reported that Wilfred had been ejected from the house two weeks ago and returned Saturday.

UP AND AWAY, GIRLS—Towne Togs followed the same pattern as this picture throughout Saturday night's game with Whitby. Scoring most of their 69 points on lay-up shots, the Togs easily won the cage round by 87 points with their 69-13 win at the Y.W.C.A. Carol Raper (at left) broke into the clear and leaped up for this lay-up shot basket. She was closely followed by the Whitby lass who jumped up to stop the shot, but was unsuccessful.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Togs Too Good For Whitby In Hoop Series

Whoever pitted Whitby girls with Blacks' Towne Togs in the first round of the L.O.B.A. intermediate "B" series, didn't realize the strength of the Togs or the weakness of the lakeshore squad.

In a leisurely fashion, the Togs disposed of Whitby cagers Saturday night at the Y.W.C.A. gym, 69-13, to win the round by no less than 87 points, 123-36. Earlier in the week the Peterborough lasses romped to a 54-23 victory in Whitby.

This game marked the appearance of neutral referees, a new policy by the L.O.B.A. and one which should have been adopted years ago. The men's section still have to make that step.

Stan Mockford of Toronto, one of Ontario's best referees, handled the game which could have easily been handled by anyone with the slightest knowledge of basketball. There were few violations and those that were made were minor. Whenever the girls did anything out of the way, Mockford was on it without a second's hesitation.

Togs threw up a zone defence curtain most of the game and that was all they needed. Practically everytime the Whitby girls carried the ball, they were checked up and forced to shoot. Many times Mabel Gillen, Susie DeWarga and Betty Rumble poke-checked the ball out of their hands for breaks up the court.

Changed Style

Briefly in the second half, Togs switched to a man-to-man defence and that proved even more disastrous for Whitby. Togs swept the ball out of Whitby's hands in Whitby territory and piled up the points. That walk-away forced a change back to zone.

Whitby never had any defence which was effective. Whatever they used, the Town Togs would break through with their short, quick passes to work under the basket.

Whitby did stay close to Togs 9-4 in the first quarter but only because the Peterborough girls were not taking advantage of their shooting opportunities. Fast breaks by Joan Dunk and Mabel Gillen changed that quickly in the second quarter which ended 29-5.

Phil Macks' instruction on working the ball in close for layup or close field shots was followed with great success in the second half. These neat passes generally ended in points for Mabel Gillen, Joan Dunk, Carol Raper, Susie DeWarga and especially Pauline Stewart, totalling 40 points. Even then they missed on a number of layup shots.

Pauline Stewart and Mabel Gillen led Togs with 16 points each. Stewart netted her points mostly on layup shots while Gillen was getting points on quick breaks. Joan Dunk totalled 14 from close in and out at the top of the key.

Again Gloria White was tops for Whitby. With a weird hook shot, which appears slightly sidearm, she scored eight points. Donna Peters hooped two baskets with long shots.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Petes play Eagles tonight at 8.30 in Civic Arena, the last O.H.A. senior "B" game of the schedule. In fact, it's a replay. Back in November, Eagles pulled out a 7-4 win o'er the Petes, but the latter protested Bob Parnall, claiming he wasn't a local resident now. The O.H.A. considered the case and ruled that Parnall was Eagles' property, but somebody slipped up and had failed to sign him before that game. So, the tilt was tossed out and ordered replayed at schedule's end, if necessary. It is necessary now since Eagles and Kingston are battling for second place in the standing. Eagles must win tonight, or they're in third place.

* * * * * *

That second position is important, since it would give Eagles the first game of their group semi-finals here and also the seventh fray on home ice, if it goes the limit. So, they'll be fighting fiercely for this one, and they'll have to hustle to down the leading Petes. Latter and Belleville will be tangling—here Friday—in one group semi-final series, and Kingston and Eagles in the other. It is quite possible that this will be the last meeting of the whole season (even including playoffs) of these two local rivals, so a big crowd is expected. Of course, everyone up this way hopes that Petes and Eagles meet again in group finals, but you never know. Perish that horrible thought!

* * * * * *

Those That Are Left

Winner of this Central Ontario senior "B" group will be going right into provincial semi-finals. That's the straight dope. The survivor of the Sarnia-Chatham-St. Thomas sawoffs meets the winner of Bridgeport-Woodstock. The ultimate victor of that goes against the Dundas-Burlington survivor for Western Ontario honors, and will then move into provincial finals. Meanwhile, Downsview is going against Dawes-Danforth, the winner tackling the team which takes the Scarboro Industrial League title. Okay, the team which survives is ready then to take on the Stouffville-Orillia versus Central Ontario group victor for Eastern Ontario honors and the right to go into the Ontario senior "B" finals. Got it? Our group winner will be meeting Stouffville or Orillia next or the victor of that Toronto setup in semi-finals, with a crack then at the finals if they come through.

* * * * * *

While the Petes proved tops in this grouping last year, they had a tough break in being upped to senior "A" rating and drawing the potent Owen Sound squad right off the bat. They lost out right away, but they're gunning for the senior "B" crown this semester. Ditto, of course, with Eagles who won it three years ago and were finalists two seasons back. They didn't get out of their group last year, a raft of injuries ruining them at playoff time. However, Petes must get by Belleville, and Eagles must rub out Kingston first of all ere they set their sights on any other target. First things first.

Re: The Playoff Picture

At a meeting yester aft in Belleville, 'twas decided the clubs would have time to stage best-of-seven semi-finals, with finals coming two days after these series were o'er. Two refs will be used and 10 minutes of overtime, if needed. Ties count a point apiece but if two clubs wind up a series tied on points, they'll have to stage a home-and-home series, goals counting. Provided Eagles win tonight's tilt, they'll open here Wednesday against Kingston. But if they lose this eve, they'll open in Kingston on Saturday. In the other bracket, Belleville begin against the Petes here this coming Friday. More on the rest of the playoff picture in a day or two.

* * * * * *

In basketball Saturday, the L.O.B.A. intermediate "B" playdown series wound up at the Y.W. decisively with Togs thumping Whitby lasses 69-13 to sweep the round 123-36. Togs were much too classey for their opponents in both games. Down in Welland 'twas a different local hoop story when the smart St. Catharines Stars racked up a 74-31 win over P.C.V.S. to open O.A.B.A. junior playdowns, the return being here this coming Saturday. The Collegians weren't given much chance of taking this series, but the practise should sharpen 'em up plenty for C.O.S.S.A. play coming up shortly.

P.C.V.S. Beaten By St. Kitts In Junior Fray

Out of their class the P.C.V.S. junior O.A.B.A. quintet absorbed a 74-31 shellacking by the St. Catharines Stars Saturday morning in Welland's Notre Dame High Schoo.l

Outmatched, the Garnet and Grey have a deficit of 43 points to face when they meet the Stars in the return game of the points-to-count series at P.C.V.S. on Saturday.

This year the Collegiate seniors were entered in the Ontario junior series for practice before the C.O.S.S.A. finals on March 15 in Toronto. They weren't considered strong contenders for the Ontario junior title.

On the other hand the Stars, since they ousted the Toronto champions, Cottage Comets, have been rated among the best three junior teams in Ontario. The others are Windsor and Kitchener, the Windsor crew expect to win the title for the third straight year.

"Although the shock was great for the boys," said Mr. Goulding after the game, "I hope it will prepare them for a good team such as Niagara Falls in the C.O.-S.S.A. finals. I'm hoping it'll sharpen them up."

The 31-point total for the seniors was their poorest this year but the Stars were too strong in all departments. The Stars are too experienced, having a two-year endge on the Garnet and Grey cagers, four of whom are still of juvenile age.

Thrown Off

The Stars used a switching man-to-man defence which threw P.C.V.S. off their game. Realizing fouls would harm them, the Stars several times let the Collegiate cagers through but this again only tended to bewilder P.C.V.S. and they missed their chances.

But the most important factor was that Stars controlled both backboards. There Dube, Harrison and Wilkerson worked unmolested by the much-smaller Collegiate guards and sometimes had as many as five tries before scoring.

The Stars rolled their score up mostly on rebounds but when given the chance could score with excellent shooting from as far as 20 feet out on the court. Lewitt dropped most of his total of 12 points from out there.

The Stars rolled their score up mostly on rebounds but when given the chance could score with excellent shooting from as far as 20 feet out on the court. Lewitt dropped most of his total of 12 points from out there.

On the wide new Notre Dame floor the Collegians started and stayed with a man-to-man defence which was not very effective.

Dube for Stars working from the pivot dropped in a total of 17 points. Also from rebounds he netted a few points. Harrison mostly on rebounds scored 13 points, Lewitt 12 points on long shots, Carl McKenzie and Wilkerson each 11 points.

Bryon Young with driving-in layups topped the P.C.V.S. scoring with eight points. Don Ash and Murray Grafstein each scored six. Dave Langhorne, usually a point-getter, was scoreless due to an injured eye, received by an accidental elbow.

Lineups—P.C.V.S. (31)—Ash 6, Young 8, Grafstein 6, Hempstead 3, Brown 1, Hendry 2, Langhorne, Cranfield 4.

St. Catharines (74)—Dube 17, MacKenzie 11, Harrison 13, Martin 6, Pieva 4, Wilkerson 11, Moar, Rae, Lewitt 12.

WINS CHAMPIONSHIP—Frances' Jacqueline du Bief won the world's figure-skating championship, Saturday night in Paris with a spectacular performance. She had placed third in the same event at the Olympics.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

France's Jacqueline du Bief won the world's figure-skating championship Saturday night with a spectacular and artistic performance at the Palais du Sports, Paris. Toronto's Suzanne Morrow finished fourth.

In the official scoring Mlle. du Bief got first place votes from each of the nine judges and piled up 195.85 judging points. A wildly-cheering crowd of 15,000 acclaimed the girl who had brought France third place honors in the same event at the Olympics.

Miss Morrow, 21-year-old 1951 Canadian senior women's champion who placed sixth at the Olympics at Oslo, received 43 place points and 185 judging points.

Two other Canadians placed well up.

Marlene Smith of Niagara Falls, Ont., was seventh with 64 placing and 181.11 judging points. The 20-year-old Toronto Skating Club star was Canadian senior champion in 1952 and runner-up in the 1949 North American championships.

In 10th spot was Vevi Smith, 19, of Toronto with 90 placing points and 176.31 judging points. She was runner-up for the Canadian senior title in 1952 and Canadian junior champ in 1947.

Second place honors went to Sonya Klopfer of Long Island City, N. Y., and third spot to Virginia Baxter of Detroit. Miss Klopfer has 21 place points and 191.97 judging marks, and Miss Baxter 21 and 190.42.

Bobby Locke of South Africa won the Mexican open golf tournament Sunday with a 72-hole score of 276.

John Sands, 18-year-old Saskatoon speed skater, Saturday smashed the Canadian record for the three-mile race when he covered the distance in eight minutes and 34 seconds at the Saskatchewan outdoor championships. Officials said Sands' time bettered the mark set by Joe Moore of New York in 1923 by seven to 10 seconds.

Phil Rizzuto Saturday signed his New York Yankee contract for an estimated $45,000, making him the highest paid shortstop in baseball history. The figure represents a raise of about $5,000 for the 33-year-old infielder.

The Toronto Maple Leaf organization Sunday night called up George (Dusty) Blair of Saint John Beavers to replace injured Bill Ezinicki with Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League.

Norwegian speed-skating ace Hjalmar Andersen unofficially clinched his third consecutive world speed skating championship today by winning his favorite race, the 10,000 metres, in meet record time.

Lu Kimm Signs For Bout Here

The signing of Lu Kimm, sensational Manchurian grappler to meet Strangler Bob Wagner in the semi-final bout, at the Brock Tuesday, will be received with great enthusiasm by local fans. Kimm is an outstanding matman and is headlining wrestling shows all over America. His opponent, Bob Wagner, is no stranger here although it is quite a spell since he appeared on a local card.

The main bout brings together the negro giant Bobo Brazil against the hated German Hans Hermann. Bobo has promised the fans the biggest bombardment of head butts he has ever let loose. What is adding fire to Brazil's determination to butt Hermann to defeat this time is his contention that he had the growling German beat in their recent bout, when he was disqualified and Hermann named the winner.

With two referees officiating Hermann says he will down Brazil so fast that he never will get a chance to use his best weapon, the head butts.

Popular Bill Stack and Jim (the Bull) Wright start off what promises to be a hectic, explosive evening.

Pakenham Rink Captures Curling 'Spiel

Bill Pakenham's rink of H. Rutherford, G. Moher, D. Haugh, won the vice-skips' bonspiel on Saturday, closely followed by P. Collins, H. Bradburn, and H. Williamson. B. Ashmore's local rink came in for high two winner, while Jack Allen's Guelph quartette took home the prize for one high win.

It was another good bonspiel. Those who took part had a day of good, clean sport. There was some fine curling, especially in the last round. The usual three 10-end games were played and the co-operation the committee received from the curlers helped a lot. The games were all over by 11 o'clock.

Little Britain Wins

OMEMEE, March 3—(ENS) — The hockey tournament Friday night resulted in the Harry Deyell Cup going to Little Britain. Four teams competed: Herb Payne's from Peterborough, a picked team from the Millbrook league, a Little Britain squad (or a combination of Little Britain and Lindsay) and the Omemee Black Hawks.

The Hawks, after putting all they had into the first game to wallop Payne's 20-4, lost to Little Britain in the final, as about half the Hawks were having their first play of the season.

The middle clash in which Little Britain edged Millbrook 6-5, was the best game of the tournament. From it Little Britain went on to a 10-3 victory over the Hawks for the cup.

As a gestue of good will from the Black Hawks four smaller cups were given to the individual player on each team who made the best effort. David Casey captured it for Peterborough, Frank Alberico of Scott's Corners for Millbrook, Garnet Jenkins for Little Britain and Roy Crawford for Omemee.

Roy's mother, Mrs. Percy Crawford, won a grill as a door prize and Phyllis Mills and Croft Richards each drew cash prizes.

T.C.S. Sweeps Three Fixtures

PORT HOPE, March 3.—Trinity College School made a clean sweep of three sports fixtures at the expense of Upper Canada College here Saturday. The T.C.S. hockey team trounced the invading U.C.C. pucksters 8-2, while on the basketball floor, the T.C.S. cagers won both senior and junior contests, 61-42 and 37-27.

Determined to make up for a previous loss suffered at the hands of U.C.C., T.C.S. did not waste any time in jumping into an early hockey lead on a goal by McDerment. However, at the end of the first period, the score stood at 2-2 with Paul and McKay the marksmen for U.C.C. while Currie netted the second goal for T.C.S.

The T.C.S. team moved ahead in the second period on two tallies by Long, and a single by "Nob" Clark and increased its lead in the final 20 minutes when Currie rounded out a hat trick and McDerment scored his second goal.

Led by the 35-point effort by Hugh Walker and the fine defensive work of John Board, the T.C.S. basketballers had little difficulty rolling to victory over the senior team from Upper Canada. Pink and Hogarth with 11 points each were the U.C.C. leaders.

The T.C.S. juniors were led by Dave Wevill with 14 points, followed closely by Ian Walker with nine. Jagger hooped 14 points for U.C.C.

Tommy Sweeps Meet

MONT TREMBLANT, Que., March 3 (CP).—Twenty-year-old Art Tommy of Ottawa swept the 18th annual running of the Quebec Kandahar during the weekend, edging out Bob Richardson, Canada's No. 1 Olympic skier, in the Alpine combined results.

Richardson, who returned only Friday from Oslo, Norway, where he competed for Canada, made a sensational downhill, to win the 45-flag slalom race.

Johnny Clifford of Ottawa, brother of Olympic coach Harvey Clifford, finished third in the combined. Noel Chauvin of Ste. Jovite was fourth, a few points ahead of Owen Sound's Jim Georgas.

Mercurys Take 2-0 O.H.A. Lead In Series Against Kitchener

Owen Sound Mercurys may have been just another team over most of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A season, but when the stretch drive came up, they settled down to some serious hockey.

Meeting Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen in one half of the league's semi-finals, the Mercs weren't rated too much of a chance of making the final round. However, the third place club has surprised the onlookers with their success and Saturday night took a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven series against the Dutchies with a 3-1 victory.

In the Thunder Bay Junior A semi-finals, Fort William Hurricanes eliminated Port Arthur Flyers in their third straight victory, a 2-1 Saturday affair. The Mercs now advance against Port Arthur Bruins in a best-of-seven final series.

Moving into the final week of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A schedule, Toronto St. Michael's clinched fourth place in the 10-team circuit with two wins during the weekend. Saturday night they dropped ninth-place Windsor Spitfires 5-1 and Sunday came through with a 5-4 Guelph Biltmores.

Hold Third Place

In their final home game of the season, Galt Black Hawks held their place with a 10-0 Saturday win over fifth-place St. Catharines Teepees. Oshawa Generals —still in last place—clipped Waterloo Hurricanes 6-3 in the only other Saturday clash while Kitchener Greenshirts retained their chances of a fifth-place niche by tying Toronto Marlboros 5-5 Sunday.

Chuck Lumsden scored twice for the league-leading Marlies, one of the goals giving his team its tie with but 10 seconds left. Bill McFarland, Ron McElroy and Eric Nesterenko added the others.

Orv Tessier collected a pair for kitchener with Duke Edmundson, Don Collins and Joe Ingoldsby notching the others.

St. Mike's spread their scoring across the board with Murray Costello, Bill Lee, Butch Ratchford, Ron Wallace and Bob Schiller coming through with the remainder. Ken Laufman, Aldo Guidolin, Harry Howell and Dean Prentice scored for Guelph.

Pete Conacher and Bill McIntosh grabbed a pair each for Galt with Ed Mateka, Jim McBurney, Johnny Sleaver, Tony Poeta, Ed Switzer and Tommy Fyles scoring the others.

Paces St. Mike's

Bill Knox paced St. Mike's Saturday attack with two goals, the rest going to Butch Ratchford, Ted Toppazzini and Ron Wallace. Jim Robertson was the lone Windsor scorer.

Don McBeth and Don Attersley were Oshawa's best with two each while Dunc Brodie and Fred Etcher added singletons. Waterloo marksmen were Bill McIntosh, Bob Mader and Jim Horton.

At Port Arthur, Norm Burglund and Doug Graham gave the Hurricanes their win while Ron Hurden scored Port Arthur's lone goal.

Bill Allum, Bill McComb and Tommy Burlington scored for Owen Sound while Maurice Levesque pumped in the Dutchmen's lone tally.

One-Half Inch From Title

BATON ROUGE, La., March 3 (AP).—One-half inch separated Bill Nary from the $10,000 Baton Rouge open golf tournament title.

A 40-foot putt attempt from a parking lot near the 18th hole clung tenaciously to the lip of the cup and created a three-way tie Sunday.

Nary, a 36-year-old Albuquerque, N.M., pro, Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston, Texas, and Tommy Bolt, who plays out of Durham, N.C., meet in an 18-hole playoff today.

Nary lost among the pack in early rounds, shot a blazing six-under-par 66 in Sunday's fourth round to move up from fifth position. Bolt was one over par and Burke one under.

Nary's near-miss was a nerve-wracking experience. Nary overshot the 18th green and the ball bounced into the parking lot. Without even being able to see the green, he casually stroked the ball in the general direction of the flag. It bobbed over rough ground, climbed to the green, rolled and stopped one-half inch from the cup.

The crowd jumped up and down trying to shake the ball in. Some even puffed themselves red in the face trying to blow it in. But the ball didn't budge.

Bruins' Two Ties With Leafs Move Them Closer To Rangers For Playoffs

By The Canadian Press

Just last week a lot of observers were counting Boston Bruins out of the Stanley Cup playoffs. However, after a weekend of the old college try against Toronto Maple Leafs, Lynn Patrick's crew have forced a recount. The fifth-place Bruins emerged from their tough weekend schedule against the Leafs with two ties—a 1-1 Saturday night affair in Maple Leaf Gardens and a 2-2 showing at home Sunday—and the Toronto squad was lucky to get away with them.

The pair of stalemates moved the Bruins to within a game of fourth-place New York Rangers who bowed 3-1 to the Canadiens Saturday at Montreal and 6-3 to Detroit Red Wings Sunday at home.

Toronto lost ground to the runner-up Canadiens who completed a successful weekend with a 6-4 victory over the Black Hawks in Chicago.

The Canadiens now trail Detroit by 15 points while Toronto is in third slot, two games behind the Habs. Rangers are 13 points to the rear of the Leafs with the Bruins but a game behind. Chicago remains in the cellar, a full 48 points off the pace.

Gain Tie

Boston gained their tie Saturday on Johnny Peirson's goal at 12.03 of the final period while George Armstrong was sitting out a boarding penalty. Tod Sloan got Toronto's lone goal—his 20th of the season—the same way. Boston's Fiem Mackell was serving a first-period tripping sentence at the time.

The game was a typical Toronto-Boston affair with a few fist fights thrown in. Milt Schmidt of the Bruins and Toronto's Tod Sloan were in two engagements. Sloan received a total of 11 minutes in penalties over the route.

Rookie Real Chevrefils and Jackie McIntyre provided Bruins with their equalizers after Ted Kennedy and Sid Smith had given the Leafs a 2-0 lead.

Saturday night in Montreal, Floyd Curry led the Canadiens with two important goals with Dickie Moore adding the other. Herb Dickenson scored Rangers' lone marker.

Canadiens widely outshot the Blueshirts, 35-19, but found goalie Emile (The Cat) Francis one of their toughest obstacles. The Ranger netminder played one of his best games to date.

Score Three Times

The league-leading Detroit Red Wings scored three times in the last period at New York Sunday to take home their 6-4 victory from the Rangers. The New Yorkers were leading 4-3 at the finish of the middle session.

Gordie Howe led the Detroit attack with a pair of goals—his 38th and 39th of the season—while Metro Prystai, Sid Abel, Glen Skov and Alex Delvecchio added the others. Paul Ronty, Reg Sinclair, Jim Ross and Wally Hergesheimer scored for New York.

Rookie Dick Gamble's hat trick was the deciding edge for Canadiens in their Sunday game at Chicago. Floyd again scored two goals and Bernie Geoffrion tallied the other. George Gee rapped in two for Chicago with Bill Mosienko and Gus Bodnar scoring the others.

Hornets Capture Weekend Wins

By The Canadian Press.

Pittsburgh Hornets, the high-flying leaders of the western section of the American Hockey League, took both of their scheduled weekend games. Saturday they beat Syracuse 5-2 and Sunday edged St. Louis Flyers 2-1.

The Hornets are ahead of the pack with 89 points, while Cleveland is second with 83.

In other Saturday games St. Louis beat Cincinnati 5-1; Hershey triumphed over Indianapolis 6-0; and Cleveland defeated Providence 3-1.

At Cleveland, the Barons boosted their unbeaten streak of 18 straight games by edging Syracuse 3-1.

At Buffalo, Hershey Bears, leaders of the league's eastern division, routed Buffalo Bisons 11-3.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Gordie Howe of Detroit maintained his hot pace during the weekend, scoring two goals Sunday night as the Red Wings clipped New York Rangers 6-4 to move further ahead in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race.

Howe has scored a pace-setting 39 goals and has 31 assists for 70 points, 11 more than second-place Elmer Lach of Montreal Canadiens who has 13 goals and a record 46 assists. Lach went pointless during the weekend games.

The leaders:	G	A	Pts.
Howe, Detroit	39	31	70
Lach, Montreal	13	46	59
Lindsay, Detroit	21	33	54
Raleigh, New York	16	35	51
Smith, Toronto	20	27	47
Geoffrion, Montreal	26	20	46
Peirson, Boston	18	28	46

Weekend Stars

By The Canadian Press.

Gordie Howe, Detroit, who tallied twice in the Red Wings' 6-4 decision over New York Rangers Sunday.

Dick Gamble, Montreal, who scored three times Sunday as Canadiens downed Chicago Black Hawks 6-4.

Floyd Curry, Montreal, whose two goals Saturday gave Canadiens a 3-1 victory over New York.

RETAINS BADMINTON TITLE

At Ste. Agathe, Que., Stan Cutts Saturday night defeated Doug Grant in two straight sets 15-11, 15-7, to retain his world championship badminton singles title. Grant is a former champion.

SOME MARKS TO LIVE UP TO — Wilfred James Cartier, 18, wearing his dad's jacket, is overwhelmed by the marks he'll have to live up to—the hashmarks acquired in 22 years of service with the Army by his father, M/Sgt. Wilfred Cartier, right, who recently witnessed swearing-in of his son in New York. The elder Cartier, now a recruiting sergeant, plans to remain in uniform for at least 30 years.

Natural Gas Industry Has Real Rags-To-Riches Story

By LAWRENCE N. ELDRED

CHICAGO, March 3—(AP)—A product which has mostly burned as waste not many years ago is likely to sell this year for $2,000,000,000. It goes to some 17,000,000 customers in the United States, travels far enough in reaching them to girdle the earth more than 13 times.

Briefly sketched, you have there the rags-to-riches saga of natural gas, by almost any measurement one of spectacular growth. Production, demand, known reserves, dollar value, and geographical spread—all have zoomed at a startling rate.

George F. Mitchell, president of the American Gas Association, says no limit is yet in sight. In forecasting the immediate future, he said that by the end of 1955 the industry expects to spend around $4,500,000,000 to expand facilities.

Natural gas already is being piped to nearly all the States. Maine, Vermont and the Pacific Northwest still are not covered, but lines are aimed at these areas too. The Pacific states may also get some from newly-developed fields in Alberta.

Four companies have applied to the federal power commission for permission to build a cross-border pipeline to bring natural gas from the Alberta fields to the Pacific Northwest.

Proved reserves in the U.S. are estimated at close to 200,000,000,000, more than three-fourths of it in the southwestern part of the country.

30-Year Supply

As of now, the U.S. is using more than 7,500,000,000,000 cubic feet a year. But every year more new reserves are being found than the amount used. Indications are there is enough in sight to last for 30 years or more.

In contrast to the big present and future usage of natural gas, 15 years ago it was "flared off" at oil wells in the southwest as a nuisance because it interfered with the production of oil. Or if it wasn't being lost by flaring is was being dumped into the air at arate estimated by one spokesman of some 2,000,000,000 cubic feet a day.

Then came the great cross-continent pipelines, snaking out from Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, and most recently from the Texas Gulf Coast.

Natural gas folks emphasize none of the great growth of the industry could have taken place but for the development of these long-distance pipelines. These men point out that no other economical means of transportation could carry the vast airy quantities demanded by metropolitan areas.

There now are more than 50 natural gas pipelines in the U.S., 17 of them the modern long-distance high-pressure type.

Gen. Worthington Favors Civil Defence In Schools

OTTAWA, March 3 (CP)—Maj.-Gen F. F. Worthington, strongly in favor of teaching civil defence in Canadian schools, says that argument against it is based on "sheer misunderstanding which is often the stumbling block in human progress."

The federal civil defence co-ordinator, in a statement made in connection with the observance of Canadian Education Week, March 2-8, said:

"Those people who ignore the wig-wagging danger signs of our times may do nothing for themselves, or their neighbors, but they should not be indifferent to the welfare and safety of our children."

The object of all civil defence training, he said, is to save lives, and aside from all sentimentality, the saving of Canada's children was even more important than the saving of those who are middle-aged and beyond.

Fear Panic

Gen. Worthington said it has been argued by many honest people that to bring civil defence into schools and colleges will only result in panic among youthful citizens.

"I have talked this over with school authorities in Europe and with a number of eminent psychologists and there appears to be very little justification for these fears," he said.

In fact, experts point out, Gen. Worthington added, that sometimes the child is more of a realist than the adult. The tot jumps into civil defence training "with a good deal of gusto."

Some provinces already have launched civil defence school training. British Columbia has issued a training pamphlet and opened training courses for teachers. In Saskatchewan civil defence is a subject for 10th and 11th grade high school students.

"Civil defence instruction," said Gen. Worthington, "prevents panic. If civil defence is carried out efficiently, it will materially reduce the fire hazard of any school."

Held In Stabbing

TORONTO, March 3 (CP) — The condition of Bernard Proulx, 25, a former Montreal policeman stabbed in a rooming house here Saturday morning, was described Sunday night by hospital authorities as satisfactory. Mrs. Ida Healy, 42, of Toronto was remanded to March 7 on $10,000 bail Saturday on a charge of wounding. She insisted the stabbing was an accident.

Sent To Shops

CAPE COVE, Que., March 3 (CP)—Snowbound twice in as many weeks, diesel locomotive 7614 was sent to the shops for repairs Saturday, after 56 passengers were taken by snowmobile to Chandler where some boarded a special train bound for Campbellton, N.B.

Flee Detention Cell

MONTREAL, March 3 (CP) — Two men, awaiting arraignment on an auto-theft charge, escaped from a detention cell in criminal court Saturday, dropped from a window to Notre Dame Street and fled. The men were identified as Edouard Tremblay, 23, and Andre Pilon, 23.

Arrest Bandit

TORONTO, March 3 (CP) — Lawrence Kennedy, 36, believed to be the "glassy-eyed bandit" who robbed four Toronto businesses within three days, was arrested Saturday.

HE'LL SEEK PRESIDENCY—Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia (third from the left) announced in Washington that he is a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. His announcement came a few hours after he had been asked to run by this delegation from the Georgia Democratic State Committee. He is the second avowed Democratic aspirant, the first being Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. Russell is surrounded by friends after his announcement.

SEWER NEEDED

City Engineer Chalmers has been asked for an estimate of the cost of extending the city's sewer to Grove School on Erskine Ave. Attendance is 250 and K. S. Wightman, school superintendent, has written the council that the circumstances stress urgency.

INJURED IN FALL

Harry Defoe, 547 George St., received a bad cut on his head shortly after midnight Sunday morning, when he fell backwards down a flight of stairs, and struck his head on a door handle at the bottom. He was taken to hospital by ambulance where six stitches were required to close the wound.

MAY BE NEXT WINTER

It is rather late for this winter, but merchants and other residents of Hunter St. east will be interested in knowing that Ald. A. B. Burrows recently suggested that the snow removing outfit should extend its operations across the river. Two ridges of snow, pushed up by the street plow, stood up as barriers to stores and homes since the turn of the year.

HOSPITAL RATES UP

The rate for private patients in Ottawa Civic Hospital is $11.50 a day, an increase of one dollar. Charges were raised to enable the trustees to keep the tax rate the same as last year. For the civic hospital needs is 2.13 mills. Public ward patients pay $5.50, an increase of 50 cents. Non-residents rates are 25 per cent. more.

STOLEN CAR BURNED

A stolen car, belonging to an unidentified Brooklin resident, was found Saturday abandoned and burned out on the Hastings-Keene road, a mile east of Villiers. OPP Constable Harold Armstrong investigated and found the car a complete wreck. It was first sighted early Saturday morning by a passing postman but was not reported to police until night. The car was stolen from Brooklin early Saturday.

CARTLOAD OF GIFTS

The [illegible] used in the Normal School play "Boy With a Cart," was [illegible] back to the Collegiate stage Saturday night during the presentation of Drama Festival awards. This time it was loaded with groceries and toys. "We are sending this to your home in England," Pierre LeFevre was told by chairman R. J. Bolton, who said that his brilliant adjudications and charming manner of giving them had much to do with the great success of the Festival. Mr. LeFevre was given tumultuous applause as he stood up to acknowledge the gift. He has a daughter aged eight and a son of eighteen months, at home in London with their mother.

Start Second Dozen

The William Hudson family of Lakefield must believe in the saying :"cheaper by the dozen," for last Thursday their 14th child was born to Mrs. Hudson at Civic hospital, a good start on the second dozen. Thirteen of the children, the oldest of whom is 19, are living. Three sets of twins are included in the family, the only death occurring to one of these twins.

Youngster Slips In Vat Of Water Burns One Leg

A four-and-a-half year old Howden Ave. boy narrowly escaped being scalded to death Saturday when he slipped and partly fell into a drum of scalding water.

Today Wayne Page, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Page, 459 Howden Ave. is reported improved after receiving second degree burns on his left leg and thigh. He is in St. Joseph's Hospital and is being treated by Dr. Bob Young.

Fortunately for Wayne, a passerby, Archie Schriver, 44, of 281 Wilson Ave., was walking along the street and heard his screams for help. He lifted Wayne from the drum, removed a rubber boot and sock, and then took the injured boy home.

Houses Abuilding

The freak accident occurred on Park St., just north of Howden Ave., on a site where two houses are under construction.

Wayne and Douglas Beasley, a three-year-old chum, had started out to get some gum from a store on Park St. About three minutes walk from their home they came to the construction site where a fire was burning under a 45-gallon drum.

The scalding water was being used by plasterers to mix with the mortar; sand, used in plastering, was banked around the drum to keep from freezing. Workmen on the site had gone home for the day and it was deserted except for the two boys.

Young Wayne walked up over the banked sand and started to play around the top of the drum. Somehow he slipped, fell across the drum, and his left leg and thigh were plunged into the water.

Thought Boys Playing

"I just happened to be walking by," said Mr. Schriver. "I heard the young lad scream but I thought he and the other boy were both playing on top of the sandpile so I didn't pay too much attention at first.

"Then I realized the boy was screaming in pain so I went over and lifted him off the drum and pulled off his left rubber boot and stocking." Some of the skin from the badly burned limb peeled off along with the stocking."

From an older boy who arrived on the scene Mr. Schriver learned that Wayne lived on Howden Ave., so he carried the badly-burned boy home. Walter Page, Wayne's father, then drove Wayne to hospital.

"You wouldn't think workmen would go away and leave a fire burning and an uncovered vat of boiling water," commented Mrs. Page. "It seems like carelessness to me."

She recalled that some time ago a little boy on Arndon Ave. got lime in his eye when playing around a housing site.

Dynamite Blast Hurts Man's Eye, May Lose Sight

An Apsley district man may lose the sight of his right eye, the result of a freak dynamite explosion Friday afternoon. A companion on the same road construction gang also received an injured eye from the blast.

In St. Joseph's hospital—and reported slightly improved today—is Michael Mahoney, 40, of Clysdale, nine miles north of Apsley.

Hospital authorities say the right eye is badly injured and he may lose the sight of it. But the full extent of the injury cannot be determined for another day or so.

Vernal Earnshaw, 38, of Burleigh-Anstruther township, was given out-patient treatment Saturday at Civic hospital, also for an injured right eye. He was then permitted to go home.

The explosion occurred as the men were working in a road construction crew on the new highway route, four miles east of Burleigh Falls.

Holes had been drilled in the rock, preparatory to blasting. Unknown to Mahoney and Earnshaw a stick of dynamite had been inserted in one of the holes. When they probed they found a [illegible] and inserted a heated [illegible] rod (the usual way of thawing out a drill hole stopped up by ice).

The heated rod exploded the [illegible] the blast injured both men. Mahoney was taken to St. Joseph's by ambulance.

Shirley Sackville, Jack Matthews Ski Club Champs

Jack Matthews, Shirley Sackville, Rod Delaney and Joan Townsend won the Peterborough Ski Club combined downhill and slalom championships Sunday in the annual club day at the Bethany playground.

With wins in both the downhill and slalom, Matthews easily won the senior men's combined, beating out Adrian Langhorne and Ian Blaiklock who placed second and third respectively.

Matthews slipped into first place in the downhill event, a vertical drop of 265 feet and 1,000 feet in length, with a time of 46 seconds. Cy Monkman placed second with a time of 46.6 seconds. Third and fourth places went to Ian Blaiklock in 49 seconds and Ted McCaig in 53.5 seconds.

But in the slalom event which included two runs down the hill Matthews easily out-timed all other contestants with a total time of 1:57.8 minutes. Adrian Langhorne was next in line with 2:15 minutes for the two runs while Tom Ashby and Jim Hopper were third and fourth.

Shirley Sackville

Wins in the downhill and slalom in the women's events gave Shirley Sackville the women's combined title. Jane Matthews and Mary Dodds were second and third.

Mrs. Sackville won the downhill run which was slightly smaller than the men's in 34.9 seconds, more than a second better then Jane Matthews who placed second. With a time of 37.2 seconds Mollie Craig placed third. Mary Dodds was fourth in 45 seconds.

Mrs. Sackville in the slalom event easily won with a combined time for two runs of 79.8 seconds, 5.2 seconds better than Mary Dodds' time of 85 seconds. Jane Matthews placed third with 86.8 seconds.

Two seconds in the downhill and slalom allowed Rod Delaney to win the club's junior boys combined title. Ross Dobbin and Eric Seidel placed a close second and third in the combined.

Dennis Hale won the downhill race in 46.7 seconds, almost 15 seconds ahead of Delaney with a time of 60.5 seconds. Eric Seidel was third in that run with 61.4 seconds. Dobbin's time for the two slalom runs was 100 seconds giving him that championship. Delaney was second, Peter Ashby third and Eric Seidel fourth.

Double wins in the downhill and slalom gave Joan Townsend the junior girls combined championship. With a time of 1:17.1 minutes she won the downhill while Janet Staples and Wendy Slater were second and third.

Miss Townsend easily won the slalom event with a time of 2:20.2 for two runs.

Car Pulls Over For Buggy Slips, Knocks Off 3 Posts

Elwood Kerr, 24, of R.R. 2, Bethany, was given outpatient treatment at Civic hospital Sunday night for a badly cut left hand after he was in a car accident in North Monaghan township. Kerr was driving east along the 10th concession of North Monaghan when he pulled over to the shoulder of the road to avoid striking a westbound horse and buggy. The car slipped partly off the shoulder, snapped off three guardrail posts and then went out of control down an eight-foot ditch.

The car was turned completely around and stopped with its left side against a tree. All the left side was extensively damaged and total estimated damage is $800.

Three passengers, all from the Bethany district, were shaken up but not injured. They were Shirley Braithwaite, 16; Jack Whitenell, 18, and Verna Kerr, 16, sister of the driver.

The westbound buggy was driven by Harry Johnstone of the 10th concession. He did not remain at the scene of the accident and was later located by O.P.P. Constables Ralph Tremmills and John Cawood.

Police say a charge may be laid.

City Approves Driving Lessons

Instruction classes for the drivers of motor vehicles is one suggestion in a Windsor council resolution which Peterborough has approved.

"I think it has a great deal of merit," was the comment of Ald. John Dewart. "It is only calling attention of the provincial government to the proposal for stricter regulations."

A Windsor traffic conference would require applicants for operators' and chauffeurs' licenses to obtain certificates of qualifications as a condition of receiving a permit in the first place, and every three years afterward.

" A certificate of qualification for the course of driving instructions together with a certificate of a medical doctor indicating physical fitness; and that all license fees be increased sufficiently to provide the funds required to instal such an educational program."

Sentiment of Peterborough's council was to the effect that the terrific toll of traffic accidents demanded some inspectional action.

The motion by Ald. Burrows was seconded by Ald Dewart.

Costs Man $2.75 To Save Child's Life

TORONTO, March 3—(CP)—It cost Fred Holmes $2.75 Sunday to save the life of three-year-old Suzanne O'Donnell, but he figures it was worth it.

The girl, accompanied by her parents, natives of Coventry, England, was boarding a Toronto Harbor ferry for the trip to their home on one of the Toronto islands when she tripped on the gangplank and fell into the icy Lake Ontario waters.

Holmes, selling tickets at the time, dropped a handful of change and jumped into the water to rescue her.

3 VLA Officers At Convention

TORONTO, March 3 — (CP)— Some 85 delegates today attended the opening session of the week-long Eastern Ontario district conference of settlement officers and construction supervisors of the Veterans Land Act administration.

Three Peterborough V.L.A. officers, J. Murray Humphries, William Theobald, and Archie Wilson, are attending the conference.

The administrators, who have established some 8,000 veterans on farms in the Eastern Ontario district at a public investment of more than $44,000,000, today were addressed by T. J. Rutherford, Ottawa, director of the Veterans Land Act.

He suggested several ways by which Canada's diminishing number of farmers can produce more food to feed more people.

He mentioned rural electrification, mechanization, weed and pest controls, increased capital, and more efficient use of labor as aids to increased production.

Later today regional supervisors will give reports on 1951 development activities. Supervisors are: H. E. Henry, Ottawa; C. L. Rawson, New Liskeard; E. R. Donaldson, Newmarket; A. R. Macnab, Kingston, and J. J. Lundy, Toronto.

Peterborough Actress, Actor Win Honors; Ottawa Presents Best Play

Brenda Davies, John Londerville Judged Best Actors; Plays Draw 4,000 To Performances In Five Days

Peterborough carried off the top acting honors in the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival which ended its six-day run at the Collegiate auditorium Saturday evening. Adjudicator Pierre LeFevre named Brenda Davies the best actress in the festival for her role of Mistress Page in the Peterborough Little Theatre's production of "The Merry Wives of Windsor"; and John Londerville the best actor; he had the central part of Falstaff in the same play.

Mrs. Davies played the part with "assurance, firm presence, a sure feeling of style, and joy," Mr. LeFevre said. He termed Mr. Londerville's acting "a performance of great power and imagination" and praised his ease of playing and the "likeness" of his portrayal of a fat man.

Best Play

The Senator Rupert Davies Cup for the best presentation of a full-length play was awarded to the Saturday Players of the Ottawa Little Theatre for their performance of Jean Giraudoux's "The Enchanted." The adjudicator said it was "as complete, original and rich a performance of that delicate, strange play that one could ever wish to see." The imaginative decor was "admirable," and the acting "of the highest order."

The Fulford Shield for the best presentation of a one-act play was awarded to the Belleville Theatre Guild, a newly-formed group which had entered Robertson Davies' comedy "The Voice of the People."

Mr. LeFevre said that generally a one-act play was more difficult than a three-act to make succeed, because of its shortness. Most of the one-act plays entered required the highest type of skilful acting. The Belleville group most nearly succeeded because their play was a comedy and Canadian. "The actors were so natively familiar with the temper, detail and situations that they were able to realize the style and the full entertainment value of the play."

Other Local Actors Praised

Other Peterborough people came in for special praise from the adjudicator. John Campbell was an "actor who can abandon himself to a part." He made a "great contribution" to both "The Merry Wives" in which he played Master Ford, and the ring scene from the "Merchant of Venice" (Blue Triangle Players) as Gratiano. George Cobb was a "brilliant, clear-cut Sir Hugh" in "The Merry Wives." Margaret Aitken played the mother in "The Boy With a Cart" (Peterborough Normal School) with a "genuine feeling for the tenderness and real character of an old woman." Maralin Munro, the other merry wife, was praised for her acting style.

Other runners-up mentioned by Mr. LeFevre were Roland McNicoll as the doctor and Andree Cunningham, Ottawa, as Isabel in "The Enchanted"; Christopher Taylor, "an actor of distinction" in both "The Enchanted" and "Candida"; Christina Drever as the secretary in "Candida" (Ottawa Little Theatre); Shorty Morton, the barber in "Voice of the People" (Belleville); Per-Olof Bendz, of Kemptville, as the suitor in Chekov's "Marriage Proposal"; Betty Alexander as Pegeen in the Brockville Theatre Guild's performance of Synge's "Playboy of the Western World."

Saturday Plays

Saturday was the busiest stage day, with four plays. The three one-act plays given Saturday afternoon were the Belleville production of Davies' "Voice of the People"; Kemptville Agricultural School's "The Marriage Proposal," and Kemptville Play for Fun Group doing "The Browning Version" by Terrance Rattigan, which the adjudicator felt became "lethargic." "It is a play written for very skilled actors."

The Brockville production of "The Playboy of the Western World" Saturday evening ended the festival. Mr. Lefevre said that it was well acted and that the general business of the stage was well controlled, but that the players had missed the opportunity to bring out the emotional pathos. They had the comedy and some of the poetry of the Irish play, but not the romance and emotion.

Drama Award Presented

At a platform ceremony following the final curtain and adjudication, Robertson Davies presented Mrs. L. T. White, of Ottawa, with the Canadian Drama Award scroll, a national recognition of outstanding service in the development of Canadian drama, announced in Vancouver last December. D. Park Jamieson, of Sarnia, honorary chairman of the Dominion Drama Festival, said that "there is no one in Canada today who has done as much for the Dominion Drama Festival as Mrs. White."

R. J. Bolton, chairman of the Festival, conducted the prize-giving from the platform.

Drama Group Congratulated On Festival Here

At the annual council meeting of the Eastern Ontario Drama League held Saturday at the Empress Hotel, Mrs. L. T. White, chairman, congratulated R. J. Bolton and his Peterborough committee on the excellence of their organization and direction of the festival. She also thanked the Peterborough and Ottawa press for their "excellent coverage" of the festival.

A preliminary report was made on the finances of the festival. The league council decided to allot $250 towards the expenses of the winning group should its play be chosen to compete at the Dominion Drama Festival finals at St. John, N.B. in April. Entry fees totalling $300 (which the Dominion Drama Festival keeps) are to be made up to the participating drama groups and grants made to meet the travelling expenses they had incurred coming to Peterborough.

R. J. Bolton extended an invitation to hold the next festival in Peterborough. The invitation was applauded, but Brockville has a prior claim to the 1953 festival.

Mrs. White of Ottawa was re-elected chairman of the Eastern Ontario Drama League, and two other Ottawa people, Camille Gay, representing the French-speaking groups and Michael Meiklejohn, for the Ottawa-Brockville-Deep River area were named vice-chairmen. A vice-chairman of the Kingston-Peterborough - Cobourg area has yet to be elected. The three executive members of the League are James Morton of Kemptville, Mlle Terese May of Ottawa and Lloyd Heaslip of Trenton, Mrs. W. A. M. Howard of Ottawa is secretary-treasurer.

Attending the league council meeting were 25 members representing theatre groups in Ottawa, Brockville, Kingston, Kemptville, Trenton, Belleville and Peterborough.

The Eastern Ontario Drama League was formed in 1951 to promote and encourage dramatic activity in Eastern Ontario and to operate the regional festival. Any organized drama groups in Eastern Ontario are invited to join the league.

Labor Opposition Threatens West Germany's Rearmament Plan

BONN, March 3—(AP)—Political observers said Saturday that Labor opposition threatens Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's whole program for arming West Germany to help defend free Europe against the menace of Soviet aggression.

Less than a week after the Atlantic Allies approved plans at Lisbon to include up to 400,000 German troops in the European defense community, leaders of 6,000,000 West German organized workers refused to endorse Adenauer's defence policy.

Instead they joined the powerful, anti-rearmament Socialist Party in demanding new general elections to let the people decide about rearmament. The Socialists confidently predict they can win the elections.

Labor's decision jabs at Adenauer's three-party coalition, already somewhat wobbly in its support of rearmament. The left-wing of Adenauer's own Christian Democratic Party represents Labor interests. Several CDU parliamentary deputies are Labor leaders.

The revolt of Labor probably will be reflected also among the Free Democrats, the second coalition party.

Allied officials said the Chancellor has counted on Labor support as a keystone of his defense program.

In a bid to win Labor backing, the Chancellor named a prominent union leader, Theodor Blank, as his defence commissioner. Labor leaders have been consulted by the Chancellor and his advisers throughout the negotiations with the western powers to take West Germany into the six-country European defense community.

Christian Fette, chairman of the powerful Trade Union Federation, endorsed German rearmament—and was unanimously repudiated by Labor leaders from all parts of the country at a stormy meeting in Duesseldorf Friday night.

This decision reflected a groundswell of opposition to rearmament among rank-and-file Labor men. Only last month 900,000 organized Bavarian workers threatened a general strike as a last measure to block the arming of German soldiers.

18 Fatalities Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Fire, traffic, bullets and other causes brought death to 18 persons in Eastern Canada during the weekend. Five children were burned to death in a log-cabin fire in Newfoundland.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed eight persons killed in Ontario, two each in Quebec and New Brunswick and one in Prince Edward Island.

Six persons died in traffic accidents, two were shot to death and two were killed in industrial accidents. Neglect killed a newborn baby and one man died of apparent poisoning. A woman died in a fall downstairs.

In Newfoundland five of the nine children of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cross were killed in a fire in their log-cabin home at remote Nicholsville near Deer Lake. The eldest Cross boy picked up a baby and two other children, broke down the front door and led them to safety.

At Summerside, P.E.I., John Grady died shortly after being admitted to hospital. His wife died Friday of the same cause—believed to be something they ate.

Alfred Gauthier, 54-year-old father of 15 children, was shot to death in his home near Bathurst, N.B., before the eyes of his wife and children. Police are seeking Gauthier's son, Wilfred, 24, in connection with the shooting.

Falls Under Bus

Also in New Brunswick, Mrs. Lena Rankin, 56, of Saint John, was killed when she slid down a snow bank and under the wheels of a bus.

A new-born baby was found dead in a street of Quebec City, police have charged an 18-year-old girl believed to be the child's mother.

Near Chicoutimi, Que., Leon Dote, 18, of St. Wilbrod d'Hebertville, was killed when a falling rock struck him on the head while he was working on a poer project at Chute Du Diable.

Two persons were killed near St. Catharines. James C. Mackay, 67, died when an emery wheel on which he was grinding a piece of steel, exploded and struck him in the face. Mrs. Sophie Pogorelich, 46, fell down a flight of steps in her farm home.

John Gorassini, 16, was killed by a richocheting rifle bullet while on a shooting walk with some friends near Toronto.

Mrs. Carrie Wilson, 68, was killed by an automobile near Toronto. Nancy Ann Nisbet, 5, died when she fell out of the door of her father's car near Sarnia. William Rutherford, 37, died at Hamilton of injuries suffered in an automobile accident last week.

Mrs. Mary Alice Graves, 68, of Port Robinson was killed near Niagara Falls when she was thrown out of an automobile in a collision and rolled upon by the car. At Oshaa, Mrs. Peter Shortt died in a two-car collision.

DIJON, France, March 3 — (AP)— Michel Marechal today claimed a world's record for being buried alive. Marechal spent three hours, one minute and one second inside a coffin six feet underground. His only company during this eerie vigil was a rat, inside a cage with him in the coffin. The rat died.

May Begin Tunnel

PARIS, March 3—(Reuters)—Work on a 7½ mile road tunnel linking France and Italy may begin later this year. French, Italian and Swiss officials of the Mont Blanc Tunnel Commission are meeting here to draft a constitution for international control of the tunnel.

Defence Plans

CANBERRA, March 3—(Reuters)—Australia will spend £1,500,000 on modernizing and developing munitions and aircraft plants, the defence production minister, Eric Harrison, announced Sunday.

Obituary

WILLIAM PEARSON

CAMPBELLFORD, March 3 — (ENS)—A former resident of this community, William Pearson, 83, died at his home in Hamilton on Saturday.

Mr. Pearson was for many years a bandmaster with the Northumberland Regiment, and later bandmaster of the Campbellford band. He came to Canada from the Isle of Wight in 1915, and retired from his band duties here about 20 years ago. He and his family moved to Hamilton, where they took up residence in 1941. He was a veteran of the first World War.

Mr. Pearson is survived by his widow, Amy, and one son, Leslie both of Hamilton.

Find Scientist's Body

TRONDHEIM, Norway, March 3 (Reuters)—Boys playing in the snow Sunday found the body of atom scientist Per Werenskiold, who mysteriously disappeared from his Trondheim home last month. His disappearance was at first linked with a Swedish espionage case, but these rumors were denied by police.

Shortest Run For Cattle

TORONTO, March 3 (CP) — The Ontario stockyards Sunday had the shortest run of cattle in its history, despite pleas to farmers for orderly marketing.

Only 51 animals were received, compared to 2,000 a week ago. A normal run for this time of year would be 1,000 or more.

Last week about 6,600 animals were received and all but about 1,000 were sold, about a normal carryover.

Livestock commissioner W. P. Watson has appealed for orderly marketing following the confusion last week resulting from regulations put into force to prevent the spread of foot-and-mouth disease from Saskatchewan.

Unless this flow is maintained, it was pointed out, Ontario farmers may suffer financially from the western outbreak. Consumers would also be affected.

THE CHALLENGE

This year again the Red Cross Appeal presents us with a challenge . . . and an opportunity. Wherever our deepest sympathies lie . . . with the victims of disaster, of war or accident . . . there the Red Cross is working on our behalf. As the need to alleviate suffering grows, the generosity of Canadians grows too. But today the task is almost beyond measure. New victims of war wounds, greater need of lifesaving blood transfusion services, the inevitability of great disasters of fire and flood . . . all must find the Red Cross ready. There is the challenge. The opportunity to help is before you.

Political Group Disappears In Alberta

By LORNE BRUCE

EDMONTON, March 3. (CP)—The Independent Movement, once a major factor in Alberta politics, has disappeared.

The lone survivor of the organization formed 12 years ago with the chief purpose of upsetting a Social Credit government, H. B. Macdonald of Calgary announced Friday in the provincial legislature that he will support the province's Social Credit administration.

Mr. Macdonald, referring to Premier E. C. Manning's government as the "best private enterprise" government in Canada and as having the "best leadership" of any Canadian government, said it represents the principles on which he was elected twice and that he planned supporting it "absolutely."

The Independent Movement, a coalition of Liberals, Conservatives, former members of the United Farmers of Alberta and others opposed to Social Credit, was formed a few months before the 1940 provincial general election.

First Attempt

In their first try at the polls, the Independents won 17 of the legislature's 57 seats and became the official opposition. The Social Credit government was re-elected, winning 35 seats.

J. Percy Page of Edmonton, more widely known as the coach of Edmonton Grads, perennial women's world basketball champions, was elected president of the association and also won a seat in the legislature.

Another man without previous political connections, J. H. (Jim) Walker of Raymond, was chosen first house leader. The rotating house leadership later was assumed by J. H. Mahaffy of Calgary and the late Alfred Speakman of Red Deer.

A few months before the next general election, the Liberals left the Independent Movement and only three Indpendents were elected. Then in 1948, Mr. Macdonald was the only survivor.

"We could see no use in carrying on and so we decided to disband," said Mr. Page, who was house leader from 1944 to 1948 and continued as president of the provincial association.

Mr. Macdonald's decision to support the Social Credit regime ended the 12-year-old Movement.

DISEASED CATTLE SHOT — Starting Friday and continuing during the weekend diseased cattle, infected by foot-and-mouth disease in the Regina area, were rounded up and shot by R.C.M.P. marksmen, using .303 rifles. The first shooting took place on the farm of Konstantine Haun, on the outskirts of Regina, and included the dairy herd of Mr. Haun. About 850 cattle, 190 swine and 140 sheep were to be destroyed.

Name Boards To Study Water Pollution

OTTAWA, March 3 — (CP) — The International Joint Commission Sunday announced the appointment of advisory boards to make a continuing study of pollution problems in waters from the St. Clair River to Lake Ontario.

The boards will replace technical advisory boards which have completed their work for the commission. They will continue studies and investigations to make sure industries and other interests are complying with objectives for boundary waters quality control established by the commission.

Chairman of the boards for Canada will be J. R. Menzies, of the Federal Health Department. The United States chairman will be L. F. Warrick, of Washington, of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Name Members

U.S. members for questions concerning the St. Mary's River, the St. Clair River, Lake St. Clair and Detroit River, will be John M. Hepler, of the Michigan Heath Department, and L. F. Oeming, of the Michigan Stream Control Commission, both of Lansing, Mich. Members for questions concerning the Niagara River will be Earl Devendorf and O. R. Cox, both of Albany, N.Y., of the New York State Health Department.

The commission said the boards will rely on existing provincial and state legislation to obtain installation of such treatment processes "as may be necessary to correct excessive amounts of pollution," and that new legislation is being considered.

Toy Making In Canada Big Business Now

By The Canadian Press

The next time you trip over a toy automobile that junior has left conveniently on your stairway, you may derive some doubtful consolation from the knowledge that you have just come in contact with a multi-million-dollar business.

The men who make everything from marbles to life-like doll carriages are meeting in Montreal this week. And one of the things they will hear is that their business has increased ten-fold since 1936.

In that year, the Canadian toy industry produced goods worth $3,000,000. This year the figure for output alone is estimated at $30,000,000, provided materials required for defence don't drain off the toy-maker's needs — wood, metal, rubber, plastics, textiles and paper.

The magazine Foreign Trade tells of some of the plans of the toy-makers of Canada. Export markets are beginning to interest them, Foreign Trade says in its current issue.

Limited Opportunities

"Among the markets currently offering limited opportunities to Canadian exporters of toys are the United Kingdom, British West Indies, United States, Venezuela, Dominican Republic, Peru, Panama, Hong Kong and Switzerland."

Foreign Trade says there are few controls on toy export to worry the trader. With the exception of destinations in the Far East, toys may be shipped under general export permit.

Although manufacturers are beginning to look abroad for markets, Foreign Trade says the domestic market still is the basic outlet for toys.

One of the colorful features of the toy industry is the annual toy fair which gets under way in Montreal today. At this fair, the 115 Canadian toy manufacturers will display every conceivable kind of toy.

Not Only For Youngsters

And these toys won't be aimed at the youngsters only. There are toys "suitable for people of all ages," says Foreign Trade, listing everything from dolls to pool tables.

Manufacturers have gone as far as to break down into tables the age groups of Canada's population. With their eye on the statistics, they "have been devoting serious thought to the type of citizens Canada will have in, say, 20 or 30 years, and are working more closely with educationalists to design toys that are durable and functional for each stage in a child's development."

Aide To Massey May Get Commission

OTTAWA, March 3—(CP)—Nicholas Eden, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's son, may be commissioned in the Canadian Army when he becomes an aide-de-camp to Governor-General Viscount Massey shortly. The Defence Department said Sunday the question is under consideration, but final decision has not yet been reached.

The 20-year-old Nicholas is due in Canada in about two weeks, Government House reported.

The prosopal is that Nicholas be commissioned in one of Canada's reserve regiments and then called out on active duty for a year or two during his period as an aide at Government House.

It is expected that once his term here is finished he will return to Britain and to Oxford—his father's alma mater—where he has cut short his first year studies after only two months in order to take the Canadian appointment.

His father won the Military Cross in France in the First World War as an infantry captain. His brother, Simon was killed with the RAF in the Second World War.

Long Friendship

Nicholas Eden has completed his two-year compulsory training with the British Army. He spent part of his training period in Germany with the King's Royal Rifle Corps.

The three Canadian units affiliated with the Kingston Light Infantry, Victoria Rifles of Montreal, Royal Rifles and Royal Regiment of Quebec City.

Mr. Massey has known the family for a long time. He has known Nicholas since the latter was a boy. He had a great deal to do with Mr. Eden during the latter period in which he was Canadian High Commissioner during the war.

His staff at Rideau Hall is expected to be almost entirely Canadian which may be the reason it has been suggested that young Eden should be commissioned in the Canadian Army.

Say 500,00 To Cast Votes

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, March 3 (AP)—More than 500,000 voters are expected to cast ballots today on the new constitution which gives this island complete home rule.

If the constitution is adopted and is approved by the U.S. Congress, this island with its 2,210,000 people will cease to be a possession of the U.S. The proposed charter describes Puerto Rica as a free commonwealth—a self-governing community freely associated with the U.S. much as Canada and other Commonwealth countries are linked with Britain.

Spokesmen for Governor Luis Munoz Marin's Popular Party, which got 66 per cent of the popular vote in the 1948 election, predict the constitution will be ratified by a large majority.

Convoy Attacked On Manoeuvres

NAPLES, March 3 (AP) — The most heavily "attacked" convoy in the history of naval manoeuvres Sunday night neared the approaches to Gibraltar, where a final onslaught against it by planes and submarines is anticipated.

The convoy is the first to cross the Mediterranean in the current four-power Atlantic pact naval exercise, Grand Slam.

A spokesman for Admiral Robert B. Carney, U.S. Navy, commander of Allied forces Southern Europe, who is directing the manoeuvres, said the convoy has been subjected to air assault on an average of once every two hours and to submarine attack once every five hours during the six days it has been at sea.

[illegible]-ship group of French, Italian and American [illegible] was made up at Malta [illegible] morning. It has dog-[illegible]ward, defended [illegible] hunter-[illegible] carrier-

The [illegible] said to be the most extensive of its kind ever held, will be augmented tomorrow with major units of Britain's Home Fleet. This, said a spokesman for Admiral Carney, will afford an opportunity to test the submarine and air defenses of Gibraltar. The fleet's entry is expected to be strongly opposed.

New submarine reports received today at Admiral Carney's Naples headquarters included claims of successful "attacks" against 21 merchant ships in addition to an "attack" against the U.S. light cruiser Newport News.

A Royal Navy submarine commander claimed to have "snorkeled" its way to Gibraltar, undetected in daylight.

The exercise will end Wednesday.

Dr. McBain Dies, AirCadetDirector

PORT COLBORNE, March 3 (CP)—Dr. Wallace Ward McBain, 53, national director of the Air Cadet League of Canada, died at his home here Sunday.

Dr. McBain Feb. 23 received the highest award given a civilian by the R.C.A.F. the scroll of [illegible] outstanding service to [illegible] the R.C.A.F. and Canada.

He was awarded an aeronautical [illegible] by the United States Civil Air Patrol when he took the Canadian Air Cadets to the U.S. on a tour in 1950.

Born in Atwood, Ont., he served [illegible] dental corps and R.A.F. in the First World War. He graduated in dentistry from the University of Toronto in 1923 and has practised here since that time.

He is survived by his widow and two sons.

½ cup Jewel Shortening
1½ cups sugar
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 tsps. baking powder
1 cup milk
1 cup finely-chopped apricots
½ cup finely-chopped nuts
2 egg whites

Cream Jewel Shortening. Add sugar, salt, vanilla. Cream till fluffy. Sift together flour, baking powder. Add alternately with milk. Add nuts, apricots, steamed if needed. Fold in egg whites, beaten stiff but not dry. Blend lightly. Line bottom of 8" angel cake pan with brown paper, flour. Rub tube with Jewel. Bake at 325°F., one hour. Cool.

FILLING

1 cup finely-chopped apricots
2 cups water
½ cup sugar
1 tbsp. corn starch
1 tbsp. lemon juice

Cook everything in double boiler till soft enough to spread.

FROSTING

2 egg whites
1½ cups sugar
⅓ cup strong coffee
½ tsp. cream of tartar
⅛ tsp. salt
1 tsp. rum extract

Mix everything except extract in double boiler. Place over boiling water. Beat thoroughly about 7 minutes. Remove from heat, stir well. Add extract. Beat one extra minute, till frosting stands in peaks.

DECORATION: Save ¼ cup filling to tint the swirls of frosting. Make three apricot flowers with unsoaked apricots to the centre, petal-fashion. Use green cherry pieces for flower centres.

Moccasin Route Used To Carry Northern News

WINNIPEG (CP). — Modern communications have competition in the "Meccasin Telegram," a form of messaging used by Indians in the Northern Manitoba bush for generations.

Mrs. Jane Ross, raven-haired nurse from Nova Scotia, says she recently received a message on the "Moccasin Telegram" at her station at Nelson House, north of the 55th parallel on the Hudson's Bay Railway.

The message asked for help for two Indians severely scalded out on a lonely trap line. It was passed from Indian to Indian and reached Mrs. Ross and her husband in time to get the injured men out by plane for treatment.

Mrs. Ross is one of five nurses who operate stations for Indian Health Services Department north of the 53rd prallel in Manitoba and Northwestern Ontario. They came to Winnipeg recently to attend a refresher course.

Mrs. Wilmer Raynor, a field nurse with headquarters at Norway House, Man., says she once sent a wire to a clergyman at Indian Lake, notifying him of a death. He received the message long after he had heard the news via the Moccasin Telegram.

Not All Emergencies

Mrs. Evelyn McMullen of Big Trout Lake, Ont., and Mrs. Alma Faubert of Landsdowne House, Ont., say not all their visits to Indian patients are emergency calls.

"Some times they call us for trivial things," says Mrs. Faubert. "We always have to answer in case it might be an emergency. Then after a journey by canoe in summer, bombadier (snowmobile) or plane in winter, the patient is quite likely to have nothing worse than a toothache."

"The Indians get frightened," says Mrs. McMullen. "Besides, treating their sickness is only part of our work. Our main job is to encourage them to eat a more balanced diet."

Mrs. Raynor says the city-folk notion of idle, shiftless Indians is not true of the trapper families of the north.

"The women work as hard as the men in the winter," she says. "Their job is to cure the skins of animals their husbands trap, to look after household arrangements and sew moccasins.

"They work very hard and it irritates us when tourists come up in the summer, see the Indians doing nothing and accuse them of laziness."

Many of the Indian homes are spotlessly clean and some families are beginning to eat diets considered necessary, she says. Schools for Indian children make a tremendous difference. The children pass on what they have learned and it makes it that easier to improve living habits.

Wonder Drug Not Cure-All

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, March 3 — (AP) —How good is the new "wonder drug" for tuberculosis?

Some doctors call it "the best thing yet" against TB. Others say "at least as good as streptomysin." Another, "this is no magic bullet."

They can't say more because this pill is too new.

From these doctors, here are the facts and the unknowns:

Fact 1: You can't get the drug yet. The United States Food and Drug Administration must first approve it for general use, on safety and effect. That may come by May or June. Till then, only a few doctors can get it for watchful tests on humans.

Fact 2. When and if approved, it will be cheap and abundant. The drug, isonicotinic acid, is being made by two drug houses. [illegible] found it [illegible] different names. [illegible] TB germs in [illegible] and animals. It has been [illegible] pill germs.

Fact 4. More than 200 sick persons have had it so far. Many quickly felt better. High fevers vanished, they gained 10 to 30 pounds, coughs decreased or even disappeared, vitality returned.

In some no TB germs could be found recently in their sputum, by looking with a miscroscope. X-rays indicated that lung moles or cavities got smaller in a few patients.

All were advanced cases. Now, patients with milder cases are getting the drug, and it may do them even more good.

Fact 5: No matter how good it is, it won't wipe out TB overnight, won't abolish the need for TB hospitals, or the need for finding thousands of people who don't know they have TB. Bed rest, especially away from home to prevent spreading this infection, will still be important, as will good diet, other drugs, and surgery. It takes time to heal and repair lungs ravaged by the TB bug.

Fact 6. A warning, FRM Dr. J. Maxwell Chamberlain of Bellevue hospital. Don't, he advised, postpone any scheduled operation for TB in hopes the new drug will make it unnecessary.

Many Unknowns.

There's not yet the kind of proof of cure that doctors want. This leads to the unknowns:

Unknown 1: Did the drug kill off most, of even all, the germs in patients who show the best signs of it?

Unknown 2: What will happen when people stop taking the drug daily? Will the disease flare up again?

Unknown 3: Will TB bugs become resistant to the new drug, as they do with streptomycin?

Unknown 4: Will there be any bad effects? No serious ones have shown yet?

Unknown 5: What did the drug really do in human bodies?

To sum up: Here's something that looks hopeful. Time and more study hold the keys to how good.

Perfect Tuna Casserole

If ever a dish deserved the compliment, "How Perfect," this tuna combination is it. One try and you'll see. It's so perfectly easy to make, perfectly grand to eat.

The luscious team of mushroom soup and tuna give the dish its high-powered come-on for eaters. And if you want a Lenten dish, just use cream of celery soup instead of mushroom. Results are equally pleasing.

Right on your kitchen shelf, you can keep the makings for this one. A can each of mushroom soup, tuna, and green peas—plus a bag of potato chips. It turns suppers into something special, is a perfect choice for luncheon parties. The cost will cheer you too.

Perfect Tuna Casserole

1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup milk
1 7-ounce can (1 cup) tuna, drained and coarsely flaked
(1¼ cups crushed potato chips
1 cup cooked green peas, drained

Empty soup into a small casserole; add milk and mix thoroughly. Add tuna, 1 cup potato chips and peas to soup; stir well. Sprinkle top with remaining ¼ cup potato chips. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings. Garnish with whole potato chips around edge if desired. Note: For Lent, use celery soup instead of mushroom soup.

SOUP SCOOPS

Springtime Garnish For Soup: Cream of celery soup looks all dressed up for spring with a bright green garnish like chopped chives or parsley. Treat the family to this on St. Patrick's Day or the First Day of Spring.

Hi-Hat Spaghetti Casserole: A Lenten dinner to be proud of is this. Pour 2 cans (3½ cups) of spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese into an ungreased 1½-quart casserole; place in a moderate oven (375° F.) for 20 minutes. Meanwhile beat 4 egg yolks lightly; combine with ¼ cup shredded Cheddar cheese. Beat 4 egg whites until stiff; fold in yolks. Pile eggs on top of spaghetti; continue baking at 375° F. for 30 minutes or until lightly browned. 6 servings.

"Soup-Prise" For Lent: A soup combination that calls for extra big bowls is made by mixing 1 can each of condensed clam chowder and cream of celery soups. Add 2 cans of milk slowly, stirring constantly. Simmer about 5 minutes.

A Honeymoon In Florida Follows Steele-Riddle Rites

New arrivals for a month's honeymoon in Miami, Florida, are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Arnold Steele who were principals in a lovely wedding at St. Luke's Pro-Cathedral, Sault Ste. Marie on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Steele is the former Violet Constance Riddle, daughter of Mrs. Julia Riddle and the late Mr. Riddle of Sault Ste. Marie, and the groom is son of Mr. R. J. Steele of Peterborough and the late Mrs. Steele.

White carnations beautifully decorated the church for the nuptial event solemnized by the Rev. W. B. Jennings. Traditional wedding music was played by Mr. Aubrey Bland on the organ. Mr. George Shippey, soloist for the memorable occasion, rendered the Lord's Prayer and Jesus Our Savior by Bach.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law Mr. L. J. Armstrong, the bride was charming in an exquisite gown of lace and net over white slipper satin. The softly moulded bodice featuring a formal bra-top accentuated her tiny waistline in a long torso effect adding delightful touch of the bouffant floor-length skirt of net over satin. Complementing this enchanting gown was a chic jacket of lace fastened at the front with tiny covered buttons and with long tapering sleeves and a tiny Queen Anne collar. Her fingertip veil was held by a white satin crown studded with sparkling cut beads. She carried a shower bouquet of deep red roses tied with white streamers showered with tiny sweetheart roses.

Miss Eileen Menard, niece of the bride, attended as maid of honor and Miss Anne Webb of Peterborough, niece of the groom, was bridesmaid. They were attractive in identical gowns of medium blue velveteen. These lovely creations were made on simple lines, fashioned with round scalloped neckline, short scalloped sleeves and snugly fitted bodice scalloped at the waist to the very full skirt. Matching banded headpieces completed the ensembles and the girls carried shower bouquets of pink roses and wore single strand necklaces of pearls given them by the bride.

Mr. Ron Knight of Toronto attended the groom. Mr. A. Menard ushered the guests to pews marked with white bows.

A dinner and reception were held in the Oak Room of the Windsor Hotel. The bridal table was lovely with a three-tier wedding cake topped with sweetheart roses.

For the trip to Florida the bride donned a navy gabardine suit trimmed with white, complemented with navy accessories and a dusky rose topcoat. Her corsage was of white carnations and sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Steele will make their home in Peterborough.

Lipstick's Best Laundry Plan?

QUEBEC—(CP)—Lipstick may enhance the appearance of most women, but it's nothing less than a nightmare for laundry workers and dry cleaning establishments.

The statement that lipstick is the cleaners' biggest headache was made by R. F. McDonald, vice-president of a chemical firm at Windsor, Ont., addressing the Quebec Launderers' and Dry Cleaners Association.

Small metal lipsticks often find their way into the cleaning machinery, causing havoc. They may be forgotten in pockets, or may have slipped down into the lining of a coat.

When the tell-tale click of metal is heard in a drying basin full of clothes, he said, any employee know there's a lipstick loose in there, fast smearing all the clothes with a devilish tinge of red.

The net result is some hours of toil to remove the smears on the spotting board. He said cleaning firm and laundry employees could not be too careful to make sure the tubes of color are removed before the clothes are treated.

Following the services the members of all choirs participating were guests for a social hour at St. Paul's Church and lovely refreshments were served by the St. Paul's choir members with Mrs. L. R. Mitchell, choir president, and Mrs. Christopher Gledhill, social convener, in charge.

Britain's Women Do Many Jobs In Armed Forces

LONDON — (CP) — Britain's "soldiers of the Queen" include more than 22,700 women in uniform. The bulk of these are in the three armed forces the women's royal naval service, the women's royal army corps and the women's royal air force.

In the services they do a vast variety of different tasks. Although normally non-combatants, they are trained alongside men, and frequently work with men as part of a team.

Many are employed as cooks, clerks and drivers. Others are trained for exacting and responsible duties, as aircraft and radar mechanics, electrical engineers and such. They do administrative and accounting jobs, catering and even police work.

For university graduates there are jobs as meteorologists, teachers and welfare workers. Members of the women's forces [illegible] the planes they service, naval vessels, and serve [illegible]

POODLE CUT.—Most-talked-of women's fashion of this spring is the poodle hair cut. The most popular version shown here is done with hair tapered to about two inches all around. A home permanent that has plenty of curl will lock the waves in, so that it is easy to care for. It is becoming to all ages. To the teen-agers it gives a spirited, pertly sophisticated look to her mother or sparkly-eyed grandmother it's youthful, fresh and crisp. But it grows out quickly — so better learn to care for and train your poodle at home.

DOROTHY DIX

Children Want Stability—Parents Prefer To Travel

DEAR MISS DIX: Several years ago, due to my husband's ill health, we closed our home here and went west with our two boys. After a few months, my husband was able to work again. I also worked and we made out so well we were able to clear our home of all debt.

Although it is no longer necessary for us to do so, we still like to go west for the winter months and come back here for the summer. However, our sons have been resentful the last couple of years when, as they say, "we pack up and go on the move from one school to another." We feel they are fortunate. This year they have flatly refused to go, and threaten to leave home if we move again. One is 15, the other 17. Should we consider our sons' wishes or live our own lives as we wish?

MRS. F. B. M.

ANSWER: As I have pointed out often before, by the very act of becoming parents, we abrogate the right to "live our own lives." The welfare of the child becomes the first responsibility of the father and mother, and must remain so until the youngsters are able to be on their own. You think your sons are fortunate in your way of living because it happens to be the way you prefer; unfortunately, those dependent upon us do not always have the same attitudes. Many youngsters would consider the annual hegira a very fortunate circumstance; in fact, children who do no travelling at all would be pop-eyed with envy at your family's chance to see the country.

Boys Want Roots

As it happens, you have acquired two boys with more stable natures than your own. They apparently like to have established roots. Your problem is not an insoluable one and I don't think you should be so upset over it. The boys are of high-school age, an era in life when one is anxious to conform to contemporary standards, be one of the "gang" and have permanent friendships. In fact, this is usually the time when lifelong friendships are established. Since, presumably, they are attending high school, it is hard to break the school year in the middle and set off to parts unknown. When they return in the summer, they'll be out of contact with school activities, and all friendships must be made anew. Regardless of how you look at it, this is a difficult situation for youngsters to face.

Why not give up the winter trip for the next two or three years, until the boys finish high school? Since you and your husband are able to make a living anywhere, it will cause no financial hardship to any of you. When the boys reach college age, life will become simple for you again. With them settled at a boarding college, you will be free to resume your travels.

In serious matters, as of health or finances, for instance, the children of a family must go or do as necessity dictates, but in a case involving schoolwork against personal whims, their welfare should come first.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a son 18 years old who was born out of wedlock. I am married now, and want to know if my husband should adopt him. My son's father is dead. People thought we were married but he was a bigamist. I gave the boy my father's name.

RACHEL

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It will be a fine thing if your husband is willing to adopt your son. The boy will then have a legal name, and his legal status will be established.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: After being married less than a year, I am on the verge of a nervous breakdown. I have never found happiness in my marriage. Although my parents were against it I thought I could make a go of it, but it wasn't that easy. My husband has no principles and we are completely unsuited. We don't agree on anything. I wonder if I would at least find peace of mind by leaving him.

FLORENCE M.

ANSWER: Rather than staying with your husband until the nervous breakdown is an accomplished fact, it would be better to separate now. I hope you know what you want, however, before you do take so decisive a step. You seem to be rather a spoiled, wilful young lady, and unless you learn to accept things with a little more give-and-take, you have a hard life ahead. You opposed your parents' wishes to marry, now are dissatisfied with the marriage, and will undoubtedly be equally dissatisfield with a separation. Better seek advice from someone who knows you—and abide by it!

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Weekly Grocery Store Bill $21 Feeds Family Of Four

Here's a poser:

"Dear Mary Moore: I read your column every day and enjoy it so much. I would appreciate it if you could tell me, based on today's cost of living, a reasonable amount of money to spend for groceries for four adults, two men doing heavy factory work, a daughter in an office and myself. By the way, they all carry packed lunches. Also what is a fair price to charge my son and daughter for board. They both earn approximately $50 per week . . . Thanking you, Mrs. J. K.

✧ ✧ ✧

Thank you, Mrs. J. K. very much—for the taken-for-granted attitude that I know the answer. Solomon would be hard put to answer that conundrum.

I will answer you, though—to [illegible] board is concerned, on what I know is being charged.

There are so many standards of eating, and appetites vary. One buyer and cook may stress meats which are expensive. Another may buy more than average amounts of fresh fruits and vegetables and milk, and, instead of roasts and chicken, utilize the cheaper cuts and minced meats and fish. Another busy cook might buy frozen vegetables and many packaged dry mixes, which since they are "service-foods" cost extra. I do some of all of these.

When Marianne was home there were three of us all of the time and usually a guest or two for dinner on an average of three or four nights per week. Any help we have eats only lunch at our house.

Recently my weekly order from the grocery store was $15.90 which included a 5-lb. loin of pork, a 2-lb. piece of S.P. back bacon, 2 lbs. minced beef and 1 lb. pork liver, 1 dozen each oranges, bananas, grapefruit, 1 basket apples, 3 heads lettuce, fresh tomatoes, green beans, celery, carrots, new cabbage and beets and all of the staples one ordinarily needs like sugar, butter, cleansers, etc. I buy our canned goods by the case and they are in the basement so they are not included in weekly purchases.

Besides this order, our milk bill [illegible] $3.38, eggs $1.10 and bread [illegible]. That makes $21.00 [illegible] the stocks in the basement.

Now Pete would eat as much as any factory worker. If your son and husband eat more, you have my sympathy. So while you and your daughter would roughly equal me and Marianne, your husband ruins the combination. I suppose if I had him to provide for the cash outlay would be more like $30.00. The bill for the canned goods in November was $72.00.

So my conclusion is that considering paper goods such as toilet tissue, facial tissues, paper napkins, [illegible] canned stocks [illegible] their own [illegible] own beds, help [illegible] help substantially with the [illegible]

Cast Lancaster In Strange Movie Role

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 3 (AP)—Weirdest casting of the year has put Burt Lancaster in the role of a grey-haired failure with a passion for alcohol.

The former circus acrobat is playing the role of Doc in "Come Back, Little Sheba." His co-star is Shirley Booth, who won the top acting honors on Broadway when she played the role on the stage.

Sidney Blackmer won the same honors when he played the show with her. But although he is a star on the stage, he is a character actor in films, and he was passed up for the movie version.

Hollywood was startled when Lancaster was given the part and reports from the East said the reaction of the theatre world was more violent.

On the "Sheba" set, Lancaster looked far different from his usual screen self. His [illegible] hair was shaved down [illegible] ed with gray, [illegible] ing wardrobe, he wore a pair of faded pyjamas.

Not His Idea

"I didn't think the role for me, either," said the actor. "It wasn't my idea at all. Mike Curtiz, who directed me in 'Jim Thorpe,' was talking to (Producer) Hal Wallis, who said he was having trouble casting the picture. Mike suggested me for it. He wanted Wallis to see the latter part of 'Thorpe,' in which I played him as an older man.

"Wallis had me read the book, and I told him I thought it would be great for Humphrey Bogart or Spencer Tracy but not for me. When I got back from making a picture in Europe, he had me test for the part. He liked the test and gave me the role.

"I'm very excited about doing the part. After all, this kind of role is the only thing that makes [illegible] business interesting [illegible] the [illegible]

ENCIRCLING ATTACK — Firemen surround the blazing Clinton hotel in Philadelphia and pour on strong streams of water from all sides. The million-dollar fire was the city's worst in three years and raged out of control for five hours. Sixteen firemen were hospitalized after they were overcome by smoke, but more than 150 occupants of the hotel and adjoining apartment houses were led to safety.

Women Of District Unite For World Day Of Prayer

LAKEFIELD, (ENS).—"Christ Our Hope" was the theme of the service of prayer held Friday afternoon in Grace Chapel which opened with a call to prayer led by Mrs. Glenford Murphy. Women from all the Protestant churches of the village attended.

Assisting in the service were Mrs. Wallace Hendren of the Lakefield Baptist Church, Mrs. William Blewett of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Mrs. P. H. Darling of the United Church and Mrs. C. C. Stenner of the Church of St. John the Baptist, Mrs. Horace Kaye was soloist, and accompanied by Mrs. Harold Trude, sang "The Stranger of Galilee." Mrs. Delbert Crapp was organist for the service.

Prayer for the nations of the world, their leaders and especially for the representatives of those forming the United Nations Organization was offered by Mrs. J. L. Delaney of the Church of St. John the Baptist; for Her Majesty, the Queen, and all members of the Royal Family, by Mrs. W. B. Walker of the Baptist Church; for the homes of our land, and for our young people, by Mrs. Bernal Harvey of the Gospel Chapel, and for all missionaries by Mrs. Earl Orr of the United Church.

The offering which will be forwarded to the Women's Inter-Church Council of Canada, was received by Mrs. Lloyd Crapp and Miss V. Dunford. Guest speaker, Mrs. James Booker of Norwood, was introduced by Mrs. Glenford Murphy, and as a basis for her address used a scripture reading from Acts 1:1-12.

The offering was received by Mrs. Gerald Armstrong and Mrs. Marshall Larmer.

OMEMEE (ENS).—World Day of Prayer was observed by the women of Omemee and surrounding country Friday in Trinity United Church.

Mrs. C. Richmond and Mrs. S. Nurse of Christ Anglican Church and Mrs. T. A. McConnell and Mrs. V. Zufelt of Trinity United were leaders of the service of which the theme was "Christ Our Hope." Intercessory prayers were offered by Mrs. F. Bent, Mrs. Loken, Mrs. H. Graham, Mrs. S. Moyer and Mrs. S. D. Vaughan.

An address on "The work around the world which our gifts help to make possible," was given by Mrs. Richmond. Mrs. E. A. Cornell sang a solo, "Pray, Pray, Pray," accompanied by Mrs. I. Connell.

The offering was received by Mrs. T. J. Pogue and Mrs. M. Finney and dedicated by Mrs. Zufelt.

Mrs. S. Nurse was appointed key woman for next year.

ROSENEATH, (ENS). — "Our best is tried out by trying circumstances" said Mrs. R. C. White, guest speaker at the World's Day of Prayer service held in Roseneath United Church on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. J. N. Lovelace, president of the United Church W.M.S., was in charge of the service with Mrs. C. W. Varcoe at the piano.

Assisting Mrs. Lovelace with the worship service were: Mrs. [illegible] Waldie, president of the [illegible] Church W.A.; Mrs. N. C. [illegible] president of Fenella [illegible] Mrs. James Bigwin, Al[illegible]makers; Mrs. Ray [illegible] Anglican W.A.; Mrs. [illegible] Missionary W.A.; [illegible] Roseneath [illegible] the [illegible] prayed for the [illegible] prayer for our [illegible] by Mrs. Thomas Robins, Mrs. James L. Timlin prayer for the churches, concluding with prayer for missionaries by Mrs. Edgar Braithwaite.

Mrs. C. W. Varcoe played a piano solo. The offering was received by Mrs. J. A. Nichol and Mrs. Andrew Brown and dedicated by Mrs. Delbert Brisbin. The Rev. R. C. White closed the meeting with prayer.

COLDSPRINGS (ENS).—The World Day of Prayer service was held in Camborne church on Friday with Coldsprings W.M.S. the visiting society. Theme of the meeting was "Christ Our Hope."

Mrs. R. Palmateer, Camborne W.M.S. presided, with the Coldsprings president, Mrs. A. Jamieson assisting. Music was played by Mrs. William Jibb.

The leaders in reading the sections were: Mrs. G. Lacey, Mrs. J. Bowman, Mrs. P. Davidson, Mrs. L. McIntosh, Mrs. R. Palmateer, Mrs. P. C. Brown, Mrs. A. Jamieson, Mrs. H. Davidson, Mrs. E. Lean, and Mrs. H. Lander respectively.

Mrs. W. McMann gave an address on the work around the world, which our gifts help to make possible. Mrs. Allan Bowman sang a solo, "The Lord's Prayer," Offering was received by Mrs. M. Sandercock, and Mrs. H. Davidson and dedicated by Mrs. A. Jamieson.

BAILIEBORO (ENS)—World's Day of Prayer was observed in the Christ Church, Bailieboro, on Friday. Among those taking part in the service were: Mrs. H. C. Howson, Mrs. Dick Hutcheson, Mrs. Willis Hall, Mrs. Percy Elgar, Mrs. Fred Barnard, Mrs. Alex Watt, Mrs. Herb Yarr, Mrs. H. Last.

"Sweet Hour of Prayer" was sung by Mrs. Max Perrin.

HARWOOD (ENS)—The World Day of Prayer was held Friday at the home of Mrs. R. E. Drope and Miss Lottie E. Drope. The joint service of the W.A. of St. John's, and Bethesda United Churches was held. Those taking part were Mrs. A. W. Smith and Mrs. D. Herriott, leaders, and Mrs. Crick, Miss Dennison, Mrs. Lawton, Mrs. C. Hogg, Mrs. Wallace Young. The Rev. A. W. Smith gave the missionary address. Pianist was Miss Lottie E. Drope.

No Offences Alleged In Two Charges

Remanded for sentence until today, after he pleaded guilty to two charges of false pretences a week ago, Burton H. Young, 25, no fixed address, casually pleaded guilty to two more similar charges in police court.

The additional charges laid in Cobourg, alleged that Young obtained funds from two Hastings men a year ago, from cheques made out to another man.

After young had pleaded guilty to the new charges, Magistrate W. R. Philp examined them and said they were both void, because neither alleged any offence, such as false pretences or forgery.

On the first of two charges he had pleaded guilty to a week ago, Magistrate Philp sentenced Young to five months definite and two months indeterminate in reformatory for obtaining a $55 overcoat from a George St. store by issuing a worthless cheque.

Run Concurrently

Young was given four months on the second charge of obtaining $20 from William Young, no relation, by giving him a bad cheque. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Crown Attorney John R. Bradshaw produced Young's record which showed he was convicted of theft here on September 11, 1943, and placed on suspended sentence. On February 1, 1944, he was convicted of breaking and entering with intent and given two months in jail.

"Are those sentences to run consecutively or concurrently," Young asked Magistrate Philp after sentence had been passed.

"Where did you learn about the big difference between the two?" the Magistrate asked in reply.

"Since I've been on my holidays up on the hill," answered Young.

In dismissing the two charges drawn in Cobourg, which Mr. Bradshaw said crown attorney Harry Deyman of Northumberland had agreed to have tried here Magistrate Philp said, "They should not be dealt with at all in their present form."

Youth Goes Berserk In Police Station

HAMILTON, March 3 (CP). — Armand Chevalier, 21, went berserk in central police station today while being questioned on an assault and robbery charge. He upset furniture and threw a typewriter against a window screen.

Later, he pleaded guilty to the charges and was remanded for sentence to March 10.

Police said he walked into a billiard hall early today with a screwdriver in his hand. Prodding proprietor Sam Melnyk, Chevalier said, "Shut up. I want the money."

Melnyk wrestled with the youth who broke away, snatched $25 from a cash register and fled. Police later picked him up in a restaurant.

Lamport In Ottawa Over Unemployment

TORONTO, March 3 — (CP)— Mayor Allan Lamport will fly to Ottawa tonight to confer with Labor Minister Gregg on Toronto's growing unemployment problem.

"I'm not satisfied that everything possible is being done," the Mayor said as he prepared for the trip.

Concussion Results From Fall To Arena Ice

MILLBROOK, March 3 (ENS) — A Millbrook woman, Mrs. Lavern Gibson, suffered a concussion Saturday night when she fell on the ice of Millbrook arena. Admitted to hospital that night, she was permitted to go home Sunday.

Mrs. Gibson was skating with Mrs. Robert Ridger when the accident happened. She said she fell somehow, but didn't remember what happened.

Pruden, King Meet

TORONTO, March 3— (CP)— Fritzie Pruden of St. Catharines, will meet Arthur King of Toronto, in a return 10-round boxing bout at Maple Leafe Gardens March 17. The fight will be non-title.

GRAVE SITE FIRE—More than 10 truckloads of cordwood were tossed on to the big blaze to thaw frozen soil and allow digging of the mass grave for some 200 head of slaughtered cattle from the Regina area. The diseased cattle are to be killed in an effort to eradicate the dread foot-and-mouth disease that has invaded the district. Man at left is squirting gasoline on wood to aid combustion.

New Pentecostal Church Dedicated At Special Service

Approximately 900 were present to hear the Rev. C. B. Smith of Toronto formaly dedicate the new Peterborough Pentecostal Church on Dublin St. Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Smith is the general superintendent of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada.

Following the formal dedication, the guest preacher gave an outline of the growth of the Pentecostal movement throughout the world. He explained that the movement had had a spontaneous beginning by groups of people wanting deeper spiritual experience.

This birth of a new church began in Topeka, Kansas, in the 1890's with another group starting in Los Angeles, California, almost simultaneously. During the ten years before the turn of the century groups became organized into churches all over the world.

No One Founder

"We can't point to any founder of this church," Mr. Smith said, "but rather to a spiritual visitation as the motivation for the beginnings of this movement."

The speaker went on to explain that in the past 50 years, the church has grown to include 500 affiliated churches in Canada with headquarters in Toronto and 7,000 churches in the United States with headquarters in Springfield, Mass. In addition, the church has sister organizations in different countries of the world.

The growth of the movement was best explained by stating that a new church is organized in Canada every month and the average in the United States is one a day. In addition the church in Canada maintains and supports 100 missionaries in various parts of the world.

Doctrines

Mr. Smith then gave the doctrinal points of the fundamental message of the Pentecostal Church. They are: the propogation of salvation through faith in the substitional death of the Lord Jesus Christ; divine healing through faith in the atoning death of the Lord Jesus Christ; baptism of the Holy Spirit; the second pre-millenial return of Christ.

Mr. Smith concluded by explaining that the Pentecostal Church forcibly stands for evangelism which is evidenced by its phenomenal growth in the past 50 years.

Mayor Hugh Waddell brought the greetings and best wishes of the city and complimented the members of the church on their fine building.

Representing the Peterborough Ministerial Association, the Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church brought greetings from the ministers and congregations of the Association. He also briefly outlined the meaning of the church and its message.

The Rev. Ralph Hobson of Park St. Alliance Church brought greetings from the Peterborough Youth for Christ Committee and spoke briefly on the facilities available in the new church for the holding of bi-monthly Youth for Christ rallies on Saturday nights.

Greetings and best wishes were also expressed by Dr. C. M. Wortman Toronto general secretary of the Petecostal Assemblies of Canada; the Rev. George Upton, Toronto, and secretary-treasurer of the Assemblies; Mel Phippen, representing the Christian Businessmen's Committee of Peterborough and H. Pullyblank of the Gideon Society.

Organ Dedicated

The new Hammond organ was also dedicated at the afternoon service.

Special music was provided by the Glad Tidings Male Quartet, Roy Howard, Don Johns, Frank Cunningham, Norman Johns; Harmonettes Girls' Trio from the Peterborough Bible College, Ruby Batten, Ilene Robinson, Barbara Tabacchi; the Trumpetaires Trio of the Bible College, Ron Addison, John Winn, Bob Johnson.

Capacity congregations attended the morning and evening services at the new church.

The guest preacher at the morning service was the Rev. W. B. Greenwood of Belleville. The Rev. Elmer Morrison just returned from South China and former pastor of this church assisted the present pastor, the Rev. Fred H. Parlee in celebrating the communion service.

Meetings All Week

The evening service was the opening of a week of evangelical meetings to be held every night during this week and conducted by the Rev. W. G. MacPherson of the Evangel Temple, Toronto. In addition to the male quartet and the Trumpetaires, special music at this service included Roy Howard, vocal soloist.

Baskets of flowers which were the gifts of various firms in the city and of friends decorated the altar and foyer of the church for the day's services.

Numerous telegrams of congratulations and best wishes from different parts of the country were also received by Mr. Parlee, minister.

OBITUARY

JOHN EDWARD DICKENSON

John Edward Dickenson, 442 Rogers St., a veteran employee of the Canadian General Electric Co., died on Sunday in hospital after a very short illness. Born in Islington, London, Egland, 79 years ago, he came to Peterborough as a young man and entered employment with the C.G.E. on January 30, 1905.

He remained with the company until war clouds darkened over Europe in 1914 and being a member of Imperial army, he was called home early in that year and saw service with the Royal Engineers throughout the First World War.

In 1919 he returned to Peterborough and commenced continuous service with the C.G.E. on January 21 as an employee in the carpentry shop. Mr. Dickenson was pensioned on March 29, 1945, after 25 years service with the company. Since then he has lived in retirement.

Mr. Dickenson was a member of St. Luke's Anglican Church and was a son of the late Thomas Henry Dickenson and Rebecca Coleback. He is survived by his wife, formerly Dorothy Truslove and one brother, Edwin Dickenson of England.

The body is at the Mather Funeral Home, Eagle, until Tuesday when it will be taken to the Church, Peterborough, where service will be held [illegible] Rev. Walter [illegible] Interment will be in [illegible] Cemetery, Otonabee Township.

Jailed Seven Days

John Adams, 51 First St., Simcoe, pleaded guilty to drunk driving when he appeared in police court today. He was sentenced to seven days in jail.

Adams was stopped Friday night by OPP Constable Roy Feeley on Charlotte St., who notified the city police who came and arrested him.

Patrol Sgt. Claire McGillen said Adams was so drunk he had to be helped out of the provincial police cruiser into the city cruiser and then had to be assisted from the cruiser into the police station.

Dollar Unchanged

MONTREAL, March 3 (CP) — The United States dollar today opened at par with the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Friday's close.

The pound sterling was $2.78⅛, also unchanged.

Favorite Flops As Hill Prince Finishes Fifth

ARCADIA, Calif., March 3 —(AP)—For the third time in as many $100,000 races at Santa Anita Park this season, the heavily backed favorite failed when the chips were down.

Counterpoint did it in the Maturity, finishing sixth with a nick on the leg which put the 1951 horse of the year out of training. Windy City II missed in the Derby, although he came in second. And last Saturday Hill Prince, 1950's horse of the year, wound up fifth in the rich Santa Anita Handicap with a dull performance rivalling for attention the hassle over the winner.

When Counterpoint ran out, the victor was Brookfield Farm's Intent. And Saturday, it was Intent who hit the wire first. But it was Miche, a mud-splattered grey ghost from the Argentine, who drew down the $104,100 first money for Mrs. John Payson Adams, San Francisco socialite.

Hugged Rail

Intent and Miche, with the whole track practically to themselves down the stretch, chose to hug the rail. Miche was on the rail, inside, Intent barely outside as they came off the last turn.

The films—which the stewards ran off for the sports writers to explain a disqualification which placed Intent second—seemed to show both slide a little in the mud left by a brisk overnight rain.

At any rate, they had barely straightened out for the stretch drive when Intent bumped Miche into the rail. The South American bounced out, then into the rail again, jockey John Covalli's foot clearly pointing into the infield.

Only a hair separated them the rest of the way to the wire, but despite the close quarters there was no further interference.

Hastings To Play At Norwood Again

NORWOOD, March 3 (ENS)—At an executive T.V.L. meeting in Ottawa on Saturday, Norwood's protest against Hastings using Goalie Rock Battley of Peterborough—claiming he was a junior O.H.A. player—was upheld. There was some talk of throwing Hastings out for the rest of the season, but Norwood officials asked that this not be done. They suggested instead a sudden-death playoff between Hastings and Norwood to declare a division finalist to meet Havelock.

This will be done, and Hastings has been told to meet Norwood in Norwood tonight in a sudden-death playoff game. Previously, Hastings had won two of three semi-final games over Norwood, but had used Rock Batley in goal. They must not use Batley tonight, but can have Nelson of Hastings in the net or a goalie from one of the ousted teams in the central division of the league.

Assumes Command

TOKYO, March 3—(Reuters)—Vice-Admiral Robert P. Briscoe assumed command of the United States 7th fleet today in a ceremony aboard the battleship Wisconsin at Yokosuka naval base. Briscoe relieved Vice-Admiral Harold M. Martin, who now becomes commander of the Pacific air force with headquarters at San Diego, Calif.

Neurotic Disorders

LONDON, March 3—(Reuters)—Fifty-five per cent of drugs taken by Britons, including vitamins, are for highly-neurotic disorders, the Medical Journal said today. Such illnesses, "indicative of a widespread social malaise", are as great a problem today as typhus and cholera in the past, the journal said.

Need More Clergymen

CHICHESTER, England, March 3—(Reuters) — The Church of England is fast running out of clergymen, the Bishop of Chichester, Dr. George Bell, warned Sunday. The prelate said the 20,000 parish clergy in England in 1941 had been reduced to 15,000 by 1951. Assistant curates numbered 4,554 in 1938, but only 2,189 10 years later.

Special Funds Available For ACTH Tests

OTTAWA, March 3—(CP)—Special funds were made available last year for research in the action and uses of the drugs ACTH and Cortisone in Canadian universities and hospitals, the National Research Council's medical research division reported today.

Experimental use of these hormones was made possible as a result of generous contributions from Provincial Departments of Health out of Dominion-Provincial health grants," the report said.

Only small amounts of the drugs were available previously but "the Connaught Medical Research Laboratories (at the University of Toronto), with assistance from this fund, have extracted a large amount of ACTH which is made available to investigators (across Canada) by the council."

Apply To Committee

These rare drugs are given to various medical research men who apply to a special committee headed by Dr. R. F. Farquharson, professor of medicine at the University of Toronto.

The report said "radio-isotopes are used to a great extent in current medical research."

Those are the radio-active substances which make it possible to trace with a Geiger counter the progress in the body of whatever chemical substance the scientist is interested in. The scientist adds a minute quantity of radio-active matter to the subject of his study and follows its course in the body with the Geiger counter.

In a statement, the N.R.C. said it is giving "substantial support" through its medical research division to "studies in the basic sciences related to medicine and investigations into the cause and treatment of acute and chronic illness . . . . "

Baptismal Service

ROSENEATH, March 3 (ENS).—Following the regular church service Sunday afternoon at Alderville church, a baptismal service was held at the home of ex-Chief Norman Marsden and Mrs. Marsden when their youngest grandchild, Trudy Anne Marsden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Verlon Marsden, Roseneath, received the sacrament of baptism administered by the former pastor, Rev. [illegible], a former pastor.

Following the baptismal service the hostess served dinner. Included among the guests present at the baptismal service were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, Misses Roberta and Carole Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marsden Jr., Toronto; Mrs. H. Lander, Coldsprings, and Mrs. Ernest Crowe of Gores Landing.

Skating Club Carnival Fills Cobourg Arena To Capacity

COBOURG, March 3 (ENS) — Second annual Cobourg Figure Skating Club carnival packed the recreational centre arena to capacity on Friday night. One hundred youngsters under the direction of club professional Shirley Luffman went through a routine of numbers with a graceful precision that drew warm applause from the almost 2,000 people present.

During the weeks which preceded the carnival, a committee of women worked long hours making costumes, handicapped by the fact that due to lack of funds, all the costumes had to be made by hand. The result however was a very professional looking job. Ages of the children ranged from five years to 17. During the winter months they had been taking lessons in figure skating each week and the carnival was a demonstration of their ability.

Members of outside skating clubs who took part in the special numbers were Jean Carr and Hugh Smith of Oshawa Skating Club, Mildred Harris of Toronto Skating Club, Judy Lawrence, Oshawa Skating Club; John Rodway, Arden and Clifford Spearing of Toronto Skating Club. Soloist of the local skating club was Miss Joan Roberts.

The story of Hansel and Gretel was depicted in a beautiful ice number, the principals being Susan Blackwell, Eve Hargraft and Sandra Rollings, and a flock of rabbits, squirrels, chipmunks, skunks, mice, candy canes, marshmallows and gingerbread men, all in delightful costumes.

Featuring Margaret Jean Carr of Cobourg and Oshawa, "Anchors Aweigh" was a number in which clever skaters went through an intricate routine with great precision. China Town was another colorful number, some 50 girls in coolie costumes. Graceful skaters in ballet costumes took part in the Waltz of the Flowers ballet. Specialty numbers were interspersed in the program and the carnival concluded with a rousing cowboys and cowgirls number, smartly costumed and accompanied by western music.

Commentator during the program was Mrs. Jane Allen.

Says Canadian Boys Weak On Knowledge

WINNIPEG—(CP)—The average Canadian youth has manners, tact and self-confidence. But he's a flop when it comes to general knowledge, says Cmdr. F. C. Frewer, chairman of a board selecting candidates for summer training with the Royal Canadian Navy.

Visiting here, Cmdr. Frewer said the boards he has headed "feel very strongly that the average youth doesn't know what goes on outside his own little world. He seems to take remarkably little interest in national and international affairs, which is deplorable in the present world situation."

Interviews with hundreds of applicants showed such a situation exists all across Canada, said Cmdr. Frewer. Applicants ranged from 17 to 19 years of age, and they all looked "well turned out and healthy."

Coldsprings Y.P.U. Met

COLDSPRINGS, March 3 —(ENS)—The Y.P.U. held their meeting Friday night in the Sunday school room with an attendance of 21. The president, Robert Turner, presided. Bill Little accompanied the hymns. The scripture reading was given by Jean Willis; a reading, "Food For Thought" by Margaret Ford; prayer was led by Grace Wilton; Leslie Avery received the offering. Recreation convener, Bill Little was in charge of the meeting and recreation.

Too Much Tea

WOODCOTE, England, March 3—(Reuters)—The vicar of St. Mark's Church has warned Britons against drinking so much tea. The Rev. Alfred C. Raby declared in a parish magazine: "Today in shops and offices throughout Britain time and patience and stamina are sapped because from early in the morning the staff begins to retire for 'a cuppa tea'."

Tunnel Planned Through Heart Of Mont Blanc

GENEVA, March 3—(Reuters)—The world's longest highway tunnel, linking France and Italy, is going to be drilled through the solid granite of Europe's highest mountain, 15,781-foot Mont Blanc.

Work on the 7½-mile tunnel will start later this year and is expected to be finished in 1956.

The tunnel is of great importance to western defence for it will bring the industrial centres of Northern Italy closer to Western Europe.

The 26-foot-wide, two-way tunnel will run straight through Mont Blanc with only one slight curve at the French end, necessary to join the tunnel to the approach from Chamonix.

The French entrance will be at the little village of La Dalmaz, situated about 4,500 feet up the mountainside above Chamonix. The Italian end will be at Entreves, near the resort of Courmajeur.

In addition to the two-way concrete road, the tunnel will provide an important link for electric power to be piped to France from hydro-electric power plants in the Italian Alps. It also will carry telephone and telegraph cables.

Three countries—France, Italy and Switzerland—will share the cost of the tunnel, estimated at $18,648,000.

French and Italian engineers already have carried out extensive surveys of Mont Blanc and the construction of the tunnel presents no particular difficulties.

The mountain is formed of solid granite which will make the work of drilling considerably safer because it will obviate the danger of rock falls.

W.I. Sponsors Euchre

HAVELOCK, March 3 (ENS).—Weekly euchre party sponsored by the Belmont Women's Institute was held Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Toms in Havelock. Ten tables were played with the following prize winners: Robert Wrightly, Mrs. O. Parcels, Mrs. Harry Hubble, Robert McCutcheon. Tickets were sold on a china cup and saucer, the proceeds of $5 going to a small patient in the Toronto sanitorium. Winner of the draw was Mrs. Earl Watson of Havelock.

Missionary From Roseneath In Venezuela

ROSENEATH, March 3 (ENS)—Warren Atkinson, Roseneath, has received a letter from his daughter, Mrs. Bruce Cole, nee Betty Atkinson, announcing that she and her husband and their two young sons have arrived safely at San Cristobol language school in Venezuela, South America.

Mr. and Mrs. Cole are missionaries sent from The Fellowship Baptist Church, Cobourg, and the People's Church, Toronto.

Mrs. Cole prior to her marriage was an active member of Roseneath United Church choir.

Mr. and Mrs. Cole left Brooklyn, New York, January 24 on the Dutch vessel, M. S. Paseidon.

It being a 4,000 ton ship there were only two passenger cabins, besides the crew of 40 sailors and officers.

Two ports of call were made at Curacao and Aruba in the Dutch West Indies where large oil refineries are located. At Curacao they saw a British war cruiser as it was about to sail with the white clad sailors lining the decks, and the band playing.

At Aruba they went ashore and spent a few hours with fellow missionaries for whom they had taken a tape recorder.

The vegetation, mostly cactus plants, was very green as the rainy season was just over. The cactus plants form the fences.

Upon arrival in Maraciabo, Venezuela, February 6th, they were met by missionaries with whom they stayed until they left several days later for language school in San Cristobal. It is situated higher in the mountains where the weather is cooler.

Mr. Cole went with their luggage by truck and Mrs. Cole with their two young sons travelled by car in a thrilling two-day journey through the mountains to reach the school.

Two Injured Men Now Improving

KINGSTON, March 3 (CP) — James Perrin and Frederick Dougall, both of Delta, Ont., injured Friday morning in a dynamite explosion at an Ontario Hydro projec 20 miles north of Brockville, were reported resting comfortably in hospital here Sunday.

Dr. G. W. Bingham said Perrin is not expected to recover his sight and suffered a broken elbow while Dougall's eyes were injured, but not as severely. He also suffered a broken arm.

The men were working on a power line extension in the Charleston Lake area and were blasting post holes. It is thought a power drill struck some dynamite which had not exploded.

U. N. Regulations Irritate Puzzled Korean Civilians

By BILL BOSS, Canadian Press Staff Writer

SEOUL, Korea, March 3. (CP)—Haphazard planning and small concern for the convenience of civilians are evident in some orders from the United Nations command in Korea. A people already confused by warfare is faced constantly with new U.N. regulations and red tape.

Typical of the sort of thing that happens is the change of civilian passes put into effect in Seoul last month. The passes permit Seoul residents to leave the city, by crossing the Han River bridge, and come back at will. Persons living on the far side of the Han are not permitted in.

Until Jan. 16, all passes were issued by the United Nations Civilian Assistance command. That day, without warning, C.A.C.'s authority was withdrawn. Civilians were told to get new passes from Seoul area command's provost marshal.

No machinery was set up to handle the thousands of applications. The provost Marshal managed to get one extra officer. Military police confiscated 100,000 passes in a few days. Only 1,400 of the new ones were issued the first week, 7,000 to Feb. 8.

Reason given for the change was that C.A.C. had issued passes too freely. Last summer thousands of Korean families were broken up by forcible evacuation from the U.N. patrolling area. C.A.C. has been trying to reunite them.

Here's another sample of the civilian's problem:

Republyic of Korea and United Nations military police decided to check the ownership of civilian vehicles crossing the Han bridge. All vehicles without papers, to prove they had not been stolen from U.N. forces, were seized.

But papers get lost and destroyed under war conditions.

R.O.K. police confiscated the jeep of the Roman Catholic Bishop of Seoul. It had been bought from the Economic Cooperation Administration in 1947.

American police confiscated the jeep of the Chancellor of the Diocese. It had been bought in 1949.

News of the confiscations spread fast. Truckers kept their vehicles off the roads. Fresh supplies for the city didn't come on schedule. Prices went up.

There are some humorous angles. To make it hard for outsiders to get passes to enter Seoul, the nearest pass office is 27 miles away. Few use it. Why go to Sumon when you can cross the frozen Han on foot and line up for the two-way pass to leave and return, once he's in the city.

But the Koreans don't think it funny.

In their mind, the system imposes unnecessarily the hazards of a river crossing. Every drowning that occurs is held against the U.N.

U.N. CONFUSES REFUGEES —Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer with the Canadian Forces in Korea, says some orders from the United Nations Command show evidence of haphazard planning and small concern for the convenience of Korean civilians. These two small boys are among some 2,000,000 refugees whose lives at present are subject to overall U.N. control. — (CP from National Defence).

The St. John's Players will stage "Ladies In Return" and Grand Falls players will present "High Ground" by Charlotte Hastings.

200,000 Men Under Arms Danish Goal

By GUY BETTANY

COPENHAGEN, March 3 — (Reuters) — Denmark, a country normally associated abroad with butter, cheese and bacon, is rapidly becoming a land of soldiers.

The transition from a practically unarmed country, with a long tradition of neutrality, to an active partner in Western defence has been hard, but remarkably swift.

Less than a year ago Denmark extended her period of compulsory military service from 10 months to one year to that she would be able to mobilize 100,000 trained men by the end of 1952.

Now, with the government's proposal to extend the period to 18 months, the target is 200,000 men.

Moreover, all three services—army, navy and air force—are rapidly building up strong cadres of long service men and technicians under professional officers.

With such relatively strong forces at her command, Denmark plans to prevent a repetition of April 9, 1940, when the Germans overran the country in a few hours.

No Danes, least of all the professional officers, imagine that a country with such a small population and occupying such a strategical position at the entrance to the Baltic, could hold out long by herself against a powerful aggressor.

Lt-Gen. E. Moeller, commander-in-chief of the Danish army, says the aim of the Danish armed forces would be to hold out until help arrives.

Assistance from the air or even by sea could arrive in a few hours, but additional land forces could not reach Denmark until much later. For this reason, special care is being taken to train and equip the Danish army so that it could hold out if necessary for several weeks.

The army under present plans is to have one heavily-armed division in a state of constant preparedness, as well as skeleton divisions which could be quickly brought up to effective strength on mobilization.

The Danish air force has recently developed in a striking fashion. Thanks to aircraft from Britain and the United States, and the intensive training of Danish pilots in Arizona, the present striking force consists of more than 250 jet fighters with reserves, as well as a specially-trained night fighter squadron.

The provision of airports suitable not only for the Danish air force but also for Allied reinforcements is one of Denmark's most important contributions to Atlantic defence.

The airports are mostly in Jutland and it is proposed to build a new large one for jet fighters northwest of Copenhagen. Existing ones are being enlarged and their equipment improved to accommodate large numbers of planes.

Held Without Bail

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—Barry Robinson, 29-year-old Negro, was held without bail Sunday on a homicide charge in the death of a teen-age mother whose body was found in a trunk on a Greenwich, Conn., estate. Robinson, a former seaman, is accused of selling heroin to Mrs. Joanne Barbara Scott, 16, which "she injected into her veins, causing her death."

Mrs. A. Chown Dies

TORONTO, March 3 (CP) — Active in church work in both western and eastern Canada, Alice Maude Chown, 71, widow of Russell C. Chown, died Saturday in hospital here. Born in Belleville, she lived in Edmonton from 1912 to 1922 when she moved to Toronto.

New Settlement

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP). —A new settlement will be organized at Reindeer Lake, 400 miles northeast of here. Natives in the area will move to the site when a new fish filleting plant opens there. Sites have also been surveyed for a wharf and townsite.

Lucrative Business

LERWICK, SCOTLAND—(CP) A cave once used by smugglers has been found under the main street of this little town in the Shetland Islands. The roof of the cave collapsed under the weight of traffic.

Official Taster Samples Food Of Stalin's Son

UFLRICHARD K. O'MALLEY

MUNICH, March 2 — (CP) — Vassily Stalin, son of Russia's Prime Minister, is as suspicious as a Roman emperor. He uses an official taster, whose job is to sam le all food before the younger Stalin eats it.

A Russian soldier named Sergei, who deserted to the west a year ago, should know. He was a cook in Vassily Stalin's kitchen in the Soviet zone of Germany.

"I don't make propaganda," Sergei said. "I tell the truth. And I saw the taster. He was Vassily Stalin's private doctor. Before meals were served he came into the kitchen to taste. A sip of soup, a bite of meat, a taste of vegetables. Then he stood by with a long face while it was taken from the kitchen and put on the table. He made sure that nobody slipped in any poison.

"We used to say 'as the father does, so does the son.' We used to wonder who was taster in Premier Stalin's home."

Only The Best

The younger Stalin, who stayed for a time as an occupation officer in Germany, never stinted himself, the young cook said.

"Whatever was the best in food, he got. Banquets, private meals, all were the best, And wines and schnapps and vodka, too. Girls, of course. It used to make me sick because I knew what the common soldiers were getting."

He said that Vassily Stalin, known for his temper and hatred of the west, was a great party giver and finicky about his service.

"You only got one mistake. Any more and out you went. In a way, everybody did his best to work correctly. Because we in the kitchen naturally saw to it that we had enough to eat and dripk."

Eventually, the younger Stalin went back to Moscow, and Sergei went back to a guards division. He spent most of his time in barracks, but he had seen enough to know that life outside the Soviet Union was too desirable to leave.

"Germans had more freedom, more food, better treatment than any of us," he said. "I had heard enough propaganda for one lifetime. So one day I decided to do. . . ."

HUDDERSFIELD, ENGLAND —(CP)—When Dudley Stilton's Alsatian dog Rusty went blind he was advised to have it destroyed, but instead he trained a puppy as guide for his pet. Now Dudley says the two dogs are the best of pals.

Will Use Arbitration In Firing Of 14 Men

WINDSOR, March 3 (CP) — Chrysler of Canada employees at a mass meeting Sunday decided arbitration proceedings would be followed in the discharge cases of 14 union members.

Some 1,000, who were there, also agreed that their negotiating committee should have the power to call a strike vote meeting later, if the committee finds it necessary.

Sam Kain, general chairman of Chrysler unit, Local 195 U.A.W.-C.I.O., presided.

The union says the firings took place in connection with a company speedup of the passenger car line.

100 Die In Train Collision Worst In Brazil's History

Trains Topple Over As 'Quake, Waves Kill 31 In Japan

TOKYO, March 4. (AP)—A terrifying earthquake and tidal waves killed at least 31 persons in northern Japan today, injured hundreds and destroyed more than 2,500 homes. Railway trains were toppled over. Rail lines were reported swallowed by great fissures. A coal mine partially collapsed. Harbor facilities were badly damaged at Kushiro, a port city of 68,000 on the southeast coast of Hokkaido island. Kushiro was the centre of destruction.

Most of the dead were in and near the centre, on Japan's most northerly island. Tidal waves knocked down warehouses. The quake touched off 11 fires.

Nine persons were buried alive by a landslide.

The quake was general north of Tokyo. Tokyo itself was not damaged.

The United States 1st Cavalry Division is stationed on Hokkaido and the U.S. 24th Division is in northern Honshu.

They reported no Americans injured. Under orders of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the divisions turned their facilities to aid the stricken and thousands of homeless.

The quake struck at 10:24 a.m. (8:24 p.m. E.S.T. Monday).

Seismologists at U.S. universities reported it was one of the most severe in the world in half a century.

Columbia University said it was the worst since Aug. 15, 1950, when a quake shook Assam, India. That was the biggest in 50 years. The Japanese quake was about the same intensity.

U. S. seismologists said the shock was centred 60 miles below the floor of the Pacific Ocean.

Tokyo meteorologists located the centre as 43 miles east of Cape Erimo on south central Hokkaido.

Some points were hit by as many as eight tidal waves. At other points the sea rose as much as five feet.

At Hachinohe, on the northeast coast of Honshu, five tidal waves swept inland. Each was larger than the one before. Then, nearly four hours after the quake, "the sea receded greatly," Tokyo meteorologists said.

Sketchy reports said most of the damage was done along the eastern coast of Hokkaido facing the epicentre of the quake.

The U.S. Army reported 1,002 houses were destroyed at Shiranuka, 400 at Kiritappu, 400 at Hamanaka. Other reports said 200 houses were demolished at Obihiro, 150 at Urakawa.

Eighteen fishing villages were inundated. Tidal waters swept 20 fighting boats away at Kawaguchi in Northern Honshu, the main island of Japan, just south of sparsely,settled Hokkaido.

Residents fled coastal villages as soon as the quake struck. They knew the tidal waves were coming.

No Progress In Talks Since Dec. 18

MUNSAN, Korea, March 4 — (AP). — Korean truce talks are "right back where they were December 18," Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby said today after arguing with the Communists whether 50,000 missing Allied troops actually exist.

Libby demanded the Reds account for the missing men—South Korean soldiers the United Nations command says the Reds incorporated in the North Korean army.

They "do not exist," said North Korean Maj.-Gen. Lee Sang cho. He called it an Allied fabrication, an "attempt to block our progress by creating another hindrance." (The Reds concede some South Koreans are in the Communist army, but contend they are volunteers and that many deserted the South Korean army.)

They do exist and have always existed," Libby snapped back. And they "must be returned to our side" when prisoners-of-war are exchanged.

No Progress

At this point Libby said: "Apparently we are back where we were on December 18." Negotiators exchanged lists of prisoners-of-war on that date.

In another truce tent, Red staff officers repeated their "firm and unshakeable" demand that Russia help supervise a truce. U.N. officers repeated their "irrevocable" stand that Russia is not acceptable. They have been deadlocked like that for weeks.

In a new charge, Lee said if the U.N. command holds any prisoners who don't want to be returned they have been intimidated at bayonet point.

Lee was attacking the Allied stand that no prisoners be sent back unless they want to go, and the U.N. reclassification of 44,000 prisoners as civilian internees.

The Reds recently revived an old demand that the Allies supply a list of 44,000 prisoners not named in the original U.N. list.

Believe Pinay May Get Gov't

PARIS, March 4 — (CP): — Antoine Pinay, 60-year-old Moderate Conservative, agreed tonight to form a new French government. He will ask the Assembly to vote him in as Premier.

Pinay, third candidate for the premiership since the French Cabinet crisis developed five days ago, conferred today with several former premiers including Radical Henri Queuille and Leftist Radical Rene Pleven.

He apparently found basis for hope that he might get the support necessary to form a Cabinet.

Pinay, Minister of Transport in the outgoing government of Edgar Faure, Monday accepted President Vincent Auriol's invitation to make an attempt at forming a government.

He met leaders of the various French parliamentary groups today and then advised Auriol he had been successful in negotiations to form an administration.

Blame Faulty Flaps For Plane Crash

NICE, France, March 4 (AP).—Officials concluded today that faulty flaps combined with a double engine failure caused Monday's plane crash here which took the lives of 37 persons. They discarded a theory that the plane was downed by a flight of seagulls.

An investigation of the wreckage of the Air France airliner showed that the flaps were not in a position to give a lift to the craft. With an experienced pilot at the controls, it was assumed that he had sought to put his flaps in such a position.

Simultaneously, the two left wing engines had conked out, an examination of the propellers showed. Thus, the plane, flying only on its two right-wing engines, its lift unaided by outward flaps, was virtually doomed to crash.

The airliner plowed into an olive grove shortly after taking off on a flight to Paris.

Two Tankers Collide Continue To Port

NORFOLK, Va., March 4—(AP)—Two tankers, the Gulfglow and the Imperial Toronto, collided in Chesapeake Bay in dense fog shortly before noon today.

The coast guard reported no one was hurt and the tankers "made fast to each other" after the collision and were proceeding under their own power.

The Gulfglow lost both her anchors in the crash.

The collision occurred seven miles northeast of Smith Point, which is near the mouth of the Potomac river and some 50 miles north of Norfolk.

Shortage of Teachers

TORONTO, March 4 (CP) — Education Minister Dunlop said Monday night that the shortage of teachers and classrooms is increasing at a rate of 1,00 a year. He told a Board of Trade dinner meeting that the shortage was the principal problem confronting education in Ontario. He urged parents, church officials and businessmen to take an interest in education.

Say Canada Able To Make A-Bomb

VANCOUVER, March 4 (CP)—Canada has never tried to make an A-bomb, but quickly could make one if necessary, Dr. David A. Keys, vice-president of the National Research Council, said here Monday in an interview.

Dr. Keys, in charge of atomic energy developments at Chalk River, said: "We have in Canada the most powerful source of neutrons known and we are producing isotopes, including plutonium, a nuclear fuel of which bombs may be made.

"But we have never tried to make a bomb and we are not interested in atomic energy as a war weapon."

Canada, he said, was recognized the world over for the development of atomic energy for peacetime needs.

Dr. Keys expects that within 10 years some of Canada's electric power will be generated from atomic energy.

Serious U.K. Cattle Epidemic Almost Over, Officials Say

LONDON, March 4—(Reuters)—A serious epidemic of foot-and-mouth disease now is almost over, the Ministry of Agriculture said today.

At present there are only two small outbreaks in isolated places —near Hull, Yorkshire, and Leighton Buzzard, Bedfordshire. A ministry spokesman said the outbreak was controlled by the only sure method—killing affected cattle and keeping suspected herds isolated.

Since last Nov. 14 more than 5,790 cattle, sheep and pigs have been slaughtered and the government has paid compensation to farmers totalling £378,400.

Official figures for the whole of 1951 show 116 outbreaks of the scourge led to the slaughtering of 13,409 cattle, sheep and pigs.

First outbreaks in November were reported from Winestead Hill, Yorkshire, and Saint Osyth, Essex. Within 48 hours other outbreaks were confirmed near Scarborough, Hull, Norwich, Lowestoft and Colchester.

All these places are on or near Britain's east coast and this backed up the theory of agricultural experts that outbreaks in Britain are caused by the flight of birds, especially starlings, from Europe at the beginning of cold weather.

The epidemic, one of the worst in 10 years, almost paralyzed agriculture on the east coast. Strict orders went out to all farmers to report immediately any suspicion of the disease on their farms. They were forbidden to move animals to market without special licences from the Ministry of Agriculture.

Attlee Weathers Attack Within Party

Labor Left Wingers Fight Leadership On Defence Policy Issue

LONDON, March 4—(AP)—Clement Attlee successfully weathered an all-out attack by Labor Party left wingers today against his leadership on the issue of Britain's defence policy.

Attlee's victory, at a closed caucus of the 295 Labor members of the House of Commons, was reliably reported to have been by a voting margin of about three to one.

It was the first time the long standing leadership challenge of Aneurin Bevan and his Leftist forces had come to a showdown vote at a meeting of party members who hold seats in Commons.

Attlee has already decided to move in Commons Wednesday a want-of-confidence motion declaring that Winston Churchill's Conservative government is "not capable of carrying out adequately" the British defence program.

This program, originally calling for a three-year, £4,700,000,000 arms outlay, was drawn up by Attlee's own Labor government before its defeat in the national election last October.

It was reported Bevan demanded today the motion go far beyond the wording proposed by the party leadership. He wanted it to assert that the present scale of rearmament is too large and should be cut in order to avoid economy slashes in Britain's welfare services, such as the costly free health scheme.

Have $15,000 Arena Fire

WILBERFORCE, March 4. (Staff)—A $15,000 fire early today burned out the front end of the Monmouth Community Centre in Wilberforce, 75 miles north of Peterborough, but determined work by volunteer firefighters prevented all the building from going up in flames. Cause of the outbreak is still not known, but flames were first noticed coming from the section of the arena housing the oil heating system. The fire was discovered at 6:30 a.m. today by Florence Billings, an employee of the Wilberforce Veneer and Lumber Co. Miss Billings, who lives near the arena, saw flames leaping in the air and called the Wilberforce telephone operator, Harold Bowen.

Mr. Bowen roused everyone on the telephone exchange and within a few minutes volunteers were pouring water on the flames. The quick use of a pumper, owned by the Wilberforce Veneer and Lumber Co., is credited with being a major factor in confining the fire.

Some volunteers formed bucket brigades and others shovelled snow to throw on the burning building.

Shortly before 8 a.m. the Haliburton Fire Department arrived with a pumper but by that time the fire was out.

Offices Destroyed

Destroyed is the whole front end, including offices, dressing rooms, a snack bar (with an automatic potato chipper), as well as canned goods, dishes and other stock. The blazes burned back about 50 feet from the front.

Hockey equipment stored in the building was also destroyed.

All that is left of the $25,000 arena, completed in December, 1950, is the ice surface with the roof of metal sheeting.

The arena was of wooden frame construction and the ice surface was regulation size.

By 8 a.m. the last trace of fire had been extinguished by the 30 volunteer firefighers. Every able-bodied man, including Reeve Jack Mangan of Wilberforce and members of council, answered the emergency call.

The wind was blowing away from the built-up section of the village so there was no threat of the flames spreading.

Before the arena was even officially opened, it had been paid for. The money was raised by local subscription; there were no debentures.

The last activity in the arena was a hockey game Monday night between Harcourt and Wilberforce.

Think Councillor Kidnapped City Fathers Get In Tizzy

MONTREAL, March 4 (CP) — Cosmopolitan Montreal, where strange and zany happenings are almost the rule rather than the exception, came up with a lulu Monday. First, city fathers got into a tizzy after reports that one of their number had been kidnapped to prevent him taking part in a vote to elect a new councillor.

Radio stations and newspapers played it up big. Police said they hadn't heard of any kidnapping. Then, it turned out that the whole affair had snowballed from an innocent remark.

Here's what happened:

Monday was the day to elect a successor to the late Councillor Israel Morin. The post, a class "B" category, finally went to Fabien Laberge but before it did:

One councillor told another jokingly that the latter's candidate could not count on the vote of Bruno Lepine because Mr. Lepine had disappeared.

Grew Rapidly

This, through repetition grew into talk of kidnapping.

Reports flew thick and fast. Mr. Lepine had been kidnapped. He had been forced into an automobile in front of his home by several men. The vote would be close. Mr. Lepine's vote could swing the election one way or the other.

The council meeting got under way. Slowly, order came out of chaos.

One councillor said the missing man had been at his home a short time before and he had said he wasn't going to attend the meeting.

The matter wasn't settled yet. Council leader Dave Rochon asked that consideration of the election be delayed as Mr. Lepine was not present.

This brought protests from a number of the city fathers who wanted to know why the absence of one man should hold up the work of the council.

Mr. Rochon withdrew his motion.

Mr. Lepine wasn't available for comment.

Toronto MOH Urges Use Of Fluorination

TORONTO, March 4—(CP)—Fluorination of Toronto water as a means of keeping down tooth decay was recommended today by Dr. L. A. Pequegnat, medical officer of health.

He said that reports from other cities indicate that Toronto can expect about a 65-per-cent reduction in decay during a 12-year to 14-year period.

Brantford has been experimenting with fluorine in its drinking water for several years with favorable results.

The plan also has been discussed in several other communities. In Peterborough, Dr. R. A. Kelly, medical officer of health, said today his city is not going to use fluorine until it has been tried out further.

Use Of Narcotics Up 300% In Michigan

LANSING, Mich., March 4 (CP) —Illicit use of narcotics has risen in Michigan between 200 and 300 per cent in the past few years, it was indicated today in a legislative committee report.

Addiction had grown in the larger outside cities and petty crimes attributable to narcotics use had increased. Most new addicts were persons under 27.

Lands Dept. Shows Surplus

TORONTO, March 4 (CP). — The Ontario Lands Department showed a surplus of $3,167,618 in its operations during 1951, a report tabled in the Ontario Legislature showed Monday.

A salvage operation in the Mississagi area after a forest fire cost $3,300,000 and brought in a return of $5,000,000. More than $6,000,000 was received from Crown dues, fire tax and other fees. The largest expenditures were $6,800,000 for field services and $1,600,000 in head office administration.

Acreage lost to forest fires was 36,760, a decrease of 24,500 from the previous year. More than 19,000,000 trees were planted.

Game licences neared the million dollar mark, and game royalties exceeded $250,000. Receipts from the timber management division dropped $300,000 over the year; but total receipts were up about $4,700,000 and disbursements were cut $1,350,000.

Immigrant Still Being Tested

HULL, Que., March 4—(CP)—Willi Bruentjen, 29-year-old immigrant farm worker suspected of bringing foot-and-mouth disease to Canada, is still undergoing tests at the Agriculture Department's animal diseases laboratory here.

The German, who worked for a brief time at the South Saskatchewan farm where the outbreak of the disease was first noted, is a "guest" of the Federal government. His movements, however, are restricted to the laboratories until the tests are completed, probably in a week. So far there is no report on the progress of the tests.

An Agriculture Department spokesman said Bruentjen has been "very helpful" in co-operating with the government on the tests. Not under arrest or charged, Bruentjen reported to R.C.M.P. officials in Vancouver last week when he learned he was the object of a widespread search.

Say Bubonic Plague Spreading In N. Korea

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4 (AP)—The Communist Peiping radio said Monday Gen. Kim Il sung, chairman of the military council and premier of North Korea, has issued a decree placing the country in a virtual state of emergency to combat bubonic plague.

The Red broadcast, heard by The Associated Press, said the decree ordered a national extraordinary anti-epidemic committee, the ministry of health, the army medical bureau and other government agencies to "mobilize all forces" to wipe out germ-carrying insects.

The Reds have persistently accused the United States of causing the plague by dropping germs behind Red lines. The United Nations command has denied the charge as a "cover-up" for an epidemic of natural causes.

Alf Pope Returning To Britain For Cricket

PORT HOPE, March 4 (CP)—Alf Pope, eldest of three brothers well-known in cricket circles, is returning to Britain April 5 to become cricket professional for Forfarshire County in Scotland.

Pope came to Canada in 1949 to become the professional at Trinity College school here.

He said cricket in Canada is good, but the distances between the "hot-beds" makes it impossible to get keen competition.

Truman Makes Dramatic Peace Broadcast To Reds

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) —In a dramatic peace broadcast, President Truman today appealed to the people of Russia and Communist China to force their rulers to drop "their senseless policy of hate and terror."

Truman spoke from the flight deck of the Voice of America's powerful new floating transmitter the United States coast guard cutter "Courier," berthed at a city pier.

He addressed his words especially to the people of China and Russia, reminding them how the U.S. came to their aid in the Second World War.

"We helped them to save their countries," Truman said. "I want to say to these people today, as we said then: we are your friends. There are no differences between us that cannot be settled if your rulers will turn from their senseless policy of hate and terror, and follow the principles of peace."

Relay stations at Tangier, Munich, Ceylon, Manila, Honolulu and facilities of the BBC beamed the message to listeners in all parts of the world.

The address highlighted welcoming of the cutter, a 5,800-ton ship with 80 crew members and 10 officers.

"Today, the aggressive policies of your rulers are forcing us to arm to defend ourselves. But we cannot find in our hearts any hate against you. . . I want you to know that our highest aim is peace and friendship—and an end to the horrors of war."

Commuters Special Careens Into Stalled Train

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 4. (CP)—More than 100 persons were killed in a train collision near here today. About 200 suffered injuries. The wreck was the worst in Brazil's history. A train crowded with commuters coming into Rio de Janeiro crashed into a stalled passenger train near the suburb of Anchieta, about 19 miles southwest of the capital. Bodies were strewn about the wreckage and some were seen floating in the nearby Pavuna River.

"It looked like a battlefield," a survivor, a former soldier, said.

Two cars on the passenger train were derailed at Anchieta. The commuter train which hit it was en route from another suburb and travelling at a high speed.

Police, fire brigades and troops were called out to help take the victims to hospital.

Rescue workers hacked through twisted coaches to bring out the injured. Fifteen were reported in serious condition

The crash is believed to be the worst ever in Brazil, which has had several train disasters over the past year

Last December 53 died in a derailment near Fortaleza, Para. In June 1951, 51 died in a packed train which became a raging inferno after hitting a gasoline truck at a level crossing

Meanwhile, a radio reporter broadcasting from the scene said there were not enough ambulances to carry the dead away.

Dutch Offer To Disinfect

THE HAGUE, March 4 (Reuters)—The Netherlands government has offered to disinfect farmers and their families emigrating to Canada in case they are carrying foot-and-mouth disease.

An official announcement said A. A. Ewen, chief of the Canadian immigration service here, and B. W. Haveman, Netherlands Emigration Commissioner, today discussed difficulties arising from the outbreak of the disease in Canada.

It added that temporary Canadian measures have halted the immigration of farm families until conditions for their entry can be decided.

Selection of Dutch emigrants will continue as usual, but no visas will be issued for the time being.

The emigrant transport Zuiderkruis is sailing for Canada today on schedule.

Water Rises Foot Family Flees Home

WINDSOR, March 4 — (CP) — A family was forced to flee the Detroit River's rising waters Monday night when an off-shore breeze raised water levels one foot.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Geauvreau and their two-month-old son Tommy took refuge at a neighbor's home when water flowed into their four-room lower apartment.

The water was subsiding today. Only the Geauvreau apartment was affected as the water level rise was a local one.

The river is three feet above normal for this time of year.

Ottawa Bans Immigrants Over Cattle

OTTAWA, March 4 — (CP) — The Canadian government appears to be without a clue as to the source of an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease among livestock in South Saskaechewan.

However, it is not taking any chances on further outbreaks; it is checking all possible sources.

Immigration Minister Harris announced Monday that the government has decided to halt immigration of farm workers from areas in countries where the disease is known to exist. About 25,000 farm workers entered Canada last year, mostly from European countries.

In making the announcement, Mr. Harris expressed doubt that Willi Bruntjen, German immigrant and farm worker now being examined by government scientists as a possible carrier of the dreaded disease, was the instrument by which the disease was brought to the Regina area of Saskatchewan.

Blames Birds

Agriculture Minister Gardiner suggested it was more logical to suspect that it came from Mexico than from an immigrant. Birds might have carried it into Saskatchewan, since it was known that birds were carriers.

In Regina, Dr. Kenneth Wells, of Ottawa, associate veterinarian in Mr. Gardiner's department, discounted the possibility of the disease being spread by birds. He said it was possible but not probable. A vigil is being maintained for signs of sickness among deer.

Mr. Harris said that any farm workers now en route to Canada from areas where the disease is known to exist will not be allowed to go on Canadian farms until they and their effects are thoroughly disinfected.

A boatload of European immigrants is expected at Halifax in a few days. Those who are farm workers will be sent to a decontamination station at Montreal operated by the Federal Agriculture Department.

Serious Labor Shortage

H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said that the immigration ban likely will mean that Canada will face the "worst year in our history in farm labor shortages."

Bandits Rob Toronto Bank

TORONTO, March 4 — (CP) — Three gunmen held up a branch of the Bank of Montreal at noon today. Police said they escaped with between $10,000 and $15,000.

The bank is at the corner of College Street and Manning Avenue in mid-town Toronto. The bandits were led by a man described as "a dapper scar-faced gentleman".

After 30 Stormy Years Irish Get Together

BELFAST, March 4— (AP) — After 30 stormy years of non-co-operation, the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland are getting together. Both are intent upon completing a co-operative project: wiping out the salmon poaches of Lough Foyle.

Normally the leaders of Northern Ireland and those of the staunchly Nationalist Republic wouldn't give each other the right time, but somebody wanted to know why something wasn't done about those poachers netting tidy fortunes along the border.

So the two governments have clubbed together to buy the salmon rights in the Lough and have agreed to put the best on poachers.

French Lose Ground To Vietminh

Fear War Hopeless Against Reds In French Sector

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China, March 4. (AP)—It is beginning to look hopeless for French forces in Indo-China to stem the tide of communism in Southeast Asia.

After six years of war against Ho Chi Minh's Vietminh, the French have failed to force a battle of decision—and instead of winning territory they are losing more bit by bit.

Even though 115 ships have discharged U.S. military aid valued at $500,000,000 in Indo-Chinese ports since July, 1950, the French still say they need more help to push the war against the guerrillas to a conclusion.

Jean Letourneau, French Minister for the three Associated States of Indo-China — Vietnam Laos and Cambodia—declared after a month's thorough study of the situation at first hand that it is impossible to destroy the Vietminh in battle because no front exists and "you need a front."

Major Bastion

Today the major bastion of defence against the Communists in Southeast Asia is the Red River delta embracing Hanoi, Moncay near the Chinese border in northeastern Indo-China, and Phat Diem, 75 miles southeast of Hanoi on the Gulf of Tonkin.

Right now the French are pushing "Operation Leap Year" — intended to push back two divisions of Vietminh who began infiltrating from north and south in an effort to cut the delta line in two.

The French say they can launch an offensive at any time now, but obviously they mean a mopup drive in the delta, not a knockout battle.

A little more than a week ago the French pulled out of Hoa Binh, 40 miles southwest of Hanoi on the Black river. That meant the French have no immediate intention of trying to push the war into Western Indo-China where the bulk of the Vietminh is scattered.

Gen. Raoul Salan, commander-in-chief who ordered the evacuation, explained it wasn't any use to hold Hoa Binh longer since the Vietminh had succeeded in building new roads further west. Salan said, too, that the French didn't have enough heavy bombers to continually blast the new roads and keep them out.

The French, by giving up Hoa Binh and positions along the Black river, left the way open for the Vietminh to regroup on the eastern bank of the stream and prepare an offensive of which Hanoi itself may eventually be the target.

2 Fraud Charges Added To Others

Sentenced Monday to five months in reformatory for issuing worthless cheques, H. B. Young, 25, no fixed address, pleaded guilty to two more charges of false pretences in police court today.

He was sentenced to three months on each charge. The sentences are to run concurrently with two concurrent terms of five months definite and four months, imposed by Magistrate W. R. Philp Monday.

Young pleaded guilty to two charges read to him Monday, but was remanded until today, when Magistrate Philp said they were worthless, because they did not allege any offence.

Replace Faulty Ones

New charges were laid, replacing the faulty ones laid in Cobourg, and Young pleaded guilty to obtaining money from two Hastings merchants by false pretences.

The charges alleged that he obtained the sums of $18 and $12 on March 29, 1951, from L. W. Humphreys and William Baker, by endorsing a cheque made out to a relative of his wife's.

OPP Constable Donald W. Erskine produced the cheque presented to Mr. Humphreys but said he was unable to introduce the other one, because Mr. Baker is in Florida.

Constable Erskine said that Young had lived in the Hastings district with his wife and five children until he passed the cheques. Then he disappeared. Constable Erskine said and had not been heard from until he was arrested in Peterborough about a week ago.

"It is difficult to understand why a chap like yourself who has lived around here all your life would do a thing like this which is not only fradulent and criminal but foolish," Magistrate Philp told Young.

"I signed my own name. It was a crime I could not get away with indefinitely," replied Young.

Chinese Committed To Stand Trial

HAMILTON, March 4 (CP). — King Lee, 22-year-old Chinese, today was committed for Supreme Court trial on a charge of shooting with intent to maim his brother, Harry Lee, late last year.

Magistrate Beamer Hopkins, who committed him, said it was his opinion that a jury would acquit Lee.

Before ordering King Lee to stand trial on a charge of unlawfully wounding his brother, the grand jury last week asked to hear testimony by the brother who had been unable to speak earlier.

The new evidence Lee's counsel, A. M. Lewis said, quashes the original charge in which accused was alleged to have intended to wound his brother. The wounded brother reportedly denied this in his testimony on Friday.

But, he added, "we cannot afford to take chances with foot-and-mouth disease."

Mr. Harris said it was quite unlikely that Bruentjen, a German immigrant who had sailed for Canada Oct. 19 last, had carried the disease to this country.

Mr. Gardiner said it had not yet been established that there was foot-and-mouth disease on the Waas farm. On Nov. 26 Waas called his veterinarian and reported an outbreak of disease among his cattle. The veterinarian could not go to the farm, but he diagnosed the disease as stomatitits, a type of virus.

Seven Veterinarians Called

About Dec. 2, Waas called in the Agriculture Department's veterinarians in Regina. No fewer than seven veterinarians went to the Waas farm and district and diagnosed the disease as stomatititis.

Waas' animals improved and nothing more might have been heard about the disease if there had not been an outbreak in the Burns packing plant in Regina.

Deliveries to the packing plant were traced, and Waas was among those who had made deliveries seven days prior to the outbreak.

The outbreak in the plant was followed by outbreaks along Wascana Creek. The creek carried offal from the plant and was used by some farms as a source of water supply.

Referring to criticism of the department's chief veterinarian, Gardiner said he felt Dr. Childs had done a good job.

If it was proven before the House Agricultural Committee that Dr. Childs "did not do a good job, that's soon enough for me to start criticizing," said Mr. Gardiner.

He did not think there was any evidence that anyone in the department had been lacking in judgment in the early stages of the outbreak.

Going To Regina

Mr. Gardiner, who disclosed that he plans to go to Regina on Thursday to take personal charge of the fight against the outbreak, said the government must treat fairly the owners of slaughtered animals. In all, about 850 head of cattle, 190 swine and 140 sheep are to be shot.

The slaughtered animals will be valued by government men on the spot. Farmers will be able to appeal to a three-man board from the valuations fixed by men in the field. The board will be headed by George Robertson, secretary of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool.

If farm buildings are suspected of being polluted with the disease, they will be destroyed as well.

John Diefenbaker (P.C.-Lake Centre) said the legislation should state that the farmers will receive the "economic value" of their cattle. Mr. Gardiner replied that the government's formula would make it possible for farmers to receive more than the economic value.

Industrial Prices Strong On Exchange

TORONTO, March 4 (CP)—Industrial prices climbed strongly today in early afternoon stock market dealing as strong noon support boosted most issues. Other sections—golds, base metals and western oils—made little headway.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,631,000 shares.

Papers, refining oils and manufacturing companies led industrials upward while utilities, constructions and textiles strengthened steadily. Steels and agriculturers were mixed but retail stores and foods dipped.

Western oils posted a slight majority of losses but changes were moderate. Central-Leduc, Gridoil, Reef Petroleum, Trans Empire and United Oil were among the losers. Canada Southern and Pacific pushed upward.

Base metal leaders were mixed as Consolidated Smelters, International Nickel, Labrador and Steep Rock strengthened while East Sullivan, Golden Manitou and Waite Amulet weakened.

Dome, Kerr Addison and Bralorne weakened among senior golds. Juniors dipped sharply but prospects and holding companies were firm.

Accidental Shooting

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP).—A bullet from a rifle his brother fired accidentally travelled through two rooms Monday and killed Robert Klos, 13. The .22-calibre pellet sped from a bedroom doorway, through the dining room and into the kitchen of the Klos home where it hit Robert in the back of the head. Authorities said no charges will be brought against the 17-year-old brother.

The pound sterling was $2.78¼ also unchanged.

Meat Marketing Muddle Bigger By Day

By The Canadian Press

Canada's livestock and meat marketing muddle grows bigger by the day.

Restrictions and embargoes face the Canadian cow and pig from almost every direction.

Latest of the restrictions, resulting from an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in south Saskatchewan, was the Manitoba announcement yesterday that it will ban all livestock shipments from Western Canada and even trans-shipments across the province to Eastern Canada.

This blocked the Canadian government plan to bring a measure of stabilization to the crippled Canadian market by easing restrictions and allowing some western cattle into eastern markets if eastern provinces made a request for them.

Bird's-Eye-View

Here is a bird's-eye-view of some of the restrictions:

1. All living animals and meats in a 10-municipality quarantine around Regina are banned from movement outside of that area.

2. All living animals in a buffer zone within 50 miles of the quarantine area may be slaughtered for marketing only at the nearest packing plant.

3. Living animals and meats in other parts of the prairies may be moved across the country to any province that wants them, but the federal government will force no province to take them. The Manitoba ban blocks this federal policy.

4. British Columbia has barred shipments of meats and livestock from all eastern provinces. This hits particularly at Alberta which normally obtains a big share of the B.C. market.

5. Quebec has imposed an import control system, restricting imports of meats and livestock from all provinces except under permit.

6. The United States has embargoed all shipment of Canadian livestock and meats, as well as some animal products, hay and straw until the disease in Canada is eradicated and for a period of 60 days after eradication is complete.

What About Memorial Centre

Since he has become an active correspondent about the Memorial Community Centre in his single-handed campaign for action, Mr. Maurice Ketcheson has included both court and council in his sphere of enquiry as to why the money that was collected has not been spent for its specific purpose.

From the County Court Mr. Keacheson returns to the city council with a set of questions. One is this: "Will you please give me a detailed statement of the items adding up to $11,268.-98, and listed as expenditure in the statement I received from the City Treasurer's office Jan. 23, 1951; and also the financial statement as on Dec. 31, 1951."

Further: "I expect the cost involved in the passing of the Private Bill was added into the expense column which in my estimation seems rather high at $11,-268.98, for a total of $200,153,.26."

Mr. Ketcheson is also going back to the very genesis the Centre in these questions upon which he seeks light: "How you decided to erect the Memorial Community Centre? Where did you intend to build it? When did you intend to start building?"

Those details have faded off into the limbo of memories, but M. E. K. comes up with still an arresting and surviving question: "When do you expect it to be completed?"

Oshawa CCF President Quits Before Election

OSHAWA, March 4—Almost on the eve of a Federal by-election, Walter Lane has resigned the presidency of the Ontario County C.C.F. Association.

He said the reasons for his resignation would be "evident to those within the party," adding that personal reasons prompted his decision to some extent. Mr. Lane, who has been association president for more than three years, would say nothing more.

Party officials are disturbed at his resignation, coming as it does not long before the by-election is called to fill the seat left vacant by the resignation of Walter Thomson.

Mr. Thomson left the Ontario riding seat to seek election in the provincial field as leader of the Liberals. He was defeated by C.C.F. candidate T. D. Thomas.

Mr. Lane's name has been mentioned in a preliminary poll among trade unionists in connection with the selection of a candidate for the by-election.

Was Told Off List Remanded On Bail

"Yes and no", replied Mrs. Mabel Ainsworth, 418 Wellington St., in police court today when asked if she was guilty or not guilty of drinking liquor while on the interdicted list.

"My husband told me I had been taken off", she replied.

"Perhaps it would be better to refuse a plea today", said crown attorney John A. Bradshaw.

Mrs. Ainsworth was remanded until March 6, on bail of $100.

THE DARDANELLES have been fought over by empire builders since the Trojan War. Persian conqueror Xerxes crossed from Asia into Europe over the straits in 480 B.C. and Alexander went the other way in 334 B.C. The Crimean War was fought to keep the straits from Russian control. In a more romantic vein, Leander is alleged to have swum the Dardanelles (then called the Hellespont) nightly to visit his love, Hero. His swimming feat was matched once by the English poet Byron and also by the late adventurer Richard Halliburton. But, it is Soviet pressure on Turkey that brings the historic waterway into the news today. Russia is sensitive about the Dardanelles because they offer a sea gateway—the only one—from the Mediterranean to the Soviet Black Sea shores. As one of the losers in World War I, Turkey was forbidden by the Lausanne Treaty to fortify a strip along the Dardanelles and Bosphorus. The Montreux convention of 1936, noting the ominous rise of Hitler, permitted the Turks to refortify the area, and, if at war or threatened by aggression, to close the straits. With Turkey likely to be admitted to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Russia is taking an even harder look at the Dardanelles. The Kremlin recently warned that Turkish entry into the Atlantic alliance would be viewed as "an act of aggression" against Russia.

Posed As Dentist Fined $1,000

LINDSAY, March 4. — Russell D. Perron of Toronto was fined a total of $1,000 Monday for doing dental work without permission from the Royal College of Dental Surgeons. Alternative to the fine, said Magistrate E. A. Gee, was three months in jail.

Evidence was heard last week when accused faced two charges of doing dental work illegally, and one of having dental equipment without permission. The latter charge was dismissed.

Perron is lodged in Victoria County jail where he is serving a three months' term for failure to pay a previous $500 fine levied for the same offence.

second, and defeated New Brunswick today. The down east rink now has won one, lost two.

Sub-zero weather and the early starting time of the draw combined to hold down the crowd for the start of the third round at 9:30 a.m. C.S.T. (10:30 a.m. E.S.T.).

Only a few fans made their way to Winnipeg's Ampitheatre at starting time, when the weather was 15 below. Matches started 13 minutes late.

After three ends in the N.B.-Ontario game, the Maritmers held a 3-1 edge. The clubs were playing knockout, when skip Ralph Limerick of New Brunswick took advantage of a few lapses by Dr. Clark's quartet.

Count Three

Splitting points in the fourth and fifth, Ontario built up a big house and counted three in the sixth to take a 5-4 lead.

The doctor stayed two up at the ninth, scoring a double on the eighth between Limerick's singles on the seventh and eighth.

New Brunswick scored one on the ninth; Ontario came back with one on the 10th to go two up again. Limerick again crept to within one on the 11th on a fine draw shot on his last rock. The last end was knockout until the skips came up. Dr. Clark had the advantage of last rock. Limerick was shot when Dr. Clark threw his last stone. It was right on the shot rock, and Ontario counted one to win 9-7.

B.C. got a 3-1 jump on Manitoba after three ends, with skip Reg Stone of Trail coming through with fine shots.

Saskatchewan was one up on Newfoundland after three. Hastings scored two on the first, but Tomelin came back with a single on the second. The third was blanked.

A dead end on the third left Quebec and P.E.I. all square at 1-1.

Nova Scotia and Northern Ontario blanked the first end, then Guy's Kenora rink collected two on the second and another two on the third to lead 4-0.

Quebec's Ken Weldon increased his lead to 6-1 on the fifth, taking advantage of P.E.I.'s misses. Frank Hansen cut the lead to four points with a single on the sixth.

Score Singles

Nova Scotia got back in the game against Northern Ontario, scoring single points on the fourth and fifth. Northern Ontario raised the count to 5-2 on the sixth when Jimmy Guy drew to the shot rock and stuck.

Quebec scored two on the eighth and led 8-3 after a dead end on the ninth.

Nova Scotia scored four on the ninth to tie their game against Northern Ontario at 7-7.

Newfoundland's Tomelin made a courageous bid for his first win but fell short by one rock when he could only score a single on the final end, losing 6-5 to Saskatchewan's Hastings.

Getting fine support from all members of his rink, Quebec's Weldon scored a two-ender on the 11th and then held P.E.I. to a single on the last end to win 10-6.

Never Found Meek Quick-Tempered

CORNWALL, March 4—(CP)—Allan Alguire, 29-year-old Harrison's Corners farmer, Monday told a jury he had never found Elias Meek quarrelsome or quick-tempered.

Alguire was testifying at the murder trial of the young farmhand charged with the fatal stabbing Sept. 28 of Alguire's wife. Meek was judged mentally fit to stand trial for murder last week. During the two-day session, psychiatrists, doctors and concerned parties gave evidence. The trial continues today.

Alguire said that on the day of the alleged murder, he had gone to a neighbor's farm to help fill a silo. He was accompanied by his other hired man, Austin Clacher. He told the 21-year-old Meek he would be gone for the day.

When he returned Alguire found his wife's body lying on a walk behind the farmhouse kitchen. In court, he identified a heavy machine hammer found beside the body as one similar to a hammer kept in the barn and a 16-gauge shotgun as one he kept in the granary.

Never Ill-Feeling

Alguire testified he paid Meek $17 a week to work for him while giving the man his board and lodging. He said there was never any ill feeling between himself and Meek.

To his knowledge, Alguire said, a similar relation existed between his wife and Meek.

Meek was taken into custody at his father's house, a mile from the scene of the slaying, after he had hidden in neighboring barns for 14 hours while police scoured Eastern Ontario in search of him.

Police found a blood-smeared butcher knife and the machine hammer that was entered as an exhibit Monday, near Mrs. Alguire's body.

An autopsy showed that death was caused by several abdominal stab wounds, but there was no evidence the woman had been raped. A bruise, as though made by a blunt instrument, was found on the back of her head.

Name Industrial Commissioner

Mr. William L. Burnie, industrial commissioner for Southern Canada Power Co., Montreal, is being engaged by the council in a similar position here on a part time basis.

The proposal was discussed toward the end of last year, was suspended through January, and was recently revived. Mr. Burnie was here recently, meeting the manufacturers committee of which Ald. J. A. Dewart is chairman. He has had a broad experience as representative of Southern Canada Power, whose interests were mainly concerned about getting industrial customers in their area. He also is recognized here as having many personal connections, especially in and out of Montreal.

The committee and Mr. Burnie have an understanding about salary which will be graduated up to a maximum of $3,600. He will come to Peterborough at the first of May.

Building $10,000 Less In February

Peterborough's building permits for February lacked $10,000 of parity with January, but the new values so far this year are substantially ahead of the first two months of 1951.

The total of 20 permits issued at the city hall in February, 1952, was $65,180, as follows: one garage, $300; six dwellings, $49,000; and 13 miscellaneous $15,880.

In February last year the total was $75,945, with details as follows: two garages, $950; two houses $18,600; and 20 miscellaneous permits $56,395.

Permits for two months this year $303,180, and last year, $149,552

Remedying Home Condition To Aid Children C.A.S. Aim

By COLLETTE FERGUSON

A tin of peas and a half pound of margarine to feed a family of six—a family of three pre-school age children and one school age youngster, and their parents.

The father was out of work, seemingly voluntarily and without any apparent sense of responsibility for the poverty-stricken state of his home.

These conditions were found in the Peterborough home by staff members of the Children's Aid Society during the past year. This particular case had been contacted through information given by interested neighbors who were worried about the children's health.

Contrary to the opinion of many, the society did not approach the parents with demands that their children be handed over to the society. Removal of children from their homes is a last resort measure of the society. But here is what they did do.

Emergency Food Sent

The staff member in charge of the case contacted one of the city's service clubs and an emergency basket of food was sent to the home. This brought temporary relief, but the society made sure that the family's resources were placed on a more permanent basis. The father was put in contact with an employment source and soon after was working steadily.

Periodic checkups were made to make sure the children were being cared for properly and provided with sufficient food and adequate clothing.

These were the sum of the material benefits carried out by the society in this case, but there was one more service they rendered that benefitted the family even more and indirectly was a benefit to the city as well.. Discussions were held with the father of this family who was gradually made to realize his responsibility and started planning a future in which his family would be financially secure by a steady salary.

In this case the community was benefitted by bringing a family to independent financial status which otherwise might have become a liability to the civic purse.

However, even more important, four children will now be able to grow up mentally and physically healthy by the insurance of financial security and emotional security which only a home can give.

355 Families Contacted

This is just one of 355 families contacted by the Children's Aid Society in 1951 in their efforts to keep Peterborough homes together. This total number of families involved 437 children and only 19 children were taken away from their families. By the end of the year conditions had sufficiently improved by the efforts of the society's staff members so that all but four were returned to their homes.

This work with families includes aid and guidance, through interviews and visits, in problems of juvenile delinquency, domestic problems, marital problems and financial advice.

Now to answer the question of what happened to the children who were not returned to their homes. Three are temporary wards of the society with the hope that their parents will establish a satisfactory home for them. The remaining one has been made a permanent ward and placed in a suitable foster home.

For children who are permanently separated from their own home life, the society carries on an adoption program. This work is considered extremely important and the staff takes every precaution to place the right child in the right home. Adoption through the society saves many adopting parents heartbreaks by insuring the proper legal proceedings. In 1951, 51 adoptions were completed through the society.

Unmarried Parents

The important work of the society in the problem of unmarried parents in the community is little known and even less understood. Last year 121 of these cases came to the attention of the society.

In these cases, the society's staff members consider their major task is to help those involved to face the situation and return as soon as possible to a normal life in the community.

To achieve this aim each situation must be treated with a great deal of sympathy and understanding that only experienced people can give. The unmarried parents are helped in their pre-natal planning, in plans for the baby and where requested in getting assistance from the father of the child.

Thus by doing its utmost to keep families together in the city, by finding homes for children who are not able to grow up in their own homes and by giving help to unmarried parents, the Children's Aid Society is rendering invaluable service to this city. In is developing good citizens in the city, who might otherwise become social offenders.

In return, the society asks for the understanding of the citizens in this work and their financial support through the Red Cross and Community Fund campaign, March 7 to 15.

In 1951, the Children's Aid Society received $8,000 from the community fund.

Liquor Charge Brings Fine To Seymour Man

COBOURG, March 4 (ENS) — A charge of keeping for sale against 54-year-old Clarence Ibey of Seymour township was started in police court here Monday morning and transferred to Port Hope in the afternoon where the charge was ammended to illegal possession. Ibey pleaded guilty to the illegal possession charge and was fined $150 and costs. In addition his residence was declared a public place for one year which makes it illegal to have beer or liquor on the premises during that period.

Sergeant Stan Palmateer of the Peterborough detachment of the provincial police, testified that he had been keeping the farmhouse of Mr. Ibey under observation for some time. He told of seeing numbers of cars in the yard on various dates.

Sergeant Palmateer and four O.P.P. constables raided the place on Jan. 13. Sergeant Palmateer related that as he entered the back kitchen, Mrs. Ibey entered from the winter kitchen, carrying ten empty beer bottles. Inside the winter kitchen a broken glass was on the floor along with a bottle from which the beer had run out on the floor. Nearby sat a man whose breath smelled of beer. Another man had been drinking gin. There were liquor glasses and shot measures on the table. In a cupboard was an empty rye bottle and a bottle which was partly filled. Also in the cupboard was an empty gin bottle.

In the summer kitchen was a full case of beer, two cases of empties and 15 empties in another case, one empty rye bottle, two empty gin bottles and an empty rum bottle. In the dining room was a toy cash register containing some silver and on the table were some bills. After he had told Ibey that he would be charged with keeping for sale, Ibey said that if anything wrong had been going on, he would take the responsibility. Mrs. Ibey had two liquor permits in her purse, the sergeant said.

Do you want to hear one that's a bit off color?"

This is the second picture in the Examiner's Baby Picture-Quote contest. For the first five days of each week the Examiner will publish a baby picture and quote from the collection of Constance Bannister and on Saturday will publish the winning local pictures. In the Examiner's contest readers are being asked to submit baby pictures and the trick is to write a suitable caption implying what could have been on the baby's mind to create such an expressive picture. Every home where there are children has an unusual baby picture, so look over your family album, pick out and write the caption and send picture to Baby Photo Editor, Examiner, Peterborough. Pictures must be of babies two years and less. Two prizes of five dollars a week are given and a grand prize of ten dollars at end of contest.

Hike Insurance To Cover Library Value

CAMPBELLFORD, March 4 — (ENS)—Members of the Campbellford town council took their oath of allegiance to Queen Elizabeth at the regular monthly meeting held in the council chambers on Monday evening. Reeve R. J. Locke and Councillor Mrs. W. C. Tatham were absent.

Council decided to endorse a resolution of the city of Port Arthur, urging the laying of a gas pipe line on Canadian soil instead of United States land, as the plans call for. The question came up recently in relation to the laying of a gas pipe line from Alberta to eastern Canada by the Trans Canada Pipe Lines Limited.

Council also decided to continue their usual procedure in adopting Daylight Saving Time and this year will begin on Sunday, April 27 at 12:01 a.m. and will revert to Standard Time on Sunday, September 28, at 12:01 a.m.

Town assessor Harry Townsend told council he wanted to double the insurance on the public library. The amount of insurance now carried is $18,000 and Mr. Townsend thinks this should be at least doubled, as the value of the building and the books is in the vicinity of $88,000. Council left the matter in his hands. Council will pay Mr. Townends' expenses this summer when he attends the convention of the Association of Assessing Officers of Ontario in St. Catharines.

Treasure Eldon M. Ibey gave council a list of lands on which taxes are long past due. The properties listed are all liable to sale by the town for collection of taxes.

Councillor Arthur F. Collette asked council for backing if he is to enforce the no parking signs the council is soon to put up at the main intersections of the town, and also asked for their co-operation in enforcing the one hour parking in the business district. Council said they were behind him in this move, but that the police were to use discretion in the question of double parking on open nights when people find it necessary to double park for a few minutes in order to pick up grocery orders at stores in the business district.

A by-law setting the dates of tax payments will be prepared and presented at the next meeting. This will amend a former by-law giving the dates at July 15 and December 15. The new dates wil be June 15 and November 15.

A by-law to ratify an agreement between the town of Campbellford and the township of Seymour with regard to the local fire truck and men answering calls to fires in the township, was passed. The agreement takes effect March 4 and from now on the local truck will respond to township fires. The charge will be $50 for the first hour, or portion thereof, and $25 for each additional hour or portion thereof, in addition to 20 cents per mile each way.

Livestock Market Swept By Confusion, Uncertainty

By The Canadian Press

Confusion reigns on Canadian livestock and meat markets as Canada wades deeper into the maze of embargoes and restrictions resulting from the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in South Saskatchewan.

A Canadian Press survey shows that stabilized price trends no longer exist in many parts of Canada, but other segments are still holding fast to the old price-line watching fast-moving developments cagily.

Meat prices have dropped within the last week at regional points such as Calgary and Winnipeg, but have remained unchanged at Vancouver, Halifax and Quebec City.

Movement of livestock to market is heavy in some areas, but in many others producers are holding back ready-to-market cattle and hogs fearing falling prices under climbing market surpluses.

Confusion Evident

The confusion is evident in Vancouver, as it is in other Canadian centres. Vancouver packers say there may be a meat shortage by next weekend unless British Columbia lifts its embargo against imports from Eastern Canada. Other packers say the meat stockpile is big enough to supply Vancouver for a month.

In any case Vancouver butcher shops appear to have plentiful supplies and the B.C. Government is making no quick move to end the embargo. Meat prices are unchanged since Feb. 25. Boneless sirloin steak is selling for $1.29 a pound; sirloin (bone) 97 cents; pork loin, 69 cents; and veal chops which are getting scare are going for $1.25 per pound.

At Edmonton, only about 200 head of cattle and 150 hogs have been received at the stockyards there and no markets have been established. Here, too, marketing is confused and indications are that shipments to market will be light for the rest of the week. Sirloin steak is going for 85 cents a pound, veal chops at 90 and pork loin at 47.

At Calgary, marketings also are light with 125 head of cattle and calves received, compared with 350 a week ago. Prices for livestock have declined with good-to-choice butcher steers going for $25 to $26.50 a hundredweight, down from $27 to $29 last week.

Prices Drop

The Saskatchewan Wheat Pool reports price drops in that province, with good lightweight steers which had been selling as high as $29 a hundredweight declining to $24 and less following the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease.

At Winnipeg the price for sirloin eased to $1.02 a pound from $1.08 a week ago; pork loin slipped to 56 cents from 59, but veal chops remained steady at $1.10.

Livestock marketings have dropped. Receipts Monday totalled 390 cattle, compared with 1,175 a week ago; calves, 105 down from 175; hogs, 820, down from 1,110.

In Quebec, retailers are holding prices steady until the situation clarifies. All wholesalers and retailers predict price declines, but say the situation is unstable and can change quickly.

No livestock marketings were reported Monday. Sirloin steak was selling for $1.09 a pound; veal chops at 95 cents and pork loin at 45 and 48 cents.

Halifax meat prices also are unchanged, with sirloin steak selling for $1.15 a pound; pork loin at 53 and veal at 93.

Young Mother Held In Murder

PENTICTON, B.C., March 4 (CP)—Mrs. Manfred Seeberg, a young housewife who survived what police allege was a family "poison pact," Monday was charged with murder.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. Seeberg decided to kill their ailing year-old daughter, Victoria, and then take their own lives.

The child and father died. The mother somehow survived, police said, after taking the same unnamed portion which killed them.

Charged with murder in the child's death, Mrs. Seeberg was remanded to March 11 when she appeared in police court Monday.

Bodies of the father and child were found Sunday in an auto camp south of this Okanagan district city after a telephone call from the mother brought R.C.M.P. to the scene.

The family drove here from Vancouver last Thursday in a rented automobile and registered at the auto court. They took the poison or drug sometime during the weekend, police said.

The nature of the child's illness was not disclosed.

Gets Reform Term

COBOURG, March 4 (ENS)—Richard Maracle, 20, of Oshawa, was sentenced to a year in the reformatory when found guilty on a charge of theft. The accused stole some watches from his stepfather, Fritz Von Gunten, of Darlington township. He was arrested by Provincial Constable A. Watson, of Bowmanville.

Dolls Festival

TOKYO, March 4 (AP).—Millions of Japanese Monday night drank a toast in "shirozake" (Japanese vermouth) to the young daughters of Japan, hoping for them to grow beautiful and live happily forever. Monday was the annual "dolls festival" observed for centuries.

Army Takes Over

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 4 (AP).President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla Monday ordered military control in Tarapaca and Antofagasta provinces, where Communist-led strikes have paralyzed vital nitrate plants. The strikes involve about 11,000 workers who demand higher pay.

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP).—Civil defence workers Monday revealed a new sighting instrument to pin-point the spot where an atom bomb hits. It is intended to aid in deploying civil defence forces around the area.

Novelist's Husband Dies In New York

His death ended a unique marriage that began in 1915.

For five years, the marriage was kept secret. Then, in 1920, Miss Hurst announced it and told of how it operated.

She and her husband maintained separate apartments but they breakfasted together twice a week. She retained her own name. He telephoned her for appointments, but they took a holiday together on each wedding anniversary.

Years later, in 1944, Miss Hurst looked back over the marriage arrangement and commented:

"The fact that we both are in possession of our original mates after all these years is the answer to the whole question. I think our record is rather better than most."

OBITUARIES

CARRIE MUFFITT

CAMPBELLFORD, March 4 — (ENS) — Funeral services were conducted from Christ Church here on Monday for Carrie Muffitt, who died in Peterborough on Saturday. She was 75.

Carrie Muffit was born in Campbellford and made her home here up until about three years ago when she took up residence in Peterborough. She was the daughter of late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Muffitt of Campbellford. She attended Christ Church.

Surviving is one sister, Mae Jane Muffitt of Peterborough and a cousin, Ida Wimpsett, also of Peterborough.

The Rev. Walter Gilling of St. Luke's Church, Peterborough, conducted services, assisted by the Rev. John McKibbin of Christ Church, Campbellford.

Pallbearers were Bruce and Donald Grills, Joseph Smith, Nelson Lloyd, Percy Sherwin and Walter Burgess. Flower bearers were Jack Bertram, Ted Chapman, Herbert Grills and Jack Grills.

Burial was in Christ Church Cemetery.

GEORGE E. COOKMAN

A former detective with the city police force and Provincial Police detachment here, George E. Cookman, 60, died Saturday at Clearwater, Fla.

After leaving the city force in 1922, Mr. Cookman served with the Peterborough O.P.P. detachment until 1926. Later he was stationed at O.P.P. detachments in Whity, Kitchener, and Milton until he retired about five years ago.

Since his retirement, he has been living at Oakville. He was holidaying in Florida with his wife and son Jack at the time of his death.

A veteran of the First World War, he went overseas with the 93rd Battalion, and was severely wounded while serving in France.

Mr. Cookman was a member of the Presbyterian Church, the Masonic Order, and was an active supporter of the Canadian Legion.

Until recently, when failing health forced him to give up the sport, he took a keen interest in curling.

He was born in Oldham, England, and came to Canada at an early age. Mr. Cookman is survived by his wife, the former Mary Scygmour, one son Jack and a daughter Mrs. Bud Corbett of Oakville.

Funeral services will be held in Oakville, Saturday, March 8. Interment will be in the Oakville Cemetery vault.

Suggests Provincial Taxes Deductible From Federal Taxes

By The Canadian Press

A Liberal member of the Nova Scotia Legislature wants provincial and municipal taxes to be deductible from federal taxes.

William H. Pipe (Lib.-Kings), speaking in the throne speech debate Monday, urged the Nova Scotia government to make "strong representations to Ottawa that such deductions be allowed".

"It would be a legitimate way of extending federal assistance to all municipalities, for it would give undoubted relief to individual taxpayers, while at the same time enabling the municipalities to raise their assessments or rates without corresponding increase of burden on our citizens", he said.

Agriculture Minister F. C. Bell announced in the Manitoba Legislature that Manitoba has placed an embargo on all livestock from Western Canada. The action followed the current outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease among cattle in Saskatchewan.

Mr. Bell said the embargo will include all shipments of cattle, sheep, swine and meat carcasses. It does not apply to cooked or canned meats. He said the embargo will stop all livestock shipments from Saskatchewan and would nullify "through billing" to eastern points.

Gas Export Debate

A debate on the export of natural gas from Alberta flared up after an oposition accusation that the Social Credit government favors export.

The delegate followed an amendment to the motion replying to the throne speech. The amendment, proposed by Hugh John MacDonald, (Lib.-Calgary) said the government "erred in adopting a policy favoring export of natural gas". Generally government speakers favored export and opposition members were against it.

The Saskatchewan legislature heard a suggestion that it should ask the Federal government to extend Saskatchewan's northern border to the North Pole. D. H. R. Heming, C.C.F. member for Moose Jaw riding, said also that northern waters which now flow into the Arctic Ocean should be diverted south to flow into the North and South Saskatchewan Rivers and thus aid irrigation.

The British Columbia budget will be brought down today by Premier Byron Johnson, who is also Finance Minister. The address in reply to the Speech from the Throne was adopted Monday without division.

Radios Alarm

OMAHA, March 4 (AP).—An airliner's pilot radioed an alarm that sent firemen to a blazing residence Monday night. R. A. Barksdale was bringing his United Airlines transport in after a flight from Denver when he spotted the house enveloped in flames. Barksdale radioed the airport control tower and attendants called the fire department.

Granted Divorce

BALTIMORE, Md., March 4 (AP).—Mrs. Johnette Myers, 23-year-old woman cab driver, was granted a divorce Monday from her 24-year-old husband, Frederick, after saying he went home to his mother.

Begin Jet Plant

RIVERHEAD, N.Y., March 4 (AP).—Work has begun on a projected $22,000,000 navy jet plane assembly plant and testing field. Workmen began clearing land for two runways Monday. The Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. of Bethpage, N.Y., will operate the plant.

Dominion Counter-Embargo

The Federal Government acted fast to check the spread of statism by provinces acting fast with the excuse of checking the spread of foot-and-mouth disease. British Columbia banned livestock imports from all the prairie provinces; Quebec went the whole hog and banned livestock and meat entering from any province. The governments of B.C. and Quebec may have been making an effort to prevent the spread of foot-and-mouth disease, but at the same time their embargoes are political. They in fact set up barriers which interfere with free trade between the provinces and protect their own farmers from outside competition. Regulations of this kind, no matter how sanitary the motives, are dangerous to the political fabric of the country. Canada is not ten separate states.

* * *

British Columbia and Quebec (to a much less extent) do not produce enough beef and pork for their own use. The ban on shipments from other provinces meant that, first, the home-province farmers get a special protection, and, secondly, that meat and livestock will have to be imported from the United States. The Ottawa Government has put a retaliatory embargo on all cattle imports from the United States. Thus B.C. and Quebec will have to relax their restrictions against shipments from other provinces, or go short of meat. It was a clever Ottawa move, covered by an explanation that it was a necessary counter-measure to the American ban, so as to keep the Canadian market open for Canadian producers now denied access to the American market.

* * *

There was really no need for either province to hurriedly put up barriers. The Federal Department of Agriculture already has laid down stern regulations for the control and isolation of the disease. These seem to be effective. There was no apparent necessity for any provincial government to jump in unless to make political capital. They will not make much now that Ottawa has parried with an embargo against American shipments.

* * *

Canadian livestock men and packing houses have justifiably had a scare: the disease is indeed vicious. But a sense of proportion must be maintained. The infected area under quarantine includes only ten hamlets in south Saskatchewan. In Denmark, Holland and Britain last year there were very considerable outbreaks of the disease, but these created no world-stirring panic. Strong measures were taken and enforced (in England even to the extent of placing policemen over infected or suspected herds in case the owner tried to do a little sharp butchering and selling).

* * *

A measure which Canada might have taken, and can still take, would be to establish decontamination centres for persons coming from countries known to have had the disease recently. The Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Gardner, said in his broadcast that immigrants arriving on a ship from Europe this week will go through a decontaminating station in Montreal. Other countries take precautions against importing the disease; Canada would be justified in writing such a control measure into the Immigration Act. One European immigrant may have been responsible for bringing the foot-and-mouth virus into Saskatchewan. It is a costly import already. Several hundred head of infected cattle have been slain and the taxpayers will have to make up the loss to the farmers. It has dislocated the livestock and meat trade, and the profitable American market has been closed to all Canadian livestock. The cost seems to have been heavy enough to force the Government last night to ban farm immigrants from any European country.

It Won't Work

Propaganda, if it is to be effective, is not easy to prepare. We have received a sheet which purports to tell of the childhood and youth of Karl Marx, the founder of modern communism, in pictures and short paragraphs of prose. The idea behind the sheet is, we judge, to show that Marx exhibited early in life, undesirable traits which made him a dangerous man when he grew up. But none of these undesirable traits impresses us very deeply; they are all common enough in the youth of men of unusual character, and some men who were just the sort of boy that Marx was have been great benefactors of mankind.

For instance, we read that Marx was "a problem child, stubborn and aggressive"; so were hundreds of others, including the great Dr. Johnson. He was "patronizing to his mother"; so was Johnson, and so was General William Booth, who was even more patronizing toward his father. We read that Marx was not friendly toward his classmates. No more was Edgar Allen Poe, or Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery. He is said to have preferred the company of adults; so do most clever children. We read that Marx was "fascinated by abstraction"; so was virtually every other noted mathematician, scientist or philosopher, when a child.

Next we read a horrible accusation, that "he became intensely interested in writing poetry"; so did most educated young men of his time, and the leaflet admits that poetry was "quite a fad" in the nineteenth century. (People who consider poetry "a fad" will never be good propagandists, for the best propaganda has the attraction of poetry.) Then we read that Marx promised, at seventeen, to be a lawyer like his father, but did not do so; how many fathers have known a similar disappointment? And then we read that Marx became very angry when he failed to achieve a school prize which he coveted; anger under such circumstances is not unusual.

As a bit of propaganda the leaflet is a failure. All it says in effect is that Marx was intelligent, an introvert, and had a good opinion of himself. If these are crimes, they are crimes of which hundreds of famous men have been guilty. And by these indirect accusations against Marx the pamphlet seems to glorify young men who may be easy to live with, but who have very little spirit.

It is time that people stopped laying the vices of communism at the door of Karl Marx who never foresaw anything like the modern communist state. If he had lived in modern Russia he would undoubtedly be a rebel against the present regime, for the amount of Marx's teaching which is contained in modern so-called Marxism is very small. This sort of anti-communist propaganda won't work.

The Governing Fact In Education

We are in the midst of "Education Week," when its promoters—teachers, manufacturers, home and school associations, trades and labour congresses, businessmen—urge that "Education Is Everybody's Business." So it is. This week citizens are urged especially to make formal education, the kind conducted in schools, their business. They are asked to go to the schools to see what takes place there and what the conditions are, and to turn their thoughts and ears to printed and spoken words about education.

Dr. Malcolm W. Wallace, former principal of University College, prepared a study on education for the Massey Commission. In it he said:

> "Clear thinking demands that we recognize this governing fact: the kind of education that we provide for our children is determined overwhelmingly by the kind of men and women we secure as teachers. If we ignore this truth we shall seek in vain for salvation from magnificent buildings and equipment, or from concentrating our attention on methods of teaching or psychology. It is not possible to estimate the value of the service which a great teacher performs for a community."

How are good teachers to be secured? Adequate salaries are essential because there are not enough men and women in the country prepared to devote their lives to teaching only for the love of teaching. But pay is not the only and supreme element. Teachers are not machine-hands whose only reward in their work is the amount of money in their pay envelopes, to increase which they organize themselves into labour unions. They are craftsmen in guilds, and professional men and women in what are expected to be learned societies. This position as skilled and professional people and persons of learning must be fostered—by adequate salaries to enable them to live without economic stress, and by themselves acting as professional people and men and women of letters. It is no encouragement to the teaching profession or to the public regard for it, if unqualified persons with little learning are admitted to the profession, or if those already in it allow themselves to become dolts, hacks or mere dollar-grubbers.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Britain will impose a landing tax on all air passengers reaching their shores after May 1. It will be 5 shillings for Europeans and 7 shillings for people on this side of the water. Little by little we advance toward the tax on breathing.

A London girl who has won $196,000 on the football pools says that she will use it to help her relatives, of whom she has fifty. We make it $3,920 for each relative, and they will get through that in no time. She must try again.

In London, England, the average delivery time for a letter is six hours; in New York the World-Telegram finds that it is 29.6 hours. The British seem to understand the importance of the mail service better than anyone else on earth.

Boom Year For Diamonds

By JOHN WORRALL (in Cape Town)

THE biggest and most watertight monopoly in the world, the De Beers diamond organisation of South Africa, is experiencing the biggest boom in its sixty-three years of existence.

The glittering stream of gems pours out of the Union in ever-increasing quantities, earning the dollars—for the United States is the biggest diamond buyer in the world today—which, together with those earned from gold, have given South Africa the most stable economy in the British Commonwealth.

Last year more diamonds were produced and sold, and for higher prices, than ever before. The De Beers group of companies which controls ninety per cent of the world's diamond sales, sold £65,058,000 worth, £14,091,000 more than in 1950 which was itself a record year.

Not the whole of this output came from the Union, for De Beers also controls mines in many other parts of the world, although South Africa is the birthplace and the home of the organisation.

MOST people think of diamonds in terms of rings, bracelets and sometimes tiaras. It is little realised what a big proportion of diamonds produced today are valueless as jewellery, but are in great demand by industry as cutting and abrasive instruments.

Of the diamonds sold last year, industry took £18,277,000 worth and the jewellery trade £46,780,000. In 1950, £12,609,000 worth of industrial stones and £38,358,000 worth of gems were sold. The major part of the industrial diamond output was bought by the United States for stockpiling for the armaments industry.

The demand for these lower-grade stones was stimulated by the war. As tougher metal alloys are produced for industry, so does the demand for diamond-headed cutting instruments increase. But the use of diamonds in industry is by no means new. A patent for a diamond glass cutter was granted more than a century and a half ago.

Crowns of diamonds are fitted to the great rock drills used in mining for oil and minerals. Even dentists' drills today are being equipped with diamond heads, enabling tooth drilling to be carried out almost painlessly, and certainly much faster.

DURING times of international strife and uncertainty the sales of diamonds always go up steeply. At the present time this must account for a large proportion of the demand for gem stones.

Distrust in paper money in many European countries, restrictions on gold buying and the handiness of the diamond as a portable investment—all these factors affect diamond sales. There is considerable evidence of extensive diamond hoarding in many parts of the world.

Clever, nation-wide advertising and publicity by the De Beers group in America, where the high standard of living permits of such luxuries, has resulted in enormously-increased sales of jewellery stones across the Atlantic.

THE world sale of diamonds is virtually controlled by a handful of men in offices in London and Kimberley—the birthplace of the modern industry. South Africa calls it a "justifiable monopoly", and there is considerable logic there because if diamonds were allowed to come on the market freely prices would crash to next to nothing and millions would be ruined.

Whether industrial stones should be controlled by the same monopoly is open to question, but the two markets are kept quite separate. There is no artificial restriction on the sales of industrial stones, which anyway are in short supply, and prices are not allowed to fluctuate in the same way as those of gem stones.

IT HAS been said that the history of De Beers is the history of modern South Africa. The organisation is a monument to the memory of Cecil Rhodes, arch Empire-builder, who founded the organisation in Cape Town in 1888.

There are no De Beers in the organisation today. The name came originally from two humble Boer farmer brothers, Diedrick Arnoldus and Johannes Nicholas De Beer, on whose farm near the site of the present city of Kimberley was found one of the original diamond-bearing "pipes". They sold their farm for £6,000, little knowing that their name would one day be associated with assets in the region of £50,000,000!

This was one of the many holdings, large and small, which were eventually bought up by Rhodes and formed into the great group of mines over which he maintained absolute control.

ABOUT the same time, Rhodes' great rival Barney Barnato was building up his own Kimberley diamond empire, and the intense competition between the two financial wizards resulted in some formidable clashes.

Both realised, however, that some form of central control for the diamond industry was necessary, otherwise the steadily-increasing production would defeat its own ends. Neither would give way to the other, although one by one the smaller operators dropped out of the unequal battle.

Finally, Rhodes and Barnato were left alone in the field to fight it out, and eventually it was Barnato who had to capitulate, defeated by vast new Rothschild capital from Europe. The two big groups amalgamated and the present De Beers Consolidated Mines was born.

FANTASTIC, seen through modern eyes, were the powers granted to this vast concern, similar to those possessed by the old East India Company. It could build railways, own ships, occupy Native territories and even raise troops. In the South Africa of those days its power was formidable. It is no exaggeration to say that the country's great economic resources of today sprang from those great holes in the tortured earth round Kimberley.

De Beers' great financial resources were the motive power that sent Cecil Rhodes on his search for an Empire. Whenever the British South African Company, which was busy exploiting Rhodesia, needed injections of capital, they called on De Beers to provide it. De Beers found the £500,000 needed to continue the Cape railway through Bechuanaland to the North. De Beers enabled Rhodes to play his part in the establishment of the Rand's new gold industry. It was Capitalism in the grand, Victorian manner; ruthless vital and creative.

IN THE Boer War, De Beers played an important part. During the siege of Kimberley, when things were going badly for the British, the company raised a force of volunteers at a cost of £300,000 and lent its engineering workshops to the army.

They even built a gun, called "Long Cecil" (in honour of Rhodes) which equalled in range the "Long Toms" of the Boers, and which was used with devastating effect, contributing materially to the British victory.

The South African War over, the De Beers organisation, like a vast spider, swallowed up opposition from whatever part of the globe it appeared. Mines in South-West Africa, the Belgian Congo, Sierra Leone, British Guiana and Brazil—all became associated in one form or another with the great monopoly, playing their part in the system of output supervision that has kept the prices of diamonds under strict control.

BETWEEN World Wars One and Two there came a slump in the gem diamond market, which was soon counteracted by the increasing demand for lower-grade stones for industrial purposes, which De Beers met by increased production.

As the refugee movement away from Fascism and Nazism got under way in Europe, there came an increased demand for gem stones into which wealthy exiles converted all their capital, while the general uncertainty of the years before World War Two created its inevitable demand for the safest form of investment known to man—the diamond.

IN THE past year a minor war has been developing in the industry with the appearance on the scene of the now famous Tanganyika mines, owned by the Canadian Dr. Gordon Williamson, as a doughty competitor to De Beers.

Up to 1951, the diamonds mined by the Williamson group were sold through the De Beers central selling organisation, though his companies were independently owned. Now, however, the contract has lapsed and may not be renewed because Dr. Williamson is dissatisfied with the prices he has been receiving. There is some uncertainty as to the method he will adopt for selling his diamonds in the future.

Will a price war develop between this David and Goliath of the diamond world? This, it is believed in South Africa, is unlikely, for if Dr. Williamson were to flood the market with stones, the consequent collapse of prices would place him in an even worse position than before.

De Beers may well be worried, however, because the Tanganyika output is enormous and growing rapidly.

An American Opinion: NOT AS GOOD AS THE REAL THING

Reign of Greatness

(WASHINGTON POST)

(Ed. Note:—Although belated, we think the following comment by a United States contemporary sufficiently unusual to warrant republication.)

IN the flood of American comments on King George VI and his place among British sovereigns, there seems to be an undercurrent of reproach, or censure, that he left the Empire smaller than when he came to the throne. There have been suggestions that his reign was somehow a dismal chapter in British history because it coincided with the "loss" of India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon, and with a world-wide shrinkage of British imperial power.

This, to our minds, is an odd revival of Kiplingesque thinking that is at least 50 years behind the times. Of course the Britain of George VI was relatively less powerful, and sprawled over less territory, than the Britain of Victorian days. But what is national greatness, anyway? Which was the greater achievement—to conquer India or set it free? Which was more splendid—to send the lancers charging against the dervishes at Omdurman, or to set up self-governing assemblies in West Africa in the later years of George VI? And which was the finer act of statesmanship—to crown Victoria Empress of India, or to keep India within the Commonwealth on her own terms as an equal and self-respecting member?

If courage is the test of greatness, then the Britons of the reign of George VI had it in supreme measure, for they endured terrors and beat back dangers such as none of their ancestors had faced in modern times. If character is the test, the late King and all his people showed it through the hardships of the war and postwar years. And if statesmanship is the test, then the Britain of George VI had it too, especially in transforming a restless empire into a family of free nations. By every standard that Americans respect and admire, we submit that more greatness was packed into the fifteen years of George VI than into all the sixty-three years of Queen Victoria.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands . . . Know ye that the Lord he is God; it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture. (Ps. 10: 1, 3.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Let Israel rejoice in him that made him; let the children of Zion be joyful in their King . . . For the Lord taketh pleasure in his people; he will beautify the meek with salvation (Ps. 149: 2, 4.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Cease ye from man, whose breath is in his nostrils: for wherein is he to be accounted of? (Isa. 2: 22).

◇ ◇ ◇

God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed anything, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things . . .

For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said. For we are also his offspring. (Acts. 17: 24, 25, 28.)

Letter To The Editor

DOG MENACE

Sir: Well, I see by your paper the yearly Community drive is on again for funds. I would gladly contribute to the Humane Society if I knew for sure some parts of it were worthwhile.

A complaint was phoned in last week concerning a small black spaniel dog on River Road south annoying passers-by, especially children, if they happen to run.

My young son was attacked twice last fall while riding his bicycle from school. It caused his wheel to swerve and he even had to get off to avoid it on our busy highway. One elderly lady living further down the road is terrified of it, and has to carry a stick to get by. One Saturday this winter she screamed so loud we went out to try and convince her it mightn't bite. It has been on the loose since early last summer and is in my yard daily yet making a nuisance of itself and ran out at us twice last Saturday evening. Also saw it after a man who was walking on the road Friday.

When there is so much talk about brotherhood and tolerance these days what does a person do about a public nuisance as this? Would it be advisable to slink around after dark with a petition to our neighbours further down the road or just put up with it for another month until all city dogs are tied up, or supposed to be.

While I am on the subject, what about the short haired hound dogs tied up and left outside in all kinds of weather, to just be brought out when Sunday rolls around and the small game hunters get out their guns.

7-Week Talks Fail To Bring Ship Contracts

OTTAWA, March 4 (CP). — Wage-hour negotiations for the men of Canada's Great Lakes and deep sea shipping have failed to produce 1952 contracts after seven weeks of talks.

With the opening of the new shipping season approaching, the Seafarers' International Union (A F L.-T.L.C.) has set strike machinery in motion among its lake and coast locals in case of an eventual breakdown of negotiations.

Union officials emphasized today no strike is being called now but that the views of the approximately 8,000 membership are being obtained to place this weapon at the disposal of the national leadership in the event satisfactory agreements are not reached.

The union, whose members man close to 100 per cent of Canada's larger inland and deep sea vessels, is seeking an across-the-board increase of $50 a month for both groups of seamen, plus the 40-hour work week. The 56-hour week now is standard. Pay varies considerably.

No Deadline Set

While no deadline has been set for contract signing, the union is aiming at getting the negotiations completed within the next three weeks, in time for the opening of lake shipping late this month. At that time, most of the existing deep sea contracts also expire.

For the men on the vessels on both coasts, the talks are being conducted between the union and the Shipping Federation of Canada, the shipowners' organization. On the lakes, the negotiations are with individual operators.

On the inland ships, the union claims about 6,000 members. For the smaller ocean fleet, the number is 2,000.

No announcement has been made on the progress of the two sets of negotiations, but unofficial information here was that the union and the companies are still far apart.

S. H. Bowles Dies Gave Paper To Employees

NEW YORK, March 4—(AP)—Sherman Hoar Bowles, 62, who turned over a multi-million dollar business empire to the employees of his Springfield, Mass., newspapers, was found dead Monday.

A cousin of Chester Bowles, U.S. ambassador to India, his known wealth once was listed at $34,000,000.

Bowles suffered a heart attack Thursday, while in New York for a business conference. His fully clothed body was found on the floor of his midtown apartment this morning. The body was removed to Bellevue Hospital for an autopsy.

Besides his newspaper interests, Bowles controlled a number of other firms, including the Longchamps restaurant chain in New York City.

Turned Over Holdings

Although not connected to Bowles Lunch Ltd., Canadian restaurant chain with branches in Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa, Mr. Bowles bought out the American counterpart of the Bowles chain about five years ago from Henry and Kaleb Bowles, who were no relations of his. The Canadian branch of the chain was bought out by Canadian owners 18 years ago.

A few years ago, he turned over his huge holdings to a trust of 500 employees of the Springfield Union, the Springfield Daily News, and the Springfield Republican—morning, evening and Sunday papers, respectively. Bowles acted as financial adviser to the trust.

Born into comfortable means, Bowles nevertheless chose to begin his career after Harvard University with an ordinary job in the circulation department of the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Social Welfare Plan Hits Economy In West Germany

By BRACK CURRY

BONN, March 4 —(CP)—Western Germany is shelling out public aid to almost 13,000,000 persons—or one out of every four in the population.

That's the total of war victims, pensioners, unemployed and others who look to the government for assistance or support.

The crushing burden of social welfare nicks the west Germans for 52 per cent of all tax revenues and 22 per cent of the national income. These costs are rising. The number of aged eligible for pensions is growing. The endless flow of destitute refugees from the Communist east goes on.

From a population of 48,000,000, more than 1,300,000 Germans now are jobless. More than 250,000 live in barracks or the ruins of bombed buildings. Some 20 per cent of the population draws pensions of one type or another.

These are some of the hard facts of German life backing the German claim that their taxes and social charges are higher than in any other European country.

The Federal Government's annual report says social welfare is costing the country 17,800,000,000 marks ($4,094,000,000).

This includes: 7,345,000,000 marks ($1,689,000,000) for unemployment insurance, 1,250,000,000 marks ($287,500,000) for pensions, 9,205,000,000 marks ($2,117,000,000) for payments to war victims housing, food subsidies and assistance to isolated Berlin.

Refugees Problem

The social burden is almost as great as the entire federal budget.

The Federal Government cites this heavy burden as an argument against increasing west Germany's financial contribution to western defence, despite sensational increases in industrial output and foreign trade.

Some 9,000,000 refugees have crammed into overcrowded west Germany since 1945 — and they flock in at the rate of 1,000 a day.

Most are penniless. Many are too old or too sick to work. Many depend on government handouts to keep alive.

Aside from the aged and the refugees, Germany's pension burdens extend to the families of 3,500,000 war dead and 2,000,000 war maimed people.

N. Sidey Heads Tourist Group

ROSENEATH, March 4 (ENS). —N. D. Sidey, Bewdley, was elected president of the Rice Lake Tourists Association, for 1952 at their annual meeting held in the township hall, Roseneath, on Friday evening.

The retiring president, Arthur Elmhirst of Keene conducted the election of officers, after a slate of officers had been presented by Harold Wilson, Keene, convener of the nominating committee.

Following are the officers elected: President, N. D. Sidey, Bewdley; first vice president, Fred Austin, Keene; secretary-treasurer, Arthur Braithwaite, Roseneath.

Delegates appointed to attend the Sportsmen's Show at Cleveland on March 28 are: Mrs. Harold Wilson, Keene; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elmhirst, Keene; N. D. Sidey, Bewdley; Mrs. Fred Austin, Keene; Arthur Braithwaite, Roseneath.

The members of the association were enthusiastic about their book, "The Rice Lake District Guide", that is now in the publisher's hands and will be out about March 10. This book is full of information regarding places of historical interest surrounding Rice Lake, including Peterborough, Keene, Hastings, Roseneath, Alderville, Cobourg, Port Hope and Bewdley.

Cartoonist Gordon Bailey, Lang, was present and delighted the gathering with demonstration of his work.

Fears Dropping Word Dominion

MONTREAL, March 4 (CP) — George C. Nowlan, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, said Monday the Canadian Government is imperilling the country's constitutional structure by abolishing the word "Dominion" in reference to Canada.

Mr. Nowlan, M.P. for Annapolis-Kings, spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Montreal district association of the party.

"I realize that there are Canadians who hold varying views with respect to the use of this word. There are Canadians, like myself, who value it very highly. There are others who see in it some suggestion of subservience."

Mr. Nowlan said the word Dominion is used time and time again in the British North America Act and this act is the foundation of the Canadian Constitution.

"Yet if a government, because of the whim and caprice of members of the cabinet, have the authority to change that constitution on their own initiative, with respect to the word Dominion, then I suggest that they also have the power to change other phases of the constitution."

Australia, UK Plan Standardized Arms

CANBERRA, March 4—(Reuters)—Australia and Britain plan to standardize their army equipment, organization and techniques Army Minister Josiah Francis announced Monday.

Francis said in the event of war Australia would act in closest co-operation with British forces and added: "In the interests of economy and efficiency we must have standardization.

"To achieve this, technical officers are being exchanged by the Australian and British Armies, and constant liaison maintained," he said.

Total strength of Australian ground forces will be doubled by 1953 to 124,900, Francis said.

$350,000 Increases

WINDSOR, March 4 — (CP) — Salary increases totalling $350,000 annually are being offered Windsor teachers and members of the Board of Education staff, municipal officials said Monday. Some 720 persons are involved. They said the increase offers—decided upon at a board meeting Saturday—would give all board employees except officials $400 increase. For taxpayers, it would mean a 4/10 mill increase to a 19.9-mill school rate.

TORONTO, March 4 — (CP) — Donald McKitrick, an 11-year-old boy who stayed home from school Monday because of a severe headache, died several hours later in hospital. Doctors, who said the boy probably suffered a broken blood vessel in the brain, arranged for an autopsy.

Toronto Traffic Jam Poses Problem, Cost Balks Plan

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 4 (CP)—One of every 3.75 persons in metropolitan Toronto owns a motor vehicle.

Each working day 50,000 motorists scramble for 19,000 parking spaces in the downtown area.

Every day 40,000 vehicles pour over the city's worst bottleneck, the west-end Humber river bridge.

The need for an extensive arterial highway program within the city limits is critical. Toronto hasn't enough money to meet the need.

A similar traffic problem, though not as extensive, exists in most metropolitan areas across Canada.

The question here is: What can be done with the 300,000 vehicles that each day swarm over the city's congested streets?

The suburban population mushroomed more than 100 per cent in the last 10 years, and the rapid growth continues. Metropolitan Toronto's population now is estimated at 1,300,000.

Congestion on downtown streets has reached the critical stage. Narrow thoroughfares that cannot be widened, delivery trucks and street cars clogging the routes and street-parked cars harass the motorist.

The 19-day Toronto Transportation Commission strike in January added to the confusion. Commission officials say that since the strike business had dropped 15 per cent. Presumably the missing passengers are using automobiles.

"Our big problem is the universal desire of the individual to ride in the comfort and privacy of his own car," says Robert Burton, Toronto's traffic engineer.

Need Parking Space

Where to put them? The 19,000 parking spaces in 600 acres downtown cannot accommodate the daily stream.

Under study by a special city council committee on parking facilities is formation of a parking authority. This would establish and operate off-street parking facilities and have power to expropriate property for this use.

W. F. Irvin, T.T.C. director of development and research, and a member of the Toronto Traffic Conference, suggested a plan of operation for such an authority, dubbing it "PACO"—planning, acquire, construct and operate.

In steps, the plan is this:

1. Planning—the city is in the best position to do the over-all planning.
2. Acquire—the city can best acquire property for parking.
3. Construct—The city or private individual to construct parking facilities.
4. Operate—Private individuals to operate the parking facilities.

Until some permanent cure is developed, traffic officials are trying to ease the pain.

To compensate the motorist for the high cost of off-street parking—in some lots, $1.30 a day—and the shortage of street parking, the city opened up a 200-acre area on the lakefront for 1,200 cars.

The city is installing 1,340 parking meters on certain downtown streets. They will be in use only between rush-hour periods.

On certain streets the meter charge will be 10 cents an hour, but on thoroughfares where traffic congestion is heavier, motorists will pay 10 cents for half an hour. The rate is the highest in any city outside of New York.

Costly Program

Officials realize that eventually they will have to embark on an expensive program of highway construction within the city limits. The Mount Pleasant highway, opened in May, 1950, running 1½ miles through the north-eastern section of the city, cost approximately $4,000,000.

Urgently needed is a four-mile stretch of expressway running along the shore of Lake Ontario to carry the heavy load of traffic streaming into the city from the west off the Queen Elizabeth Way. Officials estimate the cost at $20,000,000.

Mayor Allan Lamport is pressing the provincial government to build a second bridge over the Humber to relieve pressure on the west-end route.

City planners want an expressway running 10 miles along the lakefront to carry west traffic through the city to the east.

Town planners and motorists, too, are looking to the opening of the $40,000,000 Yonge Street subway, now under construction, to ease the traffic burden. T.T.C. officials have scheduled the opening for December, 1953, or January, 1954.

Commission officials feel confident that the 4½-mile-long subway will lure the motorist from his car onto the rapid transit system.

Civic officials and downtown business men hope so, too. There is a trend now for big business to seek less-crowded fields in the suburbs. Already two of Toronto's largest department stores have acquired sites in North York township for construction purposes.

"If such a trend continued," said an official, "the heart of the city would rot."

Vancouver Man Gives $600 To Sask. Farmer

REGINA, March 4 (CP)—A sad Regina district dairy farmer Monday commented, "Isn't that nice" when informed that a Vancouver man was sending him $600 to offset in part the loss of his cattle through foot-and-mouth disease.

He was Konstantine Haun, whose cattle were shot by R.C.M.P. and buried in a huge pit on his farm Friday.

His benefactor in Vancouver Saturday laid six $100 bills on the editorial desk of The Vancouver Sun, leaving a note saying "Let's be good neighbors." The money is being sent to Mr. Haun to be used as he sees fit.

Labor Income Up

OTTAWA, March 4 — (CP) — Canadian labor income rose by more than $1,250,000,000 in the first 11 months of 1951 compared with the previous [illegible] to $8,804,000,000 from $7,533,000,000 was an increase of 17 per cent, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Monday in a monthly survey.

Jail Sentences Show Increase

TORONTO, March 4 — (CP) — Sentences of persons to penal institutions increased during the year ending March 31, 1951, it was shown in the report of the Department of Reform Institutions tabled in the Ontario Legislature Monday.

Sentences totalled 40,743 compared with 37,607 in the previous year. On a population basis the increase was from 8.33 to 8.86 per thousand population.

Most of the increase was in sentences for minor offences for which the penalty was less than 30 days.

A reduction in the number of penitentiary sentences in favor of sentences to reformatories and industrial farms made the work of the latter more difficult, the report said, because they received prisoners of a "troublesome nature."

The report said the department should dexelop eight principles of policy: extended classification of prisoners; replacement of the common jail by modern industrial farms; increased academic studies; vocational training; physical drill; scientific penological methods; careful selection of personnel of penal institutions, and intensive efforts to rehabilitate prisoners.

Puerto Ricans Vote To Ratify Constitution

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, March 4—(AP)—Puerto Ricans voted overwhelmingly Monday to ratify their new constitution.

Final returns were: For the constitution, 373,418; against, 82,473.

The constitution will enable the people of this U.S. territory to govern themselves for the first time under U.S. control.

Fire Razes House Where Brock Slept

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 4—A 161-year-old red brick dwelling, in which Gen. Isaac Brock is reported to have spent the last night before he was killed at Queenston Heights, was swept by fire Monday, causing damage estimate at $6,000.

The dwelling, a landmark on the lower Niagara River Parkway, was the former Field homestead.

Urging National Library Have Cliff Strongrooms

OTTAWA, March 4 (CP): — The National Library Advisory Committee in a progress report Monday recommended that a national library be established without delay.

The committee proposed an architect should be appointed to design a building on the banks of the Ottawa River immediately west of Parliament Hill.

In its report tabled in parliament Monday, it visualized a building "designed to balance the mass of the Supreme Court building, while the substructure, which would extend down the cliff to the river bank below, would provide ample stockroom accommodation."

It should be practicable, the committee said, to connect the national library of parliament by means of an underground book conveyor. This would solve the space problem in the library of parliament and would place the resources of each institution at the disposal of the other.

"In these uncertain days it is also worth noting that a national library on this site could include a number of strong rooms built into the cliff against which the lower levels of the stockroom would be erected. This would give added protection to unusually rare or valuable material in the library's collections."

Two-Deck Garage

The committee noted that the site recommended was at present a necessary parking lot. This problem could be met by constructing a two-deck parking garage in the bottom of the substructure of the new building.

The committee urged completion of the national union catalogue at the earliest possible date; publication of more complete lists of current books, pamphlets and periodicals of Canadian origin; cataloguing of many thousands of books already available for a national library and which must be catalogued to be of use.

It also suggested a limited book-buying program to prevent purchasing arrears from becoming more serious than at present and a microfilming program, to make available for the national library and thereby for research workers anywhere in Canada, the text of rare and costly books, many of which are unavailable in any other form.

The 13-member committee under the chairmanship of Dr. W. Kaye Lamb, Dominion archivist, was established in 1949.

Ontario Scores Biggest Upset As Clark Clips BC Rink 7-6

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG, March 4. (CP)—Manitoba came up with two wins on Monday's opening play in the five-day Canadian curling championships, the only rink to score a double victory. Ontario, skipped by Dr. J. R. Clark of Peterborough, scored the biggest upset in the opening round of the play Monday, edging the highly regarded Reg Stone of Trail, B.C., 7-6. Up to the 11th end, the Ontario-British Columbia match was strictly a knock-out affair. The lead see-sawed back and forth, and the score was tied, 5-5, at the end of the eighth. The ninth and 10th were blanked, then Doc Clark's rink pulled a two on the 11th. Reg Stone was lying second shot when he came up to shoot his final rock. His outturn shot took out Clark's shot rock, then rolled out itself, leaving the B.C. aggregation one short for a tie.

Dr. Clark had the second-round bye.

But the experts were of the opinion that Manitoba's Billy Walsh skipped rink would have to get by British Columbia today before they'd go along with the handicappers that the host foursome was "the ones to beat."

Walsh was expected to get his toughest opposition from Stone's rink, which broke even on the first two rounds.

Other Matches

Other matches on the morning draw sent New Brunswick (1-1) against Ontario (1-0); Quebec (0-2) against Prince Edward Island (1-1) Saskatchewan (1-1) against Newfoundland (0-2); and Nova Scotia (1-0) against northern Ontario (1-1). Alberta, who split on two matches Monday, drew a bye on the third-round.

Manitoba's two victories came at the expense of Saskatchewan and Quebec. Walsh's rink defeated Frank Hastings of Nipawin, 9-8, on the first round then took Ken Weldon of Montreal, 10-7, Monday night.

The Manitobans didn't look too impressive in victory as the front end were missing badly on the early rounds.

Nova Scotia's Henry Blanchard of Truro went to the last rock to edge Art Simpson of Alberta, 8-6, on the second draw. Blanchard had a bye on the opening round, while Simpson was blasting Newfoundland's Tommy Tomelin, 23-7.

Reg Stone came back Monday night to defeat Ralph Limerick of Fredericton, N.B., 11-6:

Two Fine Matches

Despite only breaking even on Monday's play, Hastings of Saskatchewan turned in two fine matches. He outcurled Walsh throughout most of the first game, and was defeated only by a fine last shot by the Winnipeg Fort Rouge skip. The Hastings' boys made few mistakes against Prince Edward Island, winning easily 12-4.

Earlier, Frank Hansen had given the islanders an opening 8-7 win over Jimmy Guy's northern Ontario rink from Kenora.

Guy handed Newfoundland its second straight loss, a 13-9 decision on the night draw. The far-easterners looked much better in their second appearance, being only one down going home. Guy curled beautifully on the last end to add three more to the margin.

Limerick's New Brunswick rink curled steadily in the opening round to defeat Quebec, 11-6.

Marines Down Belleville By Hefty Count

BELLEVILLE, Mar. 4 —Peterborough Outboard Marine juveniles swept into the third round of the O.M.H.A. playdowns here last night, defeating Belleville by a 10-4 score to win the goals-to-count round 23-4.

The well-coached Peterborough squad was given a much tougher battle than the 13-0 game won at home the other night. The Belleville team, went down fighting and battled their more experienced foemen to the last whistle.

The game was much better than the score indicates. The Petes, met by a hard checking crew of homesters, were held to a 2-0 score in the first period. They unleashed a smooth offensive in the second period to sling home five more goals before Belleville scored its first goal of the series with a minute to go.

A Close Period

The third period produced the best hockey of the night. Petes grabbed a pair in the early minutes but the gallant Quinte crew got those back in seven minutes and the teams split a pair before the final whistle blew.

While a bit rugged at times it was clean hard-fought hockey with the officials handing out seven penalties, four going to the Petes. A mild rhubarb occurred at one time but referees Ben Bowen and Tom Schreider had little difficulty in handling the game.

Frizelle led the Petes' offensive with three goals and an assist. Cupoli got a pair of tallies with Doris getting three helpers. Spencer got one and a pair with McGrath, Dodd, Hunt and Pammett getting the rest.

Gerry Goyer scored two goals and an assist for the homesters with Meyer getting two assists, and Philp and Brooks the remaining goals.

Jack Russell, Belleville goalie turned in a fine job despite the score and Delahaye, Petes' goalie, turned back many potential Belleville tallies.

Belleville: Goal, Russell; defence, Thompson, Baker; centre, Myers, wings, Casey, Cook; subs, Philp, Brooks, Goyer, Aitkens, Burrows, Bovay, Canning, Ashley.

Peterborough: Goal, Delahaye; defence, McGillen, Byrne; centre, Corbett; wings, Doris, Pammett; subs, McCormick, Jones, Hunt, Spencer, Cupoli, Frizelle, Dodd, McGrath.

Referees — Don Bowen, Trenton; Tom Schreider, Belleville.

Well the Ontario rink from the local club, headed by Dr. Ralph Clark, came through their first game, and won it, in the Macdonald Brier competition in Winnipeg Monday. As his rink gets a bye in the second round, the standing is one win, no losses.

And what a game it must have been. The commentator said it was one of the best-played games in Brier competition. When you consider that the experts have picked this B.C. rink, skipped by Reg. Stone, as one of the favorites it makes the Peterborough boys look pretty good. All games are 12 ends.

The Ontario rink plays New Brunswick and Manitoba today, and Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland on Wednesday.

Tune in CBL at 7 o'clock for today's results.

In order that our boys may take in the Colts' bonspiel in Lindsay on Wednesday, the vice-skips' bonspiel will be played on Thursday, and the Thursday schedule games will be played on Wednesday.

At long last the O.H.A. senior "B" group schedule in Central Ontario is finished. They've been at it practically four months and only now are ready to go into group semi-final playoffs. Belleville vs. Petes in one bracket, and Kingston vs. Eagles in the other. Both best-of-seven series, with the finals the same thing. Winner of the loop will proceed into provincial senior "B" semi-finals out around the end of March. Should one of our teams go right through to Ontario finals, the season would be over till about the middle of April or a bit later. That makes it a mighty long hockey season, some five and a half months.

* * * * * *

We can recall when the pros of the N.H.L. had a shorter season. And it was only a few years back when local O.H.A. teams didn't start their schedule till a few days after Christmas. And a winner, too, around the end of February. Whole season then would be cleaned up around the third week of March. But nowadays they tack an extra six weeks or more on the front end of the season and add a month or so at the finish. Artificial ice in so many communities has made the change, as puckists defy mild weather these long seasons. Hockey is hardly o'er in the spring when ball and lacrosse commence. No gaps any more between seasons. In fact, they often overlap in fall and spring.

* * * * * *

It's Been A Long Time

Probably the puck season is too long. It certainly seems that way to frostbitten scribes who haunt arenas from grass to grass. It may be the reason for crowds falling off during the winter month. They just pick their spots during the schedule and wait for the playoffs. Well, playoff time is here again and big arena crowds will be the order, rather than the exception. Every game is highly important in a playoff series, and the players (all in the pink after a long grind) shoot the work every time out. The time for coasting and conditioning is o'er — it's money time now.

* * * * * *

Eagles wound up in third place after dropping a 6-3 decision to Petes last e'en. That means no senior game here till Friday when Belleville Hawks open semi-finals against the Petes. Eagles will trek the following night to Kingston to open their best-of-seven sawoffs. They fought hard but didn't click as well on passing or in-close sniping as the Petes last night in a fast but scrambly fray. Each side used a couple of juniors up from Oddfellows, and the boys did well. Chum Fryia and Gus Leonard led the winners at bat with three points apiece, none of the Eagles being in on more than one tally. Losers used two goalies.

* * * * * *

Dislike Kingston Refs

Coach Ned Vitarelli was madder than somewhat at the refs, Bill Reason and Art Casterton of Kingston. In fact the Eagles were peeved at 'em before the game started. It certainly wasn't very diplomatic of the O.H.A. to send two Kingston arbiters here for an important game for the Eagles when the latter were battling to get into second place ahead of Kingston. It doesn't look right. And two misconducts to Eagles didn't improve the feeling any, either. Be that as it may, Eagles will have to hustle all the way if they hope to oust Kingston in semi-finals, as the K's have been showing a lot of improvement in recent weeks and will be tough to take from here in. Belleville Hawks are at full strength again, too, and might pull a surprise and dump the leading Petes in their series.

* * * * * *

Coach Bert Hill of Marines wasn't in Belleville last p.m.—having a senior struggle here—but Al Watkins handled the local juves in fine fashion as they came through with a 10-4 win. That gave 'em the second round O.M.H.A. juvenile "A" playdown series by 23-4. All went well, from goalie Delahaye out. Frizzelle got three goals and an assist, Spencer one and two, Cupoli a brace of markers, Doris three assists, and several others were in on one or two, also. Quinte peewees edged some local lads 5-4 in an earlier exhibition. Marines may be drawn next against Toronto in quarter-finals, though we haven't any straight info yet. No word either on St. Peter's bantams or Martin-Hewitt midgets in their third rounds which should be on soon.

Lakefield Gets E. P. L. Series 12-6

KEENE, March 5 (ENS). — Lakefield beat the Combines 12-6 before a good crowd here last night to take their E.P.H.L. semi-finals, and the winner now meets Warsaw in loop finals. The line of Whalen-Heafield-Cowie accounted for nine points for Combines, while Birch and Henry starred throughout for the winners. Hockaday and Locke drew majors in the second frame for fighting.

Combines had an edge in the initial inning when Heafield hit the hemp three times and Whalen once, the latter, Cowie and Locke each having an assist. P. Calberry, Wilford and Henry scored for Lakefield, Birch aiding twice and Hockaday once. Chittick drew the only penalty. In the second, Whalen and Shearer scored for Keene, the latter and Heafield having an assist each. Lakefield roared in for seven, Henry blasting home four, Birch two and Hockaday one. Birch also had three assists, Henry and Wilford notching one each. Penalties went to Chittick, Wasson, Hockaday, Cowie, Burns and Locke.

In the third, Birch and Henry ended the scoring, Birch helping on one also. Hamblin and Cowie drew penalties. Teams:

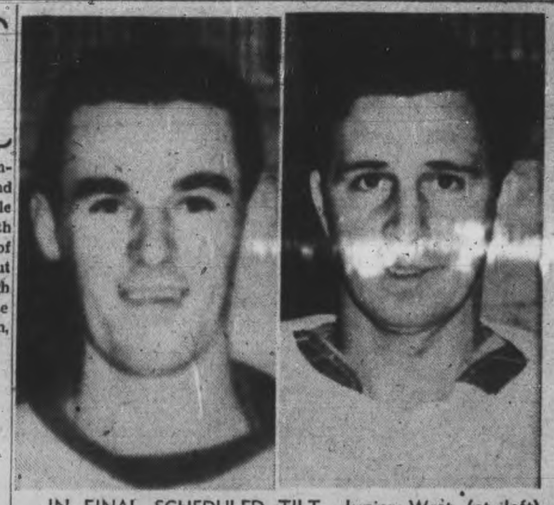
Lakefield: Wasson, P. Calberry, Hamblin, Chittick, Hockaday, R. Calberry, Birch, Henry, Wilford, Sabatino, Morrison, McIlmoyle.

Combines: Mackness, Thompson, Houle, Whalen, Heafield, Cowie, Gilbert, Davidson, Kemp, Burns, Locke, Brown, Shearer.

Referees: Gardner and Puffer.

Stayed Too Long

UCLUELET, B.C.— (CP) —A 59-foot Sperm Whale washed ashore on the west coast of Vancouver Island provided lots of photographs and souvenirs such as teeth seven inches long. Now the settlers are wondering how to get rid of the carcass.



IN FINAL SCHEDULED TILT—Junior West (at left) was in on a couple of counters for Petes last night as they beat the Eagles 6-3 to wind up their schedule, this being a replay of a protested game. It dropped Eagles to third place. At right, Doug Mortimer returned to action for Eagles after a lengthy layoff, and played wing, assisting on one of their markers.

Petes Dump Eagles By 6-3 Into Third Position To Conclude Schedule

Downing the Eagles 6-3 here last night before more than 1,000 fans, the Petes wound up their O.H.A. senior "B" schedule well out in front of the pack with Kingston clinching second place, Eagles dropping to third, and Belleville in bottom spot. Best-of-seven group semi-finals will open here Friday with Belleville playing Petes, as Eagles trek to Kingston on Saturday to start their series. The Petes took a 2-1 lead in the first frame and were in front 5-2 going into the third, the only chukker where Eagles had a good margin on play.

The winners drew seven of the 13 penalties, but Montgomery and Berwick of Eagles drew misconducts for shooting the puck angrily at different times when play was called back. Eagles were [illegible] two Kingston referees, since the team was trying to get into second place ahead of Kingston and felt the refs should not have been sent here from that city.

In On Three Each

Chum Fryia had two goals and an assist with Gus Leonard scoring one and aiding on two more for the victors. Junior West got one and helped on another, as Don Floyd and Earl Leonard each notched a marker, and Ron Horton, and Ted Collins had an assist each. Jim Munroe, Bert Hill, and Bus Jensen, one of the several juniors up with the teams, got the Eagles' goals, an assist apiece going to George Samalenko, Bill Crowley, Doug Mortimer and Freddy Mortimer. Goalie Byers went well for Petes, while Milne and Nicholls split net duties for Eagles, the latter taking over in the third.

Mason went off early for high-sticking, and an Eagles' goal was not counted because of the crease. Wilson got the nod then for hooking, but was back when Montgomery was waved over for tripping. He returned and Floyd got in to score in a scramble with Collins and West. Collins drew a slashing penalty and Munroe scored in close from Samalenko. Fryia banged home Gus Leonard's rebound then and Montgomery drew a misconduct for slamming the puck after a whistle.

Scrambly Play

Earl Leonard was gated in the second for hooking and play was fast but scrambly. With the sides even again, Eagles pressed for a space, but Earl Leonard lengthened their lead with a screened shot and West scored another quickie from a sharp angle. Hill got one back from Crowley in close as the disc glanced off a skate. Wade was waved over for holding and Gus Leonard tallied from Fryia with a backhander on a partial breakaway with but one to beat. Fryia drew a slashing penalty, but all were back when Dugan and Munroe roughed it to draw sentences. Eagles pressed toward the end. Floyd and Armstrong went off hurt during this heat, though not seriously.

Play was fast and even to open the third, with Petes scoring early when Fryia tipped in a hot shot from Horton after a drop pass from Gus Leonard. It was speedy shinny most of the chukker. Montgomery got it for holding, and both sides bumped hard for a spell. Berwick drew a misconduct for banging the puck angrily at a whistle, and Jopling followed for hooking. Both goalies pulled some fine stops, and Eagles pressed hard the last half of this frame to pelt rubber at Byers. Jensen finally rapped in a rebound on a play started by Doug and Freddy Mortimer. With all back, Eagles kept pouring in, but could not whi tetit ohwdn otneuc h f--t ES whittle down the count any further before the gong. Teams:

Petes: Goal, Byers; defence, Jopling and E. Leonard, centre, G. Leonard; wings, Fryia and Mason; alternates, Horton, Wade, Stewart, Robinson, Dugan, Floyd, Collins and West.

Eagles: Goal, Milne; defence, Montgomery and Armstrong; centre, Hill; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, F. Mortimer, Jensen, D. Mortimer, Samalenko, Berwick, Wilson, Munroe and Richlark.

Referees, W. Reason and A. Casterton.

Wings Clinching Top Spot In NHL Race

MONTREAL, March 4 (CP). — Detroit Red Wings have just about clinched first place in the waning 1951-52 National Hockey League season.

Today the Wings have 87 points, 17 more than the second-place Montreal Canadiens, made up of 38 victories and 11 ties in the 61 games they have played. They have dropped but 12.

Main reason for Detroit's strong position in the six-team league can be found in the individual performances of Detroit players.

Gordie Howe of the Wings leads the league in points and goals scored and goalie Terry Sawchuk has chalked up 11 shutouts for a goals-against average of 1.85 a game.

Howe's league-leading point total is made up of a record 39 goals and 32 assists. In second place is Montreal's Elmer Lach who has 13 goals and a pace-setting 46 assists for 59 points.

In Third Place

Ted Lindsay of Detroit holds down third place with 54 points—21 goals and 33 assists—and Don Raleigh of New York comes next with 51 points, 16 goals and 35 assists.

The closest to Sawchuk is Al Rollins of Toronto who had a 2:11 goals-against average. He has five shutouts, the same number as Jim Henry of Boston.

The Leafs are the most penalized club with 702 minutes spent in the penalty box and the Rangers are the least-penalized club with 478 minutes.

League bad man "honors" go to Gus Kyle of Boston who has spent more than two full games—123 minutes—off the ice.

Disqualify Saddler In 4th Round Angry Rhubarb Staged At Forum

MONTREAL, March 4 (CP) — Sandy Saddler, world featherweight champion, found himself in hot water today for the second time in less than six months.

Saddler was disqualified between the third and fourth rounds of his scheduled 10-round bout with Canadian lightweight champion Armand Savoie of Montreal on charges of illegal tactics.

The disqualification produced a first-class rhubarb. Fans milled about the ringside and fights broke out among them. Three carloads of police hurried to the Montreal Forum to stop the brawling and shoo the crowds away. Saddler's handlers were wrathful at the disqualification.

Saddler weighed 130½ and Savoie 134.

Last Oct. 5, chairman Bob Christenberry of the New York State Athletic Commission, suspended Saddler indefinitely as an aftermath of a bout with Willie Pep, a rough-house affair in a title bout at the Polo Grounds in New York Sept. 26. Pep had his licence revoked. Sadler was reinstated in New York Dec. 5.

Repeatedly Warned

Monday night's disqualification came after Saddler was repeatedly warned by Referee Tommy Sullivan for holding, heeling and other illegal tactics.

After the third round ended, Emile Gauthier, president of the Montreal Athletic Commission, climbed to the apron of the ring and told Sullivan to stop the fight. Sullivan then declared Saddler disqualified and walked over to Savoie's corner.

The crowd—there were 8,334 paid admissions—sat as if stunned for a minute and then let out a roar. Then hundred began milling about the ring and fights broke out between bettors.

The Athletic Commission officials went into semi-official huddles and planned a full-dress meeting today.

Saddler was warned at weighing-in time about illegal fighting. President Gauthier said he told the New York boxer that he was known as a dirty fighter, particularly since the Saddler-Pep brawl.

Gauthier said Saddler told him: "You have no right to talk to me that way."

Gauthier said when he climbed to the ring after the third round Saddler told him to "go to hell."

Fouling Continually

Referee Sullivan said Saddler was "fouling continually—heeling, holding and hitting on the breaks and sending in low blows," and "it looked to me for a while as if he wanted to be disqualified."

Matchmaker Raoul Godbout refused Gauthier's orders to freeze Saddler's purse, saying he had to pay the fighters "and I think you exceeded your authority."

Charlie Johnson, Saddler's manager, claimed Savoie kept turning his back and Saddler was doing nothing illegal by keeping on punching.

Bert Briscoe, Saddler's trainer, exploded: "We'll ruin Montreal as a fight town. We'll warn American fighters to stay away from here or they'll get the business."

The three rounds of the fight produced almost continual clinching and in-fighting, with Saddler hammering away with both hands at close quarters. He had a good margin in the first round but had the second taken from him because of illegal tactics.

In that round Savoie got him against the ropes and pummeled him with short-range blows for nearly half a minute. Then Saddler broke away and turned the tables briefly, connecting late in the round with a long looping left. Saddler went back strictly to in-fighting in the third round and was warned several times by the referee.

Burke Wins Golf Tourney

BATON ROUGE, La., March 4 (AP).—For 91 holes it looked like the inaugural $10,000 Baton Rouge open golf tournament would never end.

Then in a driving rain, poker-faced Jack Burke Jr., propelled a ball over a flooded green to break the deadlock, end the sudden-death extra playoff, and win his third straight major tournament in three weeks.

The tournament was supposed to end Sunday. But at the end of 72 holes three pros—Burke of Huston, Tex., Bill Nary of Aubuquerque, N.M., and Tommy Bolt of Durham N.C., and Houston—were tied with seven under par 281s.

An 18-hole playoff was held on Monday but the trio was still tied with two-under-par 70s. Then came the sudden-death playoff.

On the 19th, Bolt dropped by the wayside when he fell short with a six-foot putt. That left it to Nary and Burke, and the little Texan birdied the 20th with a 20-foot putt to take first prize.

In winning his third straight tournament, Burke shoved his winnigs above the $6,000 mark for three weeks' work.

Broadway Rink Scores Two Wins

HAMILTON, March 4 (CP). — A rink of former players in the Big Four Football Union Monday piled up the biggest scores in the first of two rounds of the 31st annual Hamilton bonspiel.

Skipped by Ray Broadway, the rink is made up of Tiny German, Chubby Dunne and Gord Perry After squeaking through with an 11-9 victory over J. W. Currie's Ayre, Ont., rink in the first round of play for the Spectator Trophy they swamped C. A. Birge's Toronto Curling Club foursome 17-0.

W. Peterson and his Chicago quartette were nosed out 9-8 in the opening round by C. C. Nose-worthy of Sarnia. E. Sowerby's Winnipeg rink bowed 9-5 to C. W. Meakin's Thistle combination in their opening play, but fared better in consolation Westinghouse Trophy play by downing Bob Sutherland of Guelph 9-8.

H. G. Turnbull of the Hamilton Thistle Club was the only local two-round victor, coming through with a 12-5 decision over the Rev. R. T. Young of Brantford and an 11-10 win over S. Smither's Galt crew.

C.O.B.L. Announces Kingston Meeting

BELLEVILLE, March 4—Secretary Harry "Yip" Radley has announced that the annual meeting of the Central Ontario Senior Baseball League will be held in Kingston, March 11, to elect officers and discuss plans for the 1952 season.

Seven teams competed last season. They were Belleville Redmen, Bata Shoemen, Napanee Athletics, Kingston Disney Leafs, Picton Athletics, Brockville Memos and Smith Falls Royals.

It is expected that the league will be expanded again this year to include some U.S. teams.

Late Game Rally Gives Wings 3-2 Win Over Hawks

DETROIT, March 4—(CP)—Detroit Red Wings moved within a single game of their fourth successive National Hockey League championship here Monday night by staging a typical late-game rally for three straight goals and a 3-2 victory over the lowly Chicago Black Hawks.

Trailing 1-0 at the end of the first period and 2-1 by the finish of the middle session, the league leaders clicked for two more goals in the final stanza and their important win.

The victory over the tail-end Hawks—Detroit's 38th win of the campaign—gave the Wings 87 points, 17 more than the runner-up Montreal Canadiens. It will take nine Montreal wins and nine Detroit losses if the Canadiens are to win the League crown.

Al Dewsbury gave Chicago its first-period 1-0 lead with 19 seconds left in the opening session with a screened 50-footer that bounced off goalie Terry Sawchuk's shoulder into the net.

Combine Talents

Jimmy Peters combined with Bep Guidolin and Jimmy McFadden for Chicago's second goal after 38 seconds of play in the second period and Metro Prystai started the Detroit parade two minutes later.

Marty Pavelich's tying counter came at 2:29 of the third period on a 10-foot wipe of Tony Leswick's pass-out. Red Kelly's winner at 9:51 originated from a scramble in front of the Chicago net with Metro Phystai and Marty Pavelich drawing assists.

Leo Reise, Red Wing defenceman, was injured midway through the second period and missed the rest of the clash. He is reported to have suffered severely bruised ribs that may keep him out of action for several games.

Only one game is scheduled in the N.H.L. tognight, The fourth-place Rangers meet the Bruins who trail them by but two points in a game at Boston.

Announce Dates Of O.H.A. Playoffs

TORONTO, March 4 (CP). — Ontario Hockey Association Junior A officials Monday announced dates for two playoff series.

Senior A series will see the league-leading Toronto Marlboros meet Guelph Biltmores in a best-of-seven series opening in Toronto March 9.

Galt Black Hawks and Toronto St. Michael's will open the best-of-five B series at Galt March 5.

Dates for the C series between Kitchener Greenshirts and St. Catharines Teepees will be decided today following a game between Kitchener and Galt. A victory for Kitchener would tie them for fifth place with Teepees in the 10-entry league.

Other dates for the first series are: March 11, 14 and 20 at Guelph and March 16, 18 and 21 at Toronto. In the B series, games will be played March 7 and 10 at Toronto and March 8 and 12 at Galt.

Doctors Learn Secret Of Viruses

CINCINNATI, March 4—(AP)—A secret about viruses, which may lead to drug control of virus diseases, was reported Monday to the second National Cancer Conference.

The secret is that one kind of virus, at least, ripens or develops in stages. And that a drug can throw a monkey wrench into this machinery, so that viruses are born helpless and harmless.

If this same step-by-step build-up is true of other viruses, there is a chance of finding drugs to control polio, smallpox, and other virus diseases of man.

The virus discovery was described by Dr. S. E. Louria, Research Professor of Bacteriology, University of Illinois, whose virus research is supported by the American Cancer Society.

Viruses ripen and are mass produced inside living cells.

Kill Power

Dr. Luria studied a virus, shaped like a tadpole, that attacks and destroys certain intestinal bacteria. Viruses enter, and then 20 minutes later the bacteria cell is wrecked, with 100 more viruses coming out. Dr. Lurion and his student, R. I. Demars, bathed the cells with a dye, proflavin, just a few minutes before mature viruses were due to be born.

A few minutes later, the 100 virus bodies came out. But they had no tails, and were incomplete. They lacked a vital chemical, nucleic acid. They couldn't attack or infect other basterial cells.

Dr. C. Levinthal and associates of the University of Michigan have found similar results.

Policewoman Is Immigrant

TORONTO, March 4.—Flashing a friendly smile, Canada's first policewoman immigrant, fair-haired Margaret Pearson stepped ashore at Halifax from Glasgow Scotland. She arrived there accompanied by twelve Glasgow policemen aboard the liner Ascania. She is travelling to a job in Edmonton, Alta.

The Scottish lassie, five-feet-seven-and-a-half inches tall, during her little more than five years in police work has to her credit solving one of Glasgow's worst crimes single handed. Two years ago a baby was abducted from its home in Glasgow, the first such case there for nearly a century, and policewoman Pearson was assigned to the case.

Three days after the kidnapping, policewoman Pearson found the youngster approximately 350 miles away in a Birmingham home safe and well. Unable to have one of her own and so fond of children, a woman had taken the youngster. Policewoman Pearson tracked her down by piecing together bits of clues she dug up keeping at the case without rest.

Each towering six feet or more, the twelve policemen who are also going to join the Edmonton police force, have had a long police training before coming to Canada. All are veterans of Second World War including policewoman Pearson, who was a Wren. They were interested in emigrating here by two of their buddies who served with the R.A.F. in Canada during the war and then planned to return as citizens.

Unique Partnership

HALIFAX, March 4—(CP)—A partnership believed unique in Canada was established here Monday night. The Halifax local of the Musicians' Union presented a $1,000 cheque to the Nova Scotia Opera Association, which is putting up an equal amount on an orchestra-building program for a full symphony orchestra in Halifax.

ACTOR'S SON ARRESTED — Edward G. Robinson, Jr., signs release papers after being jailed for si xhours in Beverly Hills, Calif., on charges of passing a worthless cheque to a garage owner. Robinson said he had merely stopped payment on the cheque. His father had recently expelled him from his home for marrying actress Frances Chisholm, who looks on.

Ontario Securities Group Drives Against Stockateers

TORONTO, March 4 (CP). — The Ontario Securities Commission is carrying on an active campaign against Toronto stock pushers who use high-pressure mail and telephone methods to sell stocks in the United States.

Attorney-General Porter told the Ontario Legislature Monday that although the commission lacks legal jurisdiction, it is "very concerned" with such sales.

It had made a "concentrated drive" against stock brokers with heavy mailings of stock solicitations, and had cancelled several broker licences in recent months, he said.

Mr. Porter spoke during second reading of a bill which will require that a summary of a company's prosopectus be sent to prospective stock purchasers with the first offer of a new stock issue.

The bill was given approval in principle. The Attorney-General said it will extend the basic policy of the Securities Commission — to require "full disclosure" of all facts before a company sells stock.

Stress Rehabilitation

Approval in principle was also given to a bill which would emphasize the rehabilitation of prisoners by enlarging the province's parole board and officially adding rehabilitation to the duties of parole officers.

Today the House will resume the throne speech debate and William J. Grummett (C.C.F.-Cochrane South) will be the first to speak.

The Minister of Reform Institutions, Maj. John Foote, V.C., said his department has "one purpose only". That is to rehabilitate prisoners and return them to normal civilian life.

He said, however, the department also has the necessary duty of enforcing discipline in reformatories.

He spoke in reply to J. B. Salsberg, Labor-Progressive member for Toronto St. Andrew, who raised charges he had made last year about conditions at Burwash Reformatory, about 40 miles south of Sudbury.

Says Food Bad

Mr. Salsberg charged that food at Burwash is bad, that too much corporal punishment is given, and that "persecution and vengeance" was responsible for 30 prisoners being moved to county jails after complaining of conditions at Burwash.

Maj. Foote said Burwash prisoners are "not the easiest people to handle." Corporal punishment by strapping is used only as a last resort after removal of prison privileges fail to discipline prisoners, he said.

Twenty-four prisoners were moved from Burwash to county jails in an attempt to discipline them without resorting to the strap. Food at Burwash was excellent, but there would always be complaints.

"You either run the department or a small minority will run it for you," Maj. Foote said.

Criticizes Articles

Attorney-General Porter criticized articles published in the United States dealing with allegedly fraudulent across-the-border stock sales.

The publications "have gone to very great lengths to discredit securities of this country in the United States," he said.

Mr. Porter suggested that stricter law enforcement in the United States would help the problem.

Many of the offending stock salesmen are from the United States, and "laxity on the other side of the border" is part of the problem, he said.

He termed "stockateering of the most vicious kind" the sale by one New York firm of lists of widows who had recently inherited estates and would have money to invest.

HEROIC K. C. — Commemorating the "Kansas City Spirit," this canvas by artist Norman Rockwell will soon be sent on a nation-wide tour. Inspiration for the canvas, which took four months to produce, was provided by the Missouri city's fight to recover from last year's floods, and prompted by a newspaper editorial, "You Can't Lick Kansas City."

Printing Bureau Inquiry Pledged

OTTAWA, March 4 — (CP) — State Secretary Bradley Monday announced an investigation into alleged racketeering among some government employees in the Government Printing Bureau.

The investigation will be carried out by RCMP, city police and special government investigators acting on behalf of Lumford Clou[illegible] Queen's Printer.

The action follows publication last week of newspaper stories here and in Toronto charging that illegal money lending and sale of smuggled cigarettes were common practices among employees of the printing bureau.

Mr. Bradley told reporters he was surprise by the reports of "what is supposed to be going on at the printing bureau". If such a situation did exist "we want to clean it up and that is why we have ordered the inquiry".

Peter Lind Hayes Beginning Fourth Film Career

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 4 (AP) —Few actors get a second chance at the big-time in the movies. That's why it's news when Peter Lind Hayes starts his fourth film career.

That's not bad for a lad in his mid-30s.

Peter was born and bred in show business, his mother being old-time entertainer Grace Hayes. Pete tried everything including a job as stand-in for Ted Healy, the comedian.

"That lasted for two years," he recalled. "Then Healy died and I was out of a job."

His second career began when he was signed to an acting contract at Paramount. His first picture was "Million Dollar Legs," with Betty Grable. After 17 pictures, mostly "B"s, he was washed up.

Then came the Second World War and Pete toured with "Winged Victory". After he returned from the service, he tried the night club circuit and scored a big hit.

His first picture under his new contract was "The Senator Was Indiscreet". It was a flop and turned out to be his last.

Pete returned to New York. He and his talented wife, Mary Healy, latched onto television. They now are veterans of three sponsored shows and one sustaining, which makes them old-timers in the infant industry.

Hollywood Again

Mary and Pete are back in Hollywood, this time to star in a Stanley Kramer film with the weird title of "The 5,000 fingers of Dr. T." Pete isn't bowled over by his latest movie break. He and Mary still intend to live in New York.

"You can keep people off-balance back there," he reasoned. "If you fail in one medium, there are three others you can jump to. In Hollywood, if you fail in movies, there's only one place you can jump—in the Pacific Ocean."

Lindsay Boy Returns From Korea

LINDSAY, March 4 (ENS). — Sgt. Glen Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Armstrong, Churchill Crescent, Lindsay, arrived home on compassionate leave Monday and reports, "I saw service in World War II in Italy. I have been in most countries of Europe, but in Korea conditions are terrible. Korea has the hills, the rocks, the mountains and the mud of other countries. In many sections, the people are still living in the primitive age."

Sgt. Armstrong arrived in Korea with the 22nd Regiment Royal Canadian Infantry on May 12, 1951. Four days later the regiment went into action and has been on call ever since. "Fighting has been stiff and rugged in a country that is hilly and where there is lots of mud. Seoul is a very good city, said the sergeant, and fairly modern.

Practically all other towns and villages in the area have been wiped out. "The people are quite friendly but in many cases do not know what all the fuss is about."

Sgt. Armstrong served with several others from this district in the 22nd Regiment including Capt. M. Stoddart, Woodville; J. Watson, Norland; J. Butler, Woodville; Bob McGinnis and George Johnston, Lindsay. The latter returned to town some time ago having been wounded.

HEADS NEW DEPARTMENT

Carl A. Salmonsen former works manager of the Canadian General Electric plant in Peterborough has been named general manager of a newly formed industrial control department of the Schenectady Works of the General Electric Co. Mr. Salmonsen came to Peterborough as general superintendent in 1928 and was promoted to works manager two years later. He continued in this position until 1941 when he went to the River Works of the G.E. and was succeeded in Peterborough by Ian F. McRae.

OPP Officers Sworn

Magistrate W. R. Philp, Q.C., administered the oath of allegiance to Queen Elizabeth II to the entire personnel of O.P.P. district 8 headquarters staff in his office today. O.P.P. Constable Donald W. Erskine of Campbellford was also given the oath of allegiance.

Signs Of Spring In Zoo Pens Animals Frisky

Stored for the winter months at the old pump house at the Filtration plant, Ben the bear, Bo-Bo the monkey, Cephas the swan with the other wild animals rocked the building today, shaking the pens and screaming at each other.

In solitary confinement since the first signs of winter, the animals and birds seem to realize that spring is just around the corner. Their actions and jabber have hit a high tempo.

To catch these springy signs the Examiner photographer was sent to "shoot" the zoo for spring pictures.

At the door he was met by a gust of dusk and a thundering crash. The monkeys were "playing." These jungle creatures were rocking their cages, screaming, sometimes screeching, and leaping from one swing to another.

Ah-h-h-h, a monkey in action will be a good one, thought the photographer. He crept up to the cage where the wild, jumping Bo-Bo, the filtration pet, was doing her acrobatics.

What You Doing, Mack?

When he was sighted up and the shutter ready to click, the action stopped. Bo-Bo sauntered over to the wire screen and gawked into the camera. Not a muscle moved; she just sat and watched. All the other monkeys stopped and watched too.

I'll settle for a still shot, thought the photographer. He pushed the button and the bulb went off in a blinding flash. He looked through the sights and there were the monkeys, their eyes bulging and mouths wide open.

"That just reminds me of some people," thought the photographer.

On to Cephas the swan, gracefully floating around in his pool. Undisturbed by the flash from the camera he coasted over the water, possibly thinking of the outside waters where he will drift and dream when the ice clears.

No Co-Operation

From there the photographer moved to the peacock's cage. Dad peacock stiffly walked up and down his runway; Mother peacock scratched in the dirt for food. Just when the shutter was about to go, Dad jumped down from his perch and turned his back to the camera.

His tail, last summer an iridescent blend of golds, blues and purples, was shabby, a sign of spring. Now in his third year, the "coming-of-age" year for male peacocks, Dad peacock is in the process of dressing up. He'll be at "full bloom" this summer.

Ben the bear peered sleepily from his den. The husky black fellow, good-naturedly rose from his bed, wandered to his favorite resting place outside and there posed briefly for one picture.

Ben slept for two months, December and January, and since has been in and out several times.

Perhaps Ben's like the weatherman; he can't decide whether spring's near or not.

Salary Committee Ended Whole Council To Discuss Pay Problem

Members of Committee Decide Pay Question Too Big, Complicated; Whole Council Should Deal With It

Less than an hour sufficed for the council Monday night to dispose of a light and thin file of business. It comprised only eight items in the correspondence. One was for a petition for a sidewalk on Arndon Ave. Two were routine reports from Welfare Officer Metheral and City Engineer Chalmers. Another was an enquiry from Maurice Ketcheson about certain information relating to the Memorial Community Centre project. But, three others had to do with salaries, and salaries never bore so heavily on any other council for years as they do in the approach to the 1952 budget.

Other than those items, there were only two by-laws authorizing street improvement that were due for third reading.

As to salaries, city hall groups protested the reduction in their cost of living bonus, and the firemen wrote that they were not prepared to accept a reduction in their take-home pay, and renewed their contention that the 1951 working agreement should be honored before proceeding further with the new agreement for this year.

Council approved a motion by Aldermen Gillespie and Miller dissolving the salary committee "as of March 3."

"It was the consensus of the committee this afternoon," said Ald. J. E. Gillespie, "that the salary problem has grown to such proportions that it might be better to have the whole council deal with it."

Complicated Too

"And it has become so complicated, too," Ald. A. B. Burows remarked.

The committee this year has been made up of Aldermen Gillespie chairman, Miller, Anglesey, Burrows and Longhurst.

With the adjournment of the council, Mayor Waddell presided in committee of the whole. Arrangements were made to hear representatives of the city hall groups, men and women, and also the firemen.

Fire Fighters' Union suggested Friday, March 7, for a meeting, but they are being informed that the council wished to defer the continuation of negotiations to Thursday, March 13.

The fact is that this year's council are sitting on a hot seat as they bring together the elements of the budget, and tentatively add up details that have already been scanned. So far this year, spending has been only routine. Nor has the council committed itself to any new and sizable spending other than approving a continuation of the street paving program.

Not one extraordinary undertaking is even contemplated. All the projects of the city council have been completed. It is unlikely that the proposed fire department sub-station will find its way into the 1952 appropriations.

Must Pay For Work

But, during the post-war years, an extensive building program was carried out. The work is done, the money borrowed, and the present council has to face the financing thereof. In that position, it is no relief to the present council to recall that the spending was duly and properly authorized by the taxpayers. And, now the fixed charges have to be faced, such inescapable items as principal and interest.

Add to that salaries and cost of living bonus for all hands, together with the ordinary expenditure on streets, parks, health and library, and so on, and the mills skip and hop about beyond the grasp of the unhappy councillors.

Incidentally, the mill this year is equivalent to $40,000. When the council looks over this committee's estimates and that, the branches of expending over which it has control, the question rises up: "Where can we lop off $40,000?"

And, as it is said along the street: "You can say that again," signifying repetition of the question, and more than once, too, from all accounts of how the budget-making is worrying the Walden council.

Ald. Doug Miller is probably falling restlessly to sleep these nights vainly wishing: "If it were only $40,000." He is the chairman of the finance committee, and eventually it is going to be his responsibility of announcing the 1952 tax rate.

Just what it will be is so far undetermined. Some favoring circumstance may yet come to the help, more or less, of this council, but this is the first week of March, the Ides are near at hand, and you know what they have long said about the inevitability of taxes and its sable companion. Not a sign of mitigation has appeared up to Monday night; nothing to reduce the heat.

Mayor Waddell has not yet been driven to the extremity recently reported of Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa in offering $100 to anybody who could put a finger on $10,000 either for the treasury or off the budget.

Corncob Pipe Enjoyed By Aged Woman

MADOC, Ont.—(CP)—A corncob pipe is the closest companion of Mrs. Elizabeth Rodgers, the oldest resident of this village, 25 miles north of Belleville. Mrs. Rodgers, who outlived three husbands and eight children, celebrated her 95th birthday recently.

She took up smoking many years ago to relieve asthma, and now, she said, she "couldn't live without the pipe."

And, at 95, she still is able to read the fine print of her Bible without glasses. Mrs. Rodgers still does the odd chore around the house and walks downtown to cash her monthly pension cheque.

Born in England, she came to Madoc 86 years ago. She has been married three times and each time her married name was Rodgers. Her last husband, John, died 10 years ago. Two of her husbands were brothers and the third, a cousin.

Lindsay Reeve Resigns As Head Of Board Of Works

LINDSAY, March 4. (ENS)—Reeve Richard (Dick) Butler of Lindsay resigned Monday night from the chairmanship of the board of works. The resignation was accepted. His department, which showed an overexpenditure of $10,000 in 1951, came under critical attack by Alderman Bert Hick.

A new chairman will likely be named at the regular meeting of council March 10.

The flareup in council stemmed from a special meeting last Wednesday to decide on the mill rate. At that time it was disclosed that the board of works had overspent its 1951 budget by $10,000.

Alderman Hick criticized the board and recommended the hiring of a town engineer. He said it was time for the whole Council to sit in on the board's business because there shouldn't be such a large over-expenditure.

Depends On Weather

Alderman Harry Pierce said it was impossible to know what the board's budget will be exactly. It all depends on how much sanding is done; how much plowing; the number of caved in sewers during the winter months, and so on.

Before the special meeting broke up Reeve Butler intimated he would resign the chairmanship if cricitism continued. And Monday night he did just that.

"I've given hours and hours of my time, free," said Reeve Butler. "I've used my own car, my own gasoline. I've been called out at all hours of the day and night in the interests of the board of works. I didn't appreciate the criticism of Mr. Hick; it was entirely unjustified.

"This criticism started in January and has continued on through February", he said. "I didn't do this for myself but for the town of Lindsay".

Reeve Butler said he was aware that Alderman Hick had spent many hours in the town clerk's office "digging up information".

All Audited

"I didn't like the inference that there was 'something wrong in the department'. The board of works accounts have all been audited and everything is correct".

Alderman Pierce moved that the chairman's resignation be accepted. At the same time he said he thought the criticism was neither justified nor constructive.

Alderman John Baker seconded the motion, and said: "Perhaps Alderman Hick should resign as chairman of police and become chairman of the board of works".

"I strongly regret Mr. Butler's resignation", said Mayor Charles Lamb. "I personally know of the hours of time he has spent as chairman of the board. And I have been in his car on many occasions when he made special trips on board business".

Mayor Lamb then put the motion to council, but before a vote was taken Aldeman Hick jumped to his feet and said:

"If Mr. Butler has the right to resign then I have the right to refuse the chairmanship of the board of works. If council wishes me to resign my own chairmanship, I'll do so".

Alderman Hick said his criticism had not been levelled at the chairman in particular, but at the board as a whole. He said he had not mentioned Reeve Butler by name once. However he did feel that council should look into the board's affairs and no committee should exceed its budget by $10,000.

The motion to accept the chairman's resignation passed without dissent. Alderman Hick did not vote.

A new chairman will likely be elected next Monday.

Bob Maybee Heads Rotary

Bob Maybee, vice-president and general manager of the Peterborough Lock Co., was elected president of the Peterborough Rotary Club at the luncheon meeting Monday.

Clare Collins was elected vice-president.

The following were elected members of the board of directors: Max Comstock, Harold Deeth, Paul Irwin, the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Murray St. Baptist Church, Burritt Smitheram.

City Looks Again At Old City Hall Before Wrecking

City council is taking another look at the old city hall building on Simcoe St. before abandoning it to some wrecking crew for reduction and conversion into a parking lot.

In the board of works report last, presented by the chairman, Ald. J. E. Gillespie, was this clause: "That the letter of the property manager, (Mr. Outram) recommending demolition of the old city buildings, in order that space occupied by them might be used as a metered parking zone, be referred back to the property committee, with the understanding that the council favors this recommendation but that the property committee consider the removal of the scales from the site, and other matters connected with the proposal."

City Clerk Outram had estimated the number of meters that could be added to the collecting lines on the old maket square with prospect of something like $7,000 a year revenue. Incidentally, the city would be getting rid of an old building of Victorian vintage.

The property committee promptly reported, as read by chairman Ald. H. S. Longhurst last night: "That the property manager by requested to secure a report from the Real Estate Board (reference realtors at the council's call) as to the rentals that might be obtained from renting the old City Hall building as offices or stores, and also that he secure a report on the present condition of the building, and an estimated cost of making the necessary alterations so that it could be rented to individual occupants."

Mechanical Reporter Takes Down Evidence

A mechanical reporter was tested in police court today. For the first time, an electric tape recorder was set up to transcribe evidence. Justice of the Peace James Fleming took down the evidence in short hand as usual however, since it was just a test. The recorder can be used to take down evidence in summary conviction matters which make up the bulk of police court cases. Today, there was only one microphone, in the witness box. The recommended set-up is three mikes, one for the lawyers table, another for the magistrate, and a third in the witness box.

Will Turn In Seal

Senator Davies Ends Term As High Sheriff

WELSHPOOL Montgomeryshire, Wales, March 4—(CP)—Senator W. Rupert Davies, president of the Kingston Whig-Standard, surrenders his official seal this month as High Sheriff of Montgomeryshire, marking the close of a year's term in office.

A native of Welshpool, Senator Davies is the first Welsh-Canadian to be elevated to the office, instituted in 1541 by King Henry. During his 12-month tenure, the High Sheriff served as head of the county for civil purposes and for the administration of justice.

Accompanied by heralds and under-sheriffs in their colorful robes and trappings, he toured through Montgomeryshire last month to announce the proclamation of Elizabeth II as Queen of the Realm.

Busy Year

"It has been a busy but most interesting year for me," Senator Davies said. "Mrs. Davies and I have done considerable public speaking throughout the country and on each occasion we have done all we could to explain Canada to the people and encourage to the utmost migration to Canada of the younger generation."

The senator said it was unlikely he would be able to return to his parliamentary duties until sometime early in April as his successor must be installed before his departure for Canada. The final event of an active social season was a meeting of the noted Tanatside Hunt at Leighton Hall, the High Sheriff's historic estate near Welshpool.

Assize Dinner

Earlier this year Leighton Hall, with a grizzled 600-year-old oak facing its entrance, saw the revival of what has become known as the Assize Dinner. Among the distinguished guests were the chairmen of Magistrate's Benches in the county, members of the Bar, appearing at the January assizes as well as other leaders of civil and military life.

Significance was given to the occasion by the fact the original Leighton Hall was the residence of the first High Sheriff for the County. It was then a black and white manor house and was torn down early in the 19th century to make way for the present mansion.

When he leaves for home Senator Davies relinquishes two other offices, chairmanship of the County Council of the Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem and presidency of the Montgomeryshire Society in London.

Welsh Organized 21 Years

Celebrating St. David's Day, 20 Welsh people of the city gathered for the regular meeting of St. David's Society here on Monday evening at the Y.M.C.A. It was noted that it was just 21 years ago January 27th when the first meeting of the society was held in the council room of the Chamber of Commerce and the Rev. J. L. Hughes was named president. A banquet was held in the Woodmen of the World Hall on March 1st, 1931, and each year since the patron saint has been honored. New president Mrs. C. L. Armstrong brought Welsh cakes to be served with the luncheon and Mrs. W. Saunders provided ice cream sundaes as a special treat. A letter of greeting from St David's Society of Montreal was read by Mrs. W. Flowers who reported she had sent return greetings. Community singing of Welsh songs was led by Miss M. Flowers at the piano. Mrs. Armstrong sang two solos in the Welsh tongue and Mrs. Joseph Henderson gave two Welsh readings. Bingo was played with prizes for everyone. The overseas food parcel draw was won by Mrs. Dorothy Bell. Retiring president Mrs. M. Pakenham expressed her thanks for co-operation during her term. Assisting with the refreshments were Mrs. Bell, Mrs. W. J. Bull and Mrs. A. Walton.

Home and School Association News

MILLBROOK

MILLBROOK, March 4 (ENS) —Addressing the members of Millbrook Home and School Association who attended Grace Presbyterian church on Sunday evening to mark the commencement of Education Week, the Rev. W. H. Heustin chose the subject "Education Begins in the Home." He began his address with the quotation: "Train a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it."

In defining education Mr. Heustin quoted one of his professors "Education is primarily a spiritual undertaking." Someone else had defined it as the "impact of one personality upon another." When Dr. McCullough Thompson was asked to what he attributed his success in life he said "To having chosen good parents." James Barrie said the fifth great university of Scotland was "the poor proud homes."

Other members of the Home and School Association as well as Mr. Heustin who assisted in the service, were the Rev. A. M. Butler of St. Andrew's United, who led in prayer; Mr. Herbert of the South Cavan Area Public School Board, who read the first scripture lesson, and Mr. Harry Williams of the High School staff, who read the second one.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL

Fathers' Night meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association took place on Monday evening. The Rev. Ivan Morgan took the devotions and fittingly read the Bible passage wherein the Lord's Prayer is presented.

Mr. W. B. Gordon was the chairman for the program. Two solos were contributed by Mr. Adam Hawley. He sang "I Love Life" and "For You Alone."

Mr. Howard Perry introduced the speaker Mr. Charles Forsyth, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. who spoke on the emotional adjustment between father and son. With keen humor he presented advice for fathers and sons in an inspiring way. All fathers were encouraged to be even better parents.

Mr. Christopher Gledhill contributed two pleasing piano numbers, Concert Styling in D Flat by Litzt and Vineberg's Polka.

Parents were received at the door by Mrs. H. Tewsley and Mrs. A. Jarvis. Mr. A. Gaynor's room won the attendance prize.

President Mrs. Arthur Black made announcements of the coming events, lecture by Mr. D. M. Graham of Forest Hill Village on March 19th at Queen Mary auditorium, the daffodil tea at the school March 26 and the hobby fair April 24th. Mr. John Londerville is to be speaker at a citizenship meeting on April 11th.

Dainty refreshments were served by grade 3 fathers under the supervision of Mrs. G. Norris.

BANCROFT

A Founder's Day program, convened by Mrs. A. Gaebel assisted by Mrs. A. N. Smith and Mrs. L. Freiburger provided the theme for the February meeting of Bancroft Public School Home and School Association, held in the kindergarten room on Thursday.

After a brief address by Mrs. Gaebal, the ceremonial candles, commemorating the aims and ideals of the association were lit by Judy Gaebel, Miss Marjorie Morrison, Mrs. Elvin Bruce and Mrs. J. N. Brown. The dedication was completed with the singing of "My Task" by Mrs. E. Schram.

Mrs. J. W. C. Hutton, treasurer of the local association, spoke briefly on the history of the local body, since its formation in February 1948. On behalf of the members she paid tribute to the leadership given by the four presidents—Mrs. W. R. Robinson, Mrs. C. Wright, Mrs. L. Moyd and Mrs. J. N. Brown. Among the projects completed by the association she mentioned the hobby shows, Hallowe'en parties, providing a part-time nurse and obtaining the co-operation of the municipal council in removing snow from Flint Street.

A letter from Alexander W. Smith, inspector of public schools for North Hastings, giving skeleton details of a plan for a public health nurse, was read by the president Mrs. J. N. Brown. In quoting a plan used in Haliburton, the communication from Mr. Smith stated that if a public health nurse were to be hired for the schools of North Hastings the probable cost would be $5,000. This sum included $2,500 for the nurse's salary and $2,500 for her expenses, with 33 1/3 per cent of this paid by the provincial government, and the remainder by local taxation.

To bring into operation a service of this type, Mr. Smith's letter stated that it would be necessary for the individual school boards to pass motions requesting the township and village councile to take the necessary action to form an inspectoral health unit.

The president, Mrs. J. N. Brown, stated that the matter would be discussed in detail at a future meeting at which Inspector Smith would be present.

During a brief discussion on the subject of the school nurse and health unit question it was decided to have the secretary contact Mrs. James Pitts and Mrs. R. Dafoe, president and secretary of Madoc Public School Home and School Association, to ascertain the views of their association on this subject.

Acting upon a recommendation from the executive it was decided that the annual hobby show would be held in June, instead of April, and that it would be a combined outdoor and indoor event.

The meeting closed with a social hour. Lunch was served by the social committee of Mrs. G. Thompson, Mrs. E. Mather and Mrs. E. Maxwell.

Servicewomen See Pictures By Jean Stenton

Members of the ex-servicewomen's (Elizabeth Smellie) Branch of the Canadian Legion were entertained at the opening of their meeting at the Armouries on Monday evening by Miss Jean Stenton of the Examiner staff showing beautiful colored slides taken on her holiday trips to England, France and through the Canadian Rockies.

Miss Stenton delighte with a running commentary of interesting observations. She was introduced by Miss Irene Vivash, and a note of thanks was extended by Miss Barbara Waters. Judging by applause at conclusion of the travelogue, it was apparent that the program was enjoyed.

At the business meeting that followed president Miss Irma Allen announced the Dominion Convention is to be at the Mount Royal Hotel Montreal, on May 18th. Date for the Branch's bingo to be in the Legion Hall was set for Saturday, March 15th. A list of the good prizes to be given away was read.

Gifts of food and clothing were accepted for a parcel to be sent to a serviceman in Korea.

A report on the president's meeting held in Warsaw in February was read by Miss Irma Allen. She stressed the need for more members and urged those present to endeavour to contact an ex-servicewoman (British or Canadian) and show them the service and comradeship that could be found in the Canadian Legion.

A dainty lunch was served following the meeting.

MRS. MAURICE HOLT

Local Council of Women is presenting the second springtime fashion parade and tea this Thursday evening at the Brock Ballroom and are being assisted by Mrs. Maurice Holt who is well known in this city as an interesting fashion commentator. Clothes for children, teen-agers and women will be shown by about 50 models who range in age from two years. Outstanding entertainment will be provided during the intermission when tea is to be served by the Council members under convenership of Mrs. F. Merrett. Free favors will be given to everyone at the door and door prizes will be drawn for. Mrs. Allan B. Collis is convener of the fashion show.

Poodle-Cut Craze Won't Last Says N.Y. Stylist

TORONTO, March 4 — (CP) — Robert King, a hair stylist from New York, thinks there are "too many faint hearts" in the hairdressing business.

"On the whole, hairdressers lack imagination and courage to tell their customers the truth about their appearance," he said in an interview.

On the subject of poodle cuts—a style in which the hair is chopped to about two inches and curled softly all over the head — he said that the teen-agers now going in for the craze should leave it to their grandmothers. Poodle cuts are most becoming on white-haired and grey-haired women.

The poodle-cut style takes too much work to keep in shape to last long, he says. The hair must be trimmed every two weeks and a permanent must be given every two months.

The poodle-cut craze won't last beyond the summer, Mr. King predicted. "Hair is going to be longer and more casual in the autumn. The formal poodle cuts will go."

MR. AND MRS. BERNARD MacDONALD of MacTier, the bride formerly Shirley Jean Lustic of Peterborough.—(Don Ivison Photo)

Shirley Jean Lustic Marries

A pretty wedding was solemnized at George St. United Church on Saturday when the Rev. Arnold Mathews united in holy matrimony Shirley Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Lustic, Charlotte St., and Bernard MacDonald, son of Mrs. J. MacDonald and the late Mr. MacDonald of Boiestown, N. B.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of ivory slipper satin and French lace and a full length veil held in place with a tiara of seed pearls. Her bouquet was a cascade of red roses. Her maid of honor, Miss Jennie Little of Toronto, was attired in blue taffeta and matching headdress and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. Donne Marie Lustic was junior bridesmaid for her sister, gowned in pink taffeta and matching headdress and carrying a nosegay of pink carnations.

The groom was attended by his brother Mr. Owen MacDonald. Ushers were Ken Hoar, cousin of the bride and Doug Lustic, brother of the bride.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lustic, Park St., where a dainty buffet luncheon was served. The bride's mother was attired in navy and wore white accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's sister-in-law Mrs. Owen MacDonald wore pale blue with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The bridal couple will make their home in MacTier, Ontario.

ST. ANNE'S SCHOOL

St. Anne's Parent-Teacher Association monthly meeting was held Monday evening in the auditorium with president Mr. A. Devlin in the chair He opened with prayer. Attention was then drawn to two radios on display which have recently been purchased by the P-TA for use in the school.

A short talk was given by Mr. Campbell Rowat on conservation of wild life. Miss Mary Neville then entertained with a piano recital.

Guest speakers were introduced by pupils of the school. The Rev. Sister Rosamond of St. Peter's spoke on various aspects of the course in home economics. Mr. L. McColl's explanation of industrial arts was well received.

Mr. J. C. Doyle, separate school inspector, chose for his subject "Character Building" and he explained the need of "learning to fail well, for out of failure comes success and the necessity of developing character from within." Another point he emphasized was the behavior of both parent and teacher in relationship to the child.

The speakers were thanked by Mr. Rowatt.

Attendance prizes were won by grades 7 and 8.

Lunch was served by Mrs. A. McCormick and her committee.

Dunsford-Spiers

ROSENEATH, March 4, (ENS) —The marriage was quietly solemnized at the United Church parsonage, Roseneath, on Saturday, of Shirley Eliza Ann, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Spiers, Roseneath, to Elgie Russell Dunsford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Dunsford of Peterborough.

The Rev. R. C. White officiated.

The bride was lovely in a dress of gray taffeta and wore a corsage of pink roses, a small flowered hat and black accessories. Bridesmaid, Miss Betty Dunsford, sister of the groom, wore a navy taffeta dress and matching accessories and had a corsage of red roses.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Harry Dunsford.

The couple will live in Peterborough.

Betty Jackson Becomes Bride Of C. O. Lockhart, Moncton

A charming wedding scene was at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church at two o'clock Saturday afternoon as Mary Elizabeth (Betty) Jackson became the bride of Mr. Charles Owen Lockhart from Moncton, N.B. in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Charles G. Boyd.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Jackson of 531 Bolivar St., and was given in marriage by her father. She was wearing a lovely ankle-length gown of pink Chantilly lace with the flaring gored skirt finished with a deep scalloped hemline above a full gathered underskirt of pink nylon net and made over bouffant pink faille taffeta. The bra top bodice of the dress was topped with a waist length jacket of the lace in cap sleeve style, buttoning at the front below a Queen Anne collar and she wore dainty wristlets of the pink lace and pink satin slippers. Her headdress was a halo of pink lilacs and she carried a bouquet with a pale pink orchid centring white carnations.

Mrs. Leonard Mason of Toronto was the bridesmaid. Her gown was styled of pale blue net over taffeta with sweetheart neckline highlighted by brilliant clasps and finished with long tapering sleeves. She wore a pale blue floral headdress and her bouquet was a white orchid with pale blue flowers.

The groom, who is son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Lockhart of Moncton, N.B., was attended by Mr. Robert Gray of Peterborough. Ushers were Douglas Rattenbury and Forrest Rankine.

Guests' seats in the church were marked with white hyacinths and white satin bows and large bouquets of white snapdragon were at either side of the altar. Organist Mr. Christopher Gledhill played the wedding march and classical selections during the signing of the register.

The reception for about 45 guests was held at the Kawartha Country Club. The bride's mother assisted in receiving, wearing a becoming dress of navy faille taffeta and crepe, a hat of navy straw with flower trim of pink lilacs, pink gloves and a corsage of pink carnations. The bride's table was lovely with bowls of soft purple pansies flanking the tiered wedding cake.

Later the bride changed to a pale blue gabardine suit and hat of pink and navy milan with veil, navy shoes and accessories. The couple then left on their wedding trip to places in northern United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Lockhart will make their home in Moncton, N.B.

Members Report At B. & P.W. Club Fireside Meeting

Fireside meeting of the Business Professional Women's Club was held in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. Monday evening. In absence of president Mrs. Jean Watson, Miss Alice Hardwick took the chair.

Miss Luella Knapp gave an interesting talk on current events. Mrs Lydia Telford reported on the meeting of the local branch of the United Nations Association. Their motto is "Equality for all, no race prejudice". She urged support of the organization in its efforts and recommended membership for the club to be brought before members at the next dinner meeting.

Mrs. Maud Dunford reported on the meeting of the Local Council of Women and on the fashion show they are holding this week. Miss Mary Easson gave an instructive paper on Provincial Elections, telling where authority comes from and how they are conducted.

Miss Sarah Eastwood talked on The Women's Civic Study Group of the city. Their policy is "Non political, non partisan". She stressed they would like to increase their membership. Miss Myrtle Knapp told the meeting something of the purposes and activities of the Local Film Council.

Miss Ester Thornton brought up the matter of a Business and Professional meeting to be held in Lindsay Saturday and Sunday, March 14 and 15. This is in the nature of a training school for the various officers of the club along their specific lines and she urged the executive to plan to attend if at all possible.

Refreshments were served by the executive committee.

Spiteful In-Laws Bring Misery To Second Wife

DEAR MISS DIX: My marriage of eight months is a very happy one, with one exception. My husband had been married before; he was a widower for fourteen years when we married. He is wonderful to me and I couldn't ask for a better husband, but his people are always bringing up the subject of his former wife, with, naturally, comparisons detrimental to me. I don't expect them to forget the dead but I don't see how I can make a success of my marriage if I am constantly reminded what a wonderful, sweet girl she was. They seem to be trying to impress me with the fact that I do not qualify as an in-law.

WINNIFRED F.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Fourteen years is a long time to remember someone —especially an in-law—with such minuteness that she is constantly used as a basis of comparison. I'll wager that when she was alive her sweetness and charm were not so freely discussed by the in-laws. Your husband's family strike me as being a spiteful, malicious lot, intent on making trouble wherever it can be made. They probably resent you for taking their son and brother (and also, undoubtedly, his cash assets) away from the rest of the family. After keeping him a widower for fourteen years they figured they had exclusive rights to his time, money and attention for the rest of his life.

Husband Should Act

Your husband should have sense enough to see that these comparisons are unpleasant for you, and ask his relatives to soft-pedal them. It may take a word from you to make him see what should be an obvious fact, but men can be very dense at times.

If your husband won't take steps to stop the annoyance, there are several ways you can handle the problem, depending upon the type of people your in-laws are. When the subject of your predecessor comes up, (1) let them talk on and on, listen pleasantly with an occasional noncommital aye or nay; (2) change the subject as casually as possible; (3) state definitely that you prefer to discuss something else or (4) observe demurely that you are indeed trying to live up to the high standards set by wife number one.

You may be sure that no matter how perfect you are, or become, approval will never be forthcoming from these relatives. Their pleasure is in criticizing and belittling; approval is not in them. Try to arrange your life, and that of your husband, to leave a minimum of time for in-laws. Don't be resentful of their actions; just realize their attitude for what it is—a small conception of life that shuts out all the beauty of pleasant human relationships.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 20 years old and fairly attractive. People seem to like me but I seldom have a date. I'm settled for my age and would like to get married but I don't think any of the boys I know are interested in marrying me. Do you think there is still something lacking in me or do you think eventually I will find a mate?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are still so young, Janie, that there's no cause for panic over your seeming lack of matrimonial prospects. The boys you know are probably very young, too, and are as yet in no position to marry. Just continue to be our own sweet self, don't act overanxious and you'll hear wedding bells yet. If you don't know many boys, why not take on some activities where you may meet them? Bowling, skating and tennis are all good sports conducive to forming boy-girl friendships.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For three years I have gone with a girl and was sure I loved her. I know she loves me. Recently I was more or less forced into a blind date with another girl. She swept me off my feet, and though I know the first girl would be a better wife, I can't forget the second one. What can I do?

THOMAS

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The second girl has brought on a heavy case of infatuation with you, and your best course is to forget her. How you can accomplish this is up to you, but your future happiness lies, beyond doubt, with the first girl, whom you still love and who is the finer person. Don't settle for second best when you have the genuine article within reach.

Flower Club Of Omemee Hold Meeting

OMEMEE, March 4 (ENS)—Hot bed and cold frames were subjects for consideration at the February meeting of the Omemee and District Horticultural Society. The methods of preparing and seeding were outlined by the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, drawing chiefly from his personal experience. He also passed on many useful suggestions about care of the young plants. He advised removing or partly raising the glass top of the hot bed as often and as long as the weather permitted in order to give the plants air and sun to make them sturdy. He warned against forcing too much and also against watering in the evening.

Autumn leaves packed into the hot bed frame in the fall serve well as a first layer under the well-packed manure which should be turned after each of two or three heatings before the soil is added. The soil to a depth of about 6 inches should be light loam, and should be almost level with the lower side of the frame to allow for gradual settling. Anywhere from March 21 to 20, Mr. Zufelt said, was a good time to put in the seeds.

The cold frame, he said, was very useful for later plants and should be started about April 15. A cold frame can also be used to store tender perennials in winter.

The secretary reported that the order for premium roses had been placed. Beefsteak tomato seeds were distributed as a door prize by president Wesley Wilson. E. Corneil and Mr. Zufelt promised lily bulbs for a September door prize.

An additional interesting feature of the meeting was a film—"Phosphorus, Key to Life" shown by W. D. Weir, demonstrating the process in the preparation of phosphorus and the need for putting it back into impoverished soil to supply proper nourishment for man and beast.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Rising Cost Of Fresh Milk Makes Demand for Powders

The Toronto papers inform us that the recent street-car strike resulted in the loss of from 10 to 15% of the street-car travelling public to transportation by private car or hoof.

Money talks, but sometimes it talks too loud.

The rising cost of fresh milk has made milk powder a staple on many kitchen shelves.

This is news — and good news. It means the obvious: that folks who would not afford fresh milk now have its equivalent at lower cost and because the milk powder is conveniently at hand, many cooks use more milk by way of the milk powder method than they would if fresh milk were employed. Consequently their families have a higher protein ration. I know three households in which this is the case.

This little chat was sparked by Marie D., and I want her to know that she (and you) may write to Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Canada, for a booklet on skim milk powder, which contains many recipes for its use.

My general suggestion to you is that if you want to use milk powder instead of fresh milk, reliquefy it as directed on the package and treat as if it were fresh milk. When used in baking add it to the dry mix in proportions as directed on package and use water instead of milk for the liquid.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: Recently you published a recipe for pork pies which I have lost. Would you please sent me a reprint?—Mrs. Don H.

ANSWER:

Melton Mowbray Pastry

Two level cups plus 2 tablespoons unsifted flour, ½ teaspoon each of salt and baking powder, ½ cup (¼ lb.) lard or shortening, 3/8 cup boiling water. Put boiling water and lard together and bring to boiling point. Mix flour with salt and baking powder and add all at once to hot water and lard. Remove from heat and stir until smooth. Cover and let stand from 1 to 3 hours. Line several small pie pans or 1 large pan with rolled-out pastry.

Filling: Cook in 2 cups boiling water 1 pound pork cuttings or 1 lb. shoulder pork which is lean. Add 1 small onion sliced and 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper and ¼ bay leaf. Simmer for 1 hour. Lift out meat and onion and put through food chopper. Discard bay leaf. Save 1 cup of meat liquid. Make remainder up to 1 cup. Make a paste of 1 tablespoon cornstarch and ¼ cup cold water. Stir this into 1 cup meat liquid over heat until thick. Add ground meat to thickened gravy. Taste. Add salt and pepper if needed. Put this filling into the lined pie pans. Cover with top crust which is washed only once with large gash at centre. Bake 35 to 40 minutes at 425 deg. Fahr.—reducing heat towards end of baking time if pies are browning too much. If to be served cold, brush with beaten egg yolk 5 minutes before baking time is up. To the remaining 1 cup of cold meat liquid add 1½ teaspoons unfavored gelatine, and soak for 5 minutes, then stir this over hot water to dissolve gelatine. If pies are to be served cold funnel this gelatine broth through the gash in top of each pie and chill. It may require a little extra salt. If the pies are large they slice beautifully in the traditional English fashion when chilled.

There was another good English Pork Pie recipe in my column of February 29.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"For heaven's sake—stop following me!"

World Prayer Service Bancroft Hall

BANCROFT, March 4 (ENS)—Women from all the churches met in the Gospel Hall Friday afternoon to observe the World Day of Prayer. A prepared order of service was followed with Mrs. H. Mitchell in charge.

Intercession was led by Mrs. John Wiggins, when section prayers were offered by members of all the congregations represented. Mrs. R. Blatherwick, assisted by Mrs. S. Walker, led the dedication period. The offering was taken by Mrs. C. Marston and Mrs. R. Wiggins.

The address was given by Miss Miriam Martin of Toronto who chose for her text from John 3: "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God." Miss Vivian Walker was soloist with Mrs. Max Reynolds presiding at the piano. The benediction was pronounced by Mrs. Mitchell.

Obituary

MRS. THOMAS MITCHELL

Mrs. Thomas Mitchell, the former Marguerite Elizabeth Reid, 41, Toronto and formerly of Campbellford died suddenly in Peterborough Monday.

Mrs. Mitchell had come to Peterborough to attend the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. George Nelson Reid and it was at the Nisbett funeral home that she collapsed and on... Coroner Dr. Herbert Young said today that no inquest would be held.

Born in Campbellford, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Reid, Campbellford, Mrs. Mitchell has lived in Toronto for the past 12 years. She was a member of the United Church of Canada.

She leaves her husband, Thomas Mitchell, her parents, two sons Ronald and Paul, one sister, Mrs. Leonard Anderson, Toronto, and two brothers, Warren Reid, Campbellford, and Norman Reid, Cobourg.

The funeral will be held from the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Reid, Campbellford, Thursday at 2 p.m. Burial will be in Mount Pleasant cemetery, Campbellford.

ABC Warfare Lectures To Start For Grad. Nurses

Developments in atomic, biological and chemical warfare have created a need to prepare all local nurse power to cope with disaster of mass proportion or of lesser magnitude.

The first in a course of lectures on nursing aspects of ABC Warfare will begin this Wednesday evening, in the Red Cross rooms, Brock and George Sts., at eight o'clock.

The course consists of six two-hour lectures and will continue each Wednesday night for six weeks. Similar courses are being given across Canada as part of the Federal Government Civil Defence Health Program. All graduate nurses, whether actively engaged or not, are urged to make every possible effort to attend. There is no fee.

Nursing is considered an important aspect of health planning for civil defence. The business of getting ready for an attack by atomic or some kind of bomb does not mean the place lived in is likely to be bombed. It simply means 'playing safe'—the sort of thing that is done when buying insurance, putting lightning rods on the house or pouring anti-freeze in the car radiator.

Lectures Given

Lectures in Peterborough will be given by Dr. Harold Worton of the staff of public health; Dr. G. R. Scott, in charge of medical service under the civil defence plan; Dr. R. K. Magee of the Peterborough Clinic; Dr Douglas Kelly of the Medical Centre; Mr. H. H. Graham of the P.C.V.S. staff; Miss Harriet McGeary, supervisor of V.O.N., Miss Mary Nesbitt of Civic Hospital staff and Miss Dorothy Walker, public health department nurse.

The three nurses named are those chosen as the "key people" from this district by the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario and have taken the course of lectures on nursing aspects of ABC Warfare given by the Federal team of doctors and nurses under the Civil Defence Health Planning Committee for the Dominion of Canada.

Westwood Observes World Day Of Prayer

WESTWOOD, March 4 (ENS). — World Day of Prayer service was held in St. Andrew's United Church on Friday afternoon. Twenty-seven ladies from the three local churches met for an hour of prayer and meditation.

The leader for the service was Mrs. Eric Pulfer, and Mrs. W. Graham presided at the organ.

Prayers of intercession were offered: for the nations of the world and all refugees and displaced persons by Mrs. F. E. Birdsall; for the Queen and all the royal family and leaders of Canada by Miss Jessie Davidson; for our homes and young people by Miss Bessie Shearer; for the Church Universal by Mrs. Clayton Brackenridge; and for all missionaries by Mrs. William Renwick.

A timely address on the theme "Christ, Our Hope" and "What Your Money Does" was given by Mrs. Mood, Sr., and was a message of hope and inspiration, and the assurance that more things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of.

Misses Margaret Humphries and Frances Pacey sang a duet, "I Take Jesus."

Warsaw Women Mark World Day Of Prayer

WARSAW, March 4 (ENS). — The Women's Association of the United Church held their February meeting on Thursday afternoon with 19 present. Mrs. George Weller, president, presided. Mrs. Harold Payne was program convener and took charge of the devotional period, the topic being Christian living in the home.

Flower convener Mrs. Parcells gave her report and Mrs. Sherwood Payne the treasurer's report. Receipts for the pancake social were over $40. It was decided to donate $300 to the church improvement fund.

Miss Anna Dewart and Mrs. Thomas Russell sang a duet followed by a reading by Mrs. Harold Payne. Lunch was served by Mrs. Harry Digweed, Mrs. Stan Payne and Mrs. Sherwood Payne.

The World's Day of Prayer was observed on Friday in the United Church with a good representation from Cottesloe, Bethel and the three Warsaw churches, Anglican, Presbyterian and United. Mrs. George Taylor was key woman for this year. Mrs. Dyson, Mrs. Earl Clements and Miss Helen Tedford were leaders for the day. Mrs. Dyson and her daughter Mrs. Bolt favored with a duet "Beautiful Garden of Prayer." Mr Dyson gave the address and took for his topic the theme "Christ Our Hope." Mrs. George Taylor sang a solo, "Hear My Prayer." The offering was taken up by Miss Clara McCracken and Mrs. J. Selkirk. The intercessional prayers were given by Mrs. Elmer Cooper, Mrs. Henry Clements, Mrs. Chester Hamilton and Mrs. Harold Payne.

Say Charter Violation

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 4 (AP).—Albania charged in a letter to the United Nations Monday that Britain violated the U.N. charter by permitting a meeting of anti-Communist Eastern Europeans in London during January.

Sprung Friend From Black Maria Jailed 15 Days

Charles Cromie, 26, 492 Elm Street, found out in police court today it does not pay to help a friend in trouble, if the friend happens to be in the "black maria" on his way to the police station.

Monday, Cromie pleaded guilty to wilfully obstructing two police officers and today he was sentenced to 15 days in jail.

Constable Ed Patterson explained that he and Constable Reg. McMillan picked up a man arrested by Constable Vic McConnel just after midnight Sunday morning, and placed him in the police station wagon.

As soon as he had been placed in the wagon, Constable Patterson said, he noticed a man on the sidewalk two doors up the street lying in a pool of blood.

While he was assisting the injured man, Constable Patterson said he saw Cromie open the rear door of the truck, and the prisoner escaped.

Cromie was arrested on the spot. The man he helped to escape was arrested for being A.W.O.L. and was picked up again later.

"The accused admitted knowing the prisoner," Constable Patterson said.

"A jail sentence would be a salutory lesson to the public," said Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw. "He could have been charged with a more serious offence—assisting in an escape."

After reminding Cromie that he was liable to a jail sentence of up to six months or a heavy fine, Magistrate W. R. Philp said, "the attitude that it was a light-hearted escapade should be overlooked. Fifteen days in jail."

Roseneath News

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Brown attended the funeral of Mrs. Fred Bickell, Peterborough, on Monday.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

By G. E. GROOMBRIDGE

With All Saints' Group

On Sunday evening the Cubs, Scouts, Rovers, Guides and Brownies attended a combined church service with a real turnout of all units supported by 29 members of the Mothers' Auxiliary. After the service a fireside meeting was held at which the mothers served refreshments.

Last Tuesday evening the Cub Pack held a parents' night at which demonstrations were given of the Cub work and a talk on Cubbing given by Akela Harry Wooden. Ralph Daniels was promoted to the rank of senior sixer.

On Tuesday, March 11, All holding an open meeting at which Mrs. Holt, president of Peterborough Cancer Society, will be guest speaker. All members of Scout Mothers' Auxiliaries in Peterborough are cordially invited to attend.

Wednesday, March 19, the ladies will be holding a rummage sale in the market hall to raise funds for Scout purposes.

The Troop: George Grandison was special guest at the last Troop meeting and gave the boys some real interesting ideas of Scouting in Jamaica where he was a Scouter. Mr. Grandison also took active part in the troop meeting at which Jerry Williams, Nicky Foster, Ken Latchford and his brother Keith passed the use of the Scout axe and knife. A.S.M. Fred Jay took charge of inspection and games, at camp fire it was announced that the Crow patrol earned the most points for the evening.

Trinity Troop

Test work is the theme of the present meetings with plenty of good instruction and some real fun games. This week Bill Hendry, Jim Elliott, John Phillips and brother Alvin Phillips passed their estimations and Murray Mann, Jim Matthews, Gary Rishor and Bobby Richie completed second class first aid, axemanship and trees.

Scouters' Club

All officers are reminded of the business and social evening of the Scouters' Club being held in St. Luke's Sunday school at 8.30 Wednesday evening, March 19th. Bring your ladies along to join the fun.

Eastern Ontario Conference

Have you set your plans to attend this conference yet? Remember, it is open to all Scout and Cub officers, group committees and ladies' auxiliaries, local association members and the commissioner's staff. Get your list in to the district commissioner and let Peterborough be really represented at the eastern conference on the 22nd of this month.

St. Alban's Troop

Points were given out for those who had correctly sewn the mourning bands on their uniforms since last meeting. Also a real keen competition is running on a knotting contest with a challenge under consideration to all the troops in the district. Due to increasing numbers a new patrol has been formed with Roy Wood the unanimous choice of the court of honor to act as patrol leader, over George Duncan. Paul Collins, Brian Reid, Leo Hynes and Wayne Weaver. The Eagle Patrol came through to win the honor pennant for the last two weeks and the monthly competition. Guide leader Captain Dorothy Wood was guest for the evening.

Check your troop log with this one. The 2nd Alberni, B.C. troop has logged a total of 870 miles of travelling on camping and hiking expeditions during the past year. This troop is made up of great hikers and keen outdoors Scouts all year round.

Visual Aids

A catalogue produced by the public relations department, Canadian headquarters, is now available for a small fee. Consult your "Scout leader" this month.

Roseneath Woman 86 Years Old

ROSENEATH, March 4 (ENS) —Four generations were present at a quiet family gathering on Sunday, at the home of Mrs. E. J. Milne, Roseneath, the occasion being Mrs. Milne's 86th birthday. The four generations were Mrs. Milne, her daughter Mrs. Keith Halstead, Bewdley; her granddaughter Mrs. William Rowden, Port Hope; two great-grandchildren, Teddy and Janice Rowden, Port Hope.

Mrs. Milne has the extra distinction of being the oldest lady in Roseneath village, a life member and charter member of Roseneath Women's Institute and a member of the W.M.S. of the United Church.

Mrs. Milne was born in Alnwick township in 1866, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm Nichol and her entire life has been spent in this community.

A buffet luncheon was served by her two daughters Mrs. Delbert Adams, Fenella and Mrs. Keith Halstead, Bewdley, at six o'clock to the guests present.

Included among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Leach, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Heber Adams, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Leach, Fenella; Mr. and Mrs. Keith Halstead, Bewdley; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brandwood, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rowden and children, Teddy and Janice, Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Nichol and Mr. Robert A. Nichol, Roseneath.

Hope To Force Vote On Seaway Plan

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) —Chairman Tom Connally (Dem. Tex.) of the United States Senate Foreign Relations Committee said today he is "in no hurry" to have the committee act on legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence seaway.

The committee last Friday completed a week-long hearing on the proposal to join with Canada in building the seaway and power project. The seaway would open the Great Lakes to ocean shipping.

Committee members backing the proposal say they will force a committee vote if Connally fails to call it for action.

Connally, who opposes the seaway, told a reporter, "I am in no hurry" to get a committee decision, and added:

"But I will not obstruct it. The hearings will have to be printed first. After that, if they want the committee to act they can do it. Personally, I am against it."

Committee aides said printing of the hearing record would require up to two weeks.

Want Action Soon

Senator Charles Tobey (Rep. N.H.) a committee member backing the project, told a reporter, "I hope to get committee action within two weeks."

Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep. Wis.) said, "I think we will get it approved, but it will be very close."

Wiley said an attempt will be made to modify an amendment which would create a corporation to raise money for the seaway through sale of bonds. In this way, the U.S. Government would not have to put up the funds.

The amendment, by Senator George Aiken (Rep. Vt.), would provide that the government guarantee payment of interest on the bonds. Wiley said it may be modified in committee to provide that interest payments be guaranteed only while the seaway is being constructed.

Lodge Reaches 35-Year Mark

MILLBROOK, March 4 (ENS). —The local Rebekah Lodge held a euchre and birthday party to celebrate its 35th anniversary Friday evening. There were about 90 people present. Mrs. Zella Bentley, who organized the lodge 35 years ago, cut the large three-storey birthday cake which had been made by Mrs. Lillian Dawson. Past noble grands of the lodge were called upon to light the candles on the cake. Mrs. Mabel Payne, district deputy president of the Peterobrough district, lighted the first candle. Other past noble-grands lighting candles were: Mrs. Zella Bentley, Mrs. Mabel Fallis, Mrs. Irene Fallis, Mrs. Maude Armstrong, Mrs. Ella Tate, Mrs. Florence Ball, Mrs. Lillian Dawson, Mrs. Leona Fallis. Those unable to be present were: Mrs. Bertha Hamilton, Mrs. Caroline Harkness, Mrs. May Garside, Mrs. Isobelle Thorndyke, and Mrs. Margaret Bigelow.

There were eight people present for the 35th anniversary who had attended the meeting at which the lodge was organized. They were: Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Bentley, Mr. Lavergne Fallis, Mrs. Henry Fallis, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Armstrong and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fallis.

W. A. Braithwaite, of Ida, one of the three charter members still alive of the local Oddfellows lodge, which was instituted in 1894, was also present.

There were 19 tables of euchre. Winners were Mrs. Dawson Rutherford, William Roberts, Miss Mary Widdis, Fred Challice.

Mrs. Lillian Dawson, who was in charge of the birthday celebration, announced the program which followed the euchre. Misses Yvonne Richards and Anne Dawson sang "Bendermeer Stream," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Lawrence Winslow; Mrs. Winslow sang a solo with her husband as accompanist, "Dear Hearts and Gentle People," and Mrs. Bruce Ingham gave two readings, "My Sister's Wedding" and "The Promised Doll."

Hold Joint Service

BETHANY, March 4 (ENS) — The World's Day of Prayer, with the theme "Christ, Our Hope" was observed in Bethany as a joint service of United and Anglican congregations and held in St. Paul's Church, with a joint choir leading the song service. The Rev. T. S. Gault (St. Paul's) led the devotions. The Rev. James Hampson (United) gave the address. Intercessory prayers were led by Mrs. T. S. Gault, Mrs H. Rayson, Mrs. Mervin Smith, Mrs. G. Waddell and Mrs. T. J. Jackson. The offering was received by Mrs. R. W. Price and Mrs. M. Smith.

N.H.L. Bad Men Good Guys Says Stick Boy

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—Hockey's bad men are some of the nicest people. If you don't think so, ask a stick boy. Like baseball's bat boys, they have their own ideas, and they seldom jibe with the attitude of the average fan.

Alex Marchfeld of New York Rangers handles the sticks for the visiting players. One of his favorites is Toronto's Gus Mortson, a frequent carpet trodder in the National Hockey League offices of President Clarence Campbell.

"Maybe Mortson wouldn't think twice about wrapping the business end of his stick around his grandmother," says Marchfeld, "but off the ice he's a gentleman.

"When most players want water, they just say: 'water, boy! But Mortson, he's different. The other night on the bench I'm sitting next to him and he says: 'Alex, will you please get me a cup of water! I start to go for it, and he says: 'Not now, Alex, when you get up. Not now'!

"Earlier that day Mortson was up for a hearing in Campbell's office. He was supposed to have kicked the Rangers' Hy Buller. But when he was sitting next to me, he says: 'I didn't kick Buller. All I do is raise my foot, and everybody says I kicked him.

"Just then, Buller breaks up a two-man rush by himself, and Mortson nudges me: 'Another year and Buller will be one of the best defencemen in this league. He's great'."

Lindsay Nice Too

Marchfeld says Ted Lindsay, Detroit's pugnacious forward, is another nice guy off the ice.

"Remember when Ted's stick slashed the face of Edgar Laprade," Alex says. "The crowd thought it was a deliberate slash, but on the bench Lindsay says to me: 'Of all the guys to get in the way of my stick. He's the last guy I'd want to hurt'."

Marchfeld regrets that Bill Ezinicki is no longer in the league.

"Another sweetheart," he says. "Really high class. I know he threw his weight around pretty good on the ice, but on the bench he was a gentleman. In fact, a gentleman golfer.

"Maybe that was the trouble. They tell me he would play 36 holes of golf the day of a game, when everybody else was conserving their energy. Maybe his coaches didn't like that, but to me he was a nice guy."

NEWFOUNDLAND CURLERS — The Newfoundland champion curlers from Corner Brook was drawn against Alberta and Northern Ontario and lost to both in the opening day's draws at the Canadian Curling championships at Winnipeg, Monday. Curlers, left to right, are: J. W. "Tommy" Toomelin, skip; Norman Hood, third; A. C. "Bud" Fisher, second, and A. W. "Aussie" Boyd, lead.

Sacred Heart Wins

Sacred Heart Juniors whitewashed the Immaculate Conception Seniors 6-0. Pressing from the start, the Sacred Heart power finally showed dividends when Longo and Flynn scored in the first. Crough from Longo, and Longo from Crough and DeNoble put Sacred Heart ahead 4-0. DeNoble from Crough and Longo and finally Johnston from Daley added the finishing touches.

BREAK THE LAXATIVE HABIT THIS PROVEN WAY

If you take laxatives regularly, here is how you can stop! This proven plan helps you establish your natural powers of regularity, controlled tests prove.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead, every night for one week take two Carter's Little Liver Pills. Second week—one each night. Third week—one every other night. Then nothing! Every day drink eight glasses of water; set a definite time for regularity. This plan was proven in scientifically controlled tests.

How can a laxative break the laxative habit? Because Carter's unblock the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers. Further, Carter's contain no habit forming drugs. Break the laxative habit with Carter's . . . be regular naturally.

When sorry, overwork, overeating make you irregular temporarily—take Carter's temporarily. Never get the laxative habit.

Get mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills at any drug store. Only 86c. You'll be grateful the rest of your life.

Here and There In Sport

Ottawa got Regina's goat Sunday.

"Ruffie," former mascot of the Saskatchewan Roughriders' football team, was shot after Ottawa decided it could be a carrier of foot-and-mouth disease.

The goat, a gift to the team's booster club in 1949, had been in semi-retirement since 1950. But in its heyday, the mascot was a popular figure at Regina football games and even took a road trip to Calgary for a short visit with the Stampeders' mascot, a Shetland pony.

Ruffie, first goat in Saskatchewan to fall before police bullets in the current campaign against the disease, was housed in Regina with some bulls, property of the Federal government. When the bulls contracted the disease and had to be shot, the white goat had to go to the death pit with them.

Some 355 athletes from 39 Canadian and U. F. track clubs and universities will compete in Hamilton Saturday in the annual indoor track meet sponsored by the 91st Highlanders.

Eliminations will begin Saturday afternoon with 44 heats scheduled in the first section of the program. The finals, 38 in all, will be run off in the evening.

Hill Prince, the 1951 handicap champion, has run his last race. Christopher T. Chenery, owner of the Virginia-bred five-year-old, said Hill Prince developed a filling in a foreleg after last Saturday's $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, in which he finished fifth and will be shipped to stud at the Claiborne Farm at Lexington, Ky.

The University of Western Ontario kept alive their hopes for the intercollegiate intermediate hockey title Monday by coming from behind twice to beat the University of Toronto Jay Vees 4-3 at Varsity Arena in Toronto. If the Colts beat Ontario Agricultural College of Guelph, Wednesday, they will force a play-off for the title.

Hialeah Race Course at Miami, Fla., ended the most profitable season in Florida turf history on Monday with both attendance and betting figures setting records: a total attendance for the 40-day meeting of 771,708, more than 3,000 above the previous record set in 1946, and a whopping $60,637,049—pari-mutuel take—first $60,000,000 race meeting in Florida history.

Jack Latter, president of Quebec Aces, said Monday in Quebec that a Montreal report that his club was planning to offer Jean Beliveau its star centre, a three-year contract at $15,000 a year "is so ridiculous I won't answer it."

Mark Day of Prayer

HASTINGS, March 4 (ENS) — The World Day of Prayer was held in Trinity United Church. Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe opened the service with prayer. Members of the three Protestant churches took part. Mrs. J. A. Patstone gave the address, of the afternoon, speaking on Prayer. The choir was composed of women from the different churches.

Norwood Ousts Hastings To Gain Finals

NORWOOD, Mar. 4 (ENS)—Turning back Hastings 10-7 before more than 1,000 fans here last night, Norwood erased their opponents to move into T.V.L. division finals against Havelock. That series will likely start Wednesday.

Though the players stuck to hockey in a fine, open tussle, a number of fans tangled in the stands. Taylor received a nasty cut near the eye in the first frame from a stick but returned to play later. Payne also got a bad cut on the mouth, breaking one tooth and requiring stitches in the upper and lower lips. He is being X-rayed today for a possible broken jaw. It happened when he was cut by a skate in a scramble. Norwood won the game in the second period, but Hastings fought back hard before bowing in the third. It was a replay of a protested tilt. Teams:

Hastings: Goal, Hill; defence, Parsons, Taylor; centre, Blake; wings, Herrington, White; alternates, Morrow, Stevenson, Oliver, Huard, Jeffs, Colby, Peterson, Isaac.

Norwood: Goal, Jones; defence, Magee, Creighton; centre, Tompkins; wings, Thorpe, Brydges; alternates, Whitnall, Ferguson, Robinson, Payne, Griffin, Thompson, Rogers, Kelly.

Referees, Wakelin and McIntosh of Lindsay.

Summary:

First Period

Norwood—Rogers (Payne)	4:56
Norwood—Griffin	10:50
Norwood—Thorpe (Tompkins)	15:01
Hastings—Huard (Jeffs)	15.26

Balfour, Nesterenko Practice With Leafs

TORONTO, March 4 — (CP) — Conn Smythe, managing-director of Toronto Maple Leafs, announced Monday that Earl Balfour and Eric Nesterenko of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Toronto Marlboros would practice with the Leafs today.

Smythe also hinted that Balfour and Nesterenko, both forwards on the first-place O.H.A. Junior A club, might play for Leafs in their Wednesday game against Montreal Canadiens.

Under N.H.L. lend-lease rules, both players are allowed to play three games with the parent Leafs and still retain their amateur status.

Warsaw Erases The Saints In Semi-Finals

WARSAW, Mar. 4 (ENS) — Warsaw Flyers beat St. Peter's 7-3 here last night to erase the Saints in E.P.H.L. semi-finals. They now meet Lakefield, who ousted Keene 10-6. League finals open at Warsaw tomorrow (Wednesday) evening.

Clements counted two and Evans one in the first for Flyers, Watts and E. Payne each having an assist. Vyse got the St. Peter's goal from Heffernan. The Saints drew five penalties to one in this inning. Each side scored twice next heat, Vyse getting both goals for St. Peter's, aided once by Killen, while S. Lonsberry and Petersen scored for the homesters, L. Lonsberry helping once. There were no penalties. Paterson and L. Lonsberry finished the scoring in the third, Evans and B. Batten getting an assist each. Saints drew two penalties to one, Richardson and Sharp being tossed out for the balance of the game for mixing it. Teams:

St. Peter's: Hickson, Conway, Crough, Heffernan, Keller, Vyse, Berry, Farley, Richardson, Collins Bacon, O'Connell, Morrissey.

Warsaw: B. Payne, Eadie, Sharp Paterson, L. Lonsberry, Evans, S. Lonsberry, E. Payne, Clements, Watts, Crowe, M. Batten, B. Batten, McMillan.

Protests Title For New Queen

ALVA, Scotland, March 4 (CP). —Robert Curran, a Scotsman who grew up in Timmins, and later became provost of this Clackmannanshire town, is a leading figure in the movement of protest against designating the present Queen as Elizabeth II.

The title of Queen Elizabeth II cannot be properly used in Scotland and is entirely incorrect," says Curran, who as provost is the Scots equivalent of mayor of Alva.

"The Queen's right to the throne of the United Kingdom is by reason of her hereditary claim to the throne of Robert the Bruce. Elizabeth Tudor (the first Elizabeth) was Queen of England alone and was indeed responsible for the execution of (Mary) Queen of Scots."

Curran says his chief concern is that the crown should form a link between Commonwealth countries. This would be prejudiced as long as English advisers insisted on an "English Queen" instead of a Queen of the United Kingdom.

Curran was taken to Canada by his parents at the age of two and was educated at Mattagami School, Timmins. "My boyhood memories of Canada are of the pleasantest," he said. "I think there is scope for much greater direct association between Canada and Scotland, both in trade and agricultural matters."

Rain Dance Brings Unexpected Results

AN ALLIED AIRFIELD, Korea, March 4 (AP).—A group of South African pilots attached to United States Marine Air Group 12 wanted a day off recently.

They staged a rain dance, and it snowed for four days.

Col. Luther S. Moore, U.S. commanding officer, cracked down immediately with this notice:

"1. Snow will not fall on this airfield.

"2. All incoming snow-bearing clouds and formations will be diverted to C.C.A.F. (Chinese Communist Air Forces) airdromes.

"3. Requests for blizzards will not be approved by this headquarters.

"4. No rain or snow dances will be allowed until further notice."

Have $45,000 Fire In Garage Building

HAWKESBURY, March 4 (CP) Fire Monday night caused an estimated $45,000 damage to a garage building on Main Street here. No one was injured.

Firemen successfully kept flames away from a loaded oil truck parked in the garage and brought them under control three hours after the blaze began. The garage stock room was gutted and two automobiles severely damaged. Most of the roof was burned away.

Expect 6 Applications

PORT ARTHUR, March 4 (CP) — Alderman W. Earl Riddell, chairman of city council's industrial committee, said Monday that probably a half dozen companies will apply for the contract to lay a pipeline to carry natural gas from Alberta to Southern Ontario. He said the applications will be made to the Board of Transport Commissioners next month.

Will Ask Inquiry

TORONTO, March 4—(CP)—A Royal Commission inquiry into administration of the Canadian National Exhibition is to be proposed, Alderman Howard Phillips Monday gave city council notice of his intention to move that the council ask the Ontario government to appoint such a commission.

Conversion To 60 Cycles Outlined To Rotary Club

The story of frequency conversion in the Hydro-Electric system of Southern Ontario was told by Gordon McHenry of Toronto at the Rotary luncheon meeting Monday.

Mr. McHenry is the area planning engineer for the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario in its present project of converting southern Ontario from a 25 cycle to a 60 cycle frequency system.

The speaker explained the commission's aim at present is to make 25 cycle frequency in the province as obsolete as horses have become.

Before outlining what has been accomplished and what is planned in this conversion project, Mr. McHenry gave definitions which simplified his subject. He explained cycle as a term descriptive of electrical energy. Power is delivered in pulses or waves which are called cycles. The number of cycles per minute is the frequency. In a 25 cycle frequency there are 25 cycles per second and in 60 cycle frequency system 60 cycles per second.

The area of southern Ontario which until the present time has operated with a 25 cycle frequency system extends from Aurora to Goderich.

25 Recommended

When the Niagara power supply was first developed in the 1890's a British electrical engineer recommended that the system have a 25 cycle frequency. At this time much of the United States had a 25 cycle frequency. Ontario did not need all the power that was developed on the Canadian side of the Niagara river and as a result the excess power was exported to the United States.

It was not until recent years that the superior benefits of a 60 cycle frequency system were realized. As a result there has been a gradual conversion to this frequency system throughout North America.

In 1948 and 1949, legislation was passed in Ontario that authorized the conversion in this province and the project was begun in 1949.

The 180,000 customers that were to be changed were divided into two groups — domestic, rural and commercial customers in one group and power and industrial customers in the other.

Conversion Procedure

Mr. McHenry outlined the procedure followed for each customer in this frequency conversion project. The customer's power needs are investigated and extensive planning is done so that the actual conversion will take the minimum of time and cause the minimum of inconvenience.

He explained that the greatest difficulties were met in large industries where only one product was manufactured. As a result, if one department was shut off in the conversion work, the remainder had to be shut off as well.

In the case of domestic customers, houses are done in groups which are divided to again accomplish the conversion in the minimum of time.

"The economic justification of this project is not too easily found," Mr. McHenry said. "It will result in a great saving to industry due to the lower cost of 60 cycle equipment. However, the biggest saving will be the lower cost to the commission itself, which will eventually affect the public.

"This project should be considered in future and lasting benefits than in present economic savings," he concluded.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Russ Morgan and thanked by Bob Maybee.

40,000 New Canadians Learn To Speak Language

OTTAWA, March 4 (CP).— In six months after his arrival in Ottawa, a shy young man forced out of a Czechoslovakian university because he did not want to be a Communist, points to his desk and says slowly, deliberately:

"I sit at my desk."

Then he points to the front of the room, to the teacher, and just as slowly and carefully continues:

"The teacher sits on a chair."

Through these simple sentences he is learning the language of his new country. He is one of 40,000 new Canadians taking such courses.

These are the latter segments of a flow of some 630,000 immigrants absorbed by Canada since the end of the Second World War. Many had no knowledge of French or English.

"We native-born Canadians," said Immigration Minister Harris in a statement on Canadian Education Week, March 2-8, "take for granted the ability to speak either or both of the two official languages of Canada. . .

Don't Appreciate Barriers

"We perhaps fail sometimes to appreciate the barriers which can be created for an immigrant because of language difficulties."

That's why the immigration and citizenship department emphasizes the need for new arrivals to get acquainted with the English or French language as quickly as possible.

Provincial and municipal education authorities are co-operating by organizing night classes for newcomers, with the federal government supplying text books free.

"At the moment," said Mr. Harris, "the estimate is that there are about 40,00 adults attending these classes across Canada."

As the newcomers progress, they learn something about the country; its history, its resources its industry and its governments.

A number of immigrant children are attending regular day schools.

Brilliant Students

Said Mr. Harris:

"For instance, at a rural school near Ottawa, there is a Dutch boy who headed his class within

Beef Show Changes

TORONTO, March 4 (CP)—W. P. Watson, secretary of the Ontario Beef Cattle Improvement Association and Provincial Livestock Commissioner, Monday announced program changes for the beef bull show and sale, March 11-12. Judging of Herefords and Aberdeen Angus will take place on Tuesday, March 11, with sales in the afternoon. Shorthorns will be judged in the morning of March 12 and sold in the afternoon.

Expect Shipping To Top 1951 Record

By The Canadian Press

The Maritimes' shipping business in 1952 is expected to top the peacetime record established last year.

Shipping officials at Halifax, Saint John, N.B., and St. John's, Nfld., said in a Canadian Press survey that increased grain shipments, improved port facilities and the trend by shipping companies to use Maritime ports would make the difference.

National Harbors Board officials at Halifax report that 8,000,000 bushels of grain, a post-war record, is expected to move through the port this year, compared to 5,955,132 bushels in 1951.

Port Manager G. W. Hendry said the shipments are slowed by the newly-inaugurated grading system. Freighters are often kept waiting at piers for small quantities of certain grades of grain.

He said Halifax will handle more traffic when a new pier is completed next month.

Up Five Per Cent

Port traffic increased nearly five per cent. in 1951.

At Saint John, ships were forced to anchor in mid-stream to await their turn for a berth. The Board of Trade has urged expansion of port facilities.

Import and export traffic was up 14 per cent. over 1950. For the month of January this year, traffic was up 11 per cent. over the same period in 1951.

National Harbors Board officials said they expect a record movement of grain this spring.

At St. John's, shipping businesses hit a peacetime peak. Although no official figures have been released, waterfront employment showed a marked increase over previous years. Coastal traffic and paper exports also showed marked increases.

Shipping officials termed the valuable far east trade "excellent". A major boost was made by Isthmian line's decision to switch to Halifax as a year-round port for import and export traffic. Isthmian, which operates one of the world's largest merchant fleets, formerly used Montreal during the summer season.

Modified Quarantine On Alta. Stockyards

CALGARY, March 4 (CP). — A modified quarantine on all stockyards in Alberta goes into effect this morning, Dr. H. C. Storey of Calgary announced Monday.

Dr. Storey, Alberta chief of the federal health of animals branch, said that under the order, classes of butcher cattle can be shipped into the yards and then shipped to packing plants. Animals not destined for slaughter will not be accepted at the yards.

The announcement of the quarantine was made last Saturday, but has not been in effect since then, Dr. Storey said. He said the order did not "freeze" cattle on farms, and to his knowledge, did not apply to the movement of cattle from one farm to another except when that movement was through a stockyard.

STOPPED BY STORM—A Boston motorist tries to get his car started with the aid of some old-fashioned manpower after six inches of snow fell on the city during one of New England's worst storms of the Winter. Boston, on the fringe of the blizzard, was not as bad off as other cities in the area which were hit by as much as 20 inches.

Communist Trojan Horse Is Mighty Fifth Column

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

VIENNA, March 4 (AP)—A danger signal is going up over western Europe today. It is warning against a Stalinist Trojan horse.

A mighty fifth column is being organized to serve Kremlin imperialism. It is a long-range program. Diagrammed, this Trojan horse would have its belly in central Europe, and its feet reaching out in many directions—to Europe, to Italy, to western Germany, to Greece, the Middle East.

Non-Communists say the fifth column has reached proportions of alarm and still is building. The Russians have a chain of command running from the Kremlin through the Cominform and into a tight organization with headquarters in Vienna.

The over-all brain of the Cominform (Communist information organization, essentially a successor to the Comintern) is Georgi Malenkov, one of Stalin's deputies and possibly his heir.

Soon the world will be hearing a new slogan from the east: "Unity of Action". Coupled with this will be the cry: "National resistance." This already is being applied to the Middle East, but it is also to be applied to Italy and France and perhaps to western Germany. Its central theme will be "resistance" to the United States.

Use Former Fascists

The unity-of-action campaign is to be directed largely at labor in western Europe. The "national resistance" will play upon nationalist sentiments, using former Fascists, Nazis and any others who are opportunist enough or unwary enough to co-operate. The communists will remain in the background.

The burden of "unity of action" will be benefits for labor. The immediate aim will be to lure workers into unions controlled by the Communists. When domination is achieved the Communists will have a powerful weapon for inducing paralysis whenever they strike.

The Communist - dominated unions, meanwhile, will be used for other Soviet purposes: nagging pressure upon governments for an end to defence efforts, an end to the remilitarization of Western Germany, resumption of east-west trade on terms favorable to the Soviet Union.

At the same time the unions, co-ordinating with other Communist-supported organizations, will be an instrument for spreading unrest and for slowing down wherever possible the western defence effort.

In France and Italy the Communist-dominated unions are strong. In Western Germany and Austria, these unions are weak, but still are potentially dangerous if only for their weapon of harassment.

Say Persecution Growing In Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia, March 4 — (AP)—The Evangelical Confederation of Colombia listed Monday 23 cases of religious persecution of Protestants it said took place in Colombia in the last three months.

They included the beating of Protestant missionary Ralph Osborn Hines of Toronto, last Dec. 28, as he was en route to conduct a service 50 miles northeast of Bogota.

In another instance, the report said, a mounted policeman rode into a Protestant church during services, threatened the worshippers and beat the pastor with a whip.

Columbia's population of slightly more than 11,000,000 is predominantly Roman Catholic. Practice of religions other than Roman Catholicism is permitted as long as it is not against "Christian morals or the law." The Evangelical Confederation says it represents 17 Protestant denominations working in the country.

Nothing Done

The Confederation's report, covering the period from Dec. 1, was issued by Dr. Lui Alberto Quiroga, executive secretary and pastor of the first Presbyterian Church in Bogota. He said complaints of persecution have been filed with government officials "but nothing is ever done about it."

The report blamed Roman Catholic priests for inciting or leading the alleged persecution in most cases and took civil authorities to task for allegedly failing to protect Protestants or to investigate and punish those responsible for the persecution.

There was no immediate comment from Roman Catholic or government authorities.

In one instance, the report said, three girls, daughters of Protestant parents, were made to kneel during school recess periods for failing to attend Sunday mass.

Hub Cap Proves Clue Police Charge Driver

LINDSAY, March 4 (ENS). — Garnet MacLeish, William St., Lindsay, has been charged with failing to stop at the scene of an accident as a result of an investigation by Lindsay P.C. Gordon Eberts.

Mac Leish left a calling card when he struck a car owned by Gregory Hickey, St. Patrick St. A hub cap was found on the street in front of Hickey's house. Mr. Hickey heard the crash but by the time he got outside, the car had disappeared. Constable Eberts found the MacLeish car seven hours after the accident and the owner admitted being in the accident.

C.C.F. Officer Resigns

OSHAWA, March 4 — (CP) — Walter Lane Monday announced his resignation as president of the Ontario riding C.C.F. Association, a position he has held for the last three years, for personal reasons and "a number of smaller issues." The Ontario riding seat in the Federal House has been vacant since the resignation last year of Walter Thomson who became Ontario leader of the Liberal Party.

Arrest Miss Michigan

NEW YORK, March 4—(AP)—Peggy Elsworth, 24, "Miss Michigan" of 1947, was arrested Monday, accused of cashing stolen government cheques two years ago to get narcotics. The raven-haired beauty was an admitted dope addict. But she told a Michigan legislative committee last summer that she had cured herself.

ANYTHING GOES—Koreans, confused and displaced by war, don't care much what clothes look like as long as they are warm. The streets of Seoul are full of children as ragged as these. The grown-ups in the background aren't dressed much better. Cast-off and scrounged army clothing is at a premium.

Army Clothing Worn In Korea By Soldiers, Civilians Alike

By BILL BOSS, Canadian Press Staff Writer

SEOUL, Korea, March 4. (CP)—Editor Oh Chong Sik of the Seoul City Press pulled his army jacket tighter in his bitterly-cold office. "We don't spend much money on clothing in Seoul," he said. Of four men in uniform huddled around a charcoal brazier in the office, only two were authorized to wear army clothing.

But the editor and most of the city's population gambles against the chance United Nations military police will strip them of their army gear.

U.N., Republic of Korea and civilian officials agree that clothing is the main relief need in Seoul now. The U.N. civilian assistance command is bringing it in—but it still is coming.

Most Koreans are considered to be adequately protected against the winter cold. But a tenth of ordinary civilians and a fifth of refugees still must stay indoors on colder days. Since the population of South Korea is approximately 23,500,000 nowadays, that means more than 2,000,000 persons should have more on their backs.

Said one C.A.C. team commander:

"We're still on the relief program of donated old clothes. There still isn't enough of the right type coming in, but we're doing better than we did a year ago.

Import Cotton Padding

"I don't think anybody is going to freeze this year, but we could do with a lot more. C.A.C. has imported a lot of cotton padding. It has been issued free and the people sew it into their clothes. They're also making bedding with the padding and cotton cloth."

A welfare officer in the same province said relief bundles from North America show "more awareness of the needs of Koreans and of the things suitable to them." But he said raw materials should be sent instead of cast-off clothing.

"Korean prefer to get the raw cotton cloth, the padding, lots of thread and a needle and make their own clothing—and their own bedding, the Korean-type comforter."

Production of the Korean textile industry is channelled into uniforms for the R.O.K. army. Most of the population depends on C.A.C. handouts.

But editor Oh and most of his staff wear uniforms.

"Most men in Seoul have uniforms now," he said.

"In Seoul we don't have to spend much money on clothing because most of us work for U.N. or are related to Koreans who do. So we get uniforms directly or our relatives get them for us.

"Sometimes we buy on the black market. United States army equipment, for instance, sells on the black market at half the price of Korean clothing."

Quilting Club Holds Euchre Party In Cavan

CAVAN, March 4 (ENS). — The Pot Luck Quilting Club of the seventh and eighth lines Cavan held a euchre in Whitfeild's school Thursday evening and nine tables of euchre were played.

The ladies' first prize went to Donald Long, taking the place of a lady, and the gentlemen's prize went to John Gibson. Mrs. Ira Gilis and Mr. James Nelson won the consolation prizes. The lucky chair prize was won by Mrs. C. W. Emery. The ladies of the group served lunch.

Won't Cause Upset

TORONTO, March 4 (CP)—The Federal Government's ban on all imports of meat and livestock is not expected to cause any harm in Ontario, livestock men said Monday night. Beef production at present is fairly heavy and until a few weeks ago, Ontario had not imported any American beef for 25 years.

Losing Revenue

TORONTO, March 4 — (CP) — Alderman Howard Phillips Monday charged that Toronto is losing thousands of dollars in revenue by failing to collect a fair rental on vacant property leased to private firms or individuals for commercial parking lots. He said in some cases the rent doesn't cover taxes which would be collected if the lots were privately owned.

Camborne W.C.T.U. Guests At Plainville

PLAINVILLE, March 4 (ENS)—A social evening sponsored by the Plainville W.C.T.U. was spent recently in the basement of the church. About 100 ladies and gentlemen attended. The W.C.T.U. from Camborne had been invited, and a number of ladies and some of their husbands were present. A few friends also came from Gores Landing and Harwood.

Two Camborne ladies, Mrs. Allan Bowman and Mrs. Melville Linton, sang solos during the program. The Rev. A. Y. Robertson was the speaker, drawing from interesting experiences in his life, in France during the First World War, in Saskatchewan and eastern Ontario. Miss Myrna Larke and Murray Manley sang a solo.

While the Plainville ladies prepared lunch, the Rev. P. Brown conducted a well-planned quiz on temperance subjects with the audience arranged in couples.

Mrs. Eldred Lean of Camborne, voiced the appreciation of the guests for the hospitality shown by Plainville. Her remarks were responded to by the Plainville W.C.T.U. president, Mrs. Frank Westington.

U.K. Family Plans Sailing Trip To B.C.

LONDON, March 4 — (CP) — Next May a family of three, with two cats as mascots, will leave for Vancouver in a seven-ton sloop.

Julius Bournagel, 51, of Norwich, sold his home and furniture to buy the sloop, now being fitted out for the 6,000-mile voyage across the Atlantic and through the Panama Canal.

Going with him are his wife, Clementine, cook and "cabin boy", and his 32-year-old son, Julius Jr.

The elder Bournazel once worked as a section hand on a Canadian railroad, got a yen for life in Canada and decided Vancouver would be an ideal place to settle.

Ontario Must Pay More Money On Immigrant Care

TORONTO, March 5. (CP)—Health Minister Phillips told the Ontario legislature Tuesday that the province and municipalities will have to pay "enormous sums of money" for medical care of European immigrants unless the federal government changes its immigration policy. The federal government has been "lax" in its immigration policy, Dr. Phillips said during the Throne Speech debate. Ontario has paid more than $200,000 since the first of 1948 for medical treatment of European immigrants, he said.

The Throne Speech debate also saw a motion of non-confidence in the government made by W. J. Grummett (CCF - Cochrane South). The motion charged the government "failed" to supplement old-age pensions for needy persons between 65 and 69 and to provide relief for unemployed who are able to work.

The motion, coming from the two-member C.C.F. group, faces sure defeat by the government forces which hold 79 of the 90 seats. It will come to a vote at the end of the throne speech debate.

Dr. Phillips said the federal government's responsibility for medical expenses of immigrants ends one year after their arrival. After that, the province was responsible for tuberculosis and mental illness expenses of immi- [illegible] to pay for these illness.

More Prevalent

Tuberculosis is 2½ times more prevalent among European immigrants than among native-born Canadians, the minister said. The disease was usually contracted about a year after their arrival.

The problem was a "very serious situation which in the future is going to cost our municipalities and our provincial government enormous sums of money unless the federal government changes its present immigration policy."

Dr. Phillips also said that early treatment of mental illness promises to keep 36 per cent of mental patients from becoming chronic cases.

The government's plan of aid to general hospitals for the building of early-treatment mental health clinics was "the most progressive step that has been taken in the mental health field in any country in the world."

Mr. Grummett said provincial old-age assistance was "totally inadequate" and the amount was often less than the recipients could receive from local relief agencies.

He also urged the province to reach agreement with the federal government on a division of responsibility for unemployment relief.

Allies Ask News Of 173 POW's, List 4 Canadians

PANMUNJON, Korea, March 5 —(CP)— The United States command today handed the Reds a list of 173 Allied prisoners it said were unreported prisoners of the Communists, and asked for an accounting.

The list apparently contained the names of the only four Canadians listed in Ottawa casualty lists as missing.

The Canadians were listed today as Cpl. J. R. Toole, B801850,; Pte. S. G. Allain, JT9811; Pte. S. D. Baker, A155660; and Pte. C. Bellefeuille, JA85907. No hometowns were given.

Most of the names on the list were those of United States servicemen. Two others were Brit- [illegible] and one was from the Royal [illegible] all the men have been mentioned in Red propaganda broadcasts, publications and other sources.

Believed Identified.

While there are some differences in initials and offical numbers, the Canadians apparently are:

Pte. Joseph Terence Allain, SG9811, of Rexton, Kent County, N. B. Cpl. John Richard Toole, B801850, of Hamilton. Pte. Arthur Baker, SD155660, of 1715 Elgin Ave., Montreal. Pte. Joseph Armand Bellefeuille, C80,907, of Hull, Que.

The army in Ottawa said it had earlier information that Allain was taken prisoner and that his next-of-kin had been informed although the casualty- list entry of "missing, believed killed" had not been changed.

Before today's U. N. list of unreported prisoners was made public, the total of Canadian casualties reported on official casualty list was 650—including 121 dead, 469 wounded, 55 injured, one captured, and the four missing who now are listed by the U. N. as unreported prisoners.

One prisoners listed officially at Ottawa by the U. N. is Gnr. Orval John Jenkins of Hamilton. He was on the Communist prisoner-of-war list handed to U. N. truce negotiators last Dec. 19.

The Reds said they will supply the names of these prisoners "in due time"—but only after the Allies furnish data the Communists have been demanding.

Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby reported sharply that the United Nations command will furnish additional prisoner data on an exchange basis or not at all.

North Korean Maj.-Gen. Lee Sang cho referred Wednesday to the 11,500 as "the main list of prisoners of war whom we hold in prison."

"As for the necessary supplementary data," he said, "they are now being put in order and we will hand it over to your side in due time. You must give us first the basic data which you have promised to give us."

Queen's Birthday Likely June 5

OTTAWA, March 5 (CP)—Government officials said Tuesday it is expected Canada will designate June 5 as the Queen's birthday, following her decision today to celebrate her official birthday on that date.

However, State Secretary Bradley said the cabinet has not yet acted on the matter.

Her Majesty's real birthday is April 21.

U.S. Backs Britain On Action In Malaya

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) —State Secretary Dean Acheson said today the United States is solidly behind Britain in its "determination to defeat Communist terrorism in Malaya."

Acheson did not, however, promise that the U.S. would give large-scale economic aid to Malaya to strengthen the British campaign.

The guerrilla warfare has been spearheaded by Chinese guerrillas who claim they want to take over the big rubber and tin industries in Malaya.

Acheson told a press conference that Britain's struggle against the guerrillas is "an integral part of the free world's common effort to halt Communist aggression."

Edward G. Robinson Makes Up With Son

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5 (AP)—Actor Edward G. Robinson said that he and his 19-year-old son, Edward Jr., "have made up."

The actor said he rescinded the "never darken my door" order he gave the boy two weeks ago when young Eddie eloped with Frances Chisholm, 21-year-old screen actress.

"After all, a son is a son, and a father's a father," the elder Robinson said.

"The boy and I have our own understanding now. I hope it works out all right."

He declined to say whether he would restore the $70 weekly allowance he cut off from Eddie when the son eloped.

Build Radio Relay

HALIFAX, March 5. (CP)—A microwave radio relay, for transmitting long distance calls, is under construction between Halifax and Saint John, a joint enterprise by the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Company and the New Brunswick Telephone Company.

Mother, Son Leap 15 Ft. To Safety

Sharbot Lake Man Nearly Out, Collapses At Door

SHARBOT LAKE, Ont., Mar. 5. (CP)—A father and his three-year-old daughter died today in an early morning blaze in their farm home about a mile southeast of nearby Mississippi. The mother and a young son escaped from a second-storey window.

Dead are Gerald Gemmell, 29, and his daughter, Deborah. They died when Mr. Gemmell, the baby clutched in his arms, staggered through the blazing dwelling to the lower floor only to collapse [illegible] the door.

Mrs. Gemmell saved her own life and that of her son, Francis, 5, when she smashed the bedroom window and tossed the child 15 feet to the ground below. She then cried out to her husband who had reached the lower part of the house and when she received no answer crawled through the window and leaped to the ground.

Hurried For Help

As the mother rushed to the home of a neighboring farmer about a half mile away, her husband and daughter lay unconscious as the flames rapidly consumed the frame dwelling.

Provincial police at Sharbot Lake said the cause of the blaze had not yet been determined.

They said Mrs. Gemmell, 24, was awakened first and discovered the fire. She aroused her husband who grabbed Deborah, confident that he would be able to make his way to safety through the lower door.

When Mrs. Gemmill, the former Ruth Killingbeck, received no reply to her cries, she assumed that her husband had left the house. She then made her own leap.

Everything the family owned was lost in the fire.

The only fire fighting in the district is done by neighbors who form a bucket brigade. The Gemmill home was only a smoldering mass of embers when help finally arrived.

The farm is located about a mile from the main highway.

Gets $15,000 From Ragpicker

TORONTO, March 5 (CP). — Ragpicker Alvin Poser, who lived in squalor but amassed $25,000 before he died, has left $15,000 to a man who befriended him while others shied away.

The Telegram in a copyright story today named George Ernest Buchanan, Toronto Trust Company manager, chief beneficiary in the surprise will.

Last Thursday the 70-year-old man was found sprawled over the junk in his little home in East Toronto. He had been dead four days of a heart attack.

Mr. Buchanan was named by Mr. Poser in a will made eight years ago.

To the aged men's home, the ragpicker left $1,000 because, 10 or 15 years ago, when he was making his rounds to pick up paper and junk, a woman on the staff handed him two jars of marmalade and another returned to him a $5 bill he dropped on the floor.

FROSTBITE HAS CLAIMED part of Fred Brant's right foot. It is feared a similar operation will have to be performed on his other foot. Brant, a 24-year-old native of Lindsay has been in hospital since January 31. His feet were frostbitten on a sub-zero January day, after he was taken out of the city by a police cruiser following his release from jail on a 10-day sentence for vagrancy.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Plumber 72 Marries His 17th Wife

EL PASO, Tex., March 5—(AP) —El Paso's marrying plumber, 72-year-old Bruce Steele, has a new wife—his 17th, he says. She is Mrs. Estell Lloyd.

"Yes, Estell is No. 17," Steele said proudly. "I've been married 17 times to 14 women. I wanted to set a record and I guess I have."

The grey-haired plumber said his matrimonial merry-go-round began in 1911.

"I was a boxer travelling with a show and I met a girl named Mary," he said. "Yes, Mary was the first. I moved on and she got a divorce. After that, I wooed and won girls in other towns but I had to keep moving so the marriages didn't last.? I believe Ruth —she was a platinum blonde — was next. Then there was Catherine and Rose and Peggy—she was the chorus girl—and Goldie and Annie and Rose (again) and Nellie and Fannie and Frances. There must be a few more but their names slip my mind just now.

"I married Nellie twice and Fannie three times. They come and go. Some are dead, some divorced and some still living."

Children?

"I've got 31 children—24 boys and seven girls," said Steele.

Steele attributes his success to his method. "The trick is to find a woman's weakness," he confided. "Then cultivate it."

To Form Cabinet

PARIS, March 5 (AP)—Right-winger Antoine Pinay formally agreed today to form a new French cabinet and said he will ask the national assembly to confirm him as premier Thursday.

Pinay, 60-year-old leather manufacturer and transport minister in the cabinet which resigned last Friday, is expected to ask for a drive against tax evaders as a solution to the government's financial crisis.

Youth 24, Lies In Hospital With Foot Amputated, Sad Victim Of Misfortune

By DON SWAIN

In a public ward bed on the fourth floor of Civic hospital, a 24-year-old victim of misfortune and lack of understanding is recovering from frostbite.. Fred Brant's future is far from bright. Part of his right foot below the instep has been amputated. It is feared a similar operation will have to be performed on his other foot, because it is not responding to treatment. Laws are designed to protect the community as a whole and are seldom adjusted to fit individual circumstances.

Brant's misfortunes can be traced directly to this defect in society. His only crime was that he was picked up in the city penniless and arrested on one of the most commonly used charges in the Criminal Code—vagrancy.

After serving 10 days in jail he was released. When he was sentenced on the charge the magistrate ordered him to go back to Lindsay when he was released. It was a cold, bitter day, (the mercury showed 15 below zero) when Brant finished his term on the hill.

A police cruiser took him five miles out of the city and left him on the highway. Still without money, and with only a pair of shoes on his feet over three pairs of old socks with the feet nearly out, Brant was left on his own.

Picked Up By Truck

A passing truck driver picked him up several hours later and brought back to the city. In the city again, Brant was in the same unfortunate situation as before. No money, no place to go, and he was suffering from exposure, having been out in the cold for several hours.

He did the only thing he could do. He went to the police station and asked for lodging. He was lodged in the cells overnight, and placed in the prisoners' dock in police court the next morning. He was not charged however, but was released. That day, he wandered around the streets, returned to the police station to sleep and the following morning was again charged with vagrancy. He pleaded

Wife's Tears Avert Jail

TORONTO, March 5 — (CP) — A wife's tears Tuesday won John David Dempsey, 25, of Toronto a reprieve from penitentiary.

Dempsey pleaded guilty of theft of two rear-view mirrors from R.C.A.F. trucks Feb. 28. When deputy magistrate J. Grudeff consulted Dempsey's record of three previous convictions for theft, he considered a prison term mandatory.

But as he was about to pass sentence, Dempsey's sobbing wife rose and told of bringing up their 3½-year-old child in a background of crowded rooms, unemployment, always under the sceptre of her husband's record and of finally achieving a measure of stability and happiness in a small apartment.

"Do you like your husband", asked the magistrate.

"I don't like him", she said in trembling voice. "I love him. And if you'd ever lived in a cramped furnished room, you'd know how much this apartment means to us".

"Two years probation", said the magistrate.

300 Flee Homes As 2 Die In Theatre Blaze

MONTREAL, March 5. (CP)—A raging early morning fire today destroyed the old Montreal Repertory Theatre building, took at least two lives and sent some 300 persons from an adjoining apartment block into the streets. Dead are Mrs. Carrie Perkins, 30, and Mary Mahaffey, age unknown, who were among 12 occupants of apartments at the top of the three-storey theatre building. Unofficial reports said about six persons were unaccounted for but police and Red Cross officials said there was no way of checking immediately.

Police said a discarded cigarette butt may have caused the blaze, discovered about 1:30 a.m. The building is at the corner of Guy and Sherbrooke Streets in downtown Montreal.

When firemen, answering a three-alarm call, arrived at the scene flames were leaping up the brick walls of the theatre build- [illegible] level shops.

Firefighters said some apartment dwellers were leaning from windows screaming and one man clung from the sill of a third-storey window.

Roof Collapses

An explosion burst out in the interior of the building. Windows were shattered and the roof collapsed with a roar.

By that time police ordered evacuation of the adjoining 60-apartment Grosvenor block.

Flames attacked the rear of the Grosvenor building and gutted several apartments.

There was no accurate estimate of loss or damage.

It was the hasty evacuation of the six apartments in the theatre building and the crush of residents emerging from the Grosvenor building that held up official word on the number of fire victims and rescued.

Mrs. Perkins' body was found on a stairway leading down from the M.R.T. building apartments. She was identified at the morgue from her wedding ring, although her husband, George Perkins, told police he was certain she had escaped.

The identity of Miss Mahaffey was made at the morgue.

Red Cross officials said there was no way of telling how many persons left the scene to take shelter with relatives in other parts of the city.

Red Cross Helps

Several elderly apartment-dwellers were taken to hospital by ambulance and others walked to the nearby Red Cross headquarters where clothing and snacks were provided.

February Warmest In Ontario For Years

TORONTO, March 5 — (CP) — Ontario went through its warmest February in years, the public weather office at nearby Malton announced today.

The Province's average temperature was 36 degrees above normal in all regions.

For February, Toronto had an average temperature of 28 degrees. The warmest day was Feb. 1 when the mercury rose to 44. Feb. 14 was Toronto's coldest day of the month, when temperatures dropped to two degrees above zero.

The forecaster said that on a few days during the month Kapuskasing, in Northern Ontario recorded temperatures of 33 degrees below zero, yet that area's mean temperature was seven degrees above normal. North Bay reported temperatures of 33 degrees below zero but the average was four degrees above normal.

Dock Aldermen $5 For Missing Meetings

SUDBURY, March 5 (CP) — City council members Tuesday night decided to deduct $5 from their pay for every council meeting missed. They turned down a suggested $5 deduction for missing committee and board of control meetings.

The nine-man council also will apply to the Ontario Municipal Board to have their pay increased from $500 per year to $750. The pay for controllers has been set at $1,500 as provided in the municipal Act.

British Immigrants Given Untrue Picture—Labor

TORONTO, March 5 — (CP) — Criticism of the "present drastic scheme" of immigration was made in the brief of the Ontario Federation of Labor (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) presented today to the Ontario government.

The brief said immigrants from Britain complained that "the Ontario representative in London has painted untrue pictures of life in Ontario, thereby luring workers from home and job security in Great Britain to comparative insecurity in this province."

"... The present drastic scheme can only create havoc, and harm the immigrants as well as people already here."

The brief, which summarizes legislative proposals of the O.F.L. at its February 1 convention in Hamilton, urged that a labor representative be added to the Ontario government's immigration staff.

It also said 112,000 persons were unemployed in Ontario February 21 and said unemployment could be "abolished entirely" through co-ordination and planning among federal, provincial and municipal governments.

The federation's chief criticism of the Labor Relations Act was "the protracted delay that has become virtually a normal part of the procedure" in settling union-management disputes.

The brief suggested two alternatives: abolition of the present conciliation boards to permit conciliation officers to make the final attempts at settlement; or permission for a union to be legally free to strike "after all legal time limits in the existing conciliation procedure had elapsed," whether a conciliation board has reported or not.

"It was never intended that delays of some months should be the normal practice," the brief said.

"... We believe that a union should be legally free to strike within 50 days from application for conciliation."

Living Costs Drop Sharply During January

OTTAWA, March 5. (CP)— Some cheaper foods, home furnishings and clothing led the cost-of-living index into lower ground for the second time in three months during January.

[illegible] point decline, biggest such monthly drop in nine years, brought the Dominion Bureau of Statistic's index to 190.8 on Feb. 1 from its peak of 191.5 on Jan. 2. The 1935-39 prices equal 100 on the index.

The decline resulted from lower prices for eggs, beef, pork, lard, shortening, men's woollen apparel, women's nylon hosiery, furniture, wool blankets and soap.

While Canadians paid less for those items, they paid more for butter, cheese, fresh fruits and vegetables, laundry, telephone rates, health care, haircuts, electricity and coke. But the lower prices outweighed the higher ones during the month.

Wholesale prices also took a dip during January. The index for 30 industrial material wholesale prices declined by 9.7 points to 269.6 for the week of Feb. 22. For the week of Jan. 25, it was 279.3.

The major items in this decline were steers, hogs, oats, raw rubber, raw cotton, raw wool, beef hides, white lead, zinc and copper.

The decline in the whole price index was 11.4 per cent since February, 1951, a fall of 33.8 points.

On the retail side, the price index has climbed by 89.3 per cent from August, 1939, to February, 1952.

January's seven-tenths-of-a-point decrease was the first since last November when it took a drop of one-tenth of a point, the smallest the index registers. The last time the index took such a big dip was the 1.7 points in December, 1942.

Confirm Diesels Were Sabotaged

OTTAWA, March 5—Production Minister Howe told the Commons Tuesday that an "abrasive material" had been placed in 15 of 56 diesel engines from Britain which Canada rejected as defective last month.

Replying to a question by Earl Catherwood (PC, Haldimand), he said the material had been put in the engines before they were shipped from England. He did not elaborate on the nature of the abrasive, but earlier reports described it as sand.

The sabotaged engines were believed to have been intended for use in Northern Canadian radar stations. Mr. Howe said the defective ones had been sent back to Britain and would be replaced by the firm which made them.

When the foreign matter was found in the engines it touched off considerable speculation as to the possibility of sabotage. Officials in Canada and Britain launched a full scale investigation.

Western Diplomats At Moscow Opening

MOSCOW, March 5 — (Reuters) — Western diplomats today attended the opening of Russia's parliament, the Supreme Soviet.

They sat in the diplomatic box of the Grand Kremlin Palace, overlooking the front benches where government ministers and members of the Politburo sat.

The sitting of the council of the Union lasted only 15 minutes, unanimously adopting a two-point agenda: The 1952 State Budget, which will be presented to a joint session of both houses Thursday, and the ratification of interim decrees of the presidium.

The other house, the Council of Nationalites, meets this afternoon.

Thousands Left Homeless

Rush Relief Supplies To 'Quake Area

TOKYO, March 5 — (AP) — United States occupation forces and the Japanese government today rushed relief supplies to victims of an earthquake and tidal waves in snowswept northern Japan.

Planes, trains and boats carried blankets, medicine and food to stricken areas of sparsely-settled eastern Hokkaido island and the more-populous sections of northeastern Honshu Island.

Thousands of homeless suffered from bitter cold and driving snow-storm which followed Tuesday's earthquake.

The official U.S. army estimate stood at 31 Japanese dead and 170 injured. Japanese police announced they have recovered 20 bodies.

Kyodo news agency reported the quake left a fishing village submerged and pushed up a new 40-foot hill. Both were on Hokkaido, northernmost island of Japan.

A Kyodo reported who flew over Kiritappu reported most of the 1,691 villagers were marooned atop their submerged homes. He said a rescue boat was on its way to the coastal town.

The news agency said the new hill appeared near the village of Nikappu. Inhabitants said a lava-like substance flowed from the hill and then hardened. Two years ago a quake thrust up a similar hill in the same area.

Japanese government agencies reported incomplete surveys showed the quake and 10-foot-high tidal waves caused this damage:

1. Railway tracks were twisted and snarled in places. One section of 500 yards of track was swallowed by the earth.

2. An uncounted number of fishing boats were sunk, 44 damaged and two piers smashed on northeastern Honsu, main island of Japan.

3. Tidal waves washed away 227 houses in Hamanaka village on Hokkaido, leaving 1,600 persons homeless. Reports from other villages placed number of destroyed homes at around 2,500.

Norboru Saito, national rural police chief, told parliament that casualties from the quake and tidal wave were small considering the quake was one of the most severe in the world in the 20th century. He credited Japan's tidal-wave system alert with holding down casualties. Within 15 minutes of the quake all coastal villages were warned of the impending tidal waves.

Ontario Farmers Told To Grow More Hay, Grass

TORONTO, March 5 — (CP) — Ontario farmers should grow more hay and grass—"the cheapest and best feed there is"—to make Ontario independent in livestock production, Professor R. G. Knox, head of the animal husbandry department, Ontario Agricultural College, said Tuesday.

He told a meeting of Eastern Ontario staff members of the Veterans' Land Act: "We buy a cow from Calgary and on the next train we have to ship a carload of grain to feed it."

Production of more grass and hay would make possible the raising of more calves in Ontario and reduce the number of cattle brought from Alberta.

In earlier statements, Mr. Knox said public buying habits have influenced the size of cows.

Won't Change

Because women in the home want small cuts of beef, a new breed of cattle weighing about 700 pounds each and called "compresses" have been developed. Scores of butchers in Toronto refused to buy carcasses of beef that weigh more than 400 pounds.

He said American import ban on Canadian cattle will continue until after the American presidential elections in November.

Mr. Knox told staff members of the Eastern Ontario District, Veterans' Land Act, that he was "neither a crystal gazer nor a politician." But he added he has bet $5 that the ban will continue that long, that it will become a political football.

"The gentlemen of the farm block in Washington are watching the situation just as closely as we are."

Gardiner Plans Conference

...ial conference at the "earliest possible" date to deal with problems arising from the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease among livestock of southern Saskatchewan. Agriculture Minister Gardiner told the Commons Tuesday the conference with the provinces will be held as soon as they can be given proof that there is no danger of the dreaded disease spreading through the movement of livestock and meat from one province to another. While he spoke, the network of provincial and international restrictions on livestock and meat trade continued to cause widespread marketing disruptions.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, described the situation as a "major calamity". He urged that not a day be lost in bringing the provinces together to study problems.

Outside the Commons, Elia Trepel, president of the Winnipeg Stock Exchange, said the situation is becoming a national calamity.

British Columbia, Manitoba and Quebec all maintained their restrictions on imports of livestock and meat from other provinces. Manitoba banned the entry even of livestock shipments destined for eastern Canada.

Faces Unemployment

As a result of the import restrictions, employees of meat packing-plants in some areas were threatened with unemployment. Shortages of meat were expected to boost prices in some areas.

In the Commons, Mr. Gardiner said his department believes the outbreak of the disease has been confined in a 50-square-mile quarantined-area around Regina. Veterinarians have reported no new cases since Feb. 19.

"We think we have it sufficiently under control that it will not spread", said Mr. Gardiner.

The Commons debate centred on emergency legislation to compensate farmers for livestock, crops, buildings and equipment destroyed in efforts to stem the outbreak.

The bill, given second reading —approval in principle—will be debated again today.

Accepts Amendment

Mr. Gardiner accepted an amendment by John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) to make it clear that compensation paid will be in addition to payments provided in the animals contagious diseases act.

The act provides for payments of $40 for grade cattle and $100 for purebreds in addition to the commercial value of the carcass. Under the new bill the farmers will receive these payments plus what the government considers a "fair and reasonable" amount.

Mr. Gardiner rejected a second amendment by Mr. Diefenbaker that would have required the government to pay the "economic value" of animals slaughtered. Mr. Gardiner said the amendment would cost the treasury more than had been anticipated.

Market Over-Supplied Offhogs, Farmers Told

TORONTO, March 5 (CP)—Charles McInnis of Iroquois, president of the Ontario Hog Producers Association, Tuesday told the Association's annual meeting that farmers are losing $12 to $15 because of an oversupplied market and lack of export.

He said persons in the processing industry and trade are disturbing the price structure when the market is being regularly supplied.

"We are facing a serious problem in the next six months when marketings in the province will be increased weekly by 20,000 or more hogs, bringing the total to 120,000 weekly when there is no market for that number."

War Damage Claims Mount In Britain

LONDON—(CP)—Destruction of property in the United Kingdom as the result of enemy action in the Second World War, has already cost the British government a total of £1,020,000,000.

The latest report by the War Damage Commission, which began dealing with claims back in 1941, shows that £72,000,000 was paid out in 1951 against £92,000,000 in the previous year.

The Commission during 1951 settled 181,000 claims for repairs, involving distribution of nearly £60,000,000 to private owners. The remainder went to local and other public authorities. Greater London's share of the year's payments amounted to £50,000,000.

A breakdown of the major claims disposed of during the year shows that £7,000,000 was paid for destruction of factories, £6,500,000 for commercial buildings and £3,250,000 for domestic dwellings. Churches and shops accounted for £2,250,000 each.

Escapee, 81, Seeks Pardon In Detroit

DETROIT, March 5 (CP)—Michigan state officials moved today to secure a pardon for an 81-year-old prison escapee who has lived as a fugitive in Detroit for 33 years.

Governor Mennen Williams asked officials of Joliet prison, Illinois, to permit Thomas Hawley, who killed a man in a saloon brawl in 1912, to live out his remaining years in freedom.

At the trial, witnesses testified Hawley killed the man in self defence. Hawley, sentenced to life, escaped in 1919 and worked in Detroit as a metal polisher until a police check last week disclosed his whereabouts.

No reply to the governor's request has come from Joliet prison.

Truman Gov't Decides To Avoid War In China

WASHINGTON, March 5. (AP)—The Truman administration has decided against any move to carry the Korean war to China even if the truce talks collapse. Officials said that is the present basic policy but how it is applied if and when a collapse occurs will undoubtedly depend on what the Communists do and what the American people think about it.

In the highest levels of the defence and state departments, it is recognized, officials privately concede, that popular indignation could force the United States in some circumstances to take action which would either contradict or diverge from its present policy.

A clear indication of the administration's attitude came Tuesday night in a speech sent by John M. Allison, Assistant State Secretary, to the Philadelphia Bulletin Forum, at Philadelphia. It was delivered by his assistant, U. Alexis Johnson, who returned 10 days ago from talks with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway and other top United Nations military men in Korea.

Won't Widen Scope

"It is our policy," Allison said, "to confine the conflict to Korea. We do not propose to widen the scope of the war. That has been our policy from the start. That remains our policy. It is up to the Communists. If they want to widen the conflict and engulf the world in a terrible world war, then they must be the ones to do it."

Truce talks at Panmunjom are deadlocked now over several issues. Allison and his closest associates as well as military leaders are reported to believe still that thethe odds are at least even on the possibility of agreement on a truce.

They have been considering for many weeks, however, what the U.S. should do in event of a collapse of negotiations. It is known that consideration has been given to carrying the war directly against China. It now is apparent that the decision has been reached to avoid this if possible.

In reaching this decision, the advice of military leaders that a bigger effort in the Far East would mean a weakening of U.S. home, air and other forces, has been a decisive factor.

Allison said that while the Allies do not want to broaden the war, they also are determined not to pay such a price for peace as would reward the Reds for having started the conflict in the first place.

U.N. Achieved Little—Pearson

OTTAWA, March 5 — (CP) — Failure of the U.N. General Assembly to achieve "any substantial accomplishments" in terms of "its basic purposes and functions" was commented on by External Affairs Minister Pearson in the foreword to the annual report of his department for 1951.

The report, tabled Tuesday in the Commons, showed a total of $12,602,552 contributed to the U.N. in the calendar year.

The report dealt largely with the U.N. and with Canada's participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which Mr. Pearson described as "at present the principal instrument for defence of the free world."

Of the General Assembly, to which Mr. Pearson was a delegation leader, he said:

"(It) exists primarily to further the cause of peace and security, to promote the general welfare and to resolve international problems and differences."

Tunnel Caves In Escape Plan Foiled

WALLA WALLA, Wash., March 5—(AP)—A milk truck ended a tunnel-escape attempt of state penitentiary inmates 30 feet short of freedom Tuesday night — two weeks after the prisoners were honored at a dinner for digging no tunnels during the last 12 months.

The men are belived to have worked 18 months on the project.

The 100-foot-long tunnel was discovered by prison officers when the truck caved in a spot while travelling along a roadway. The passageway was about 18 inches under the surface at that point.

The inmates had knocked out a 20-inch square of concrete in the floor of the heating plant. The concrete was replaced with a flat steel plate. This was covered with ashes each day after the prisoners quit digging.

New Trade Pact

TOKYO. March 5 — (AP) — The Japanese foreign office on Tuesday announced conclusion of a new trade and payment agreement between Japan and Sweden. Japan will import $17,000,000 worth of goods during the 1952 calendar year from Sweden and will export $10,000,000.

Happy Veterans

LONDON — (CP) — Many Chelsea pensioners, some of whom were in the British army as far back as 1885, are again lustily singing the old song "We're Soldiers of the Queen, My Boys." They fought for Queen Victoria in the Boer War and proudly swore allegiance to Queen Elizabeth II.

2 People Killed In Collision

BARRIE, March 5 (CP)—Two persons were killed and three others were injured in a highway collision between an automobile and a truck five miles south of here early today.

Fred Crawford, 34, and Phyllis Stricklen, 19, both of Newmarket, were fatally injured when the car driven by Crawford collided with a truck on a curve on No. 11 Highway.

Audrey Hills, Donald Cudney and Leonard Russell, also of Newmarket, were injured. Hospital officials in Toronto said Cudney and Russell were in serious condition.

Police identified the truck-driver as Lucien Plamondon of Scarboro. He was uninjured.

Little Gain In Prices On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 5 — (CP) — Stock market prices made little headway today in early afternoon dealings after mixed support checked early gains.

Industrial dealings spread slowly from leading issues and a growing list of metals, golds and oils attracted speculative interest. Volume for the first three hours was 1,853,000 shares.

Papers, liquors and retail stores formed industrials' strongest sections while untilities, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous issues drew steady support. Agricultures, steels, foods, banks and textiles weakened.

Base metals were mixed as Ankeno, Consolidated Smelters, East Sullivan, Mackeno, Opemiska, Osiko, Steep Rock and Yukeno strengthened while Falconbridge, Normetal and United Asbestos weakened.

Western oils posted a slim majority of gains. Calnorth, Del Rio, Dome Exploration, Dragon, Rox-

Senior golds dipped as Giant Yellowknife, McIntyre and Wright-Hargreaves turned lower. Secondary issues showed little trend.

Migrate To Alberta With Pre-Fab House

LETHBRIDGE, Alta.,—(CP)—Most people, after moving from one place to another, spend a few weeks unpacking their household effects.

Not so Mr. and Mrs. H. Reitman and their five youngsters, immigrants from Holland. They unpacked their house first after arriving in Lethbridge.

Before leaving Holland, Mr. Reitman heard of Canada's housing shortage. He knew it would be impossible to take over enough money to buy a house because of his country's foreign exchange controls.

Two weeks before the Reitmans left Holland, they sold their house and bought a prefabricated house. It was shipped to Lethbridge via the Panama Canal.

Mr. Reitman figures he brought his family here, along with their furniture and their new house, for less than $3,000.

Decree Gives Power To Shift Egyptians

CAIRO, Egypt, March 5 (AP)—A military decree today gave Ahmed Mortada Eo Maraghi Bey, new strong man of the Egyptian government, power to move people from one part of the country to the other.

The order is intended to help control potential troublemakers and maintain order, especially in Cairo, informants said.

Maraghi Bey is minister of war and marine as well as interior minister. He is credited with having kept order in Alexandria, where he was governor, when torch-bearing mobs ran riot in Cairo Jan. 26.

The new decree authorizes the interior minister to return to their district of birth or normal residence those now living in other districts "if their presence there is not based on any justification." Persons not obeying an order to move can be imprisoned for six months and fined £50.

Unruly Flamingo

LONDON—(CP) — The usual harmony and repose of London's zoo was disrupted after the arrival of "Long John," a flamingo who slept most of the day but liked cavorting around at night. After being first put in a private pen, he now has been sent to another zoo.

German's Tests Still Negative

HULL, Que., March 5—(CP)—Tests on Willi Bruentjen, 29-year-old German immigrant suspected of innocently carrying foot-and-mouth disease to Canada, are nearing an end. Indications Tuesday were they will prove negative. A report by scientists is expected to be completed within a day or two.

He has been a "guest" of the government since last Friday. Once the tests are over, he likely will be returned to Vancouver if he so wishes. Bruentjen had been seeking employment as a bush worker and the labor department likely will help place him.

Youth In Hospital

ed guilty before the magistrate finished reading the charge.

He was sentenced to five days in jail, being unable to pay the $5 fine and was again advised to leave town when he was released.

Feet Stinging

That was on January 31, and Brant only served a few hours of his sentence. That afternoon, he complained of his feet stinging and jail authorities called Dr. D. W. Clark, acting jail physician, who examined him. Brant was immediately taken to hospital where he has remained ever since.

Behind the story of this man's plight, is a history of family difficulties and misfortunes that go back to his childhood. The family was broken up when he was still small, and Brant was made a ward of the Children's Aid Society. Some time after he became 21, he was in hospital for a number of months. After he was released, he was taken into the Lindsay House of Refuge.

Obliged to live in an institution intended for aged persons he became to Peterborough and his troubles began when he was picked up by police.

In Hospital Month

For a month now, Brant has been a public ward patient in hospital. His only known relative is a sister in Haliburton, and his most frequent visitor has been Major Harry Everitt of the Salvation Army.

Major Everitt is arranging to have him returned to the Lindsay institution on his release, but it will be many weeks before he will be able to leave the hospital. His difficulties will be even harder to overcome when he does recover because he will be handicapped for life.

In the meantime, his hospital and medical care treatment are being paid for by the city. The city contributes $6.75 a day in grants. However, the cost to the hospital amounts to $13.75 a day, which results in a net loss to the hospital of $7 for every day Brant is in the hospital.

In the hospital's report for 1951, it was stated that if public ward paying patients had occupied beds for the 8,651 patient days that beds were occupied by indigents, the hospital's revenue would have been increased by $52,000.

It has been repeatedly stated indigent patients are the main reason for the hospital's 1951 deficit of $40,033.

Ready To Help

Major Everitt of the Salvation Army is doing his best to see that Brant is looked after when he is able to leave the hospital. He also would have been willing to assist the man in the first place, had he known the background of the case.

Not Consulted

However, neither the Salvation Army nor any other social agency was consulted even though it seemed when Brant first appeared in police court that he would need some help if he was not to become a chronic vagrant and responsibility on the community.

Brant was punished for his "crime" of being destitute and unable to provide for himself. He served his sentence. He will be crippled and handicapped by the loss of part of his both feet the rest of his life. In the meantime, until he is discharged from hospital, part of the cost of his hospital care will be paid for by the city and the remainder will be added to the Civic Hospital's 1952 deficit at the rate of $7 per day.

New British Drug Aids One Kind Of Leukemia

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

CINCINNATI, March 5 (AP)—A new British drug is helping some people with one form of chronic leukemia, the blood cancer.

It came from a 20-year search into the cause of cancer, and that hunt promises far better cancer-killers to come.

The drug and research were described today to the second national cancer conference by Dr. Alexander Haddow, director of the Chester Beatty Research Institute, Royal Cancer Hospital in London.

The drug is GT-41, a code name in honor of George Timmis, the chemist who created it. It is a butane chemical, in a new family of anti-leukemia drugs.

In early tests on small numbers of humans in Britain and the United States, GT-41 brought temporary remissions or improvements in 25 to 50 per cent of cases of myelogenous chronic leukemia, Dr Haddow said. One patient has stayed improved for a year.

Only Helps One Kind.

The drug does not affect any other forms of leukemia, including any of the acute or rapidly—progressing leukemias which usually affect children.

GT-41 can be taken by mouth and has no serious bad effects. Dr. Haddow termed results to date "as good as with any" other drugs used for leukemia.

The work of Dr. Haddow and associates earlier led to urethane and nitrogen mustards in tablet form for use against leukemia.

All were based upon clues turned up in their main research— of learning just how a normal, healthy cell grows, and exactly what happens to turn the healthy cell into a cancer cell.

This is the third picture in the Examiner's Baby Picture-Quote contest. For the first five days of each week the Examiner will publish a baby picture and quote from the collection of Constance Bannister and on Saturday will publish the winning local pictures. In the Examiner's contest readers are being asked to submit baby pictures and the trick is to write a suitable caption implying what could have been on the baby's mind to create such an expressive picture. Every home where there are children has an unusual baby picture, so look over your family album, pick out and write the caption and send picture to Baby Photo Editor, Examiner, Peterborough. Pictures must be of babies two years and less. Two prizes of five dollars a week are given and a grand prize of ten dollars at end of contest.

Chickenpox, Mumps, Measles Head List

COBOURG, March 5 (ENS)—Chickenpox, mumps and German measles were the principal communicable diseases prevalent in the counties of Northumberland [illegible] disease. From Jan. 1 until Feb. 29 there have been 169 cases of chickenpox, 86 cases of mumps and 56 of German measles.

The weekly summaries by the Health Unit.

The counties have been free of the more serious communicable

[illegible] reports sent to the medical officer by physicians, hospitals, parents and teachers and on occasion by the health unit nurse after an inspection of school children by the staff nurses. All physicians and hospitals in the health unit area receive these weekly reports. In addition, where cases occur in a school, a notice describing the common symptoms of the disease is sent home to the parents of the children in the class concerned so that they may be on the lookout for the development of those diseases.

"There is one circumstance which should be kept in mind in the case of German measles; and that is that modern research has indicated that there is special danger in the exposure of pregnant women to infection, particularly in the first four months of pregnancy, on account of the possibility of German measles being a factor in the development of congenital defects in the offspring," the Health Unit warned in a special bulletin.

Cornelia Skinner Proves Great Actress

NEW YORK, March 5 — (CP) —Cornelia Otis Skinner demonstrated to her premiere Broadway audience at the Booth theatre on Tuesday night that she is truly a one-woman theatre.

In her single-handed performance of "Paris '90" she revealed illimitable facets of comedy; tragedy; burlesque, naugthtiness and genius as she enacted stories imagined from the paintings of the noted French artist, Henri Toulouse-Lautrec.

Miss Skinner has done something like this type of one-woman show in previous seasons, as in "The Wives of Henry VIII," "The Loves of Charles II" and "The Empress Eugenie."

Only One on Stage.

In "Paris '90" Miss Skinner is the only one on stage during the entire performance but by her magic she never permits the invisible figure of Henri Toulouse-Lautrec to get off the stage and away from the characters she is portraying.

For example, Toulouse-Lautrec's "A Lion-Tamer of the Medrano Circus" shows a woman lion-tamer sitting formally in a sort of Cossack uniform holding a curled whip over her knee.

When the curtain goes up, Miss Skinner's pose is an exact replica of the picture. Then she begins her monologue, telling how she has been double-crossed by her lover, who fears lions, and how the lover shoots her favorite young lion when he thinks she may be attacked.

Then, in ungrateful fury, lion tamer bursts from the cage and beats her lover with the same whip she has been using to tame her lions.

School Bus Co. Ends Contract

COBOURG, March 5 (ENS)— [illegible] Carter Coach Lines of Cobourg, covering transportation of 180 county pupils to the high school here has been terminated.

The five routes have been converted into four and placed in the hands of operators working out of Harwood, Centreton and Glourourim. New buses will be used on these routes.

For some time, Harry Carter, owner of the line, has been endeavouring to have the contract increased from $1,900 a month to $2,500 and to have the increase retroactive to Jan. 1

The board was in touch with other bus companies after deciding that it would not consent to the increase and on March 1, Mr. Carter wrote the Board advising that he was going to discontinue operating the school line because under the prevailing rates it was not profitable.

An agreement has been reached with Alnwich Township School Board by which the board there would continue in service a new 50-passenger bus from Roseneath to Cobourg. Their other new buses will be put into service by the end of the month. For the time being the Harwood, Centreton and Glourmourin routes, plus one to Lakeport, will be operated by Burley Bus Lines of Port Hope. The high school board has guaranteed the new owners $10 per passenger per month, the same amount as paid Carter.

Kinsmen To Give $10,000 For Arena

COBOURG, March 5 (ENS).—An offer by the Cobourg Kinsmen Club to donate a $10,000 floor for the Recreation Centre Arena was accepted by Town Council Tuesday night.

Council agreed to pay $3,800 for the initial outlay and the Kinsmen Club will pay back the town on July 15. The Kinsmen Club will pay the balance over a period of five years.

With such a floor, it will be possible to use the rink throughout the entire year, a fact which may reduce the operating cost of the recreational centre.

Utilities Meets First Time In Own Quarters

For the first time since its organization half a century ago, Peterborough Utilities Commission met in its own office under its own roof in its new treasury building at the northwest corner of Aylmer and Dalhousie Streets on Tuesday afternoon. Their long tenancy of the old city hall block on Simcoe Street ended last Friday and for the occasion of change and acquiring of permanent estate, friends had sent lovely flowers of goodwill and congratulation.

So, the new dispensation began under most favorable auspices as [illegible] new office and also to a new page in the history of the Commission.

The members who sat for the first time in the new board room are Gordon S. Matthews, chairman, Fred Hils and Dr. Gordon R. Langley.

First Board In 1902

A tribute of recollection of the initial board provided a little preface of sentiment to the business session. Probably the oldest picture in the commission's gallery is that of the original members of 1902, taken on the grounds of the waterworks, the park premises which have been developed in beauty through the years since then.

Those members were: T. Frank Matthews, William H. Hill, T. H. G. Denne, the commission that took charge of the first unit of public utility, the waterworks, and laid the foundation for the services which followed in steadily expanding value and usefulness.

The gesture of reminiscence, in all probability with more affection than appeared on the surface, related partly to the hats that were worn on that day in 1902 when the old photograph was taken of the commission and Wilson Handerson, manager of the pumping station which was purchased at that time.

Business men in those days wore the hard Christy hat, perhaps because the snap brim type had not been improved in design and comfort as in later years. Merely for the record of the commission, and its future, an

Target Practice In Lake Ontario

COBOURG, March 5.—Believed to be the first time in history, large guns will shoot over Lake Ontario in target practice beginning March 30.

Permission was granted by the Department of National Defence to the 33rd Medium Regiment to fire their large guns of 5.5 projectiles from the rifle ranges east of Cobourg at floating targets far out in the lake.

This permission was not granted in either the First or Second World Wars. The shells fired by these guns weigh 90 pounds and could demolish a large house instantly.

During the practice sessions, aircraft will hover over the area to indicate where the shells are landing.

It is expected that the shooting practice will attract crowds from the surrounding district.

Don't Pat Us On The Head, Please

Since Christmas we have encountered quite a number of people from Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal who were visiting Peterborough for the first time, and who approved of it, in a patronizing sort of way. Of course, anyone who enters Peterborough by train or bus must be excused for thinking that they are in a backward district; our stations give that impression. But after a day in Peterborough our visitors begin to wake up, and their remarks are amusing.

* * *

A young woman from Toronto, representing a national magazine confided to us that "she'd always thought of Peterborough as a dump, but it was a pretty little place." An Ottawa man smiled upon us and said, "Maybe you don't know it, but you've got the ideal life—running a little paper in a nice little place." Montrealers were amazed to learn that there were about twenty major industries in Peterborough; they gave the impression that they had not expected indoor plumbing. A Toronto man argued hotly that the C.G.E. had no plant in Peterborough; he knew for a fact that it was entirely located in Toronto. We will not record in detail all the conversations in which we have played the role of the Simple Country Jake to the City Slicker from some such combination of Paris and Athens as to play the part of the Local Patriot and assert in a brassy voice that Peterborough is the superior of any other settlement on the face of the globe. But we think that a measured protest is in order.

* * *

The patronage of Ottawans brings a sly smile to our lips, for we have a shrewd notion that if Ottawa had not the Dominion Government to fatten upon, it would not be very much of a place. As it is, it lacks many of the finer attributes of a capital city, including a worthy city hall. Nor does Sparks Streeet appear to us to be impressive, as the main thoroughfares of capital cities go. Mind you, we like Ottawa, but we do not suffer from any crushing sense of rusticity when we go there.

* * *

As for Toronto, it is a biggish city, reminiscent of Detroit or Minneapolis; we once heard it compared with Belfast in appearance and spirit. What, we wonder, gives its denizens their strange air of self-importance? Is it the fact that Toronto has no public lavatories which makes Torontonians think that they are above the frailties of ordinary mankind? We were once a Torontonian, and gave up that title without a pang. And as for Montreal, we have no opinion of a city so big which cannot support even one theatre and has a poor orchestra; in fact, Montreal is two cities, one French and one English, each sufficiently provincial in spirit.

* * *

We do not pretend that Peterborough is anything other than what it is—a pleasant and thriving provincial city, in which 38,000 people find plenty to occupy them, and in which some of them find love, friendship and a good life. But we think that the time has come when Ottawans, Torontonians, and persons from other, larger, provincial cities should stop patting us on the head, as though it was clever of us to make such a good job of living in the woods. Only a week ago we were in a large music shop in Toronto, asking for a book of music. "All gone," said the big city type behind the counter; "shipped all we had to some place up in the woods." We knew that he had shipped them all to Peterborough.

* * *

So we make our mild protest. We do not print "Damn your impudence!" in red ink, for these haughty folk do not know that they are being impudent and rather silly. They think that they are being citified and sophisticated. It is a pitiable delusion.

The Shadow Of Hitler

In his objective book (1950) on German military campaigns and personalities which touched Field Marshal Rommel and his strikingly sympathetic account of Rommel himself, Brigadier Desmond Young cannot be accused of Hun-baiting and German-hating. The following paragraphs, therefore, should hold an authentic warning in these days when the Allies are re-arming the Germans:

"One need not be psychic or even unduly sensitive to the atmosphere to feel that something evil, not to be registered by Geiger counters, still hangs in the air of Germany today. Miasmas no longer arise from the ruined cities, the countryside is clean and beautiful. Relieved from the worst of their material distress, the Germans go cheerfully enough about their work. In the evenings they sing and dance and drink their beer more lightheartedly than most of us.

"Hatred of the occupying troops and their camp-followers is doubtless there but it is well-concealed. Why, then, is one seldom quite at ease? Perhaps because one knows that so many of the Gestapo and S.S. are still at large, with false papers or free because those who might accuse them are buried; that the polite young man who waits on one so attentively in the hotel may have the blood of hundreds on his hands. (A Gestapo agent, wanted for sixty separate murders, was recently identified in the popular interpreter of a British camp.) Perhaps the reason is a little more remote—that the taint of the Nazi regime, which has not disappeared with the suicide or execution of its leaders, will not vanish with the death of the last of their accomplices.

"The acid of the unceasing spying and suspicion, of arrests at dawn, of torture and sadism and murder in cellars, above all, of the lying and hypocrisy which pervade a police state, has eaten in too deep. Like the fission products, it cannot be washed out. The shadow of Hitler still darkens the German scene. 'It's a fouled-up world'."

French Crisis

The political situation in France is more critical than a mere change of Government and a shift in the premiership, which has been the post-war pattern. There have been difficulties before in securing any party leader sufficiently strong to form Governments of the middle parties which could give forthright direction to the country. Now the crisis is real enough to alarm not only outside observers but also political leaders in France. Their opposition to de Gaullists on the extreme right and Communists on the Left may not be as strong sistance to increased taxes which are undermining the Fourth Republic.

During the last several years France has had to rebuild her economy and spirit crushed during the war, and at the same time to wage a very costly campaign in Indo-China and, now, to contribute heavily to the rearming of Europe. The Indo-China war has become a costly stalemate; the NATO and European Army demands for Frenchmen and military materials more than the people and country want to afford, or can afford without additional very heavy American aid.

American help to France at home and in Indo-China has already been vast. The U.S. military aid (supplies and equipment) discharged at Indo-China ports has amounted to half a billion dollars since 1950. Yet the Franco-Viet Namese forces are not winning the war or holding their own. The war has been going on for six years. It has become unpopular among French people, who are losing their sons in it and are being heavily taxed to support it.

The French say that they cannot bear the costs of rearming in Europe unless they get more American grants of $750,000,000 or their NATO allotment is cut from twelve to ten divisions. They do not believe that they can win the war in Indo-China unless there is American intervention so vast that, in terms of aid, the French influence in Indo-China would be relegated to a secondary place.

If American help to France in both Europe and Indo-China is increased sufficiently, then many Frenchmen believe that their country and its dependencies would become mere satellites of American policy. Better, they think, to give up the war in Indo-China and to reduce their commitments in Europe, than to suffer American domination. At any rate, the French are refusing to tax themselves enough to pay for European defence and the war in the East. Some say they cannot; people in England, with greater restrictions on their food and less economic freedom, may say that they will not.

A negotiated peace in Indo-China would not be as great a defeat for the West and as strong a victory for Russian Communism as it seems. The Viet-Minh leaders whose forces are opposing the Franco-Viet Namese are anxious to come to terms. They are nationalists, but their military effort is depending more and more on support by the Chinese. As the French and Viet Namese dislike further dependence on the Americans, so the Viet-Minh nationalists distrust Chinese aid. They do not wish to gain Indo-China at the expense of allowing it to become a sphere of Chinese influence.

330 Million Gods Descend To Bathe

By RAWLE KNOX
(In East Punjab)

(Ed. Note: The total eclipse of the sun on February 25th., best visible for scientists in the Sudan also touched, and was marked in India.)

"TRUTH and legend," said the Brahman, straightening his English old school tie, "are indistinguishable in India. I challenge any man to separate them."

Outside the awnings of the tent the sun shone hotly through dust-clouds raised by a million feet. For the first time in a thousand years, said the pandits, a solar eclipse visible from Kurukshetra would coincide with Somavati Amavas, the day on which the 330 million gods of the Hindu pantheon descend from the heavens to bathe in the tank (a huge oblong artificial lake) in this very village. The pilgrims had answered the call.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE choking lanes were lined by leprous syphilitic beggars whose bowls were indiscriminately piled with mingled coins and foods; fakirs reclined in almost naked slumber on beds of thorns; a hideous dwarf, his body smeared with ashes like that of any holy man, was busily telling fortunes; everywhere the overwhelming crowd of pilgrims blotted out individual sights. "And not a fly to be seen," said an exhausted health-official triumphantly. "Not a fly to be seen."

✧ ✧ ✧

THREE Indians were competing for recognition at this spot which is to Hindus, according to the country's Home Minister, Dr. N. Katju, who himself was one of the pilgrims, what the Ka'aba at Mecca is to Moslems, or the Wailing Wall at Jerusalem to Jews.

There was the India of the erudite Brahman, to whom this is first and foremost the place where Lord Krishna, as charioteer to the great warrior Arjun, spoke the Bhagavad Gita, the celestial song, which contains the core of Hindu philosophy. In the third age of the current Hindu era (we are now in the fourth and last, and the world has only about 425,000 years to go before destruction and rebirth), came the great war of succession between the Pandavas and the Kauravas, who were cousins. Arjun, leading the Pandavas, was discouraged at the thought of a battle which, whoever won, would certainly mean the death of so many of his elders and kinsmen.

THEN Krishna, in the Bhagavad Gita, expounded the belief that in action, not inaction, lies the best hope of salvation; that death is unimportant, duty all-important. For every thinking Hindu this book provides moral guidance. Gandhi, the prophet of non-violence, said he used to turn to it as he would to his mother.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE was also at Kurukshetra the India of the superstitious peasant who believes that at one of the tanks here, the Thaneshwar tank, all the holy waters of India come themselves to take a purifying bath at noon every day. As the moon slowly began to darken the sun in eclipse, so the hundreds of thousands of peasants felt the whole atmosphere darken. They saw evil attempting to conquer good, they saw the imaginary planet Rahu, the serpent-bodied, attempting to devour the sun. They felt urgently the need to purify themselves at such a terrible time.

"A nonsensical belief!" said my friend the Brahman crossly. "Rahu is worshipped just as the sun and moon and the other seven planets". (They include the equally imaginary Ketu.) "Rahu represents the intersection of the orbits of the sun and the moon."

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT a belief nevertheless. From the mass of glistening bodies splashing into the waters rose the sound of mantras (prayer-charms) not only to protect themselves, but also to save the sun. Those who knew mantras against snake and scorpion bites were chanting them loudly to the heavens.

✧ ✧ ✧

FINALLY, there was the India of the modern administrator, striving not to allow the observance of ancient and honoured beliefs to destroy progress and health. It is easy enough to find superficial contrasts in India. And it was easy enough here, as the beaming Governor of East Punjab, Sir Chandulal Trivedi, rode above the mob on a painted and caparisoned elephant, closely followed by a jeep from which police shouted traffic instructions through a microphone.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT the real contrast was with those thousands of melas (festivals) in the past when death by stampede and disease have cost so many lives. India can hardly be expected to remember these deaths, for life is all too cheap. She will probably not remember that at Kurukshetra Fair in 1952 only two persons died, both of old age; that just one cholera suspect lay in the improvised isolation wards, though many of the half-million pilgrims came from provinces where cholera is endemic; that the few babies born to excited mothers kicked contentedly in the local hospital. And there were no flies; insecticide squads had seen to that.

✧ ✧ ✧

ON ONE of the life-savers' rafts a little way out from the shore of Kurukshetra's biggest tank sat two men with a raised banner; white lettering on red proclaimed, "Chlorination!" "Would that be a religious protest against the water being chlorinated?" asked an American visitor hopefully. But it wasn't; it was merely a demarcation of the sixty yard belt of water that had been purified by medicine, as well as religion, for the bathers' health. All water at Kurukshetra had been zealously chlorinated; you could taste it through a strong cup of coffee.

THE eclipse passed; virtue triumphed. And the mass of bodies descended once more into the holy tanks. The emotion was vivid, almost visible; what did it matter to the bathers whether truth was legend, or legend truth?

The thirteen hundred specially-constructed urinals stood as empty as the tents of the defeated Kauravas after the eighteen-day battle of Kurukshetra. The teams of Boy Scouts still nobly attempted, with partial success, to keep the thronging pilgrims to the left. And despite the little anyone cared about it, administration, in which few ever see much virtue, had triumphed too.

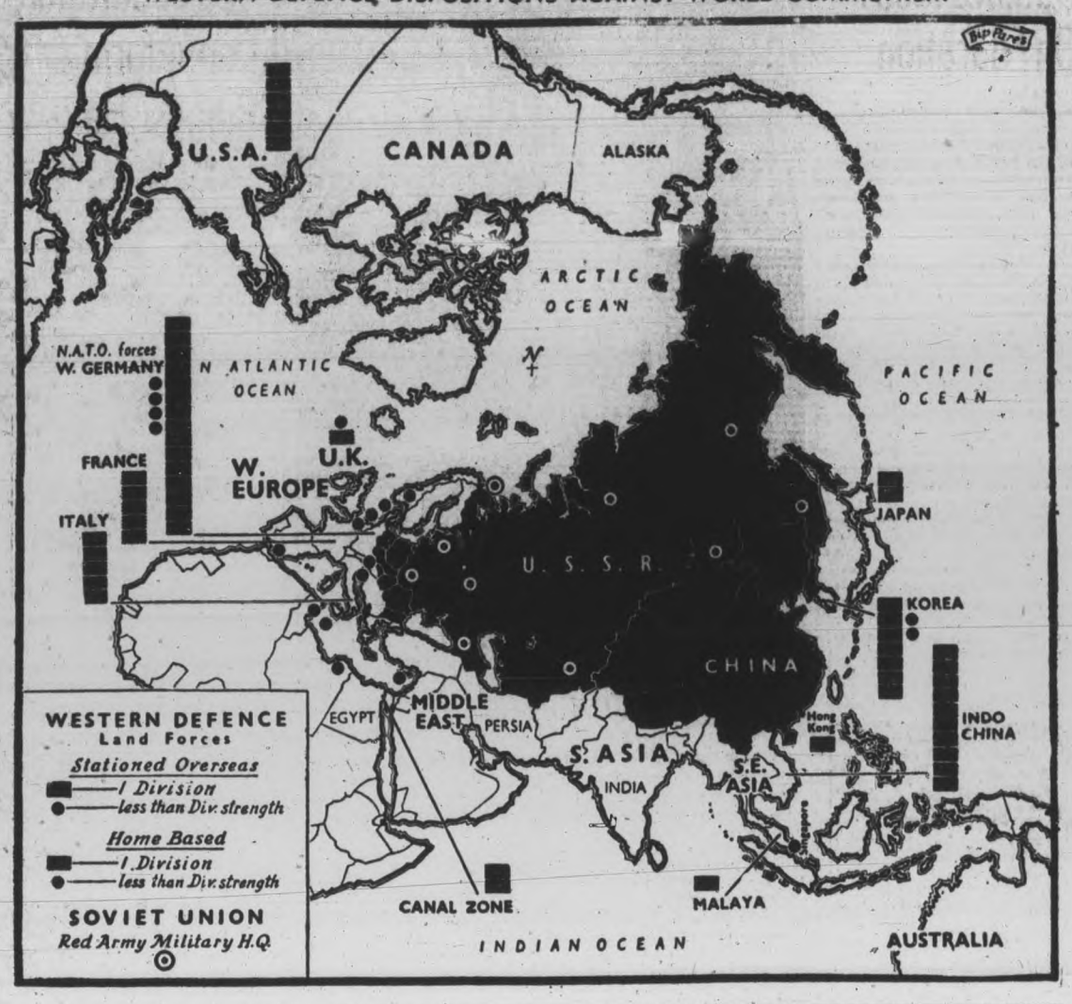
WESTERN DEFENCE DISPOSITIONS AGAINST WORLD COMMUNISM



The People Of Glengarry

(THE GLENGARRY NEWS)

THE POPULATION of Glengarry today, is about equally divided between descendants of its early Scottish pioneers and recent arrivals from Europe. Many of the latter forebears came here from the neighbouring province of Quebec. No accurate statistics on racial origin are available, but it is probable those of French-Canadian heritage are now in a slight majority.

In 1852, there were 3,228 residents of Glengarry bearing the name of McDonell or McDonald. In Lochiel, there were 351 McMillans, Kenyon had 138.

Lochiel had 218 McLeods. Kenyon had 228 Grants and the latter were 290 strong in Charlottenburgh.

Other clans well represented in the Glengarry of a century ago were McGillis, Kennedy, McRae, Cameron, Campbell and McDougall, each having more than 300; the McGillivrays, McIntoshes and McKinnon's had well over 200, with the McPhersons, Frasers, McPhees, Ross' and Chisholms running close to that number.

There was nothing dramatic about the coming to Glengarry of our French-speaking friends and for that reason it is difficult to see them in proper perspective in the history of our county. . . . They filtered in through the years from neighboring areas of Quebec province in family groups, prospered and multiplied, bought up farms first settled by Scottish immigrants and went into business in our towns and villages.

Today they have their own bilingual schools in many sections of the county and are playing an important part in all phases of the life of Glengarry. Both at Ottawa and Toronto, Glengarry is presently represented by citizens of French extraction.

Undoubtedly there were isolated French families in Glengarry even before the first settlement of the Loyalists in 1784. As early as 1851, Glengarry had 1,627 residents of French origin and Alexandria must have had quite a number for the minutes of the school board here dated December 6 of that year, show that 15 out of 61 subscribers for the repair of the school house were French-Canadians. In the same year there is another list of subscribers for the payment of the teacher. Thirteen of the 40 names are French-Canadian.

Most of these early comers must have been concentrated in the towns and villages for a map of Glengarry published in 1862 showed every parcel of farm land with the owner's name. Not more than half a dozen French names appeared on this map.

However, the picture changed within a few years. While Scotchmen were turning to railroad building, mining and other non-agricultural pursuits, their farms in many cases became neglected and were bought up by new arrivals from adjacent Quebec. Many of the English-speaking farm owners packed off to Western Canada and the U.S. to pioneer the Prairies and their Glengarry properties often were purchased by our French-speaking friends.

Among early French-Canadian farmers who came to North Lancaster were the Majors and the Rogers [illegible] tion. Glengarry in the House of Commons, W. J. Major, MP.

Today, the Lalondes, the Sabourins and the Sauves, to mention only a few, are becoming as numerous as the Macdonalds the McMillans and MacLeods. It is interesting to note that the Roys have gravitated, almost inevitably, to Glen Roy, first settled by Highland immigrants.

KNOCK, KNOCK AT SASKATOON HOSPITAL

Sir: Re your editorial in your paper Feb. 14th. re cost of hospital patients, you mention somewhat of a slight terms of The City Hospital, Saskatoon. For your information I happen to know that hospital is one of the best run hospitals in the three prairie provinces, it is completely up to date and has a real good name among the other hospitals. Before knocking a sister hospital you should find out the true information.

A. T. SHIELDS

Edmonton, Alta.

P.S.—Maybe if your hospital was not on such a high hill costs would be lower, as you know things up in the air cost more.

(Ed. Note: The only "knocking" we did was to refer enviously on February 14th. to the low rates at Saskatoon and to say:

"The operating costs of the Saskatchewan hospital, for the first eleven months of the year, were only $9.91 a patient day, compared with the Ontario average of $14.30 and the Peterborough Civic Hospital average of $14.84. We do not know the hospital, and what kind of equipment and service it has. We must presume, on the evidence of operating costs, that it has much less to offer patients than the Peterborough Civic Hospital, and that its beds are more constantly occupied.")

Hint For The West

In Delhi, Premier Nehru rises to say that India is prepared to accept foreign aid—but only if there are no political or other strings attached.

A tip here for all the West. Because some in the West seem to be going too much on the assumption that all we have to do to line up other countries with us is to go to them with a loaf of bread in one hand and a pamphlet about democracy in the other.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it came to pass the same night, that the word of God came to Nathan, saying . . . Now therefore thus shalt thou say unto my servant David, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, I took thee from the sheepcote, even from following the sheep, that thou shouldest be ruler over my people Israel: . . . And it shall come to pass, when thy days be expired that thou must go to be with thy fathers, that I will raise up thy seed after thee, which shall be of thy sons; and I will establish his kingdom . . .

And David the king came and sat before the Lord, and said, Who am I, O Lord God, and what is mine house, that thou hast brought me hitherto? And yet this was a small thing in thine eyes, O God; for thou hast also spoken of thy servant's house for a great while to come, and hast regarded me according to the estate of a man of high degree, O Lord God . . .

Therefore now, Lord, let the thing that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant and concerning his house be established for ever, saying, The Lord of hosts is the God of Israel, even a God to Israel: and let the house of David thy servant be established before thee. (I Chron. 17: 3, 7, 11, 16, 17, 23, 24.)

✧ ✧ ✧

So David reigned over all Israel and executed judgement and justice among all his people. (I Chron. 18: 14.)

The just man walketh in his integrity: his children are blessed after him. A king that sitteth in the throne of judgement scattereth away all evil with his eyes. (Prov. 20: 7, 8.)

Outlines Ideas On Education

TORONTO, March 5 (CP) — Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, former Chancellor of the University of Chicago, said Tuesday night that the United States believes that "although education is a stage through which the population must pass, it is not one that need mark them in any permanent way."

Dr. Hutchins, associate director of the multi-million-dollar Ford Foundation, told a lecture audience here that education in the United States is primarily vocational because the country passed from a state of under-development to a highly-developed nation within 60 years.

"The notion that education should be primarily vocational now is absurd. The question now is not how to get rich and powerful but how to use those riches and that power.

"Such a question cannot be answered by vocational, technological, scientific or any other form of specialized education."

Many Americans go to college and get a degree merely to prove they are normal or to break into occupational groups, "from doctors to embalmers," which limit access to their numbers to make the occupations look dignified and restrict competition.

SCHOOL MEANS WORK—U.N. troops moved out of this school one day this winter. School boys moved in next morning to clean the yard and buildings. Classes started that afternoon. It's part of the young Korean's training in citizenship—which he also gets by street-cleaning chores once a month.

Meagre Equipment Problem In Korea's Stop-Gap Schools

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SUWON, Korea, March 5 (CP) —A group of Korean school boys trudged along a road outside Suwon, carrying rush brooms, shovels and rice-straw mats.

"We're getting our own school back today," said one. "The Americans moved out yesterday. We're going to clean it up this morning and then classes will begin."

The mats were to be seats, because there was no furniture.

Since last August the 400 students of Sam Il Middle School had gone to class in the undamaged Methodist Church. Principal Kim Dong wha said Sam Il school would have no heat, though the temperature was around zero, but there were "good [illegible]."

As for students cleaning their own school, that was nothing, he said.

"This is sanitation day when all middle school students, boys and girls, come to class with brooms and spades.

"Once a month they must spend two hours cleaning the city streets. It's partly to help the city, because in wartime there aren't enough men to keep the city clean, but mostly it is practical training in citizenship."

Wherever possible in Seoul province schools have been reopened. Classroom repair is under way, using free lumber, nails, glass and cement provided by the United Nations Civilian Assistance Command.

"We're working on 155 classrooms now," said the Provincial team commander. "We'll increase the allocation as the work proceeds and materials become available."

Jack Purves of Cranbrook, B.C., the C.A.C. welfare officer said:

"The kids are going to school in buildings without windows, in tents, in unheated quarters—but they're going to school.

"Once school buildings are released by the Army they are returned to the civilian authorities."

Texts and notebooks are scarce but there are reports that Canadian pulp is on the way and that it is to be turned over to the Ministry of Education.

Meanwhile, Seoul's colleges and universities are functioning in tents in Pusan. (The philosophy faculty of one college blew away —tents, chairs and all—in a recent hurricane.)

There is no sign yet that the United Nations will release college and medical buildings now used by the military.

Red Federation Cominform's Biggest Helper

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

VIENNA, March 5—(AP)—Behind every open communist party in Europe is a hidden inner organization with strings leading to Moscow. The Cominform co-ordinates the over-all drive to dominate Western Europe. One of the Cominform's principal helpers is the World Federation of Trade Unions, working to co-ordinate the work of front organizations.

The W.F.T.U., with headquarters in Vienna, serves as a transmission belt for the Cominform.

The W.F.T.U., with headquarters in Vienna, serves as a transmission belt for the Cominform.

The W.F.T.U. is not registered with the Austrian government, as it should be under Austrian law. Its foreign officers have asked the police for residence permits and have been rfused, on the ground that the W.F.T.U. is not a legal organization in Austria. This ordinarily would mean the W.F.T.U. would have to clear out.

But the W.F.T.U. has no intention of getting out. Vienna is entirely too valuable to it and to its Communist bosses. Vienna is a western city of great culture, a city respected all over the civilized world. It makes an ideal point, from the Communist view, for launching various propaganda drives and for co-ordinating Communist efforts.

So the W.F.T.U.'s foreign officers appealed the police decision to the security director, the next authority up the ladder from the police. If necessary, the W.F.T.U. simply will ignore the Austrian order and remain under Soviet protection. Foreign officers of the W.F.T.U. live in the Soviet sector, under Soviet protection.

Rival Founded

The W.F.T.U. was founded in 1945, when trade unions, noting that the United Nations charter provided for an international organization of workers, sought to build such an organization. The British Trade Unions Congress and the American C.I.O. were charter members. The A.F.L. re- [illegible] Soviet trade unions.

(In Canada, the Canadian Congress of Labor was a member of the W. F. T. U. for a time but broke away with other bodies to form the Anti-Red I. C. F. T. U. The Trades and Labor Congress did not belong to the W. F. T. U. It also is a member of the new body).

The first W.F.T.U. fell apart as the Communists more and more dominated it. The final break was in a debate over the Marshall Plan in 1949. The T.U.C. and C.I.O., along with other western trade union organizations, broke away, and the rival international confederation of free trade unions was founded in London.

On paper, the W.F.T.U. would be the larger, with the millions claimed as members for the Soviet Union, where the state forces workers to be members of an organization which serves only the state.

The W.F.T.U. also serves the Kremlin wtil. It is involved in every peace-offensive propaganda attempt of the U.S.S.R. It is a training ground for agitation and strike techniques. It is a sounding board for every Soviet project.

The W.F.T.U., pretending to be solely a labor union and not a Communist weapon, attempts through its various affiliates and its slogans about labor rights to attract workers from the non-Communist unions.

But the W.F.T.U. fools nobody who has followed the Communist drive. It is closely linked with all Kremlin projects outside the U.S.S.R. It helped organize the World Peace Council. It has a hand in every international propaganda meeting with Red overtones.

OTTAWA, March 5 — CP)—Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel) Tuesday night reiterated his call for a national development and production board to help steer Canada through a long-haul of preparedness.

"I am more than ever convinced that such a board would go far in facilitating the means of meeting our rapidly-expanding international commitments, would cushion the impact on our ordinary economy and would broaden the basis of taxation."

Mr. Graydon said the western powers may be in for a "long, tedious and fatiguing pull even after armed equality has been established." He criticized the government for a tendency to paint "glowing" pictures of defence preparedness when major factors

Snowfall this winter is normal, according to the engineering department of the Trent Canal system. They looked over their snow survey statistics Tuesday and found:

Lake Simcoe watershed has less than 12 inches of snow.

Haliburton has an average of 18 inches.

North Peterborough (Jack's-Eel's-Eagle Lakes), an average of three feet.

They cannot forecast what might happen during the storms of March, as far as spring flooding is concerned. More snow, early rains on frozen ground, and many factors could determine spring's high water.

Tax Loopholes Cost U.S. $4½ Billion, Senator Says

WASHINGTON—(AP). — Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, Democrat of Minnesota, said that the tax loopholes cost the Federal Government more than $4,500,000,000 a year and benefitted almost entirely those with incomes of more than $10,000.

His views were set out in a study published by the Public Affairs Institute and titled "Tax Loopholes." The institute describes iself as a non-political organization concerned with presenting facts about public issues.

In the publication Mr. Humphrey attacked the $5,681,000,000 tax increase measure that Congress passed last fall, asserting that "it increased the inequities of existing law."

Enormous Handouts

"The pay-as-we-go objective was undermined by the enormous handouts to high income recipients," he wrote.

"It is a shocking fact that the writing of tax legislation has come to resemble the log-rolling and pork barrel of the special interest groups seeking protective tariffs and rivers and harbors appropriations.

"Undisguised log-rolling where a coal Senator supports the high depletion allowance for oil in return for the oil Senator's support of a higher depletion allowance for coal is undermining the integrity of (the tax) system."

Mr. Humphrey, a strong supporter of President Truman's Fair Deal program, said these were six principal loopholes. He listed these and the amounts he said they cost the Treasury annually as follows:

1. Percentage depletion—$750,000,000. Under percentage depletion, owners of certain mineral products are permitted to deduct a certain percentage of their gross income as a depletion allowance in figuring their income tax. Mr. Humphrey said that "unbelievably generous allowances granted previously to oil and gas operators and others were extended in the 1951 Act to sand, gravel, stone, clay, oyster and clam shells, and salt.

Income Splitting

2. Income splitting—$2,500,000,000. This was enacted in 1948 to benefit married couples. Mr. Humphrey said that only 3 per cent of the benefit went to married couples with incomes below $5,000 a year.

3. Failure to include in the law a provision for withholding of taxes on dividend and corporate bond interest payments — $300,000,000. The House of Representatives approved such a feature last year but the Senate rejected it.

4. Failure to increase estate and gift tax rates in the last 10 years—$400,000,000.

5. Failure to increase the capital gains tax rate sharply and tighten up on this levy—$100,000,000. Mr. Humphrey said that this tax could be used only by "the wealthy classes."

Family Partnerships

6. Approval of a broadened family partnership provision in the 1951 law—$100,000,000 Mr. Humphrey said an infant now could be made a partner in a business, thus splitting the family income and giving the advantage of lower rates on each segment of income.

Mr. Humphrey sought last fall to amend the income tax increase bill voted at that time. All of his amendments were rejected.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Bunny Morganson writes in the Tely re ball: "Viaduct Parkers' meeting Sunday supported the T.B.A. stand against further dealings with the Ontario body, and ruled Oshawa out of their league for this season." And this from Oshawa: "The Viaduct League met Sunday and voted to withdraw from the O.B.A. this season, and also to refuse admission to Oshawa, Peterborough and all other outside teams. It sounds serious but we happen to know that so far they haven't more than one sponsor lined up for a senior team at the Viaduct stadium this season." Viaduct Loop officials got peeved last fall at the O.B.A. as well as the Petes and Oshawa for bypassing 'em in playdowns.

* * * * * *

Meantime, the annual meeting of the C.O.B.L. has been set for March 11 at the LaSalle Hotel in Kingston. Teams in last season were: Belleville, Batawa, Napanee, Kingston, Picton, Brockville and Smiths Falls. Some talk this time of taking in a few U.S.A. teams and maybe operating in two sections. Perhaps the odd interlocking game, too. It mightn't be too bad a setup for Petes and Oshawa this summer, provided the opposition was strong enough. If it's senior calibre then the locals should check into the circuit and seek entry. But we don't want any more intermediate ball masquerading as the senior brand. Should be an early senior ball re-organization meeting here

Hawks Meet The Petes

Next O.H.A. hockey here is the start of the best-of-seven senior "B" semi-finals Friday night between Belleville Hawks and the Petes. Eagles open their series Saturday eve in Kingston. Here are the dates for the Belleville-Petes sawoffs, commencing here and alternating every other game: Mar. 7-10-12-14-17-19-21, if it goes the limit. And the Eagles-Kingston setup, starting there: Mar. 8-10-12-14-17-19-21, again if it goes the full distance. Finals also will be best-of-seven, and the group winner will proceed into provincial semi-finals in the last week of March. Points count in these series, two for a win, one a tie, with 10-minute overtime heats if needed.

* * * * * *

The recent group meeting suggested the following refs be recommended to the O.H.A. for the series: Maurice Walsh of Toronto, Jim Crombie of Bowmanville, Louis Lecompte of Trenton, Art Casterton and Bill Reason of Kingston. It's unlikely, of course, that the two Kingston officials would handle any Kingston-Eagles' games. None of the Eagles' officials attended the Sunday meeting in Belleville. The Petes weren't anxious for a best-of-seven semi-final series, but were outvoted by Kingston and Belleville delegates. Anyway, that's how it'll be. So, folks, remember it's Friday here for the Hawks vs. Petes' opener of semi-finals, and Monday here for K's vs. Eagles to start their big series. These playoffs should pack the place.

Hans Came A Cropper

[illegible] the mad matadors strut their stuff in the Brock Arena ring. And they went home happy when black Bobo Brazil won the deciding fall o'er huge Hans Hermann. The strutting German isn't popular, though he is a big strong guy. Two refs handled the bout and didn't miss much more than one usually does. One Lu Kimm, a fugitive from a Manchurian barbershop, proved much too powerful for talkative Strangler Bob Wagner, and won the semi-final after Bob had batted down the ref a few times for spoiling his chances to gouge Kimm's eyes. Stack and Wright went to a prelim draw.

Two hoop tilts last p.m. at the Y.M. saw Y-Knots down Normals 50-18, and Y-Jacks beat Penguins 31-26. Lindsay and P.C.V.S. senior boys wind up their sawoffs this aft at the Collegiate, with an exhibish as six betwixt Lindsay bantams and P.C.V.S. midgets. Friday has the girls' Y.W. semi-finals starting, while at four p.m. at Collegiate it'll be Port Ferry and P.C.V.S. lasses beginning C.O.S.S.A. quarter-finals. Return joust Monday. Togs plan a local exhibition the following gloaming. St. Catharines Stars tote a hefty lead here on Saturday night at 8:30 for their return with P.C.V.S. junior boys in O.A.B.A. semi-finals. The C.O.S.S.A. finals will go in Toronto a week from Saturday.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Montreal Athletic Commission Tuesday followed up the disqualification of Sandy Saddler with a $500 fine and released the world featherweight champion's purse.

The amount the New York Negro got out of his suddenly-halted bout Monday night with Armand Savoie of Montreal was not announced.

The gate, with paid attendance of 8,334, was announced as $25,374.

There was no suspension of Saddler. After a special meeting of the commission, chairman Emile Gauthier said Saddler's forthcoming induction into the United States Army was taken into consideration but "if it was an ordinary time we would suspend him."

The end of the non-title bout between Saddler and Savoie, Canadian lightweight champion, came just before the fourth round started after Saddler had been warned repeatedly by referee Tommy Sullivan for holding, hitting on the breaks, heeling and other illegal tactics.

After 33 years of consecutive operation, Ontario's Senior A Softball League, the Beaches Major Fastball League has suspended operations for one year. Secretary Harry Thornton said lack of sponsors was the chief reason the league will not operate. He said only one team was officially entered for 1952.

Switzerland's national hockey team defeated Canada, the Olympic champion, 5-4 Tuesday night in Zurich. The Swiss took a 2-0 lead in the first period. The Canadians came back with a pair in the middle period to tie the score but the Swiss outscored the Canadians 3-2 in the finale to take the decision. Sully Sullivan scored twice for the Canadians and Bob Wyatt and Engelbert Miller once each.

Dick Savitt, United States indoor champion, edged Budge Patty 9-7, 8-6 Tuesday to win the Kingston international tennis tournament in Kingston, Jamaica. Mrs. Betty Rosenquest Pratt of Kingston, defeated Althea Gibson of New York, 6-2, 6-4 to win the women's title.

Rocky Marciano, one of the leading contenders for Jersey Joe Walcott's world heavyweight crown, said Tuesday in an interview in Montreal that he would like to get a title shot right away, although there aren't any bouts lined up for him at the moment. Asked if he would like to fight Clarence Henry, who is being bracketed as a possible future champion, Marciano replied: "I'll fight him or anybody else."

Remember When—

"Y" Cagers Get Victories In House Loop

Y-Knots continued their winning ways Tuesday night in the Y.M.C.A. house league when they trounced the Normal School quintet 50-18. The Y-Jacks, except for a recent setback at the hands of Y-Knots, also kept winning with a 31-26 victory over Penguins.

Vern Butcher, with two baskets and a foul shot, led the Y-Knots to a three-point, 9-6 lead in the first quarter, McMartin being the only Normalite hitting the hoop. Then Y-Knots, featuring Ken Batchelor and Butcher, broke loose in a 14-point scoring spree for a halftime score of 23-8.

From there the Y-Knots pulled away, Bob Jamieson began to hit the twine in the third quarter regularly as they went up 38-14; then Y-Knots finished with a 12-point barrage.

The scoring for Y-Knots was distributed to every member, Butcher topping the group with 13, then Batchelor with 10, Jamieson nine, Fowler, Stewart and Harwood each six. Laundry was best for Normals with seven.

Checked Tighter

The second game was closer with the result that the checking was tighter and the score lower.

Canning, with four points, helped Penguins take a slim 5-3 score in the first quarter. But Y-Jacks, led by Whithard and Graves, tied the game at nine-all at half time, as two baskets by Bogue helped the Penguins hang on.

Y-Jacks then pulled away in the third quarter. Whithard, Dunning and Flowers sank 12 points to give Y-Jacks a six-point lead at the third quarter, 21-15. The Penguins rallied in the fourth quarter with Bogue leading the way but they fell short.

The Penguins' Bogue and Y-Knots' Whithard shared the scoring honors, each with 13. The Penguins' Canning totalled nine points.

Lineups:

First game — Y-Knots (50): Butcher 13, Batchelor 10, Fowler 6, Stewart 6, Jamieson 9, Harwood 6. Normals (18): Martin 4, Roblin, Radnor, McFadden 1, Hulsman 4, Pigden 2, Laundry 7.

Second game — Penguins (26): Canning 9, Motta, Bogue 13, Gandy, English 2, Hurrle.

Y-Jacks (31): Whithard 13, Groves 6, Dunning 2, Flowers 6, Huntley 4.

Denies Police System To Protect Players

TAMPA, Fla., March 5 (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said today that baseball will continue to exercise constant vigilance to prevent gamblers from approaching players but he denied that a new "police" system has been instituted.

The statement followed a story from Los Angeles quoting Bill Summers, American League umpire, as telling St. Louis Browns that such a system, designed to keep players from the fans before games to safeguard the athletes from gamblers, will be in effect this year.

"There really is nothing new about it," Frick said. "I have talked to American League president Will Harridge and National League president Warren Giles concerning precautionary measures, and I asked them to caution the players about talking to strangers, but that is all."

City Carpetball

Schedule for the week of March 10: Moose 9 vs. Legion 6; Red Patch 10 vs. Quakers 7; Orphans 16 vs. Legion 11; Fire Hall 13 vs. St. Gorge's 12; Legion 2 vs. Fire Hall 15; Legion 8 vs. 2nd Armour 3; S.O.E. 5 vs. Legion 4; Glens 1 vs. L.O.L. 14.

Results of last week's play: Quakers 7 split with Legion 11, winning 17-8 and losing 10-12; Red Patch 10 captured three points from Legion 6 by scores of 10-10 and 10-9; S.O.E. 5 captured both games from Red Patch 10 by scores of 21-4 and 14-11; Moose 9 won and lost to Legion 8 by scores of 13-9 and 7-15; St. George's 12 split with Fire Hall 15 by scores of 10-14 and 16-12; Legion 6 won and lost from Legion 4 by 16-7 and 10-12; Fire Hall 13 also were even with Legion 2 by scores of 6-12 and 15-7; L.O.L. 14 captured both games from Legion 11 by scores of 9-8 and 14-11; Orphans 16 split with Glens 1 by scores of 11-8 and 11-13.

If that postponed game between Nos. 3 and 15 is not played this week it will be defaulted.

President's Cup semi-final game between St. George's 5 and Legion 2 went to the Legion by winning the third game 7-3. The other games were 3-10 and 8-20.

Don't forget Knox Church bowling tournament March 7.

9 p.m.—A. Jackson and J. Marchen v. B. Wilson and V. Nelson.

The last four are at L.O.L. Hall.

And at the S.O.E. Hall:

7 p.m.—F. Parsons and V. Read v. G. Foster and G. LaPlante.
7 p.m.—D. Barclay and C. Butcher v. W. Meagher and O. James.
9 p.m.—A. Pilling and A. Bromley v. J. Wilson and T. Nice.
9 p.m.—D. Nichols and J. Chamberlen v. L. Herr and A. Peck.

These games must be played as scheduled. See detailed rules at the Legion, L.O.L., and S.O.E. Halls. League standing will be printed next week.

Brazil Beats Hateful Hans In Main Grapple Bout With German Out Of Ring

Bobo Brazil, 248 ebony pounds of him, won a popular deciding fall over 275-pound hateful Hans Hermann in the main pro mat bout at the Brock Arena last night. He managed to get back into the ring in time to beat the count after both had rolled out at seven minutes of the final round. A kick to Hans' head helped retard that character's return to the ring, and he was spluttering as furiously as Der Furious Fuehrer—a cellar suicide—at the end. But the crowd went home singing in the rain.

Bobo had taken the equalizing fall in just three minutes with three wild pile-drivers after a series of slams that shook the Black Forest. Hans had been roughing him along the ropes and throwing the odd fist to infuriate the lanky Negro, and the latter bounced back in angry fashion to pin him. Hans argued after that his shoulders weren't down and his weighty arguments carried Referee Joe Golab, a local newcomer, halfway over the top strand of the ropes ere Ref Dunlop arrived to the rescue. These refs proved that two can miss more than one at times, and they even tiffed briefly over one of Hans' many illegal grips.

Rough Tactics

Hermann won the opening fall in 16 minutes with the "Prussian Squeeze" after getting away with some roughing tactics in the corner when he threw the book at Bobo. Said book included chokes, knees and fists. Brazil was warned early against using his head butts and the warning lasted till late in the bout. The big German did some of his strutting and arguing with refs and ringsiders, and took pleasure in demonstrating his strength, but he found Bobo an unwilling guinea pig in a fairly lively session.

Too Powerful

Moustached Lu Kimm, a Manchurian 272-pounder, was too strong for Strangler Bob Wagner, going 249, in the semi-final, and wrapped it up in 22 minutes when Golab disqualified Bob for tossing his nibs down twice trying to break up a grip with eye goug[illegible] fists bounced off his massive frame like B.B.'s off a boiler. He liked a headlock and Bob didn't. It wasn't too lively a bout, and the subdued Strangler made more noise most of the way than the fans. Kimm, in the first appearance here, impressed with his strength and clean tactics, drawing a hand from the crowd at the finish.

Goes To Draw

Bill Stack, at 240, and the 251-pound Jim (Bull) Wright went to a prelim 30-minute draw. Wright was villainous and pulled hair and slashed as well as punching. Stack got in some drop kicks and chased Wright to the ropes a few times. After being slammed several times by Wright, Bill came back with a leg-hold and was working a hard head scissors considerably toward the finish. Honors were about even during the tussle, and they mixed briefly after the bell.

Three Hamilton Rinks Enter Semi-Finals

HAMILTON, March 5 (CP) — One Brantford rink and three from Hamilton Tuesday qualified to enter the semi-final round for the Spectator Trophy in the annual Hamilton bonspiel under way at two clubs here. Winners will be decided today.

Dr. C. T. Mason of Hamilton Thistles, last year's winner of the trophy, was eliminated Tuesday by another Thistle Club rink skipped by R. S. Stone in a 9-8 game.

Ross Tarlton's Hamilton Thistle rink, now favorite to cop honors in the main event, gained the semi-finals by ousting the "football foursome" from the same club skipped by Ray Broadway, 9-7.

M. Morton Leads

M. Morton rolled high single of 310 this week in the Girls' City Bowling League as D. McArthur led in crosses with 796. Black's 3,093 pinnage was best and Marines' 1,262 topped teams in singles. M. Leroux with 458 was closest to the blind score of 451. Competition was keen with 2-1 wins hung up by Cardinals over Bassel's, Dickson's over Sevenaires, Marines against Collis, Arcos over Aces, and Curtin's against Black's.

Good singles included: M. Hawthorne 299, F. Kokesh 291, B. Hughes 277, B. Castle 273, D. McArthur 271, 264, 261, M. Bailey 263, D. Martin 262 and J. Castle 255. Neat triples were: M. Hawthorne 741, D. Martin 684, M. Morton 677, B. Castle 671, B. Hughes 647 and E. Basciano 640.

Havelock Gets First

HAVELOCK, March 5 (ENS)—The Havelock boys beat Stayner 6-3 here last night to open their O.M.H.A. juvenile "C" semi-finals. It was a fast, keen fray with Referee Ed Woodcock handing out 11 penalties. Offenders were: Scott 2, B. Polock 2, Richie 2, Sutton, Pounder, Millsop, Hockett.

J. Laing scored from B. Laing in the first frame for Havelock, with Chase, Heath and Ruttan tallying for them the next heat, Heath and Scott having an assist each. Richards, Hockett and Paul Scored this inning for Stayner, Sutton and Barret each earning an assist. Ruttan and B. Laing notched goals for Havelock in the third, an assist apiece going to Scott, R. Pollock and B. Laing. Teams:

Stayner: Turner, Richie, Gillies, Hockett, Thompson, Barrett, Millsop, Barber, Sommerville, Paul, Steele, Pounder, Milne, Sutton.

Havelock: Stackhouse, B. Pollock, Newman, B. Laing, R. Pollock, J. Laing, Ruttan, Chase, Heath, Patterson, Buchanan, Fredericks, Scott.

Grant Debunks Hockey Theory

MONTREAL — (CP) — Mike Grant marvels at the development of hockey in the last 40 years or so and debunks the theory that all the good men belonged to the old days when amateurism was in flower.

Mike is a member of the hockey Hall of Fame and played on defence for the famous Victorias when that Montreal team won the Stanley Cup.

He remembers when the Vics went to Winnipeg to take the Stanley Cup in a sudden death game in 1899. There was no ice available in Montreal. So the team worked out in a gymnasium until train time. They went into action without a practice and licked Winnipeg 7-5.

Despite such games, Mike says the hockey players of his day wouldn't stand a chance against the stars of today. "We couldn't cope with shots from fellows like Geoffrion, Richard or Howe," he says.

"They can talk all they like about our old stickhandlers. We had some good ones for the times, no doubt, but they took a long time to wind up. Now players work much faster and they are a lot more skilled every way," says the young "oldtimer."

"It's a pretty rough game but a great one," Mike says. "There was no boarding in the old days. We hit hard and fairly, but you just did not jam a player against the boards. It wasn't the thing to do."

"Like a lot of oldtimers I like to think we were better and would be just as good now, but I'm not fooling myself. Our goalies with their light equipment [illegible]

Mike was offered the equivalent of $3,500 a year to play for the New York Crescents in the early 1900s but he preferred to stay with the Vics.

Mike retired from hockey after playing for Shamrocks in 1901. The late J. K. L. Ross brought him into racing back in the '20s. He has been paddock judge, patrol judge, and steward down through the years and is a familiar figure around Montreal tracks.

Curling Championship At Sudbury In 1953

WINNIPEG, March 5 (CP). — The Canadian curling championship will be held next year at Sudbury, Chief Justice Thane Campbell of Charlottetown announced Tuesday night.

It will be the first time the annual sport classic has been held in Northern Ontario.

The Chief Justice said Thomas H. Rennie of Toronto has been named honorary chairman of the Canadian curling championship. He will be succeeded as chairman by Senator John T. Haig of Winnipeg.

Ross Harstone of Hamilton was named a new member of the board.

Hiawatha Victors

KEENE, Mar. 5 (ENS)—Hiawatha Indians, last year's champs took the first game of the Otonabee Rural League finals from the Downer's Corners Blueshirts by 9 to 4 in a game that was slowed at times by sticky ice. The Indians passed the puck better and were full value for their win. Boyd Cowie led them with four counters, followed by G. Sellaby with two, Wally Thompson, Heafield and L. Sellaby with one each, assists going to Heafield (2), B. Cowie, Anderson, Thompson, G. Sellaby and Eldie Musgrave. Bob Locke, the league's top scorer, led Downer's with three goals while Grant Burns scored one, assisted by Buck McIlmoyle. H. Steenburgh assisted Locke with his first two. Twelve penalties were handed out, all for minor offences with seven going to the winners. The Indians got solid goaling from McDonald, and Eldie Musgrave went good on defence with Cowie and Heafield starring on the front line. Ed. Close and Bob Locke looked best for Downer's and Grant Burns and Bob McIlmoyle were effective at times. The second of the best of five series will be played in Keene Thursday night.

Hiawatha — Goal, McDonald; defence, Anderson, Thompson; forwards, D. Musgrave, L. Sellaby and N. Paudash; alternates, B. Cowie, G. Sellaby, E. Musgrave, J. Howard, Steed, G. Cowie.

Downer's—Goal, Larabie; defence, Close and Buck McIlmoyle forwards, Locke, Barker, Humphrey, alternates, H. Steenburgh, W. Steenburgh, Bob McIlmoyle, Batten, Burns.

LITTLE GIANT — Freckle-face Chris Durocher, six, son of New York Giants Manager Leo Durocher, joins some of the defending National League champions in pushups at Phoenix, Ariz. Manitoba Rink Edges Clark In Exciting Curling Display

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG, March 5. (CP)—Billy Walsh's Manitoba rink Tuesday scored its fourth straight victory in the Canadian Curling Championship to become one of two rinks unbeaten at the end of fourth-round play. Nova Scotia, the other undefeated rink, stretched its record to three wins by drubbing Saskatchewan 15-6. Walsh's 9-7 win over Dr. Ralph Clark of Peterborough was the first loss for the Ontario rink. Alberta swept into a tie with Ontario for third place by defeating Northern Ontario 11-6. Both rinks have two wins and a loss. Quebec trounced the winless Newfoundland rink 9-4 and British Columbia defeated Prince Edward Island 17-10.

Curlers took time out Tuesday to attend their annual banquet. The fifth draw starts at 3 p.m. (4 p.m. EST) today after the Dominion Curling Association holds its annual meeting.

The 2,000 fans who took in the fourth-round matches were treated to a good mixture of curling, including spectacular shots, high scoring and costly misses.

[illegible] The lead changed four times.

Evened Score

Dr. Clark went one up on the eighth end with a double take-out which left him with shot rock. Walsh purposely blanked the ninth end to trail 7-6, then matched Clark's cold draw to the button on the final rock on the 10th to even the score.

Walsh went ahead 8-7 on the 11th end, scoring on his last rock behind an out-of-house guard. Clark couldn't get at the shot rock on his final rock.

The last end was packed with thrills as both rinks went all out.

Manitoba was shot when Walsh sent in his guard. Clark raised on his own rocks to within inches of the western counter, both rocks touching the button.

Walsh pushed in another guard and Clark, after deliberating in a huddle for some time, shot at the rocks in front in an effort to knock out the shot rock on a raise.

He was inches off the mark and the game was over.

Dismal Performance

Frank Hastings' Saskatchewan rink turned in a dismal performance against Nova Scotia's Henry Blanchard after showing good form in the first three rounds. Hastings and his partners didn't miss a bet as they kept their unbeaten string intact.

Reg. Stone of Trail, B.C., displayed some sharp shooting to cash in on two five-enders and a four in B.C.'s high-scoring victory over Frank Hansen of P.E.I. Hansen put up his best show on the last end when he scored a four.

Quebec's Ken Weldon was never caught after taking an early lead over Tommy Tomelin of Newfoundland. The Montrealers scored one three and six singles.

Game Fight

The inexperienced Northern Ontario rink skipped by Jimmy Guy put up a game fight but was forced to try many difficult shots before losing 11-6 to Alberta. The Art Simpson rink from Bassano was not spectacular but curled steadily and deserved the win.

In third-round play in the morning, Manitoba edged British Columbia 9-8; Ontario defeated New Brunswick 9-7; Quebec defeated P.E.I. 10-6; Saskatchewan defeated Newfoundland 6-5 and Nova Scotia downed Northern Ontario 12-7.

Fifth draw for today is:
New Brunswick vs. Manitoba.
Prince Edward Island vs. Ontario.
British Columbia vs. Newfoundland
Nova Scotia vs. Quebec.
Alberta vs. Saskatchewan.
Bye—Northern Ontario.

Sid Abel Receives His U.S. Citizenship

DETROIT, March 5 (AP). — A United States citizen will break into the all-Canadian lineup of the Detroit Red Wings National Hockey League team today.

But he will be no new recruit.

The team's veteran captain, Sidney Gerald Abel, will appear in Federal Court to receive his final papers and be sworn in as a United States citizen.

Manager Jack Adams will be on hand as a character witness for the Wings' star centre.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

That was a tough game for Dr. Clark's rink to lose yesterday afternoon, playing against the Manitoba quartet, and although for the time being the Ontario representatives are one down, don't sell them short. When the competition started on Monday they were completely overlooked by those in the know, in fact they were considered just another one [illegible] become one of the oustanding rinks of the 'spiel. The Winnipeg press has been loud in praise and it appears that wherever our boys are playing they draw the crowd. By tonight the standing may be changed. We are still holding fast to our first opinion, that Clark's rink will finish in the first three.

When the flash came through yesterday that Dr. R. Clark's rink had won from the British Columbia boys, some wag posted this sign up in one of the C.G.E. departments: British Columbia 6, Switch Gear 7.

Bruins Drop Rangers 4-1 Tied For Fourth N.H.L. Place

By The Canadian Press.

Boston Bruins fought their way back into the National Hockey League Stanley Cup race Tuesday night when they scored a convincing victory over New York Rangers to pull into a fourth-place tie with the Blueshirt squad.

The victory — Bruins' first against New York since Dec. 5—deadlocked the teams with 53 points each, 13 behind the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs. Rangers have 20 wins while the Beantowners have copped 19 games, both in 61 outings.

Milt Schmidt, Ed Sandford, Woody Dumart and Dunc Fisher scored for the winners while Hy Buller drove in the Rangers' lone marker. Schmidt's goal was the 198th of his N H L career while Dumart's was his 201st.

The game was a cleanly-played affair, seen by 5,967 Boston fans. Only seven penalties were handed out by referee Red Storey, four to the Bruins, and three to the Blueshirts.

One Scheduled Game

Only one game is scheduled in N H L play tonight, the runner-up Montreal Canadiens moving into Toronto for a clash with the third-place Maple Leafs who trail them by four points. The clash could go a long way toward settling the six-team circuits' third place and the fate of meeting Detroit Red Wings in the Stanley Cup semi-finals.

Montreal manager Dick Irvin said Tuesday night he did not know whether rookie star Dickie Moore would be available for tonight's game. He twisted his knee against Rangers last Saturday and did not accompany the Habs on their Chicago jaunt Sunday.

There is still plenty of speculation in Toronto as to just whom Leaf general manager Conn Smythe will drop tonight if he chooses to dress Eric Nesterenko and Earl Balfour, high-scoring forwards with the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Toronto Marlboros.

Nesterenko was rightwinging for Ted Kennedy and Sid Smith Tuesday while Balfour was working the portside berth on Max Bentley's line in the Toronto club's daily workout at Maple Leaf Gardens. The displaced wingers—Tod Sloan and Jim Morrison—practiced on a line with Ray Timgren.

Singing Blues

Out Detroit way, Tommy Ivan is singing his coaching blues from a hospital bed.

Down with a severe cold, Ivan will be replaced for Thursday night's game at home against Boston Bruins by Jimmy Skinner, a Red Wing scout and former coach of the O H A Junior A Windsor Spitfires. Skinner will have his hands full with a rather wobbly defence corps.

Benny Woit and Leo Reise are out of the lineup while Red Kelly is still having trouble with a strained ankle. Marcel Pronovost is about the only Detroit blueline basher without a limp.

Reise has torn muscles in his right hip while Woit has a badly-wrenched knee. Both were injured in Monday night's clash with Chicago Black Hawks, won 3-2 by the Wings.

Larry Zeidel is being brought up by the Wings from Indianapolis Capitals of the American Hockey League to bolster the Detroit defence corps.

Hornets Edge Cleveland 3-2

By The Associated Press.

The Pittsburgh Hornets, gunning for their first American Hockey League pennant, were virtually assured of reaching their goal today.

Coach King Clancy's Hornets took a big step in the right direction Tuesday night by edging out the red-hot Cleveland Barons, 3-2.

The victory boosted the Hornets eight points ahead of the Barons who had piled up an 18 game unbeaten streak. The Hornets have seven games left to play and the Barons eight. The two rivals clash again tonight in Cleveland.

Johnny McClellan scored five seconds after the halfway mark of the third period to break a 2-2 tie and win the game for the Hornets. The victory was Pittsburgh's 17th straight on home ice.

The Barons jumped off to a 2-1 lead in the first period on goals by Steve Wochy and Vic Lynn. Bob Hassard tallied for Pittsburgh. Rudy Migay tied it up early in the second period to set the stage for McLellan's payoff counter.

Leftwinger Bob Sollinger of the Hornets was carried from the ice in the first period when he suffered a recurrence of a back injury.

Leafs Acquire Bill Jennings

TORONTO, March 5 (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League Tuesday announced the acquisition of shortstop Bill Jennings from St. Louis Browns of the American League.

Jennings, veteran of the New York Giants organization and last year the regular shortstop for the Browns, joins Bill Demars and Bud Thomas at the position.

Owner Jack Cooke, who made the announcement, also said Leafs received the signed contracts from outfielder Bob Balcena and pitcher Leon Foulk. It brought to 25 the number already signed.

Cooke, just back from Leafs' Fort Lauderdale training camp, said Wilmer Fields, negro star with Brantford of the Intercounty League, will report to business manager Mike Murphy March 19.

Fields' status with the Leafs is undetermined. He agreed to sign to play professional two months ago. A few weeks later he appeared to change his mind and asked Brantford if he could return there.

Skips Approve Use Of Slide

WINNIPEG, March 5 (CP)—To slide or not to slide—that's one slipper question on the agenda today when the Dominion Curling Association holds its annual meeting here.

But the slide question is no question at all to the 11 skips battling it out in the Canadian curling championship in Winnipeg's amphitheatre rink.

The skips all come up with the same answer: Keep the slide.

The popular form of delivery, known variously as the Winnipeg slide, the Strathcona slide or the Watson slide — after Winnipeg's Ken Watson—will be examined closely by the D.C.A. rules committee, which fixes the do's and don'ts for Canada's curlers.

The request for a check [illegible] of the curling association.

The Edmonton delegation wants a strong rein put on the curlers who follow through—sometimes past the hog line.

Some of the skips had this to say about it:

Jimmy Guy, Northern Ontario —The slide's fine as long as they don't overdo it. There's absolutely no advantage to it. Sure, I slide too.

Dr. Ralph Clark of Peterborough—Leave the slide alone. Sure, I slide, and why not? It's just a case of the old men not liking the slide while the young men do. And this is a young man's game now whether they like it or not.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Don Raleigh, New York's only contender among the seven top point-getters in the National Hockey League, was the only one of the big seven to score a point as Boston walloped the Rangers 4-1 Tuesday night.

Raleigh chalked up an assist and now has 16 goals and 36 assists for 52 points. His one-point gain didn't move him out of fourth spot, but put him within two points of third-place Ted Lindsay of Detroit.

League-leader in total points and goals is still Gordie Howe of Detroit with a 39-32—71 record. He is followed by Elmer Lach of Montreal with 13 goals and a pace-setting 46 assists for 59 points.

Greenshirts Subdue Hawks 8-5 Move Into Fifth Place Deadlock

[illegible] Greenshirts closed out their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A schedule Tuesday night in a game that may cause considerable confusion at league headquarters. By defeating third-place Galt Black Hawks 8-5, Greenshirts moved into a fifth-place deadlock with St. Catharines Teepees.

Ontario Hockey Association regulations state that goal averages figured out to three decimal points, decide the foremost team in case of a tie. Unofficial figures indicate both clubs' records work out to a .520 average. The next move is up to the O H A.

The other Junior A tussle originally scheduled Tuesday night, between Toronto Marlboros and Toronto St. Michael's, was cancelled Sunday because it could have no effect on the final standings.

Marlies are firmly settled in first place. St. Mike's hold down fourth.

One-game Lead

At the lakehead, Fort William Hurricanes moved into a one-game lead in the best-of-seven Thunder Bay Junior A finals last night when they edged the defending champion Port Arthur [illegible]

The second game is scheduled in Fort William Thursday.

At Kitchener Tuesday night, Orv Tessier led the winners with five goals and an assist.

Single tallies went to Bill Hicks, Jack Higgins and Gary Edmundson, while Ed Switzer and Jack McBurney banged in two each for the Galt cause. Johnny Sleaver garnered the other Black Hawk goal.

Joe Malo scored twice for Fort William, Frank Richardson and Alex Irving adding the others. Don Chiupka, Junior Wilson and Dave Whalen scored for Bruins.

Ban On Import Of Cattle Helps Producer—Gardiner

OTTAWA, March 5 — (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner said Tuesday night the federal government's embargo on imports of livestock and cattle from other countries was imposed to protect the Canadian market for the Canadian producer.

"The government had no other objective than to make it possible for producers in Canada to have access to the only market that is available to them," said Mr. Gardiner.

He made the statement after George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said:

"The Canadian Press indicated that the consensus was that this was not intended really as a barrier in the movement of cattle from the United States so much as it was intended as a device to force the provinces into submission to the wish of the Agriculture Minister that they should abandon their embargoes."

(The Canadian Press said Tuesday, in reporting the import controls, that the ban also appeared to be an attempt to break restrictions established by British Columbia and Quebec against livestock and meats from other provinces.)

British Columbia, Manitoba and Quebec have imposed restrictions on the imports of livestock and meat from other provinces.

Nothing Different

Mr. Drew said Mr. Gardiner had not said anything to alter the impression given by the news report. In fact, Mr. Gardiner had said much to support it.

The Minister had said in the Commons that the embargo, in effect, was not going to mean anything; the United States was not going to export cattle to Canada at the prices that will prevail as a result of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in South Saskatchewan.

Unless some explanation was given, said Mr. Drew, members would pass the bill with the knowledge that the federal government was nothing but a "club to force the province into submission."

Mr. Gardiner replied that the government had no other objective than to make it possible for producers in Canada to have access to the only market available to them.

The only way the Canadian consumer would suffer as a result of the federal embargo was through provincial restrictions. Such restrictions could prevent adequate Canadian meat supplies from reaching them.

Mr. Drew said the provinces had the right to impose the restrictions. Agriculture was one of the things that was as much under provincial as under federal jurisdiction.

No one wanted to see erected barriers to a free flow of trade among the provinces, but the provinces had a right to act to protect themselves from the negligence of the federal government.

Urges Inquiry Into Economic Part Of Seaway

By The Canadian Press.

A Liberal member of the Nova Scotia Legislature wants a Federal inquiry into the St. Lawrence seaway project to study "with a neutral eye its economic implications."

S. W. Proudfoot (Lib.-Pictou West) Tuesday told the Nova Scotia Legislature during the throne speech debate that there is some doubt as to what effect the seaway will have on Maritime industry.

In the British Columbia Legislature, Premier Byron Johnson, who is also provincial treasurer, brought down a record budget of $142,000,000 for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1953—$24,000 larger than the previous budget.

A cheerful note was that no new taxes were announced. Estimated expenditures were put at $141,905,433 and revenue at $141,986,869 for a surplus of approximately $81,000.

H. B. Macdonald (Ind.-Calgary) became the first member of the Alberta Legislature to cross from the opposition side of the house to the government benches. The move was made after a caucus of Social Credit members invited Mr. Macdonald to make the change.

Lone Survivor

He is the lone survivor of the Independent Party movement formed in an effort to defeat the government in the 1940 provincial election. Mr. Macdonald said he will support "absolutely" Social Credit party theory and economic doctrine.

The New Brunswick Legislature heard a plea by Louis A. Lebel (Lib.-Restigouche) for rehabilitation of roads in southern New Brunswick. Speaking in the throne-speech debate he also rapped what he called the Progressive Conservative opposition practice of speculating on possible cabinet changes. He termed it a "Tory shuffle game."

Lloyd Stinson, (C.C.F.-Winnipeg South) introduced a resolution in the Manitoba Legislature appointing a standing independent commission to readjust representation following each decennial census. Debate on the resolution was adjourned. The effect of such a readjustment would be to increase urban representation and decrease the number of rural members.

Salsberg Requests Special Consideration

TORONTO, March 5 (CP) — Joseph B. Salsberg Tuesday asked for special consideration for his position as the only member of the Labor-Progressive party in Ontario legislature.

Speaking in the legislature's throne speech debate, Mr. Salsberg mixed humor with seriousness when he said he was the only "non-Tory" from the 17 Toronto ridings and asked Premier Frost to appoint him "official opposition for Greater Toronto."

He also noted that the election defeat of his party colleague, A. A. MacLeod in Toronto Bellwoods had left him without a member to second his bills and motions.

The premier should organize a "pool" among the government's many back-benchers from which he could draw seconders for bills and motions.

New Regulations For Printers

OTTAWA, March 5 — (CP) — New regulations governing conduct of employees of the Government Printing Bureau have been put into effect, it was learned Tuesday.

Edmond Cloutier, Queen's Printer, said the regulations, which cover everything from "habitual lateness" to sale of lottery tickets, gambling, or use of departmental equipment for anything but government work, have been in preparation for the last three years.

It was decided to put them into effect at once, he added, because of recent newspaper articles charging that "widespread racketeering" was going on in the bureau.

Employees committing any of the offences listed may draw a warning for the first offence, may be dismissed or suspended for a second offence, and draw an automatic dismissal for a third violation.

Further Expansion

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) —The United States Government will lay before the aluminum industry today proposals for a major "third round" expansion of U.S. aluminum production, together with a step-up in stockpiling and a long-term purchase contract with Canada. Defence Production Administrator Manly Fleischmann and other defence officials will meet aluminum and copper producers today. Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson will confer with high government, business and industry leaders on the aluminum program Thursday.

Suspended Sentence

WHITBY, March 5 (CP).—Mrs. Alexsanorri Bolotenko Tuesday was given a suspended sentence when she pleaded guilty to assaulting Jeftovic Slavko, an employee om the Federal Labor Department in an immigration camp at nearby Ajax. Slavko said he refused to give Mrs. Bolotenko a meal ticket for her husband because he was away in Toronto at the time and she hit him.

OVERHEATED PIPES

Firemen made a run into Ashburnham at 6:40 a.m. today when overheated pipes were reported at the home of Roy Emery, 558 Rogers St. A handpump was used to extinguish any chance of fire.

DRAW WINNER

Winner of a set of aluminum ware was Mrs. Harold Mesley, 499 Muray St., who held the lucky ticket in a draw sponsored by the Loyal True Blue Lodge. Some of the proceeds of the campaign are to be sent to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto.

CAN STILL FIGHT CANCER

The headquarters of the Cancer Society campaign is still open for contributions although the active campaign ended last week. The Junior Chamber of Commerce which sponsored the campaign said that money is vitally needed to help in cancer research.

PENNY-A-DAY

The Penny-A-Day drive of the Red Cross and Community Fund campaign continues in its daily increase as compared to the 1951 drive. Tuesday with $89.25 collected in the city and district schools was an increase of $14.11 over the amount collected on the third day last year. The accumulated increase this year is now $82.66.

FLOWERS TO UTILITIES

Baskets of flowers that delighted the eye in the new office of the Utilities Commission bore the following names of donors: Thomas F. Doughty, Hobbs Glass Ltd., Cooksville Brick Co., Peterborough Lumber Co., John Wolstenholme, W. Gordon Hall, Timber Structures of Canada, Adamson and Dobbin, Canadian General Electric Co., Ontario Marble

ACCIDENT PUTS LIGHTS OUT

Residents of two houses on Water St., near the hydro station, had their electricity cut off during the dinner hour Tuesday evening. A truck, travelling south on Water St., driven by Jack Heffernan, R.R. 10, Peterborough, went into a skid, and before the driver could regain control, the rear of the truck snapped a guy wire. Power to the two homes was interrupted for a short time.

COLOR SLIDE SHOW

Regardless of the storm on Tuesday night a large group of Peterborough Camera Club members turned out at the Public Library to view a 150-color slide show, scenes from Florida to Georgian Bay and the mid-West. Those who showed slides were Ray Titterington, Peter Astle, Morley Powell, Charles Kingan, Selby Rickards, W. H. Staffen, Syd Bond and Bill Harrison. The club's salon show that has been on exhibition for three weeks will be dismantled on Thursday evening.

Last Kick?

March gave out with a kick which most people hope will be the last one for this winter. The snow began falling heavily at 3 a.m. and by 9 a.m. three and three-quarter inches had fallen. More piled on top during the morning, Some drivers were impressed enough to put chains on their cars just in case it didn't go away as it should.

Started By Torch Fire Threatens Stores, Flats

CAMPBELLFORD, March 5 — (ENS)—A fire that started from a blow torch being used to thaw pipes at the rear of a Campbellford grocery store caused about $5,000 damage and drove a family out of an upstairs apartment at noon today.

W. J. Masterson, owner of the grocery store and Charles Collins were using a blow torch to thaw pipes on the outside of the building. But heat from the torch apparently ignited timbers inside.

Once the fire gained headway flames shot up the rear of the building high into the air threatening both the grocery store and a store operated by the Canadian Tire Corporation and two apartments above.

Masterson's family, his wife, three sons and girl fled from the apartment without waiting to put on their coats.

The apartment owned by T. B. Horkins QC, above the other store, was not occupied at the time.

Very little damage was done to the Canadian Tire store and to the apartment above. There was considerable smoke damage to the grocery store and the apartment above it.

Store manager William Dawson was away in Belleville, but volunteers cleared out the store's stock room and put the merchandise in a neighboring store out of danger. Firemen, who quickly brought the fire under control time.

Some rabbits and a dog in the sunroom above the grocery store were suffocated by the smoke.

Commission Opposes Houses Along River

The prospect of the construction of some twelve or more homes on the east side of the river opposite the filtration plant will not be undertaken with the approval of the Utilities Commission as firmly indicated at their meeting Thursday.

The Commission owns a strip of the east side river front, and will use it to prevent sewage outlets into the Otonabee at that point. Alternatives might be the laying of a sewer to a discharge below the dam, or some other arrangement, safeguarding that intake reach above the dam.

"We don't want anybody over there, using septic tanks," was the attitude of the Commission.

Commission Concerned

Other dwellings up the river, and sewage outlets at Lakefield, are giving the Commission serious concern already in their service of trying to maintain purity of the water that is pumped into the city mains.

Chlorination and filtering are part of the system of purifying the water as it comes from the river.

"We are not taking samples of the water because we know it is not good," R. L. Dobbin, manager, told the Commission.

It transpires that the condition of the water in Little Lake has been showing considerable improvement in quality.

Long And Short

LONDON—(CP)— Shortly after the formation of the Association of Tall Women, hundreds of London women under five feet three inches decided to form a "Short Women's Association." The group will try to ensure that clothing manufacturers and stores shall cater for the under-sized as well as the tall ones.

Utilities Clips Water Charges To $42,000

Utilities Commission took two clips Tuesday at its 1952 bill to the city for water, satisfying themselves finally that they were reasonable and fair in asking for $42,000.

That charge represents an increase of $5,500 over the $36,500 paid by the city last year.

First sum mentioned was $51,997.22 in a report from R. L. Dobbin, manager, based on per

"I certainly don't think they'd pay that without an awful battle," was the comment of the chairman, G. S. Matthews.

Apparently in sympathy with the council and its budget labor, the Commission considered $45,000, and then dropped the levy to $42,000.

Mr. Matthews explained to Dr. Gordon R. Langley, the new member with a penchant for learning the ins-and-outs, that the Commission did not submit a calculated bill, but fixed on an arbitrary sum demonstrably reasonable.

The water bill for fire protection and other civic services was $20,000 in 1947; $33,000 in 1950 and $36,500 last year.

Appeal By Council

Fred Hills, third member of the commission, recalled an occasion when a council deputation appealed to the commission for reduction as an aid to the council in trimming the budget.

Mr. Matthews said the Utilities did not make a practice of pressing the council for every dollar that could be squeezed into a bill, but tried to be helpful.

"When the City Trust Commission made their grant of $125,000 for the purchase of the City Hall site, this commission had a claim to a share of the money, but we abandoned it, and said nothing about it," Mr. Matthews recalled.

Nothing was charged as extra in supplying the west end booster service. Many mains were laid in 8 and 12-inch sizes, that might have been reduced, but the larger diameter provided for better fire protection.

The commission was in full agreement in asking the city for $42,000.

Two Uninjured As Auto Rolls

Two Havelock residents escaped injury Tuesday afternoon when their car went out of control and rolled down a 12-foot embankment, 10 miles east of Peterborough on Highway 7.

Miss Eulalie MacNeill and a pasenger, Elmer Whitney, emerged with only a shaking up. The car received $200 damage.

Miss MacNeill tried to pass a car ahead and lost control of the vehicle on the icy highway. The car rolled over the embankment and stopped on its left side.

About the same time a brewer's warehouse truck, driven by Joseph Murphy, 37, 521 Brioux Ave., was in collision with the rear of a car, on Highway 7, east of Indian River.

Both vehicles were westbound.

The brewery truck came up behind the car, driven by William Finnie, Bailleboro, and a collision resulted. About $150 damage was caused to the car.

Both accidents were investigated by OPP Constable John Cawood.

Former Local Officer Of Salvation Army Dies

A former Salvation Army officer stationed here, Mrs. Brigadier Ernest Falle, died in Toronto Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Falle were stationed here in 1931.

Funeral services will be held from Earlscourt Citadel, Toronto, Thursday, at 2.30 p.m. Interment will be in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

A Crawford's Grove family of five narrowly escaped death Tuesday night when coal gas from a stove filled their riverfront home. Mr. and Mrs. George Moncrief and their three children are feeling fine today, with only headaches to show for their nightmare experience.

Heard Son Crying

Shortly after midnight, Mr Moncrief awoke to hear his five-year-old son, George, crying and vomiting. He tried to get out of bed and found his feet would barely support him. When he tried to rouse his wife, she did not respond.

He staggered next door to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Violet Teneycke, where he telephoned Dr. Herbert Young.

Mrs. Moncrief told today how it felt to lie half-conscious while people urged her to wake up and she could do nothing.

"It was a funny numb feeling I could hear George calling to me, but I couldn't answer and I couldn't move," she said. "I don't remember getting out of bed."

Mrs. Teneycke was the first to know of the Moncrief's trouble. Confined to bed with a broken ankle, she saw Mr. Moncrief come staggering to her door. "I thought at first he was drunk, but later I saw there was something dreadfully wrong."

While Mr. Moncrief telephoned, Mrs. Teneycke sent Marie Martin 14, who stays with her, to the Moncrief home to rouse Mrs. Moncrief. Marie returned in a few minutes to say Mrs. Moncrief wouldn't wake up.

Funny Numb Feeling

With Mr. Moncrief's help, the girl got the semi-conscious woman dressed and into the fresh air, which partly revived her. When Dr. Young came, he told them they were all lucky to be alive.

Mrs. Moncrief, whose husband is out of town today, said the first thing she remembered about the night was "the funny, numb feeling."

"I could hear voices from far away, but I couldn't answer them. I even heard Georgie (the son) crying. Marie was calling to me and I couldn't make out what she was saying. I couldn't do anything."

The Moncriefs had gone to bed about 9:30, and all windows in the frame bungalow were shut tight. Mr. Moncrief checked the coal stove before retiring.

Mrs. Teneycke said Mr. Moncrief was at first under the impression that his family had been poisoned. "His stomach was bloated by the gas, and he was just able to stand at the telephone while he talked to Dr. Young."

The Moncrief's children are: Carol, 9; George, 5; and Nancy 2.

Beat Constable, Jailed 3 Months

COOKSVILLE, March 5—Two men who beat up a provincial police constable investigating a fatal accident at Lakeview Saturday night were both sentenced to three months in jail on charges of obstructing a police officer.

John Field, 30, and Garnold McLean, 27, both of Lakeview were sentenced without option of a fine.

Constable Jack Dick was investigating the fatal accident in which Mrs. Carrie Wilson, 68, of Lakeview, who formerly lived in Alnwick township near Roseneath, was struck by a car and killed after she stepped from a bus in front of her home.

Assaulted By Pair

While the constable was waiting for an ambulance to arrive, two men stepped from the crowd standing around and demanded that the woman's body be taken from the road.

The constable told them he couldn't move her because the woman had been killed instantly and he was waiting for help in the investigation.

They punched him about the face and body. He retreated to his cruiser to call for help and then went into a nearby restaurant where the men had gone, to arrest them. With the help of three others, the two men fought off the constable and a man who had gone to his assistance. They chased the constable from the restaurant. Later they were arrested.

Lindsay Bus Lines To Close May 10

LINDSAY, March 5—Bus service in Lindsay will end March 10.

Russell Gatchell, manager of the Lindsay Bus Lines Ltd. which operates the town system, told the municipal council meeting the news Monday.

He explained that after two years' operation in the town, the line was still not showing a profit and would consequehtly have to be discontinued.

Mayor Charles Lamb called the bus operations a "rainy day proposition". He explained that on rainy days the buses were packed, but when the weather is fine, the buses were empty.

Normal Students Spend 2 Weeks In City Schools

Normal school students are now in their second week of continuous teaching in the city's separate and public schools. This is the first time in the school's history that the students have taught continuously for two weeks in the city schools.

Peterborough's Normal school is experimenting with the two-week teaching period to determine the best method of training the teachers to be week when the students, about 125, were sent to all the Peterborough public and separate schools, except St. John's and St. Alphonsus schools. There the students are practicing teaching.

Showing Success

L. W. Copp, Normal school principal, said that the two-week period so far have proved successful. One advantage of the longer period before the class is that it gives the student more responsibility. Second is that the regular teacher acts as a coach instead of grading the students in their lessons as they did before.

"During the second week the students know how good their first week's work was. They learn that they have to build the work from week to week", said Mr. Copp.

He added that the Normal school staff has been visiting each student in the schools. The second week offers these teachers the opportunity of a second visit to some students who are having difficulties during the first week.

Changed This Year

The whole system of practice teaching was changed this year at the Normal school. In previous terms the students taught one half-hour lesson a week throughout the term and also had four weeks' continuous teaching in both urban and rural schools.

This year the students taught the half-hour lessons in October during their orientation period. Then they started a larger series of one-week continuous teaching periods in both urban and rural schools. The two-week period in the urban schools is an experimenting period.

After this week the students will have only two more weeks of continuous teaching, one week before Easter and one week following Labor Day.

UK Disappointed At Slow U.S. Aid

LONDON, March 5 (CP). — Prime Minister Churchill hinted today at disappointment in slow United States aid, and said Britain will need about four years instead of three to carry out her $4,700,000,000 rearmament program.

Spending for the first 12 months of the program, which began last April 1, already is £150,000,000 behind schedule, he told the House of Commons.

The Prime Minister, opening a defence debate, said the U.S. offered $313,600,000 worth of machine tools soon after the program began and delivery "is only just beginning." He expressed hope that all the tools will be in England in about 15 months.

Churchill noted that the U.S. has recently allotted to Britain for military aid $300,000,000, "none of which has yet been received." He declared:

"There is no question of reproaches on either side, but the fact remains as I have foreshadowed that the rearmament program is much more likely to be carried out in four years than in three."

Churchill said that "If war should come it will be with violent speed and suddenness, and here at home with almost all our regular armies overseas we must rely to an unusual extent on the home guard"

As soon as Britain has the modern equipment, he added, "we should have available for service abroad and at home a total of 22 divisions."

$1,040,335 Expenditure On Education Recommended To Board

Board of Education To Require $716,062 From Ratepayers For 3.42 Mill Increase In Taxes

The 1952 municipal levy for Board of Education purposes is estimated at $716,062, for a total increase of 3.42 mills over last year. This estimate was arrived at Tuesday night at a meeting of the finance committee when the appropriations of the Board's five standing committees were scrutinized. The Board as a whole must still approve the budget which will include a couple of minor adjustments (a two-cent-a-mile increase in car allowance, and any change in salaries as a result of a Board-teacher meeting within the next week or so).

The levy of $716,062—an all-time high in Peterborough—is the difference between the estimated expenditure of $1,040,335 and the estimated revenue of $324,273.

Ratepayers will have to dig into their pockets for an extra $148,575 to run the Board of Education during 1952. (This has not taken into account debenture charges on Board property which are included in the special rates when the city draws up its tax bill.)

Public School Rate

Cost of operating public schools has been boosted from 12.15 to 14.32 mills, for an increase of 2.17 mills.

Cost of operating P.C.V.S. has been boosted from 3.97 to 5.22 mills, an increase of 1.25 mills. Altogether the increase is 3.42 mills.

For public schools purposes the mill raises $35,453,083.

For P.C.V.S. purposes the mill raises $39,889.938 (separate school supporters are included in the assessment for P.C.V.S. purposes, which explains the larger yield on its mill rate).

1952 Estimates

Following are the estimated ex-

Public Schools
Expenses	$668,180
Revenue	160,347
Levy	507,833
Col. Academic
Expenses	$190,405
Revenue	72,969
Levy	117,436
Col. Vocational
Expenses	$181,750
Revenue	90,957
Levy	90,793

Estimated expenditure of the five standing committees of the Board came to $1,040,335, compared with $873,800 in 1951—approximately a 19 per cent increase.

K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, said that this increase was not just due to rising current costs, but also to the expansion of the school system. Apart from that the greatest part of the increase is taken up in salaries, the cost-of-living bonus, and expenditure on the new Kenner Collegiate.

Salaries and Wages

The biggest single item in the budget is salaries and wages for Board employees. Plus retirement allowances, cost of loving bonuses, and night school fees, the total amount is $875,515.

Public schools' share of the salary estimate is $437,500. This includes payment for 135 teachers, a sum of $5,150 for a four-months salary for six prospective teachers, the inspector's and 60 per cent of the superintendent's salary.

The cost-of-living bonus is computed to cost another $47,500.

Six thousand dollars has been set aside for part-time teachers in the public schools.

Eleven teachers are retired and this will come to another $4,780. School guards will cost $8 a week per guard.

An item of $8,000 is set aside for administrative staff, and, on the same basis, their share of the cost-of-living bonus is $990.

Salaries in P.C.V.S. are $114,000 for academic teachers and $104,300 for vocational. Supply

Joshua Swain Descendant Cavan Pioneers

A member of one of the oldest Cavan township families, Joshua Clarke Swain, 87, died Monday in hospital. He lived on the Swain homestead on the ninth line of Cavan where the family had been settled for 125 years.

Born in Cavan township, he married the former Ellen Hunter more than 57 years ago. They celebrated their golden wedding on June 6, 1944 (D-Day).

Keenly interested in sport, Mr. Swain continued to attend night baseball games in Peterborough well after his 80th birthday. He was a member of Cavan United church, and farmed all his life on the family homestead.

Surviving are his widow, three daughters, Mrs Harold Bigelow (Margaret), Port Hope; Mrs. Gordon Hill (Myrtle), of Peterborough; Mrs. Eldred Snider (Helen) of Cavan; three sons, Clarke of Toronto, William of Cavan, and Fred of Niagara Falls. There is one sister, Annetta, of Chicago, Ill

[illegible] at 2 p.m. Thursday by the Rev. A. M. Butler in Mr. Swain's home. Burial will be in the ninth line cemetery. The body is resting at home.

NEW TWIST TO AN OLD WRINKLE—Now it's men in beauty salons getting their faces "lifted." In West Berlin, Germany, a male patron prepares to undergo treatment aimed at removing facial wrinkles. The new wrinkle-removing machine, called the "Nemectron," is supposed to rejuvenate worn-out muscles under the skin by "scientifically-controlled electrical impulses."

Robert Ryan Prefers Adult Fans

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 5—(AP)—Here's one leading man who admits that bobbysoxers aren't his main following. What's more, he's glad of it.

The actor is Robert Ryan, Chicago-born former boxer and marine.

He is good-looking in a rugged sort of way but he readily confesses that the teen-age fans don't blow their tops over him.

"One reason is that I have never played the kind of role that would make the kids mad for me," he said. "The sole exception was the picture in which I got my first big break—'Tender Comrade,' opposite Ginger Rogers. That was during the war.

Saved By Marines

"I probably would have got typed in that category, because the studio had four or five scripts lined up for me and they tended in that direction. But luckily I was saved by going into the marines.

"It was actually a good break for my career.

"The kids drop their idols when someone new comes along. An actor who bases his career on them alone finds himself in trouble when they lose interest in him."

Hears From Adults

Ryan's theory seems to have been borne out in recent Hollywood history. Frank Sinatra evoked the most hysterical response from the bobbysoxers, and his later career has failed to maintain the momentum of the war years. Van Johnson was dropped like a hot spud when the youngsters were disenchanted with his marriage. His studio had to cast him in dramatic roles instead of relying on his romantic appeal.

Ryan's fan mail comes from adults. "Most of the letters are from intelligent people," he said. "That's the kind of a response that makes the actor think he's doing a good job.

PLANE GETS A BRAKE — This is the first picture released of the Air Force's Scorpion F-89, showing the new "speed brakes" (arrows) operating in flight. The brakes, known as "decelerons," make it possible for the plane to descend from 40,000 feet to land in a phenomenally short time while maintaining full control of its speed.

Temporary Cure For Leukemia

CINCINNATI, March 5 (AP)—Cat fever, chickenpox, and blood poisoning sometimes bring temporary health to dying children with acute leukemia, the fatal blood cancer.

The fire of these added sicknesses for a time has halted or reversed the leukemia, but only for a time. Later the leukemia returned, as it has with every drug or treatment ever tried, and the children died.

Each time, the new infectious virus disease was controlled or cured with antibiotics or other drugs while it did its good work.

This fire-against-fire approach was described Tuesday to the Second National Cancer Conference by Dr. Michael B. Shimkin, director of the Laboratory of Experimental Oncology, part of the National Cancer Institute, at the University of California, San Francisco.

In leukemia, the body produces [illegible] destroys white cells.

Korea Unit Check Reveals No Lack Of Socks, Gloves

By BILL BOSS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, March 5—(CP)—A "letter home" to relatives of a Canadian soldier in Korea boomeranged into cordoning of a unit by military police, a kit inspection and a check of unit stores.

A story based on the letter appeared in a Nova Scotia newspaper in mid-January. It alleged a shortage of socks and gloves, said there had been an issue the day Defence Minister Claxton visited the unit, but that these had later been withdrawn.

When the story came to the attention of Brig. John H. Rockingham he ordered the inspection and check, with the unit cordoned to ensure an unquestionable result.

The soldier to whom the letter had been attributed had eight pairs of socks in his kit-bag besides the ones he was wearing. He had one extra pair of black lined gloves plus one pair of the special Cana[illegible] signed a statement denying he had alleged the shortages and adding that no equipment he had ever been issued with had been withdrawn.

The check of unit stores showed enough spares to re-equip completely 60 per cent. of the unit.

How does it happen that scattered complaints of this kind arise where there is no apparent cause for complaint?

Says Brig. Rockingham: "It may be that the parents for some reason or other are disaffected. They may not like the government, for instance. Or perhaps they w[illegible] against their sons joining t[illegible] army and have not felt they were being as well cared for here as they would be at home. If it does come from the soldiers' own letters, it may be a way of ensuring that they get credit for simply doing their duty—goodness knows they are entitled to credit—day after day in trying conditions. If that's the way a soldier wants to earn credit it's his own business as long as he does his job here. But in view of the soldier's denial I don't think the reports originate here."

Says Lt.-Col. Norman Wilson-Smith, C.O. of the Princess Patricias: "Some soldiers do feel a [illegible] their folks to understand that if there isn't much in the papers these days about fighting, they still are not having a pleasant life. They also may feel cheated in not having got into more of the fighting that made Korea such big news at one time."

Detention Ward Grants Promised

TORONTO, March 5 (CP) — Health Minister Phillips said Tuesday the provincial government will provide grants to local hospitals to set up detention wards for mental patients waiting to go to Ontario hospitals.

He told the legislature that a patient in need of mental treat[illegible] there is no other place to detain him. "No persons should be admitted to jail on account of illness."

A person could be admitted to a detention ward on the advice of his own family doctor and without certification by two medical men.

"There are still altogether too many places in Ontario where disturbed patients have to remain in jail for days and even weeks awaiting the decision of a magistrate and others regarding his acceptance to an Ontario hospital."

Commissioner Backs Mounties' Action

OTTAWA, March 5 (CP) — Commissioner L. H. Nicholson of the R.C.M.P. Tuesday defended the force from press photographers' complaints that Mounties acted with unnecessary officiousness during the January visit to Ottawa of Prime Minister Churchill.

In a letter to Norman James of The Toronto Star, who signed the protest along with a group of photographers from London, New York and a number of centres in [illegible] the responsibilities of the camera men to get pictures and of the police to maintain order and decorum in the reception of distinguished guests.

The responsibility of the R.C.M.P., the commissioner wrote, was to protect important visitors "not necessarily from assassination but from molestatir embarrassment," and for maintenance of public order.

The commissioner said he realized that photographers on assignment "are obliged to make every effort to get good photographs."

Charge Red Subs Violate Territory

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, March 5—(AP)—The Dominican Republic's secretary of war said Tuesday his country will complain to the UN Security Council that Russian submarines have violated Dominican territorial waters.

Gen. Hector Trujillo Molina said the move in the UN will be made "after conclusion of the official investigation into the presence of the (Russian) submarines in Dominican territorial waters without prior permission."

The Dominican Government announced Monday that five Russian submarines had been sighted in Dominican waters and at a point 80 miles from Mayaguez, Puerto Rico.

In Washington, the U.S. Navy changed its earlier attitude which discounted the story and announced an investigation will be made.

Senate Voices Loyalty To Queen

OTTAWA, March 5 (CP) — Senator Wishart Robertson, government leader in the Senate, Tuesday night led that chamber in expressions of sorrow at the death of King George VI and loyalty and devotion to Queen Elizabeth II. He spoke of the qualities of mind and heart which endeared the King to his subjects and the pride they took in his private life as a family man.

The King's reign had witnessed trying times and victory in the war had brought fresh problems which still faced the Commonwealths.

He spoke of the threats to Britain's interests at the accession of the first Elizabeth and when Victoria ascended the throne, threats which were dissipated during their reigns.

"Surely," said Senator Robertson, "it is easy to realize how readily those who are searching the skies for a sign hail the accession to the throne of Elizabeth II as a potent of happier times."

Senator Robertson offered motions of tribute to the new Queen and of condolences to the Queen Mother in her bereavement.

Senator W. M. Aseltine, acting Progressive Conservative leader, and Senator Paul Henri Bouffard (L-Quebec), speaking in French, seconded the resolutions.

Charge Only Survivor Dangerous Driving

OWEN SOUND, March 5 (CP) —Carl Turner, 20, of Wiarton, only survivor of a Friday night automobile accident in which two companions were killed, has been charged with dangerous and careless driving.

Marjorie Louise Govier, 22, of Owen Sound and Harold Miller, Jr., 21 of Wiarton were fatally injured when their car left the highway 10 miles west of here.

Turner is in fair condition in Owen Sound hospital. He has a fractured hip and a fractured hand.

Beef Price Up

MONTREAL, March 5—(CP)—The wholesale price of beef went up about three cents a pound in Montreal Tuesday and some meat dealers said it would go up at least six cents a pound wholesale and 10 to 15 cents a pound retail. Some dealers predicted a shortage within 10 to 14 days.

Approve Fluorination

TORONTO, March 5 (CP) — City council and provincial government willing, Toronto's water supply soon will be fluorinated. The city's board of health Tuesday approved a recommendation by the Medical Health Officer, Dr. L. A. Pequegnet, that fluorides be introduced into the water as a measure to combat tooth decay.

Independent Check

TORONTO, March 5—(CP)—A move to "submit the entire operation of the Canadian National Exhibition to the scrutiny of independent experts with a view to putting these operations on a sound, business-like basis" is under way, a Toronto paper says today. "Such a move, it is claimed, would produce speedier results than a Royal Commission of a judicial investigation and would be less costly."

To Resign Party

OSHAWA, March 5 (CP) — Walter Lane, who Monday night announced his resignation as president of the Ontario riding C.C.F. Association, said Tuesday night that he will resign from the C.C.F. party to "allow all forces to unite solidly." He said he resigned because of "persistent and strong differences with one or two fellow-members."

Say No Co-operation

TORONTO, March 5 (CP)—T. A. Lawrence, civil defence chief for Toronto area, said Tuesday that lack of co-operation by Ottawa civil defence officials has led to their purchase of 35 air-raid sirens for Toronto which will be useless. The sirens are worth $750 each. At Ottawa, Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, Canada's co-ordinator of civil defence, said he had no comment.

DEAN OF PIPERS—After 60 years' service, Pipe Major Jimmy Fraser, 79, Canada's dean of pipers, retired after a ceremony attended by 6,000 at University Armories in Toronto. Born in Scotland, he spent 21 years with the famed Gordon Highlanders and saw service with them in battles in India and the Boer War. He came to Canada in May, 1913, and joined the 48th Highlanders. He took the regimental march-past before passing on his pipes to a pupil, Pipe Sgt. Archie Dewar.

L.O.B.A. Holds Euchre

MILLBROOK, March 5 (ENS) —Winners at the card party sponsored by L.O.B.A. 1066 on Monday evening were: Mrs. Mervin Kennedy, Mrs. Gordon Davidson, J. R. Thompson, Cliff Allen.

Tickets were sold on a cake donated by Mrs. Howard Murney, which was won by Larry Fallis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Fallis.

Ship Lambs By Air?

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., March 5 (CP) — W. T. Hill, Lethbridge livestock feeder and dealer, said Tuesday he is investigating the possibility of air-lifting fat lambs to the Toronto market. Because of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan, rail shipments to Ontario are banned. But Mr. Hill said stock from the Lethbridge area could be forwarded by air.

Investigate Charge

TORONTO, March 5 (CP)—An Ontario Labor Department conciliation officer has recommended appointment of a commissioner to investigate a charge of discrimination brought by the Ottawa Newspaper Guild against the Ottawa Journal Publishing Company, Labor Minister Daley announced Tuesday in his weekly press release.

SALVATION ARMY'S SOCIAL SERVICES cost the Peterborough Temple more than $6,670.88 a year in emergency relief, for stranded and transient persons, and delinquent boys and girls. In the photo above, Sr. Capt. and Mrs. Douglas Sharp, left, and Temple caretaker Wm. Parsons sort clothing contributions for distribution.

Salvation Army Has For 67 Years Engaged In Social Work In City

By COLLETTE FERGUSON

Social work as we know it today was started in England 80 years ago.

It wasnt started by government legislation nor by a philanthropic millionaire. But by a man without money, who started a religious movement which was interested in mans physical well-being as well as their spiritual welfare.

The man was William Booth and the movement he started, the Salvation Army.

In 1882 emigrants from England organized the movement in Canada. The Salvation Army came to Peterborough in 1908.

Ever-expanding Field

The army brought with it to the then town of Peterborough its social work program as well as its evangelical message. Since that time this special work, which is kept completely separate financially from its evangelical work, has grown to cover an ever-expanding field in its ministrations to the physical well-being of the residents of this city.

In 1951, the Salvation Army spent $370.88 more than the $5,800 given to the corps by the Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign in social work.

How was this total of $6,170.88 spent?

Meals, groceries, beds, transportation, clothing and fuel at a total expense of $1,919.01 were provided for needy families, stranded and transient persons, delinquent boys and girls and aged persons in the city, who would otherwise have had to do without.

Help To Immigrants

Another $184.33 was spent to give temporary assistance to immigrants until they were able to become financially independent.

Under the heading of what the Peterborough corps calls character building work is an expenditure of $600 in the years financial statement.

This work is done for the boys and girls of the city. During 1951, there was a total attendance of 7,637 at character building and educational groups. Membership in the army is not a prerequisite for attendance at these classes which put counselling services, recreational and educational facilities at the disposal of youngsters who meet both at the temple on Simcoe St. and the temple in Byersville.

Fresh air, life saving and music camps are also made possible for youngsters through the corps.

Unmarried mothers who come to the Salvation Army for aid are cared for in the army's homes and their hospital expenses paid. Last year $1,800.00 was spent in this way.

Temporary Assistance

Help to the unemployed is also included in the army's social work in Peterborough. This aspect of the work is divided into sections. If necessary, families, where the breadwinner is unemployed, are given financial assistance. In addition the unemployed are interviewed and assistance is given in finding new positions.

Broken homes are visited by the Salvation Army to bring about re-establishment if possible. Last year 16 such homes were visited and 10 were re-established.

A Salvation Army officer attends police court in the city every day and gives whatever aid he can to prisoners. This work also often involves financial assistance.

It is for the continuation of these services that the Salvation Army is making an appeal through the Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign, March 7 to 15. The money received from this campaign will be used completely for social work in Peterborough.

Railway Radio

CAPE TOWN—(CP)—Question of installing radio sets on long-distance trains for benefit of passengers now is being studied by Thomas Naude, minister in charge of broadcasting. His idea is to make a small charge for headphones which could be plugged into outlets on the train.

Echo From Past

HITCHIN, England (CP).—One of the oldest inns in England, a hostelry in this Hertfordshire town, has been sold by direction of the owners, Trinity College of Cambridge. A brick in the inn's archway commemorates an occasion in 1782 when highwaymen entered and forced guests to "stand and deliver."

Love Puns

SASKATOON — (CP) —Commenting on talk [illegible] Mills —shamelessly remarked: "there's nothing new about the five-day week. It was invented by Robinson Crusoe who got all his work done by Friday."

Criticizes Paper

KINGSTON, March 5—(CP)—Dr. A. Vilbert Douglas, dean of women at Queen's University, has charged that a recent issue of the Queen's Journal, the student newspaper, contained cartoons, jokes and stories which are "insulting to the ideals of womanhood." It was learned Tuesday night that her accusations were directed toward a January issue of the journal which was published by the Arts Faculty.

Historic Ring

HAVANT, England — (CP) — Experts believe that a gold ring discovered in a garden in this Hampshire village is actually the Episcopal ring worn by William of Wykeham, the 14th century bishop who founded Winchester College.

Missing Bet On Labrador Professor Says

MONTREAL, March 5—(CP)—"One of our most amazing pieces of short-sightedness has been our slowness in developing the resources of Labrador."

The speaker was Prof. Kenneth Hare, chairman of the Department of Geography, McGill University. And, while his was not a new story in underlining the vast potentialities of Labrador and Ungava in Northern Quebec which now are commanding full-scale attention of Canadian and United States developers of resources.

Today, in that bleak land, the situation is a far cry from 1534 when explorer Jacques Cartier sighted Labrador, backed away fast and termed it "the land that God gave Cain."

True, it is remote and barren. But it has a water-power potential of 7,000,000 horsepower on the Hamilton River alone, a potential greater than Canada's present developed total. It has fabulous iron ore deposits running in a 300-mile "trough" southeast from Fort China which now are the object of a $300,000,000-development spending boom.

The world's largest deposit of ilmenite, a titanium-bearing ore, is on the south coast of Labrador. About 1,000,000 tons of the mineral were shipped out in 1951 to be refined at Sorel, Quebec.

Additionally, there are huge stands of pulpwood in the Goose Bay area near seaport facilities and power resources on the Hamilton River where the recently-formed Ungava - Newfoundland Power Co. has begun a 10,000,-horsepower development.

And here, in the halls of finance in Montreal, eyes are intently trained on the vast supply of iron and power and pulpwood in the north even though the first ore isn't due for shipment until 1954. The reason? There's a lot of interest among railways in the major assignments of transfer of Quebec and Labrador production to the steel mills of the United States.

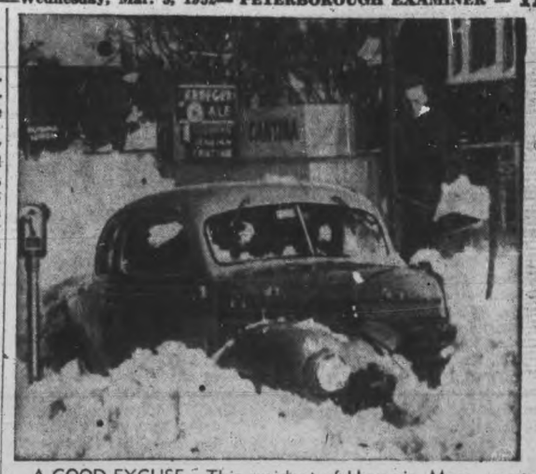
It is expected that when the fields are in course of full development, a minimum of 10,000,-000 tons of ore a year will be shipped.

This ore could be taken by water direct to the Baltimore and Philadelphia area from Sept Iles, a St. Lawrence north shore port now being prepared for such heavy shipments. It could go by water from the St. Lawrence to Montreal for trans-shipment to Lake Erie ports. Or it could go by water to Montreal and thence by rail to steel plants in the Pittsburgh area.

Best guesses here are that all three routes will be used.

Already, preliminary steps have been taken for tremendous trans-shipment docks on the south shore of the St. Lawrence near Montreal.

Meantime, speaking of shipment, track has been laid for a dozen miles north of Sept Iles, heading toward the interior some 350-odd miles away and the iron fields, and railroad grading extends about 60 miles north of the St. Lawrence.



A GOOD EXCUSE—This resident of Hyannis, Mass., may be parked overtime, but he has a good excuse—the worst snowstorm to hit Cape Cod in 50 years. The storm left some sections of the Cape snowbound for as much as 16 hours. Ten lives were lost and some 10,000 homes were without electricity.

Doctor From India Speaks

To the Mary Nicholls Mission Circle meeting Tuesday evening in Murray St. Church parlors, president Mrs. P. W. Johnston welcomed friends from other circles who joined with members to hear the special speaker, Dr. Jessie Findlay, retired missionary doctor who spent many years in India. Dr. Findlay's address was titled "The unfinished task in India". She described a hospital which has grown from six beds to 125 and this year for the first time received students for training who were required to have matriculation standing. She stressed that work in India is only beginning and what is needed most is social service workers among the natives who know so little of cleanliness.

Mrs. H. H. Graham introduced the speaker and she was thanked by Miss Mary Ellis. Mrs. Charles Holmes contributed a beautiful solo "The Lord is my Shepherd" with accompaniment by Miss Phoebe Hardwicke. Devotions were in charge of Miss Margaret Eastwood's group. Mrs. S. Malsch read scripture and prayers were offered by Mrs. Malsch, Mrs. Carey Smedmor and Mrs. Norman Barrie. Dainty refreshments were served by the group members at the close.

Gynane, Mrs. J. Gray and Mrs. A. Pilling.

FIFTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Manley of Otonabee Township is being celebrated today at a large family gathering at Drummond's Station. (Examiner Staff Photo)

Couple Still Farming In Otonabee After 50 Years

A long time that didn't seem long, is the way Mark Manley describes his 50 years of marriage. Spry at 75, Mr. Manley still does his own chores, except for part of the plowing.

The only one of a family of 12 to have been married 50 years, Mr. Manley is proudest of the fact that he set his sons up in farming.

"There's about 1,000 acres in the Manley name," he said happily. His four sons are all farmers, located in the Drumomnd's Station district in Otonabee Township.

Mr. Manley left that area three years ago to settle on a small farm just south of Highway 7 and two miles west of the Keene Road. But for 42 years before, he farmed the old Duncan Drummond farm in Otonabee.

Pure-bred Herefords

Now, he looks after a herd of 16 pure-bred Herefords, three horses and 100 hens. This winter wasn't so easy, he said. Both he and his wife—she is 69 — had bad colds. "I remember one night," he said, "I got the cows milked, but my cold was so bad I couldn't walk the horses."

He mentioned that last fall he got out one of his horses and a running plow, but managed only nine acres in 15 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Manley were married on March 5, 1902, in a house on the old Keene Road by the Rev. Mr. Secomb, who served the circuit that contained Zion and Keene.

Mr. Manley can lay claim to being one of the elders among subscribers to the Examiner. "I've been taking it for 60 years," he said.

Started Early

For longer than that—since he was nine—Mr. Manley has smoked a pipe. He mentioned the fact proudly. His wife remarked: "Yes, and it still makes a mess."

Wednesday will be the day of celebration among the Manleys. Their children — nine of 12 are still living—will be there, as well as their 29 grandchildren. The party will be held at Drummond's Station.

The children who are living are: Mrs. William Anderson (Dorothy) of Simcoe; Harry [illegible] Drummond's Station; Mrs. Garner (Eva), Peterborough; Mrs. Lorne Hillis (Catherine), Smith Township; Bert and George, of Drummond's Station; Mrs. Noble Tate (Annie), of Smith; Roy of Drummond's Station; and Helen at home. Helen is 15 and attending High School.

Asked if he had any advice for young couples, Mr. Manley said he hardly knew what to say. "It isn't so easy to get started these days when living's so high."

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL

Guest speaker at Central Home and School Association Monday evening was Miss Phyllis Moore, primary supervisor in the public schools of the city.

Miss Moore chose for her subject "Education, Everybody's Business," which, she said, "is a good time for us to evaluate education and think of our goals. Education may be said to provide the environment to which the child must adjust and from which he must learn. Parents and teachers are team-mates in this educational process which has grown through the years to try to meet not only the mental but the social, physical, emotional and spiritual needs of the child."

The child should be the centre of all educational work with the slogan "Know your child." The importance of pre-school years cannot be over-emphasized. Learning and growth are both continuous. It is important to provide good learning experiences The child should be expected to do what is in harmony with his ability and growth in both individual and group situations."

Concluding her address, Miss Moore said "Only when parent, and teacher work together in education does it become 'everybody's business,' and no one can sincerely try to help another without helping himself."

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. A. Smedmor and appreciation of the audience was expressed by Miss Carol Donald.

An animated cartoon colored film "The Loon's Necklace" was shown by Mr. L. Bird.

Mr. D. Crawford, principal, spoke briefly and called attention to Education Week broadcasts.

Attendance prizes were won by Miss Brock's and Mr. Cunningham's classrooms. Health and publications convener Mrs W. J. Armstrong and Mrs. W. Gunn had display tables and nomination forms were handed out by Mrs. F. Hocking, nominating convener.

In closing the meeting, president Mrs L. Horning read a tribute to the late King George VI which was followed by the singing of the National Anthem.

The serving of refreshments was by Mrs. A. Barber and her committee.

HAVELOCK

HAVELOCK, March 5 (ENS)—Dr. M. J. Walker of Peterborough was guest speaker at a meeting of the Havelock Home and School Association held in the school on Monday evening, when the society, in addition to observing Dental Week, celebrated its 15th birthday.

Dr. Walker reported on the dental survey made last week in grades 2, 3 and 4 of the Havelock Public School when 65 children were examined and only four were found with teeth free from defects. He particularly stressed the importance of oral hygiene as the mouth is the gateway through which [illegible] temporary teeth had been lost prematurely, and one child had lost seven of these; also there were 266 fillings required.

Dr. Walker gave six reasons why care should be given to temporary teeth: to prevent pain; to preserve a comfortable masticating surface; to prevent crooked teeth; to prevent infectious conditions; to preserve the first permanent molar and to form the habit of dental care.

Dr. Walker dealt with the prevention of tooth decay under three headings, proper oral hygiene, proper diet, and regular dental check-ups. Two films were also shown to illustrate his subject.

A vote of thanks was extended to Dr. Walker by Mrs. J. Wilde.

Mrs. F. McKay as program convenor presided for that part of the program which commenced with a sing-song of Irish songs with Mrs. R. Backus at the piano. A vocal duet was given by the Misses Nancy Curtis and Lois McKay with Mrs. D. Kirk as the accompanist.

The Health convenor Mrs. James Wilde, gave a paper on "A Health Check-Up for your Child" which dealt with the six tests given to a child by a physician as, eyes, ears, lungs and heart, blood, abdomen, height and weight.

Mrs. J. W. Corneil, publications convenor announced that a new book "How to Help Your Child in School" had been received as a premium for subscriptions to the Parent's Magazine. This book she said would be loaned to parents for a month in order as the requests were received.

Mrs. G. Whitney convenor for money making projects announced that the Home and School Association would sponsor an "Amateur Night" in the town hall on April 4. The contest is limited this year to teen-agers. The president Mrs. B. Johnson presided and welcomed the members and visitors. The treasurer's report showed a bank balance of $109. Mr. Linden's room won the attendance shield and prize of $1.

Mrs. Donald Tinney took the chair in the absence of the president. There were 18 ladies present.

It was decided to send money to help in building the new United Church Training School in Toronto.

Sunshine bags were given out to help raise funds for the society.

A pancake social is to be held in the church basement March 12. After business was settled the World's Day of Prayer service was conducted by Mrs. D. Tinney and Mrs. H. Snider. At the close of the meeting tea and cookies were served by the hostess.

Women's Aux. To Buy 3rd Oxygen Tent

Decision to purchase another oxygen tent for the Civic hospital made by the Women's Auxiliary board of directors at the meeting Monday afternoon will make three oxygen tents purchased and donated by the Auxiliary to the hospital in the past two years.

Further plans were made for the penny sale in May with Mrs. W. E. Fanning in the president's chair in the conference room of the hospital. She paid tribute to the late King George VI by opening the session with one minute of silent prayer.

Mrs. E. Chambers, membership convener, named the following members as captains of districts in the membership drive to begin next October: Mrs. W. Jones and and Mrs. A. Roseborough, north; Mrs. W. K. McGee and Mrs. K. Sloan, south; Mrs. A. Clark and Mrs. L. Zacks, west; Mrs. W. Nash, east; and Mrs. Reed of Lakefield.

Fifty seven pairs of boottees were given to new babies in the hospital during February and 390 visits to distribute fruit were made to patients. The library committee reported 376 books and magazines distributed and the tuck cart made rounds twice weekly.

Occupational therapy committee was active every week. The flower and decorating committee reported 15 Valentine favors given to children in the pediatric division.

Fairview W.A. To Share In Community Hall

FAIRVIEW, March 5 (ENS).—Fairview Women's Association were entertained at the home of the president, Mrs. Wesley Bell, for their March meeting. There were 18 ladies present. Mrs. Albert Bulmer, leader of group one, led the worship service. Mrs. Stanley Boyce read the scripture lesson. The Rev. D. P. Morris led in prayer Mrs. Henry Sharpe read the lesson thoughts.

[illegible] and Mrs. Fred Brown were appointed auditors. A letter was read from the St. James Cheerful Workers Sunday school class regarding the presentation of their play.

A vote carried for the W.A. to pay their share towards the expenses of putting seats on skids in the schoolhouse which is to be used as a community hall.

Several letters were read by the secretary Mrs. Cephas Heard. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs Harold Lewis

To End Annoying Cough, Mix This Recipe, at Home

Here is the well known old recipe which thousands of housewives have found to be a dependable means of breaking up winter coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs very little, but it does give quick relief.

From any druggist, get a 2½ ounce bottle of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 ounce bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups sugar and 1 cup water. It's easy. (Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) Thus you make 16 ounces of medicine, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils and children love its taste.

This home mixture soothes the irritated throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the phlegm and eases soreness promptly.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a well known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

FOR EXTRA CONVENIENCE GET NEW, READY-TO-USE, PREPARED PINEX.

DOROTHY DIX

Should Encourage Handicapped Youth

DEAR MISS DIX: A very nice boy invited me to a Thanksgiving dance. Three days before the dance he was wounded in a hunting accident and as a result has one crippled hand. Now he avoids me and all other girls. Whenever one of his pals tries to talk him into double dating, he only laughs and says, "No girl would want to date a one-handed guy."

My problem is, how can I make him realize that I still like him a lot, and would go out with him regardless of his trouble?

K. D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You have quite a job on your hands to convince the boy that an accident does not make him a social outcast, but when you have accomplished your purpose—and you will—you will both be richly rewarded. He will have the assurance that a girl who cares can disregard superficialities, and you will have a man whose character has been tried in the hardest school of all—facing life with a handicap and learning to make the best of it.

Enlist His Pals

To accomplish this difficult task involves a conspiracy on the part of you and a few other very good friends of the boy. Have his pals make a point of asking him to join in the crowd's activities. When he raises, as an objection, the results of his accident, they must convince him that his friends do not consider a bandicap a barrier to good fellowship. This job will take every bit of tact you teen-agers can muster, but surely there could be no more worthwhile project.

If the boy is allowed to continue his attitude of withdrawal and seclusion, he'll grow up to be a maladjusted adult. It will be a while before he comes to accept his condition and learns to make the best of it, but nothing will help him during this period so much as devoted friends. Of course, you will also have to be careful to avoid, at least for the time being, those activities in which your friend cannot participate. In time, he'll probably be able to do anything the rest of the gang can do, but until that happy day it will be part of your diplomatic build-up to arrange pastimes suitable for his condition.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been writing to a boy in service and my mother won't let me talk to other boys while he is away. Is she right?

DOT

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Someone in this situation is wrong, and I'm afraid it's your mother. Judging from your letter, you are very young and most definitely should not be tied down to one boy—present or absent. Your mother should encourage you to see other friends, and spend more time on your schoolwork.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband died two years ago and I am very lonely. I am in my fifties and have met a fine man my age who is also lonely. Here is my problem. My first husband was a foreigner and whenever we had guests who were friends or relatives of his, they would converse in their native tongue, although they all spoke English beautifully. Though I knew they weren't talking about me I felt very uncomfortable and left out. The man I would like to marry is also of foreign birth and I know I would encounter the same situation, as it has already happened on several occasions.

PAULA

ANSWER: The obvious solution is for you to learn the language of your husband. With such a splendid opportunity to learn another tongue, you'd be foolish to neglect the chance. While you would probably never be as fluent as your husband or his friends, you could at least learn to follow a conversation.

It's an understandable form of nostalgia that prompts people to use their native tongue when together, even though they speak English fluently. This is a pleasure you should not deny your husband and, even if you do feel uncomfortable, be good-natured about it. Don't be oversensitive about superficial things.

I liked two things about the meat loaf besides its wonderful flavor. It went together quickly and sliced neatly while hot.

Emem's New Meat Loaf

Enough for 8 people OR for 4 once hot and once cold.

Two lbs. minced beef, 2 slices back bacon, 4 slices 100% whole wheat bread, 2 stalks celery with leaves, 1 medium onion, ½ clove garlic, ½ cup milk, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon MSG, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1-3 catsup, 1 egg.

(I dislike thinking some of you may not have MSG. I strongly advise you to buy it for it gives oomph to many savoury dishes and I want to feel free to include it in my recipes for you.). Put through food grinder the celery, bacon, onion, garlic and bread in that order. The bacon may be slightly cooked or not—just as you wish. Add these to all remaining ingredients and mix in large bowl, using the hands. Pack well into well-greased loaf pan. Mine is 9 by 5 by 2½ inches. This makes a good shape for turning out on a large platter to serve surrounded with the baked potatoes. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour or at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1¼ hours. Be careful in turning it out on the platter as grease oozes. Serve with Tomato Sauce: Heat 1 20-oz. tin tomatoes with 1 bay leaf, ½ teaspoon salft, ⅛ teaspoon each chili powder, pepper and sage, 1 teaspoon sugar, for 5 minutes. Make a paste of 2 tablespoons flour and ¼ cup cold water and stir this into the tomatoes until thick. Strain. Reheat. Pass at table.

Hot Milk Sponge Cake

Use electric or rotary beater. In large bowl break 3 eggs and beat for 10 minutes, then gradually add 1½ cups sugar while beating. This must be as high and light as possible. Remove beater. Sift 1½ cups all-purpose or cake flour with 1½ teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Heat to just below boiling point ¾ cup milk with 2 tablespoons butter. To egg and sugar mix add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Now sift the dry mix over the sugar and egg mixture, one-third of it at a time, folding it in. Now add the nearly boiling milk and butter all at once, stirring it fast but just enough to blend well. Turn into 8 x 8-inch pan—preferably lined with very thin buttered wax paper. Bake at 360 deg. Fahr. about 35 minutes. Cool on wire rack. Frost with Chocolate Nut Icing: Cream 3 tablespoons butter or margarine and gradually add ½ lb. icing sugar and 1 tablespoon cocoa and 3 tablespoons milk or cream, pinch of salt; beat until very light and of soft-spreading consistency. Spread on sides and top of cold cake, and sprinkle top with ½ cup chopped walnuts.

Of Interest to Women

What's Right?

You receive a telephoned dinner invitation and would like to consult your husband before accepting for you both.

WRONG: Feel you must either tell the hostess "Yes" or "No" at the time.

RIGHT: Ask the hostess if you may check with your husband to see whether or not he has made other plans and call her back.

Suffocating "Hot Flashes" stopped or strikingly relieved—in doctors' tests!

• Are you going through "change of life"—suffering the "hot flashes," nervous tension, irritability, weakness and other types of functionally-caused distress of this difficult time?

Then . . . here's hope for you. In tests by doctors—on their own patients—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave relief from such distress. Complete or striking relief! In case after case!

Scientifically modern action!

Surely you know that Lydia Pinkham's is scientifically modern in action! Surely you know what it has done for others!

But do you know what it will do for you? Not if you haven't experienced the relief of tension, "flashes" and irritability it so often brings at such times!

Before another day has passed—try Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound . . . or the new, improved Tablets (with added iron) . . . and discover how much easier your "change of life" may be!

NOTE: Lydia Pinkham's is grand, too, for functional cramps and "weak" feelings of menstruation! Millions of younger women, and girls, take it regularly—throughout the month—for this purpose!

Lydia Pinkham's action through sympathetic nervous system—relieves distress of the "heatwaves"!

6—In Memoriam

ABRAHAM—In loving memory of Mrs. James Abraham, who passed away March 4, 1940.
"Peace, Perfect Peace."
—Ever remembered by sons and daughter.

BURNS—In loving memory of Ralph, who passed away two years ago, Wednesday, March 5, 1950.
It's lonesome here without you Ralph
And sad the weary way
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away.
If I had all the world to give,
I'd give it all to hear your voice and see your smile
And greet you at the door.
So you who have a father,
Cherish him with care,
You'll never know a heartache
Till you see his vacant chair.
—Ever remembered by his wife and two sons.

HETHERINGTON—In loving memory of our uncle, Walter S. Hetherington, who passed away one year ago today, March 5, 1951.
—Ever remembered by his niece Stella and family.

MEEHAN—In loving memory of a dear son, Keneth Ross Meehan, killed in action March 5, 1945, buried in Holland.
There is a link death cannot sever,
Love and remembrance last forever.
—Mother.

7—Cards of Thanks

The family of Mrs. Mary J. Payne wish to thank the attending doctors, the nurses of the Civic Hospital, the minister Rev. Mr. Dargan, and all kind friends and neighbors for flowers, cards of sympathy and help, also sincerest thanks and appreciation to the Kaye Funeral Home, at the time of their recent sad bereavement.

African Natives Resist Celebration

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—The Union of South Africa will officially observe Sunday, April 6, as a day of thanksgiving to commemorate 300 years of white settlement.

It will be South Africa's first Thanksgiving Day, but not its last. The South African government intends to make the day a public holiday to celebrate annually the arrival of the first white settlers under Commander Jan van Riebeeck on April 6, 1652.

But the day may also go down in South African history as the date when African passive resistance was born. An influential political movement of natives calling itself the African National Congress has called for mass non-co-operation to begin on that day, and it remains to be seen how the African masses will respond to the call.

For some months now a committee of the African nationalist government has been arranging a festival which will be held throughout South Africa to mark the tercentenary.

Avoid Politics

The committee is trying its best to steer clear of politics and has appealed to white political leaders to observe a political truce during the festival.

But while the white leaders have agreed to such a truce, African leaders have decided that there could be no better time to draw attention to their grievances. It is likely that South African Indian leaders will reach the same decision.

The African National Congress decided that April 6 should be a day of mass demonstrations, and called on all Africans to hold "country-wide mass demonstrations to register the protest of the African people against 300 years of European oppression and exploitation."

The ANC is an annual gathering of Africans, who appoint executive officers to carry on sporadic work between congresses. For many years it has been merely a debating society of educated Africans—leaders with no followers. But since Dr. Malan came to power three years ago and began to legislate his far-reaching color bar proposals, the Congress has tended to become a focal point for African resistance.

Last year the ANC called on Africans to observe May Day as "Freedom Day" and an African public holiday. Thousands in the African townships of Johannesburg obeyed the strike call and the day ended with clashes between Africans and the police.

It remains to be seen whether the ANC's call for "non-co-operation" this year will strike a responsive chord in the African masses.

In its boldest step yet, the ANC in December issued an ultimatum to Dr. Malan. It gave him until the end of February to repeal unjust and racially discriminatory laws, failing which it would launch mass national action, based on non-co-operation.

Long-Standing Laws

Congress specified the measures it wants repealed. They are the long-standing laws, dating back at least to the last century, which require natives to carry passes, and also the laws passed by Dr. Malan's government in terms of his policy of "apartheid," or racial segregation.

It is this latter policy which has aroused the greatest opposition. Dr. Malan's plans for the eventual disfranchisement of all non-white voters. It was further a whittling down of the franchise rights granted to non-white people by Great Britain a century ago when the Cape province was a British colony.

The ANC also demanded the withdrawal of the state's policy of trying to restore the eroded soil of African farm lands by limiting the number of cattle. This policy has been pursued by successive governments and has met with growing resistance, mainly because cattle are to the African the visible symbol of the sacred rights of property.

As there is not the remotest possibility of Dr. Malan's consenting to the terms of this sweeping ultimatum, April 6 will see the start of the policy of non-co-operation. The success of that policy will depend on the mood of the African masses.

Death Toll At 119 In Rio Train Crash

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 5 — (Reuters) — The death toll in Tuesday's rail disaster here— the worst in Brazil's history — was set today at 119, with nearly 300 persons injured, many seriously.

An all-metal electric train, so crowded passengers were hanging out of the doors, sideswiped a derailed section of another train on a bridge near the Rio suburbs of Anchietta.

The electric train, taking workers into the city, crashed as it crossed a bridge over the Pavuna river.

Josiah Langton Wilson

The funeral for Josiah Langton Wilson, 523 Sherbrooke Street, who died February 27, was held Saturday from the Nisbett Funeral Home.

The Rev. E. W. Rowland of Grace United Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were Esmond Storey, Eugene Switzer, Wilfred Jackson, Albert McConnell, Cecil Casey, Vince Fee. Burial was in Emily Cemetery.

Scientists Find Evidence Of Life In Antarctic

LONDON—Evidence that there are primitive forms of animal life in the remote Antarctic and that the polar regions once may have been warm has been brought back here by British, Norwegian and Swedish scientists who took part in a recent two-year survey of Queen Maud Land.

The scientists have been spending a few days at the Royal Geographic Society before dispersing to their universities and research stations.

Explored Two Years

In their two years in the Antarctic they explored and mapped hundreds of thousands of square miles of Queen Maud Land, a Norwegian dependency, including some 800 miles of coast line.

Seismologists and climatologists accumulated a vast amount of data about ice depths and temperature gradations. Geologists and photographers who reached mountains that rise from the ice 200 miles in the interior found evidence of primitive forms of animal and botanical life.

The Queen Maud sector of Antarctica (71 degrees 10 minutes south and 11 degrees 25 minutes east had been surveyed somewhat furtively by the Germans in 1938, when Herman Goering ordered the research ship Schwabenland to push south into the ice pack in search of new and exploitable territory.

The bulk of the surveying was done by air from two Dorner flying boats that flew over the famous Queen Maud peaks and dropped swastika flags. The German territorial claims since have been ruled out as "inchoate" under international law.

Peaks Put At 14,000 Feet

The German leader, Captain Ritscher, survivor of the Schroeder-Stranz expedition of 1912, wrote some time afterward that the peaks were about 14,000 feet high and that there were curious oases of ice-free territory behind them on which, it was thought, settlements could be made for future surveys.

Most of these facts have been repudiated by the British-Scandinavian team. Dr. Fred Roots, the senior geologist, said that the German maps were "not bad as far as they went," but that the mountains were 8,000 feet high, with only the topmost 3,000 feet protruding from the ice.

They appeared as "block-shaped masses." Some were devoid of ice and snow and the rock was metamorphic, that is, it had been changed by the heat of past eruptions. The rock was capped by sedimentary deposits bearing ripple marks and the fossil remains of simple shell fish.

Dr. Roots suggested that the Antarctic was once warm if not actually hot and desert like.

Disputing what geologists have thought heretofore, he declares also that the Maud range had no geological connection with the great volcanic chain that runs down the Pacific seaboard from the Rockies to the Patagonia area of Southern Argentina.

Depth of Ice a Surprise

There was some disagreement on the subject of the oases in the ice. None of the explorers actually had reached a warm belt, but the physicists suspected from distant observation that there were "relatively warm micro-climates" behind the larger peaks.

The glaciologists were most surprised by the depth of ice that has piled up between the protruding peaks. From the reflected echoes of chains of explosives fired on top of the ice, they estimated that the Antarctic floor was nearly 7,000 feet below them.

Although the party had no official biologist—it did not expect to find much of biological interest—Dr. Ove Wilson, the Swedish medical officer, discovered that there was primitive animal and vegetable life on the exposed rocks. The plant world was represented by a few lichens and "moss-like organisms," while the animals were mites or acarines smaller than pinheads that clung to the under surface of rocks and were frozen solid most of the year. They were brought home in the refrigerator of the expedition's ship, but have not yet been identified.

Birds also were seen on distant mountains, but no one would even guess what they were or how they lived.

Damaged Food Parcels Sent Britain Purchased By Railway Employees

LONDON—(CP)—Disclosure that British railway employees have been authorized to purchase perishable goods salvaged from food parcels damaged in transit, has provoked widespread indignation throughout the country. Demands have been made for an immediate inquiry by a committee of the House of Commons.

The practice of private purchase became known when an employee in the parcel office of Marylebone station in London, was arraigned in court on a charge of stealing 12 pounds of butter—a rationed commodity in the United Kingdom.

The accused workman pleaded innocent and told the court he had merely bought the butter with approval from the Chief Clerk, after it had been established that the parcel had been badly mutilated and was without an address.

A spokesman for the British railways admitted the practice of private purchase prevailed. Every effort, however, was made to trace the owner of a damaged or badly-labelled parcel. When that was impossible the contents were sold at public auction.

Writing Cheques Keeps Man Busy

MONTREAL — (CP)—There's a man in a downtown office who spends $537.94 every minute.

Last year, he spent a record $275,000,000 to bring his 11-year total to $1,650,000,000—an annual average of $155,000,000.

He is E. A. Bromley, vice-president for purchases and stores, Canadian National Railways.

A typical market day for him includes purchases of a passenger boat, 3,000 head of lettuce, 500 box-cars and three or four flat-cars of telephone poles.

"We buy everything from sealing wax to ships, caviar to car ferries, lead to locomotives, silk stockings to structural steel," he said recently.

Last year, he placed more than 264,000 orders with 10,000 firms for the parent railway company, the fleet of Canadian National steamships, a trans-continental communications system, a rail-express service and a coast-to-coast hotel chain.

Oddities include 400,000 tons of ice for refrigerators and passenger cars, 3,000,000 pounds of weed killer for rail lines and parkas for telegraph workers on the fringe of the Arctic circle.

The mass of items is stored in 150 warehouses from Newfoundland to British Columbia.

Utilities Meets

Examiner photograph Tuesday duplicated the hatpieces of the originals.

Incidentally, if not for the record, there was exceedingly close relationship between those two pictures, beyond the accidental similarity of sedate hats.

Gordon Matthews is a son of the original chairman, Fred Hills is a son-in-law of Commissioner William H. Hill, little personal links in the spirit and performance of family public service.

Get On With With Work

After that prelude and revival of old memories, the commission proceeded with its first meeting in their attractive and durable [illegible]

It was designed and constructed by their own staff, with the exception of some subcontracts for such details as electric wiring, plumbing and so on.

It is a single storey structure of masonry construction, 62 feet by 52 feet in size, with about two-thirds of the area excavated for basement.

The footings and foundation wall are poured concrete, and the superstructure is red pressed brick face, backed up with eight inch haydite blocks. There are window sill and lintel courses of Indiana cut stone running around the building.

The ground floor over the basement and the roof are precast haydite slabs. The remainder of the ground floor over the unexcavated portion is poured concrete.

All interior partitions on the ground floor are 4 inch tile with the exception of the vault, which is conrete.

Glulam beams and solid fir columns support the roof. A concrete partition wall across the basement eliminates the necessity of beams and columns there.

The outside walls on the ground floor are strapped, lathed and plastered on the inside. All tile partitions are plastered. The ceilings in all offices are dropped one foot below the roof slab and are finished with acoustic fibretone. The remainder of the ceiling is plaster.

Heated By Gas

A propane-air, gas-fired circulating hot water heating system has been installed, with electric standby.

Fluorescent lighting is used in all offices, with recessed three-tube fixtures in the general office, Commission room and private office. In the billing room surface mounted four-tube fixtures are installed. The remainder of the lighting is incandescent.

A special feature is the all-glass entrance on the corner, with a door operated by an electronic opener. Although the door weighs several hundred pounds, only a five pound pressure on the handle will cause it to swing in or out automatically.

All trim inside the office, including the counter, is birch.

5 Million In Tokyo

TOKYO, March 5 (AP).—The Metropolitan Government announced Tuesday the population of the 23 wards of Tokyo proper is 5,930,563 as of Feb. 1. In October, 1940, the Japanese capital had a population of 6,778,804, exceeded only by London and New York.

WHAT THE WELL-DRESSED DOG should wear in Korea is displayed by this Japanese-born pooch named Rusty, shown with his master Pfc. Bruce Shaw, of Enid, Okla. The Korean cold was too hard on Rusty's paws, so Shaw asked his mother to send boots. They arrived along with a sweater, and now Rusty is comfortable.

Europeans Study Methods Of U.S. Union Organizing

NEW YORK. —(CP)— Lessons in effective union organization and shop level ideas on increasing productivity will be among this country's exports to Europe a year hence when 2,000 European workers, most of them rank and file unionists, begin their homeward [illegible]

The plan evolved by the Mutual Security Agency in co-operation with union management and university groups, is already in operation. Under it the workers will be employed in union industries at prevailing wages for a twelve-month period. While here they will pay their own expenses and at the end of the period they will be returned to their homes by the agency.

Along with their full time work program the Europeans will attend classes several nights each week to orient them to American customs and provide counselling services.

Arthur A. Elder, director of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Training Institute, described the program after the closing meeting of the annual workers' education conference of the American Labor Education Service at the New School for Social Research, 66 West Twelfth Street.

300 Already At Work

Mr. Elder, who is also a member of the American Federation of Labor's education committee, which took part in the program, said that between 300 and 400 of the workers had already been settled at Bridgeport; Springfield, Mass.; Syracuse, Hamline College in St. Paul, and Washington Uni[illegible] in St. [illegible]

Similar programs in the past, Mr. Elder said, have been operated at the technical and administrative level. A few foremen are included in the agency's group, but most of the visitors are rank and file union members in their home countries in Western Europe and Scandinavia.

Conference members exchanged ideas on methods for arousing interest and constructive action by labor union members in the field of international affairs. Speakers urged such groups as the International Labor Organization and the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization to work with unions, rather than merely sending speakers to meetings and printed material to the unions.

teachers at P.C.V.S. will cost an estimated $1,100. And the cost-of-living bonus will total $18,000.

The retirement allowance comes to $1,870, and miscellaneous wages (for musical instruction) $2,200.

Other salary expenses:

Full-time doctor, four nurses, full-time dentist, and part-time dentist $23,825; night school $15,400; caretakers $72,775 (includes salaries, cost-of-living bonus, and retirement allowance.)

Salaries and bonuses to the teachers alone come to about $729,150 it is estimated; or a total increase of $115,050 on this item alone.

Following is the estimate of disbursements:

Finance committee: $517,585 elementary, $143,325 academic, and $125,715 vocational.

Property committee, $115,075 elementary, $38,160 academic, and $25,820 vocational.

Health: $22,595 elementary, $645 academic, and $585 vocational.

Supervision: $12,925 elementary, $8,275 academic, and $26,030 vocational.

Receipts include: Surplus $24,483; $6,222 lump sum from ratepayers in War Time Housing (they are not individually assessed for school purposes); $4,000 in special grants (for special rooms such as manual training, household science, kindergarten and others); general grant of $188,500 based on pupil attendance; non-resident fees of $15,000 for public school children from North Monaghan and Smith townships who attend city schools; and $85,000 in non-resident fees from "outside" students attending P.C.V.S.

In 1951 the general city tax rate for public school supporters was 55.5 mills. Of this levy 29.1 was for educational purposes.

Set Ore Record

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP).—Domestic production of iron ore set a record at 116,430,000 gross tons in 1951, the Bureau of Mines reported Tuesday. This was 19-per-cent more than the 98,045,360 tons produced in 1950. Iron ore shipped also set a record at 116,570,000 gross tons, 19-per-cent more than the 97,764,410 gross tons shipped in 1950.

21 Escape Flames

ASHBURNHAM, Mass., March 5 — (AP) — Twenty-one students escaped unharmed early today after lightning struck and set fire to the main building of Cushing Academy, a private school. School officials said the boys were awakened when the bolt struck the building's tower and had time to make their way to the street before flames spread to their third-floor dormitory.

Plan Further Tests

LOS ANGELES, March 5 (AP). —The Atomic Energy Commission is laying the groundwork for further A-bomb tests at Frenchman's Flat in Nevada and Eniwetok Island, a member of the A.E.C. said Tuesday night. Thomas E. Murray said in an interview that present plans call for use of the present proving grounds in Nevada each spring and fall with the Eniwetok tests at longer intervals.

Subway Trains Delayed

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP). — More than 200 passengers were taken from three subway trains on the Manhatten bridge across East River Tuesday night after a short-circuit. The passengers sat in semi-darkness for up to 90 minutes before they were led over a trestle to waiting buses.

Queen Gets Raise

THE HAGUE, The [illegible] (Reuters) — The Netherlands Parliament Tuesday night passed a bill to raise Queen Juliana's income from $280,000 to $420,000 a year.

Locate Bomb

NUREMBERG, Germany, March 5 (Reuters).—Hundreds of persons evacuated their homes Tuesday for two hours and traffic was detoured when a wartime American 500-pound bomb was found during work on a bombed building. The bomb was safely defused.

130 Go On Trial

CAIRO, March 5 —(AP) —Informed sources said Tuesday night 130 persons will go on trial a week from today in connection with Cairo's Anti-British torch riots of Jan. 26. Sixty-seven persons were killed in the riots and fire damage reached millions of dollars.

German Camera Firm Plans Midland Plant

MIDLAND, Ont., March 5 (CP) —A famous camera and precision instrument firm from Germany is going to build its North American factory here.

Ernest Leitz (Canada) Limited announced plans today to put up a building in this Georgian Bay town on a 10-acre industrial site purchased about three months ago.

The Leitz Company, best known to the public for its pioneer development of the Leica miniature camera, is better known to industry for its range of precision instruments, which include microscopes, binoculars and instruments for testing the hardness of metals. The parent factory at Wetzlar in Western Germany employs more than 5,000 persons.

The initial plant, which will pecialize in the assembly of a broad range of precision products in the early stages, will have 13,000 square feet of floor space and two floors and will represent an investment of approximately $200,000.

Share Costs

While stock in the 100-year-old Ernst Leitz Incorporated has long been held by the Leitz family, some capital for the Canadian venture will be put up by Walter A. Carveth, of Toronto, whose firm now markets the Leitz products.

Fifty men and women will be employed in the new plant during early stages of operations and the number ultimately employed may exceed 1,000. Fifteen key workers from Wetzlar are expected to arrive at Montreal about the end of May.

Walter Kluck, who will manage the Midland operations under the supervision of Gunter Leitz, is scheduled to reach here about April 1.

Construction of the first factory unit is expected to start this month.

SPLINTERED BY TORNADO—Shattered wreckage is all that remains of this home, one of about 100 that were demolished when a tornado swept through Fayetteville, Tenn. Two persons died by the sudden twister, and 160 others were injured.

Coin Design Indicates Peaceful Reign

By LESLIE HAYES

LONDON, March 5 (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth should enjoy a reign of peace if, in keeping with traditional practice, she decided that her profile on the coins for her reign shall face towards the right.

For hundreds of years, the facial direction of the profile of the sovereign on British coins has been alternated from reign to reign. The practice is believed to have been started by Charles II in the 17th Century "because he could not bear to look in the same direction as Cromwell."

Each succeeding sovereign has adopted the alternate facing—although not for Charles' reason.

Numismatists (coin experts) now point out that:

William IV (1830-1837) faced to the right. He had a reign undisturbed by war.

Queen Victoria (1837-1901) faced to the left. She had a prosperous reign but not a peaceful one.

Edward VII (1901-1910) faced to the right. His reign saw the First World War.

Edward VIII (1936) was on the Throne for such a short time that no coins bearing his profile were issued.

George VI (1936-52), on the assumption that Edward VIII coins would have shown the sovereign facing right, had his coins designed with his profile facing left. He reigned during the Second World War.

If the tradition is followed—and it is entirely a matter for the sovereign to decide—the profile of Elizabeth II on British currency will face towards the right, as it did in the peaceful days of William IV and Edward VII.

The first coins to bear the new sovereign's profile may be an issue of commemorative Coronation five - shilling pieces, or crowns, similar to the special issues for the Festival of Britain and the silver wedding anniversary of the late King.

Needs Planning

The Royal Mint will also be [illegible] great seal for use by the Queen on documents of first importance. The latter is the Mint's most intricate job, one operation alone taking 600 hours.

Not all medals will bear the sovereign's profile, but they invariably give the sovereign's name. The processing of medals is even more complicated than for coins. In the case of some medals and orders the engraving is finished by hand.

One of the first big tasks for the Royal Mint will be making a Coronation medal.

King George VI gave 100,000 of his Coronation medals to members of the Royal Household, Crown services, mayors and the civilian services throughout the Commonwealth as personal souvenirs of the occasion and to be worn as a decoration.

A change of sovereign also means new tasks for the College of Heralds, who, by custom and tradition, are responsible for the design of heraldic emblems.

Their most important task is to advise the Queen on the style for the Royal coat of arms. The only major change in the arms since their large Tudor rose covered the buckle of the garter which surrounds the Royal standard. In the arms of King George VI, the buckle was uncovered and there were two small Tudor roses beneath it.

Apart from this, the arms have not been changed in recent years from monarch to monarch, and it is almost certain that the Queen will take over her father's armorial bearings with the exception of the crest. In the late King's crest the Crown is shown borne on a Royal helmet, which is derived from armour. The Queen is expected to discard this masculine helmet, as did Queen Victoria.

Political War Raging In South Korea

By WILLIAM JORDEN

PUSAN, Korea, March 5 (AP) —A polictical civil war is raging in this embattled Korean Republic despite the pressure of a mighty Communist army massed near its northern frontier.

With a presidential election only three months away, antagonism between President Syngman Rhee and the one-House National Assemby has flared into a running fight.

Political observers here agree almost unanimously that Rhee has little chance for re-election — even if he seeks another four-year term.

Rhee, although convinced the Korean people will insist that he run, told The Associated Press he made up his mind "long ago" not to seek another term.

But political intimates of the 76-year-old "Father of the Korean Republic" say Rhee could be induced to run if he thought he would be elected easily. Under the Korean constitution, the president is elected by the National Assembly.

Introduced Amendment

In January, Rhee sponsored a proposed amendment for direct election of the president and for a two-House National Assembly. Critics said Rhee introduced the measure as a move toward his re-election.

After only two days of debate, the Assembly turned down the amendment by a 143-19 vote.

Rhee suggested that the voters should recall the legislators.

Two weeks ago, several hundred persons gathered at the National Assembly carrying placards and shouting for recall of the Assembly. Petitions were drawn up. The Assemblymen were incensed.

They noted that there is no constitutional provision for recall. They also claimed that the recall move had been carefully planned by Rhee supporters.

The proposed amendment has not been forgotten. Rhee said he might reintroduce the measure after the present legislative session which ends March 20.

Nova Scotia Orders Three-Week Embargo

HALIFAX, March 5 — (CP)— Nova Scotia Tuesday night placed a three-week embargo on all Western livestock, including horses, as a result of the foot-and-mouth outbreak in Southern Saskatchewan.

The announcement, made in the Legislature by Agriculture Minister Mackenzie, was in answer to a question by D. D. Sutton (L-Kings) regarding whether a shipment of Western horses consiged to the Annapolis Valley would be permitted to enter the province.

Nova Scotia is the fourth province to ban cattle imports following discovery of the disease.

Doctor Testifies Wounds Vicious

CORNWALL, March 5 (CP)— The murder trial of a 21-year-old farmhand whose alleged victim died of knife wounds reported to be at least six inches deep entered its third day today.

Dr. Wiliam Hay of Queen's University, Kingston, provincial pathologist, testifying for the Crown in its case against Elias Meek, charged with the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Allan Alguire last Septemebr 28, said the knife wounds that caused her death were among the "cruellest and most vicious" he had seen in his experience.

Dr. Hay said death was due to a severed artery within the abdomen from a knife that had penetrated at least six inches.

The body of the wife of Meek's employer was found in a walkway on the Alguire farm, 10 miles north of Cornwall.

The victim suffered severe wounds on the head and on the side of the abdomen, Dr. Hay said.

Mrs. Ross Alguire, mother-in-law of the slain woman, told on Tuesday of going to the farm with two women friends to pick apples and of finding the body.

CNR Pension Rules Will Be Changed

OTTAWA, March 5 (CP). — Transport Minister Chevrier said Tuesday new pension rules for C.N.R. employees will be announced by Donald Gordon, C.N.R. president, within a few days.

He told Stanley Knowles (C.C.F. Winnipeg North Centre), in the Commons that the cabinet has studied the changes and found no objection to them. They would considerably better the existing pension setup.

Mr. Chevrier said the changes do not affect people already on C.N.R. pensions. He later told John Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre) the C.N.R. management did not make any recommendations for people already on pension.

Mr. Diefenbaker urged that the government ask the C.N.R. to do something to improve their pensions because they were "totally inadequate." Mr. Chevrier said if the C.N.R. management wished to make any further recommendations the government was quite prepared to study them.

Mental Fillip

NORWICH, ENGLAND —(CP) —An Indian drug, made from seeds of a mountain drug and said to stimulate the mental faculties, is being tested in a local hospital. Those given the drug will be tested against drug-free patients.

Italian Countess On Trial For Murder

COMO, Italy, March 5 (Reuters) —Countess Pia Bellentani, 36, went on trial Tuesday charged with murdering a rich man-about-town by shooting him as he sat across a table from her in a fashionable hotel bar.

But the countess was not in court Tuesday. She is being held in an insane asylum. Once elegant and beautiful, she now sits in a small bare room, unkempt and prematurely aged.

She is being tried in her absence. The defence will rest its case on her mental condition at the time industrialist Carol Sacchi 40, was shot.

A police officer, testifying on Tuesday for the prosecution, read a statement the countess allegedly made at her first questioning.

"I was mad at Sacchi," the officer quoted the countess, "because he insinuated that my husband was in one way or another destined always to be a cuckold."

The statement said she drew a gun she had taken from her husband and brandished it at Sacchi.

He just laughted at her — and "the revolver suddenly went off."

The shooting took place in 1948 in the bar at a Lake Como resort hotel.

Present Gift

MILLBROOK, March 5 (ENS). —Twenty-five of the immediate neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Moore, east of Millbrook, held a party for Mrs. Moore's birthday. Mrs. Sam Kinsman read a birthday greeting to her, as Mrs. Jack Kinsman pinned a rose corsage on Mrs. Moore. Mrs. Dickson Hutchinson presented a black leather purse. Mrs. Moore replied.

Marmora Evens It

MARMORA, March 5 (ENS)— Playing good combination, with an outstanding performance by Killian in the nets, Marmora got revenge at Wellington on Monday evening for the shutout sustained at home on the previous Thursday and won decisively by 6-2.

Mantle opened the scoring on an assist from Jones. Trimble, the Marmora captain also registered shortly before the close of the first period on Lavender's assist. The southerners retaliated with a goal as the second period started but in short time Lavender beat Parks on a pass from Trimble. Stewart added another for the visitors as the period was ending. Another goal came to Wellington in the third as a Marmora player accidentally put the puck into his own net.

Mantle got his second goal and Brown, unassisted, also beat Parks to end the scoring. The game attracted the largest crowd Wellington has had this season, a good contingent of Marmora fans helping to swell the attendance.

For the fifth game to decide the champions of the Central Section of the Trent Valley League at Marmora this Wednesday evening a bumper crowd is expected.

Mrs. Fred Bickell

The funeral for Mrs. Fred Bickell, the former Annie J. Emmerson of Oshawa and formerly of Peterborough, who died Friday in Oshawa General Hospital, was held Monday from the Belleghem funeral home.

The Rev. H. D. McCormack of St. James' United Church conducted the service assisted by the Rev. J. K. Moffatt of Simcoe United Church, Oshawa.

Pallbearers were Rae Petley, Ivan McKenzie, John Harrison, James Shearer, John Sanderson, Gordon Stocker. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

John E. Dickenson

The funeral for John Edward Dickenson, 442 Rogers St., who died Sunday in St. Joseph's Hospital, was held Tuesday from St. Luke's Anglican Church.

The Rev. Walter J. Gilling of that church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were R. Kearns, Joseph Kearns, Gordon Myles, William Davies, J. Morgan, B. Duder. Burial was in Fife's cemetery, Otonabee township.

Tourisf Revenue

HALIFAX—(CP)—Official reports just released here showed nearly 338,000 tourists visited Nova Scotia in 1950, bringing an estimated revenue of $25,000,000 to the province. The Department of information estimated the tourists spent an average of 10½ days in Nova Scotia.

School Savings

MONTREAL — (CP) — Pupils under control of the Montreal Catholic School Commission deposited $715,961 in their miniature savings banks, according to the annual report just issued here. There are now 68,711 depositors, or about 64 per cent of the pupils enrolled.

Sweden To India

NEW DELHI— (CP) — A party of Swedish students has arrived here, travelling in a specially equipped bus. The students who will stay two months in India left Stockholm in November and travelled through Germany, the Balkans, Turkey and Iraq.

Havelock WI Presents Program On Ireland

HAVELOCK, March 5 (ENS)— An Irish program was presented at the meeting of the Havelock Women's Institute held in the Council Chamber on Monday afternoon, with Mrs. George Rigby, Sr., as the convener.

Mrs. S. Southward explained the process that flax underwent before it became the finished product of Irish linen. Mrs. Southward had on display a piece of flax she brought from Western Canada last fall and a piece of linen. Mrs. Southward also read an Irish welcome and Mrs. Rigby gave a reading on mental health. Mrs. W. Goadsby and Mrs. John Beatty were the soloists, rendering Irish numbers with Mrs. D. Kirk as accompanist.

Mrs. H. Mann, of Trent River, gave a demonstration of making a wool cushion using a bran sack as a base.

During the business period the conveners for next year's program were named, and plans were made to hold a tea and sale of home baking in the council chamber on March 15. There were 20 members present.

Tea hour hostesses were Mesdames S. Southward, G. Rigby, Sr., F. McKenzie and W. Woodbeck.

Plan Campaign

HASTINGS, March 5 (ENS)— The committee for raising the Hastings allotment for use in the building of the United Church school met at the home of Mrs. F. Crate. Secretary for the committee is Mrs. Cecil Oliver and treasurer, Mrs. R. R. Burnham. A special Sunday service is to be arranged for April 27th with a guest speaker. Canvass of the church members will be made the first part of May.

Rush Call

MORDEN, ENGLAND—(CP)— Basil Hart, 42, a building foreman and expert on termites, received an urgent call from France and left for St. Helena to save the house in which Napoleon lived during exile. The house, still owned by the French government, has been ravaged by termites.

Would Aid Classes

VICTORIA, B.C.— (CP) —The school board of greater Victoria is seeking financial aid to meet overhead expenses involved in teaching English to immigrants. The new Canadians are being taught by volunteer teachers but the classes involve unavoidable incidental expense.

A Pretty View

MONTREAL, March 5. — (CP)—One of five prisoners awaiting trial for auto theft glanced disconsolately out of the window of his cell Tuesday. Then he brightened. "Hey, look at the pretty girl," he told his companions. Edouard Tremblay grabbed the iron grille of the window as he took a good look. The grille came away in his hands. Police are still searching for Tremblay and Andre Pilon. The other three prisoners stayed behind.

George Bateson

The funeral for George Bateson, 480 King George St., who died Friday in Civic Hospital, was held Monday from the Belleghem funeral home.

The Rev. E. W. Rowland of Grace United Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were Wilbert Sargent, George Sage, H. Neish, W. Booth, Edward Sargent and M. H. Drysdale. Burial was in Keene cemetery.

2 Police Officers Shot In Toronto Stop Suspect Car

TORONTO, March 6. (CP)—Two police officers were shot and wounded today when they stopped a car believed involved in the $24,000 holdup Tuesday of a branch of the Bank of Montreal. The driver of the car shot them and then drove off. The two are Detective-Sergeant Roy Perry and Detective-Sergeant Ed Tong. Tong is not expected to live. The shooting occurred at the corner of Lansdowne Avenue and College Street in west Toronto.

The detectives in a cruiser chased a 1952-model car and forced it to the curb.

As the officers walked toward the halted car, a shot was fired and both detectives were hit.

Car Stolen

Police said later the car was stolen half an hour before the shooting. The licence number was broadcast and the detectives, when they stopped it, thought they were chasing only car thieves.

One suspect was described as 35 years old, five feet 10 inches tall, of slim build and wearing a grey fedora. He had a black moustache and horn-rimmed glasses.

The second man was 35 to 38 years of age, of heavy build, and had a full face. He wore a dark beige overcoat and a dark fedora.

Police said both men carried

Sgt. Tong's condition was reported as "very critical." The ambulance that took him to hospital had to leave another run just as a patient was being loaded into it.

The alarm was turned in from a candy store after a woman rushed into the store crying that a man was lying on the roadway. She said he had been shot by two men in a car.

A garage service man said the car was being intercepted by the two plainclothesmen when one of the men in the car jumped out and shot at the police car. The bullets went through the windshield and out the back window.

"One was badly hit and lying on the sidewalk," the service man said. "The other was hit in the hand, I think, and was walking around."

All available police cruisers in the west-central area were ordered to the district.

Mrs. L. L. Price, who was at the scene, told a reporter she ran to detective Perry's side as he fell.

"He gasped out 'those are the bank robbers'," she said.

Discuss Action Against 57 In Labor Split

LONDON, March 6—(CP)—Labor party leaders today called a full meeting of their parliamentary group for Tuesday to consider action against 57 members who defied their chiefs Wednesday night and voted against the government's arms plan in a defence debate.

The program the rebels spurned was launched by the Labor government, which Prime Minister Churchill's Conservatives superceded in October.

About 10 of the dissenters were pacifists who joined regular followers of Left-wing leader Aneurin Bevan to form the shock troops he used in his bid to wrest policy leadership from the opposition leader Clement Attlee.

Their defection let Winston Churchill's Conservative Government beat down a Labor "no confidence" motion by a startling 95-

Most members of parliament agreed that even though Attlee still controls three-fourths of his party's members in the House of Commons, he must do something quickly or his authority as party leader is gone. They thought, though, any disciplinary action would stop short of expulsion of Bevan and his 56 followers from the party.

Attlee backed by more than 200 other Labor members of the House, ordered all Socialist members to vote for the Labor amendment expressing lack of confidence in the ability of the Churchill government to carry out the arms program. He told them to abstain from voting on a government motion approving its handling of the plan.

Bevan and his followers, who think the arms program is too big, and some Socialist members who oppose rearmament on pacifist grounds, did just the reverse.

The Socialist amendment was rejected 219-341, with the Bevan group abstaining. As Attlee and his followers abstained, the Bevanites voted against the government motion, which carried 313-55.

The Conservative Daily Mail compared it to "the night in 1940 when Neville Chamberlain was forced out of the leadership of the Conservative party and the Premiership because of the large abstentions of his normal supporters."

The pro-Labor Daily Herald expressed its alarm at the party situation in an unusual front-page editorial.

Plan To Resist Teachers' Raise

OSHAWA, March 6. (CP)—The Times-Gazette says today that representatives of a number of high school boards in the area between Oakville and Kingston have formed an organization to resist what they consider unreasonable demands by teachers for salary increases.

Its newspage story said the board representatives met last week at Richmond Hill, just north of Toronto, and decided to ask the Ontario government to take "effective steps" to restrain the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation from its practice of blacklisting boards involved in disputes with teachers.

Make Careful Investigation

RCMP Clears Immigrant Of Deliberate Infection

OTTAWA, March 6 (CP)—The R.C.M.P. said today, after completing an investigation, that there is no evidence to indicate that Willi Bruntjen had any deliberate intention of transmitting foot-and-mouth disease in Canada.

Commissioner L. H. Nicholson of the R.C.M.P. issued the following statement:

"There is no evidence whatsoever that would indicate Willi Bruntjen deliberately transmitted or had any intention of transmitting foot-and-mouth disease."

However, there still was no report as to whether the 29-year-old German immigrant actually was a carrier of the disease. The agriculture department said tests at the nearby Hull, Que., laboratories were not yet complete and it may be "several days" before a final report is made.

The R.C.M.P. did not disclose the method of its investigation, but it was understood it included a thorough questioning of the farm worker, now at the Hull laboratories, as well as an investigation in Bruntjen's native Westphalia, Germany.

Bruntjen worked on a south Saskatchewan farm where the outbreak is suspected to have originated. He was employed there for a few days last November, before the disease was uncovered.

Veterinarians suspected that he may have brought the virus from Westphalia where outbreaks had developed.

Bruntjen likely will leave the laboratories in a few days and be placed at some lumber camp as a bush worker. The labor department is helping to find him a job.

Insist Russia See Weapons

MUNSAN, Korea, March 6 (AP)—The deadlocked Korean truce talks bogged down even further today as Communist negotiators insisted that neutral teams including Russians be permitted to inspect secret equipment during an armistice.

Staff officers working on truce supervision wranged fruitlessly for more than an hour but the prisoner exchange sub-committee called it a day after only 12 minutes.

The deadlock has become so serious observers here said they believe only action at the top level can end the stalemate.

There was no hint that a shift in the Allied position was in the offing.

Col. Don O. Darrow told newspapermen the Communist demand for inspection of secret equipment might be "just another needling device." But he added:

"If they could get Russian teams down to look at our equipment, that would be highly desirable from their point of view."

Alberta Rink Shares Same Spot

Manitoba Holds First With Easy 14-8 Win Over P.E.I. Rink

Ontario ..... 000 203 021 000—8
Nova Scotia 100 010 100 211—7

WINNIPEG, March 6. (CP)—Dr. Ralph Clark's rink from Peterborough staved off a determined drive by Nova Scotia to win on the seventh round 8-7. The Ontario rink remains tied with Alberta for second place with five wins and one loss.

Manitoba, with six wins, is alone in first place in the Canadian Curling Championships.

Standing after seven rounds:

Manitoba	6	0
Alberta	5	1
Ontario	5	1
Nova Scotia	4	2
British Columbia	4	3
Saskatchewan	3	3
New Brunswick	3	3
Quebec	3	4
Northern Ontario	1	5
Prince Edward Island	1	6
Newfoundland	0	7

Winners in the seventh round play today were: Quebec over Northern Ontario 11-7; New Brunswick over Newfoundland 8-5; Alberta over British Columbia 10-8; and Manitoba over Prince Edward Island 14-8.

Deciding End

Dr. Clark's rink won all its points in the middle six ends. In ends 1, 2, 3, 10, 11, and 12, they scored nothing at all. The sixth end—a three-ender—was the deciding end.

Skip Henry Blanchard's Nova Scotia rink scored in six ends; there were two dead-ends, the second and third.

The crowd of spectators, mostly favoring Manitoba, kept their eyes on Dr. Clark's match with the Maritimers. Blanchard made a strong comeback on the late ends, scoring two on the 10th and one each on the 11th and 12th.

Left Uncovered

Blanchard himself was heavy on two attempted 12th-end guards and left his two shot rocks uncovered when the doctor came up for the final throw. The usually-accurate Ontario skip was thin in his runner, sliding past the rock aimed at, but catching the second stone.

That left Nova Scotia counting only one, and the final score at 8-7.

1,000 In Queue To Offer Blood

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 6 (Reuters). — Citizens lined up 1,000-strong Wednesday to offer blood when the supply ran out for the 300 injured in Tuesday's rail crash. One hundred and nineteen persons were killed.

Some of the first in line were officers and crew members from the German barque Pamin now in port here.

The passenger-jammed electric train sideswiped a derailed section of an outbound express Tuesday.

Begin Air Drop To 'Quake Victims

TOKYO, March 6 — (AP) — United States air force planes today dropped blankets and food to shivering victims of Tuesday's earthquake and tidal wave. Repair crews began work on shattered rail and communications lines.

Extreme cold and driving snowstorms followed the quake.

An air force field unit called for an air drop of 600 blankets and army field rations for 1,871 homeless in the village of Kiritappu, some 25 miles south of the Russian-held Kuriles. The field unit said 309 homes were destroyed and three persons killed in the tiny village.

Kiritappu, on the east coast, and the inland village of Urahoro, apparently were the hardest hit on Japan's northern Hokkaido island.

DEATH TRAP IN BRAZIL — Rescue workers search for bodies amidst tangled wreckage following a collision of two trains near Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. At least 119 persons were killed and nearly 300 injured as the torn coaches piled up and burned on a bridge spanning the Pavuna River.

Ask Price Support For Beef

OTTAWA, March 6. (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Africulture today described the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease as a "national calamity" and urged the federal government to provide price support for both beef and lamb. In a 7,000-word submission to Prime Minister St. Laurent and the Cabinet, the 400,000-member C.F.A. also urged: 1. Rigid enforcement of disinfection and inspection of all railway stock cars at stock yards and packing plants. 2. Extension of the regulations on disinfection to include trucks, trailers and other transport handling livestock. The annual brief, presented by H. H. Hannam, C.F.A. president, and his executive, ranged over the whole field of national agricultural policy, with particular emphasis on the outbreak of the disease in South Saskatchewan.

Because it was in the category of a "national calamity," the Federation felt it unfair that livestock producers should bear the full impact of loss. It was only "fair and right" that the losses involved should be "borne by all the citizens of Canada."

Would Stabilize Prices

It believed the government should grant price support to stabilize beef and lamb prices at the level prevailing during the week ending Feb. 16— about a week before the government's announcement of the disease was made.

The Federation also asked that floor price on hogs be increased to $28 a hundredweight dressed, basis grade B-1 hogs at Winnipeg. The current floor price is about $24.50 at Winnipeg with fluctuations at other centres.

It urged the government to maintain a 63-cents-a-pound floor price on butter; grant a 30-cents-a-pound on cheddar cheese, and a floor price of 44 cents dozen for Grade A large eggs.

It recommended that the government seek renewal of the four-year International Wheat Agreement, which has another year to run, but to bid for higher floor and ceiling prices.

Under the Federation's recommendations, the domestic price for wheat, which now is the same as the International Wheat Agreement price, would be separated and established on a basis of chances in production costs in Canada.

Bush Pilot Flies Out Four From Snowbound Village

NORTH RUSTICO, P.E.I., March 6. (CP)—A daring bush pilot landed on tricky harbor ice to evacuate four hospital cases from this ice-and-snow-bound village Wednesday as horses and sleighs were pressed into service to bring in badly needed food supplies.

Eldon Woodside landed his tiny plane on skis at the head of ice-bound Rustico Harbor. He flew out a newly-born infant, two confinement cases and a girl suffering an undefined illness.

Edward Gallant, general store proprietor, who broke open the last case of canned milk Tuesday, said three changes of horses were necessary to bring the sleighs the nine miles from Hunter River over the drift-clogged roads.

Plow Hasn't Come

A snowplow sent from Charlottetown two days ago to clear a path through the drifts, 18 feet deep in some spots, still has not reached here.

Although some food is in short supply—especially milk for infants—the main problem is fuel. None is available locally and the last coal in the village, the four tons in the school, was distributed Tuesday, 200 pounds to each household.

Relief can't come by water because of the thick ice along the coast, making the isolation from the blizzards of February complete.

Another problem causing concern is the difficulty of a doctor reaching the village. The one who came to deliver the infant evacuated Wednesday made it by a long, tedious sleigh ride and with many changes of horses.

TTC Passengers Drop

TORONTO, March 6 (CP). — H. E. Pettett, secretary of the Toronto Transportation Commission said Wednesday that major cuts will be made in bus and streetcar service because of a drop in passenger traffic of about 150,000 persons a day. The 150,000 passengers were lost during the 19-day strike of T.T.C. employees for higher wages.

Pickets On Job For 13 Years

DUN LAOGHAIRE, Republic of Ireland, March 6 —(AP) —The stubborn pickets at Jim Downey's saloon rounded out their 13th year of pacing today.

Jim declared open house to mark the birthday of Ireland's famous marathon strike. He invited the pickets, who have been plodding in front of his place since 1939, as well as his regular customers. Jim does that every year.

Thirteen years ago Jim fired his bartender. The union ordered the bartender reinstated and the barmaid fired. Downey refused and the strike began.

Downey, 78, claims he resists the union as a matter of principle. He now employes only barmaids.

The dispute has cost the union about $1,7000 annually in strike pay. But it has brought a thriving business to Downey. So many people have been drawn to the pub to view the squabble that Downey reports:

"If the boys with the placards went, it would ruin my business."

Mother Sees Child Killed Near School

BELLEVILLE, March 6—(CP)—In sight of her mother who had driven her to school, six-year-old Shirley Margaret Aylesworth of nearby Crookston was killed today when she was struck by a car as she ran across the road to school.

The mother had driven her daughter to school along with several other children. The children started across the road and all but Shirley darted back when they saw the car coming.

Police said the car driver, Roy Stevenson of Eldorado, had no chance to stop.

There will be no inquest.

Dramatic Switch In National Assembly Votes Confirms Pinay As Premier Of France

PARIS, March 6—(CP)—Antoine Pinay was confirmed as Premier of France today by a dramatic switch of votes in the National Assembly.

The Conservative businessman-politician squeezed through with 324 votes, nine more than the bare minimum needed. There were 206 votes against him.

More than a score of votes in Pinay's favor came from followers of Gen. Charles De Gaulle.

The DeGaullists bolted a party decision to refrain from voting.

Pinay, 60, still must find a Cabinet and obtain a vote of confidence in the National Assembly before he can begin governing.

He has outlined a program of putting the squeeze on tax evaders to collect funds to finance France's contribution to European defence and the war in Indo-China. His predecessor, Edgar Faure, fell on the issue of increasing most taxes by 15 per cent.

When the chips were down in the Assembly today, few except Communists and Socialists voted against Pinay, who is expected to form France's first right-wing coalition since the war.

Name 2 Canadians Nobel Peace Prize Candidates

OSLO, March 6. (CP)—Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs Minister, are among 27 individuals nominated for the 1952 Nobel Peace Prize, the Nobel committee announced today. Winner of the prize last year was Leon Johhaux, the anti-Communist French Labor leader. The list of nominees included five Americans. They are: Frank Buchman, noted for his work with the Oxford Group and Moral Re-armament; Ewing Cockrell, Warrensburg, Mo., jurist; Raphael Lemkin, Yale University, an authority on international law and the man who coined the word genocide for race murder; James Shotwell, historian and former president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and Clarence Streit, advocate of United States union with Britain.

Sir Benegal N. Rau, the Indian diplomat, and President Miguel Aleman Valdes of Mexico were considered for the award, usually made in the fall.

Still others whose names were sent to the special committee of the Norwegian parliament for consideration are Carlos P. Romulo, now the Philippine Ambassador to the United States, and Prof. Albert Schweitzer, the German medical philosopher famed for his missionary work in Africa.

Awarded December 10

The award, worth 171,134 Swedish Kroner ($33,000), will be presented in Oslo Dec. 10, birthday of Dr. Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite, whose will provided the money for the award.

Under the terms of the Nobel will, candidates for the award may be nominated by any one of the following:

Governments of countries; members of the Norwegian Nobel Committee; Professors of Universities in philosophy, economy or current history; institutions or individuals previously awarded the prize. There normally is no announcement of just which of these nominated the individual condidates until after the award is made.

The awards are made to those judged to have served humanity best during the last year in medicine, chemistry, physics, literature and the effort for peace.

Swedish institutions make all the awards except that for peace, which is made by a committee of five persons elected by the Norwegian parliament.

No Canadian has won the peace prize, but other Nobel awards have been made to Canadians.

Sir Frederick Banting and Dr. J. J. R. MacLeod shared the Nobel prize for medicine in 1923 for their discovery of the insulin treatment for diabetes. Banting, later Knighted for his work, was killed in a Newfoundland plane crash in 1941.

Truman Asks Congress Vote 7 Billion Aid

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—President Truman asked a critical Congress today to vote every penny of his $7,900,000,000 new global foreign-aid program to meet a Soviet threat against the "survival of civilization."

Most of the money he is asking for would be spent to send arms to allies of the United States in Europe, to build up allied countries in the Middle and Far East, to help European countries manufacture their own arms, and to raise the living standards of Red-threatened countries in Africa and Asia.

Truman asked for the $7,900,000,000 in his budget message to Congress Jan. 21. His total budget requests add up to $85,444,008,000.

Not a single dollar should be cut out of the proposed program, Truman said, lest the U.S. be guilty of a "false economy" of "too little and too late."

spending. Truman will go on every major radio and television network at 10:30 E S T. tonight to carry his plea to the people.

Talk of withdrawing to the western hemisphere "has momentary seductiveness," Truman told Congress, "because it would seem to relieve us of the contributions we are now making to collective defence."

But he said the adoption of such a policy would be a "mandate for national suicide."

Broad Purpose

Truman said the money he is asking for would be spent to send arms to allies of the United States in Europe, to build up allied countries in the Middle and Far East, to help European countries manufacture their own arms, and to raise the living standards of Red-threatened countries in Africa and Asia.

$40,000 Fire Destroys Church

ARDEN, Ont., March 6 (CP). — A $40,000 fire late Wednesday destroyed the United church in this community 45 miles north of Kingston.

Loss included a pipe organ installed five years ago and a new furnace, as well as all the furnishings, choir gowns and hymn books.

Four hundred persons from the village and the surrounding district quickly organized a bucket brigade, but firefighters who sought to enter the building were forced back by flames and intense heat.

Cause of the fire was not definitely established. The congregation will probably use the village hall for services until other arrangements can be made.

Trial Begins May 12

HULL, Que., March 6—(CP)—Rheal Leo Bertrand, whose trial for the murder of his wife ended dramatically last month when the trial judge collapsed on the bench and died, will be tried a second time starting May 12.

The date was set today by Chief Justice Albert Sevigny of the Quebec Superior Court. The second trial will be held in the same Hull courtroom as the first, though defence counsel may seek a change of venue.

Say Lord Tweedsmuir May Be Gov.-General

LONDON, March 6 (CP). — The Evening News says today Lord Tweedsmuir is being mentioned as likely to become the next Governor-General of New Zealand.

The News says the 41-year-old Conservative Peer, son of a former Governor-General of Canada would be the "ideal man" to succeed Lord Freyberg, who retires in June.

"Despite the example set by the other dominions in choosing local men to represent the crown," The News says, "New Zealanders stil prefer men from the old country."

Lord Twedsmuir commanded Canada's Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in Sicily and Italy during the Second World War. His wife is a Conservative Member of Parliament, once described by another M.P. as having "the added attraction of being kindly to the eye."

Starts Controversy

Gruesome Bombing Report Shocks British Readers

MANCHESTER, England, Mar. 6 (CP)—A gruesome report on the effects of napalm bombing in Korea started a shocked and angry correspondence in The Manchester Guardian today.

Readers protested the newspaper's "complacency" in reproducing extracts from a book on Korea written by C.B.C. correspondent Rene Cutforth. It contains this description of a victim of bombing by jellied gasoline:

"In front of us a curious figure was standing, a little crouched, legs straddled, arms held out from his sides. He had no eyes, and the whole of his body, nearly all of which was visible through tatters of burnt rags, was covered with a hard black crust speckled with yellow pus."

This description, published by a paper famed for its humanitarian views, is likely to provoke a large correspondence. The first letters started flowing in today, with one reader in Dagenham, Essex, saying the Western World is not likely to win over its enemies "by making their brothers resemble roast pig."

A correspondent from St. John's College, Cambridge, drew a comparison between napalm bombing and the atrocities at Belsen, found the former "more loathsome" of the two and said it seemed "unutterably revolting" that newspapers should publish such reports with apparent complacency.

A Cheshire reader vigorously chastised the Guardian for its "cold evasive gloss" in publishing the excerpt from the book without expressing an opinion on the rights or wrongs of napalm bombing.

Ont. Hog Producers Approve Marketing Scheme

TORONTO, March 6. (CP)—The Ontario Hog Producers' Association Wednesday approved a marketing scheme designed to stabilize the hog market. However, it probably will not become a reality for some time. Because of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan, the hog men are expected to move slowly. The scheme is aimed at obtaining a better price for the farmer; but the association does not want price levels to go to the point where they will hurt demand. In their attempt to stabilize the market, the hog men hope to avoid both surpluses and scarcities.

It was explained that the marketing scheme would work somewhat like an auction sale. Producers, as a group rather than as individuals, would seek the highest bids and there might be some blending of prices. Ultimate aim of hog men, said Charles McInnis, association president, would be hog marketing schemes in every province so that marketing could be controlled throughout the country.

During much of the fight for a marketing scheme it has been President Charles McInnis who sparked the action and again Wednesday it was he who explained to producers the advantage of controlling marketing of their product.

Retailers, he said, have already noted the benefits of maintaining price levels, and the time has come for the producer to eliminate fluctuations from the price at his level as much as possible.

There were some delegates who felt that such action might not go down well with packers, and perhaps a better deal could be obtained by meeting packers half way.

At this point another farmer got to his feet and said he felt "trying to meet a packer half way is like trying to meet a Communist half way—it can't be done."

Chinese Deport Sudbury Priest

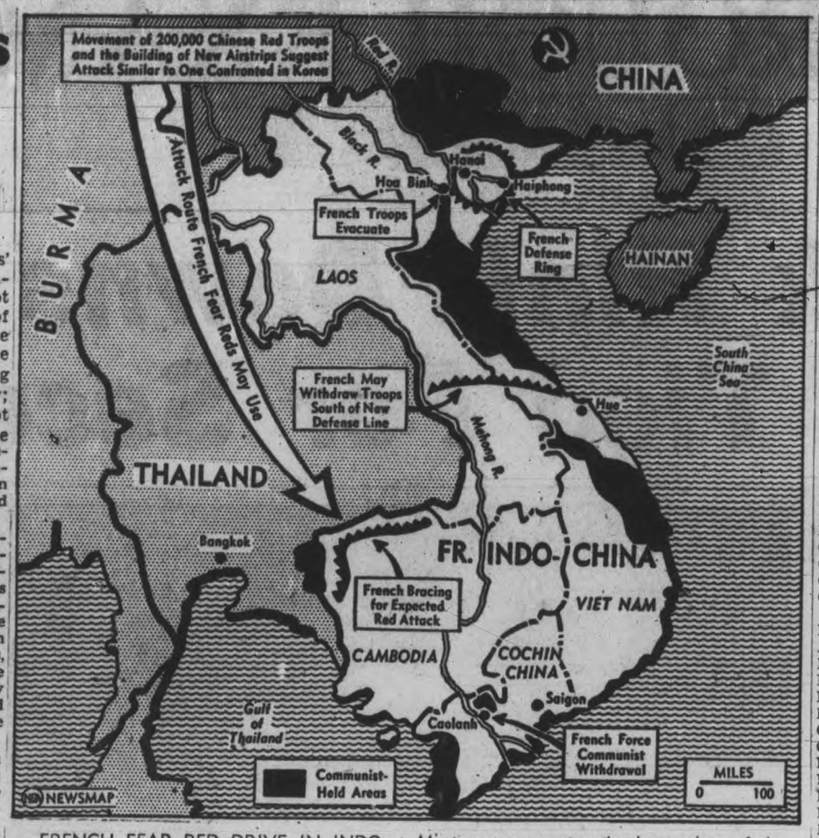
HONG KONG, March 6 (Reuters)—The Rev. Arthur Berube of Sudbury was deported from China Wednesday after three years under house arrest by the Communist Government, a Roman Catholic spokesman said today.

Father Berube did not face public trial but was deported by police order, the spokesman said.

He reported that local Communist authorities lived with Berube in his house at Suchow, Giangsu province, barring him from any contact with the outside world. The priest lived in one room and was prevented from holding services or seeing any of his parishioners.

He had not suffered except from nervous tension, the spokesman said.

Two Belgian priests, deported after being held in jail, arrived here with the Canadian. They were the Revs. Jules Vangeluwe of Ypres, West Flanders, and Paul Lannio of Boom, Antwerp. Vangeluwe was imprisoned for 4½ months and Lannio for five months at Kalgan, Manchuria.



FRENCH FEAR RED DRIVE IN INDO-CHINA—Newsmap above shows critical situation in Indo-China, where Viet Minh Communists are advancing at a rate imperiling the whole French position in the north to the point where the defenders may have to make a major withdrawal. Most grave recent setback was loss of the fortress city of Hoa Binh, necessitating a, "last ditch" defence ring around Hanoi and its port Haiphong. With Chinese Red troops masssed on Indo-China's northern border, French fear a Korea-type invasion, possibly an "end run" through Thailand to attack Cambodia and Cochin-China.

Find Plane On Lake At Bancroft

Severe Snowstorms Forced U.S. Pilot To Make Landing

BANCROFT, March 6.—The makings of a Provincial Police-R.C.A.F. search of Northeastern Ontario were cut off abruptly early on Wednesday night when a small, privately-owned U.S. aircraft set down on Lake St. Peter, two miles north of here, after having been reported overdue at Killaloe Airport.

Piloted by a Mr. Bertrand of Cleveland, Ohio, and carrying one passenger—named Best—the plane took off from Malton Airport at 2.30 Wednesday afternoon. It encountered heavy snowstorms en route to Killaloe and its pilot decided to set down here to await better weather. He hopes to continue his journey this morning.

When the aircraft failed to turn up at Killaloe in late afternoon, Malton authorities notified R.C.A.F. air search rescue at Trenton and they, in turn, called provincial police at Pembroke. The latter were organizing a search when they heard from their Bancroft office that all was well.

Notified Authorities

The aircraft, a single-engine slow-moving Aeronca, is equipped with skis and had no difficulty landing.

Says Parole-Seeking Nazi Deliberately Shot Flier

TORONTO, March 6. (CP)—A Canadian airman says a German war criminal now begging for mercy deliberately tried to kill him. The Telegram, in a copyright story, today quotes Rudolph Anthony Roman of Sudbury, wartime flying officer in the R.C.A.F., as saying Hans Neitz shot him while he held his hands in the air as a sign of surrender. "I don't want to see him (Neitz) get away with this," Roman said.

Neitz, former German army cook, claims he had "no bad intentions" when he fired two shots into a Canadian airman he took prisoner in 1944.

Justice Minister Garson announced Feb. 25 that he is taking up with military authorities the Neitz appeal for parole. A group of German newspapermen discussed the case with Mr. Garson in Hannover recently.

Doesn't Matter

The paper quotes Roman as saying it matters little to him whether Neitz is paroled.

However, he says he takes issue with the story told to win clemency for Neitz: that Neitz shot the Canadian when the latter tried to escape. The German newspapermen also said Neitz "rescued" two other Canadian airmen only the night before he shot Roman.

Roman denies he was attempting to escape.

"As for the story that Neitz rescued two Canadian airmen from drowning, that's a lot of nonsense. They were both members of my crew and one of them told me afterwards that his backside ached for weeks after Neitz had kicked him all the way from the place where he picked him up to the guardhouse where they confined him.

One Red Jet Shot Down

SEOUL, Korea, March 6 (AP)—ed a Communist MIG and damaged another today in a 10-minute battle. The dogfight ranged as far south as the North Korean capital, Pyongyang, just 70 miles north of parallel 38.

Capt. Henry Frazier was credited with shooting down the Red jet in a fight between six Sabres and 22 MIGs. Col. Harrison Thyng, commander of the fourth wing, reported one MIG damaged.

Allied fighter-bombers cut Communist rail lines in 92 places and destroyed or damaged 50 boxcars, the Fifth Air Force said.

On the ground, hit-and-run Allied raiders killed 40 Communists and wounded 30 west of the Mundung valley in eastern Korea.

U.N. artillery and infantry pinched off a Chinese Communist attack near the old iron triangle on the central front Thursday morning.

Strong Gold Support On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 6 (CP) — Strong gold support today in early afternoon stock market dealings pushed most producing issues sharply higher. Other sections made little headway.

Dome, Kerr Addison, Lake Shore, Malartic, McIntyre and Wright-Hargreaves led senior golds upward with gains ranging to about 50 cents. A few junior producers—Cariboo, Elder and Preston—showed strong gains but most issues climbed moderately. Prospects were also strong.

Utilities, steels, constructions and miscellaneous issues showed a majority of advances in industrials but papers, liquors, manufacturing companies and agricultures dipped.

Base metals showed little trend as Anacon Lead, Consolidated Smelters, Estella, International Nickel, Mindamar and Steep Rock strengthened while Cobalt Lode, Pend Oreille and United Asbestos weakened.

Western oils posted a slim majority of gains. Anglo-Canadian, Calgary and Edmonton, Calvan Consolidated, Pacific Petroleum, Sapphire and Western Leaseholds were among issues higher.

Mary Milburn Winner At College Royal

GUELPH, March 6 (CP).—R. J. Stewart, 20-year-old second year student at the Ontario Agriculture College, Wednesday was selected as the grand champion livestock showman at the 1952 College Royal. It was his second consecutive win.

The College Royal is a fair put on by students of O A C, MacDonald Institute and the Ontario Veterinary College.

The Bolton, Ont, youth, son of Ernie Stewart, prominent Ayrshire breeder, was top showman in all live animal divisions to win the Jacobine Jones Trophy.

G. M. Johnston of Moorefield, Ont., was reserve grand champion.

Winner of the all-round showmanship trophy was J. G. Norrish of Moffat, Ont.

Grand champions and reserve grand champions in other divisions included:

Sheep—Robert H. Dunlop, London, England, and J. A. Runions, Guelph.

Dairy cattle—Ralph A Watt, Lancaster, Ont., and B. L. McCorquodale, Lakeside, Ont.

Swine—J. J. Lanthier, Gormley, Ont., and R. J. Steckle, Kitchener.

Four Big Ends

Manitoba had four big ends in its win over Frank Hansen of Charlottetown, scoring threes on the second, sixth and 10th and a four on the eighth. Hansen held the high-flying Westerners to a 6-6 stalemate after seven ends, but never was in the contest after giving away the four-ender on the next end.

Billy Walsh, Manitoba skip, turned in a loose game in the early rounds but third man Allan Langlois kept him in the running with beautiful draws and knockouts. However, the slim skip found his bearings towards the end and was counting on most shots.

The unheralded Alberta rink continued to surprise, winning fairly easily over Reg Stone, who failed to turn in the same hot curling displayed Wednesday night when he knocked off the previously-undefeated Nova Scotia.

Never Caught

Alberta took a 5-3 lead in the sixth and was never caught.

Quebec's Ken Weldon came into his own while winning over Jimmy Guy of Northern Ontario. The Montreal skip made few mistakes in racking up his third win in seven starts.

Once again Guy was forced to handle the brunt of the curling due to the misses up front. The long-sliding Kenora rock-tosser time and again found himself trying to make almost impossible shots in an effort to squeeze into a packed house.

The winless Newfoundlanders were no match for New Brunswick's Ralph Limerick, who has broken even in six games.

Saskatchewan, with a 3-3 record, drew a bye this morning.

Last night, Nova Scotia dropped its first match of the championship, losing 9-8 to B.C. Manitoba had a bye.

Begin Debate On Power In Legislature

TORONTO, March 6 (CP)—The Ontario Legislature Wednesday started debate on two measures—supported by all parties—which will pave the way for Ontario to develop 2,200,000 horsepower of electricity from the St. Lawrence River in partnership with the federal government.

The debate moved into this session's first night sitting and gave many members a chance to point out the effects the St. Lawrence seaway-power project will have on their ridings.

Hon. George H. Challies, vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission, said the power project, to be shared with the New York State, will save Ontario $30,000,000 a year over the cost of steam-generated power that will be needed after 1956.

He moved second reading of the two measures—one to ratify the Federal - Ontario partnership agreement made last December and the other to appoint the H.E.P.C. the province's agent to carry out the power project.

Mr. Challies said the cost of the plan would be $200,000,000 for power but it would be "a self-liquidating investment."

Can Go Alone

Premier Frost said that the "historic measures" before the House would prove that Canada can build the seaway-power project alone. All Canada asked of the United States was "not to stand in our way."

William Houck (L., Niagara Falls) said that "extremely powerful lobbies" in the United States are blocking the program but Canada "can move more rapidly in many ways than the United States."

He pledged the Liberal opposition to support the project.

G. C. MacOdrum (P.C., Leeds) said the seaway would stimulate industry in Brockville which would be at the upper end of the St. Lawrence.

"At the present time, plants representing hundreds of millions of dollars are negotiating and in some instances actually in the course of construction within a 15-mile radius of Brockville."

W. M. Nickle (P.C., Kingston) predicted larger growth for his riding as a result of the project.

Voices from northern ridings also supported the seaway-power plan.

A. R. Herbert (P.C.,Timiskaming) said the new power supplies would help to develop the raw materials of Timiskaming and other Northern Ontario areas.

W. G. Noden (P.C., Rainy River) said the people of his riding were anxious that the present plan would go through although they are far away from the St. Lawrence. They had always felt hydro development was "vital."

P. T. Kelly (P.C., Cochrane North) said his riding provided an alternative source of steel, power and coal if the project did not go through. There were steel supplies in the Belcher Islands of James Bay, power in the Albany River and coal deposits in the area.

$250,000 Fire At Barrie Mill

BARRIE, March 6 (CP) — The Barrie flour mill was destroyed in an early-morning fire today. Damage was estimated at $250,000.

The mill's complete stock of wheat, together with all company records, were burned. The Barrie volunteer fire department prevented the blaze from spreading to neighboring buildings although six families were evacuated from a nearby apartment block as a precautionary measure.

Canadian National Railways employees moved several box cars away from the mill to safety.

The building is owned by M. F. Beach and sons.

Anticipates Attacks

In a special 7,500-word message Truman anticipated the attacks of critics and economy advocates. He built his argument for carrying on the mutual security program around four basic reasons:

"First, the plain fact is that we cannot achieve lasting security for ourselves except in association with other nations.

"Second, the funds provided by the United States under the mutual security program are essential to the success of the common efforts we are making with other free nations for peace.

"Third, the funds thus invested by the United States will yield far larger returns, in terms of our own security, than if the same amount were used for our own defence establishment.

"Fourth, the cost of the mutual security program, together with the much larger costs of our military services and other defence measures, are well within our economic capacity."

Mosher Repudiates Brotherhood Editorial

OTTAWA, March 6—(CP)—A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor and of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.C.L.) has repudiated on behalf of himself and the brotherhood an editorial in the brotherhood's official organ attacking "an unashamed drive for power" within the C.C.L.

A statement issued on his behalf by Donald MacDonald, C.C.L. secretary - treasurer, said Mr. Mosher "fully repudiates" the editorial as "not representing the views of either himself or the brotherhood."

The editorial, in the current issue of the C.B.R.E.'s monthly magazine said Pat Conroy resigned as C.C.L. secretary-treasurer last September because "an unashamed drive for power, conceived in cunning and carried forward with craft, was aiming at changing the Congress from a vehicle for many to a juggernaut for one."

Ron Teasdale Heads Naval Association

Ron Teasdale has been elected president of the Peterborough Naval Association for 1952. He succeeds Fred Kiff.

Mr. Teasdale was elected by acclamation at the annual meeting of the association, held in the Legion Hall. Last year he was chairman of the entertainment committee.

The full slate of officers for 1952 are: Ron Teasdale, president; Bob MacDonald, vice-president; Tom Bradley, treasurer; and Charles (Pete) Meridew; also four members of the executive—Jim Brown, Ray Young, Jim Hamilton and Jack White.

Seymour Council Shelves Road Bill

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6 — (ENS)—A bill from Rawdon township for work on the boundary road between Rawdon and Seymour townships was discussed by members of Seymour council on Monday evening, and it was decided to take no action regarding payment of the bill at the present time.

No agreement between the two townships is said to exist at present, and Seymour claims that in past years Rawdon has refused to pay half of the costs of the Seymour council in connection with work on the road.

Mrs. Thomas Mitchell

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6 — (ENS)—A woman well known throughout the district, and, a resident of Campbellford for more than 30 years, Marguerite Reid, wife of Thomas Mitchell of Toronto, was buried here Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Mitchell suffered a heart attack on Monday while in a Peterborough funeral home. She had come to pay her last respects to an aunt, Mrs. George N. Reid, and collapsed as she stood beside the casket.

The Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith of St. John's United Church conducted funeral services from the home of her parents on Thursday afternoon. Burial was in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Basil Reid, Douglas Barringer, Jack Weir, Joseph Wiggins and George Gagnon and William Budd both of Toronto. Flower bearers were, all cousins of the deceased. They included George, William, Charles and Manson Shaw and Wilbert and Donald Blake.

Obituary

THOMAS H. HANRAHAN.

Thomas H. Hanrahan, 67, 522 Armour Road, died at his residence Wednesday night following a four weeks illness.

Mr. Hanrahan was born in Lakefield, son of the late James Hanrahan and Elizabeth Moher and has lived in Peterborough for 40 years coming here from Lakefield.

[illegible] of Immaculate Conception Roman Catholic Church, he was a member of the Altar Society of that church and the Catholic Order of Foresters.

He leaves his wife, the former, Mary Christie; six daughters, Justin McKeiver (Helen), Mrs. Joseph Collins (Rita), Mrs. Richard Walsh (Dorothy), Mrs. James Huggins (Jean) all of Peterborough; Mrs. Thomas Tompkins (Marjory), Detroit, Michigan; Miss Corinne Hanrahan, at home; three sisters, Mrs. Rollie Darcy (Stasia), Detroit, Michigan; Miss Margaret Hanrahan, Detroit, Michigan; Mrs. Ralph McQuillan (Esther), Alliance, Ohio; four brothers, Edward, Joseph and William, all of Lakefield and Austin, McLeod, Alberta; and 13 grandchildren.

The funeral will take place on Saturday on what would have been Mr. Hanrahan's 68th birthday, from the residence to Immaculate Conception Church for requiem mass at 9 a.m. Burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

Contesting Will

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., March 6 — (AP). — The will of the late Russell S. Scott—setting up $5,000 trust fund for the lifetime care of a dog—is being contested by a man who claims to be sole heir to the estate. In his will Scott left $5,000 for the "welfare and benefit" of Teddie, a terrier now being cared for at the New Brunswick Animal Shelter. Harold F. Scott, a first cousin, is contesting the will.

This is the fourth picture in the Examiner's Baby Picture-Quote contest. For the first five days of each week the Examiner will publish a baby picture and quote from the collection of Constance Bannister and on Saturday will publish the winning local pictures. In the Examiner's contest readers are being asked to submit baby pictures and the trick is to write a suitable caption implying what could have been on the baby's mind to create such an expressive picture. Every home where there are children has an unusual baby picture, so look over your family album, pick out and write the caption and send picture to Baby Photo Editor, Examiner, Peterborough. Pictures must be of babies two years and less. Two prizes of five dollars a week are given and a grand prize of ten dollars at end of contest.

Arthur W. Middleton

COBOURG, March 6 (ENS) — Funeral of Arthur W. Middleton, retired hydro employee, was held Wednesday afternoon with burial in St. Peter's Cemetery. Service at the funeral chapel was conducted by the Rev. H. Bedford Jones of St. Peter's.

Mr. Middleton died at the age of 73 after a lengthy illness. A resident of Cobourg for the past 43 years he had been a member of the fire department for 40 years.

The late Mr. Middleton was a life member of the Waverly Curling club, member of lawn bowling club, the I.O.O. F. and the Masons. He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Marjorie Huycke and Mrs. Frank Pearse and one son, William of Cobourg.

Council Asks For Budget Estimate

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6 — (ENS)—A discussion concerning the budget of the Campbellford Public School took place at a meeting held this week and the secretary was instructed to prepare an estimate of operating costs for 1952 and submit these to the town council as soon as possible.

A report by Charles Haig, principal of the school, showed the average attendance was 399.4 students out of 435 on the roll.

Householders Ask Curb On Speeding

COBOURG, March 6 (ENS) — The speed fiends can go to Indianapolis, in fact anywhere as long as it is not Ontario St. Thus feel the residents on that thoroughfare. A delegation of Ontario St. householders appeared before town council to ask that something be done to stop speeding on their street.

They pointed out that children had to walk on the road at the north end of Ontario street because there was no sidewalk and they were in danger from motorists who sped along wide open.

Councillor Alex McKinnon said motorists also came into town at the King St. entry on Highway 2 and didn't ease off the accelerator until they reached the stoplights in the heart of the town.

Reeve G. Galbraith, chairman of the police committee, said he would look into it.

Find Canada Hospitable But U.S. Locks Them Up

COBOURG, March 5 — (ENS) —The C-46 passenger plane which landed safely here with 44 passengers last December after being lost off course and buffetted by a storm, has now been re-christened "The Canadian" and is on the Burbank, California, to New York route.

This was the information received by Gordon Fielding, local hotel proprietor from John Weaver, flight engineer of the airlines company.

Mr. Weaver said that the ship's crew and passengers were very grateful for the hospitality accorded them after the plane made Cobourg and it was decided to rename the ship in appreciation.

TORONTO, March 6 — (CP) — Passengers on four Trans-Canada Airlines flights forced by bad weather to land at Buffalo airport Tuesday complained Wednesday of an "over-zealous officialdom" which kept them sealed in their planes for four hours with a cordon of police about the aircraft to prevent them from leaving.

Flight 341 from Ottawa with about 31 passengers landed at 5 p.m. They were sealed in until 9 p.m. when a customs officer arrived from Fort Erie about 12 miles away to clear their papers. Buses then took them to Fort Erie and on to Toronto.

to send out a message," said one passenger. "Nor were we offered a logical explanation for the procedure. Nobody seemed to know anything."

The Extraordinary Responsibility Of The Council

The mayor and aldermen are now busy with departmental estimates, preparatory to striking the tax rate for 1952. They are as conscious as most citizens of the already high taxes and the rising costs of operating the city. They are themselves ratepayers as well as responsible to the ratepayers. They are therefore very much concerned to keep the budget as low as possible. However, badgered as they now are by high mill rates and facing the certainly of a higher one, citizens are unusually anxious that the estimates be most critically examined. There is a special urgency.

* * *

The city has come through an impressive five-year period of building and extension. These public works have been soundly financed, yet they leave an onerous legacy of capital and interest payments. Added to this are extra costs of equipment and materials, and of labour and salaries which have been adjusted to meet the twenty-point rise in the cost-of-living index between January and September of last year.

* * *

The so-called "ordinary" expenses of running the city have become so heavy that extraordinary scrutiny must be made of the ordinary expenses as well as of special projects. That is the extra-[illegible] Council and of every elected and appointed Board in the city—including the Board of Education. Citizens can properly implore the Council and the official Boards who are responsible for the management of city affairs and for spending, to make a basic examination of even "essential" and "unavoidable" expenses to find out if every penny really is essential and every item of expense unavoidable.

* * *

The budget for 1952 looms so high that very drastic measures may have to be taken to reduce it. The time to do the cutting is now, when the departmental estimates are coming in. The time to impose stringent limitations is now, and not when the budget is finally totalled to 60 or more mills on the dollar. The aldermen are gravely concerned, and recognize this. They are attempting to pare costs to the bone. We put this question: Is it enough to pare to the bone? Is some paring into the bone not also necessary?

* * *

If gangrene is setting into the economic body of the city, is it not better to cut out rather than let the body become debilitated through ratepayers' inability to pay high taxes? If the Council—and Board of Education, Recreation Commission and the like—cannot find ways of bringing the budget into manageable size, it might be necessary to make across-the-board reductions and tell departmental heads: "Here is all the money you can have; you will have to make ends meet with it; you yourselves must find the ways of doing it."

* * *

When the Council has done everything within its power to analyse, delete and reduce estimates, and the public knows that this has been done, they cannot cry out against the Council if the resulting mill rate is high. The high cost of living has hit the cost of running a city. A twenty-point rise in the index last year cannot be avoided by looking away from it. However, that was last year. At present the index seems to be stable. The Council must also try to stabilize the mill rate. All official boards and commissions should have a policy to make 1952 a year of curtailment.

Newspapers Are Nuisances

We are indebted to the Brantford Expositor for drawing our attention to a letter written by the publisher of The Lakeshore News of Granby, Quebec, to the new Postmaster General, the Hon. Alcide Cote. Here it is:

"Dear Sir: We extend our congratulations on your appointment as postmaster-general following the appointment of the Hon. Edouard Rinfret to the Bench. If we remember correctly it was in the last days of his term of office that the cost of mailing our paper to some 700 mail subscribers jumped from one cent to two cents per copy. Now, with the rising cost of everything under the sun, we did not expect that the service would also increase one hundred per cent. in efficiency. However, neither did we expect that it would slow up to the extent that too many of our subscribers are not receiving their Lakeshore News until Monday and some even after that late date. When we tell the complainants that the papers are all wrapped and addressed and leave our office by 10:45 a.m. every Thursday they come to one of two conclusions: (1) that we are lying or (2) that the Post Office Department is not what it used to be.

"Now, dear sir, as the publisher of this paper and as an admirer generally of the efficiency, care, and service offered by the Canadian Postal Service, the outspoken comments we feel sure are being mouthed about (1) the editor and (2) the post office make us very sad and we hope that something can be done. Anything you care to say on the subject will find space in our columns."

This letter interests us particularly at the present time, because we have been receiving a number of angry letters from a gentleman in Ottawa who signs his name (or it may be somebody else's name) but who gives no address; he says that he used to work in the Post Office department, and he hates newspapers; they are, he maintains, filled with nonsense, and he does not think that the Post Office should have to handle them at all; he thinks that the Post Office workers would be fully justified in holding up newspapers until all other mail has been handled, and perhaps even longer.

Luckily very few Post Office officials, if any, share the inflamed opinions of this retired Post Office worker, and we do not think that the noticeable slump in Post Office service during the past three years is attributable to anything of the sort. In Peterborough, of course, we know that the mail service is seriously handicapped by a building which is outgrown. But we are somewhat conscious of the fact that newspapers are a nuisance to the postal service, and that is why we use the mails as little as possible for distributing papers.

We must point out, however, that newspapers pay the rate set by the Post Office for its service, and that they have a right to expect treatment every bit as efficient as any businesses distributing mail in the same category.

A Moan From A Martyr

The Saturday Evening Post recently carried a leading editorial about the St. Lawrence seaway project; it did not think much of it. But what caught our eye was this comment: "As to Canada's threat to build the seaway alone, there [illegible] a country wants to spend its own money with no contribution from the United States—that we must see, if strictly from amazement."

This reflects an attitude very common in the U.S. today—the attitude of the money-martyr. It is true that the U.S. has many demands made upon it by countries sorely pressed for money, and it is also true that the U.S. is increasingly frank about telling such nations that they will receive loans only if they toe the line. The U.S. loves to think of itself as Uncle Sugar, the soft-hearted, genial benefactor of the world; from time to time, however, wicked nations who do not understand the sacredness of the dollar have called it Uncle Shylock. This happens particularly with nations which have beggared themselves fighting battles from which the U.S. has profitted.

Canada is not among the beggars, and we have even given things to the U.S.A. Rich people, of course, do not notice gifts as carefully as poor ones. If the Saturday Evening Post wants to know our credit rating, it has only to look at the quotation on our dollar in the world money market. We request it, politely, not to heave a martyr's sigh when speaking of us, and to reserve its whines for those who are compelled by bitter circumstance to listen to them. And, as Premier Frost has said, if they are not going to work with us, let them at least not get under our feet.

Glaswegians To Police Edmonton

A dozen Macdonalds, MacIntoshes and Douglases passed through Montreal last Monday night to join the Edmonton police force. The twelve are all former members of the Glasgow police force. So is Policewoman Margaret Pearson, the first policewoman to emigrate to Canada and get employment in a similar capacity. She made up the baker's dozen of Glaswegian immigrants chosen for the Edmonton jobs from 87 applicants from the Glasgow force.

The question crosses our mind why Edmonton went to Glasgow for its copper reinforcements? Are the Glasgow police superior to the police of Manchester, Belfast or London, Toronto or Montreal? Perhaps in the big boom-town of Alberta, officials think that conditions are so similar to Glasgow's that Glasgow police will know best how to deal with drunks on the door-steps, brawls in the slums, rum-tubs, and well-oiled argumentative visitors to town for a big week-end.

The reason may be much more sober: the Glasgow coppers may be so expert in directing absent-minded scholars how to get to the University of Glasgow that they will be most helpful in guiding Edmontonians to the campus of the University of Alberta. Edmonton is growing so fast that it is easy for natives, let alone wandering scholars, to lose themselves among skyscrapers.

Elizabeth Taylor's divorce papers were flashed across the ocean by telephoto, thereby enabling her to marry Michael Wilding that much quicker. Another triumph for science!

Educating The Next King

By CHARLES REID

PRINCE CHARLES OF EDINBURGH, Heir Apparent to the Throne of Britain, is beginning to look quizzically, in his open, blue-eyed way, at people and things around him. As he grows up speculation sharpens in high places and lowly alike as to the sort of schooling that is in store for him.

◇ ◇ ◇

IS HE going to be privately tutored for a while and sealed off (as so many English princelings have been) from rough-and-tumble mixing with other boys? Or will he be sent to prep. and public school, sitting in classrooms and sleeping in dormitories with others, one among many, subject to common disciplines and common rewards? All the precedents for a century back are on the side of private teaching. Yet in the case of Prince Charles the odds on the whole seem to favour school.

◇ ◇ ◇

AT three-and-a-half a child's personality is only beginning to shape. But one thing is already clear. Charles is not a shy, retreating creature, but a tiny man of the world. A Clarence House observer reports that he is in the habit of going up to adults he has never set eyes on before and prattling to them as if they were old friends. This is not the sort of infant temperament which will thrive best cooped up in a palace schoolroom, as were the late King, and the Duke of Windsor and the two monarchs who preceded them.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT LOOKS as though Charles is the sort of a boy who would derive especial benefit from the breezy, companionable upbringing which the Duke of Edinburgh, his father, enjoyed at the "progressive" Gordonstoun school in Scotland. It is an open secret that schooling rather on Gordonstoun lines is what the Duke himself would prefer for his son. Certainly there is no indication so far of any policy to segregate the Heir apparent and wrap him in cotton wool. Next year he will probably go down to the Central Hall, Westminster, with a thousand or two other children for the educational concerts which are held there on Saturday mornings. Already he has a national savings certificate and is being taught the importance of pennies, like any cottager's son.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN modern times it is only princes further down the lines of succession who have been brought up gregariously. As a new boy a Eton, the present Duke of Kent fagged for [illegible] Duke succeeded to school, also. At that time Gloucester was third in the royal line. His status, it must be admitted, was noticeably different from that of other Eton boys. With Prince Leopold, later King of the Belgians, Prince Nicholas of Rumania and two or three other handpicked youngsters, he had special tutoring in rooms remote from the normal classrooms.

◇ ◇ ◇

IF Prince Charles in turn goes to school it is likely that the curriculum, at least, will be modified for him. As thirty-second in monarchial descent from William The Conqueror he will be expected to learn more than most youths about constitutional history, a subject which will pursue him relentlessly when, in accordance with a tradition established when Edward the Seventh was Prince of Wales, he goes on to Oxford or Cambridge.

◇ ◇ ◇

CHARLES'S father, grandfather and great-grandfather passed straight from private or (in the case of the Duke of Edinburgh) public schooling to the Royal Navy College at Osborne and became cadets. It is not to be taken for granted that Prince Charles will do the same. Before his first birthday his mother put his name down for the Grenadier Guards, of which she is Colonel. The current Whitehall prophecy, however, is that Charles will merely pass through the Guards for his National Service term, and that when this is over he will (after university, presumably) comply with family tradition by applying for transfer to the Royal Navy.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT may be expedient to give Prince Charles private lessons during certain stages of his preparation for rulership. But it can be taken for granted that he will not be subjected to the sealing-off and classroom misery which the Duke of Windsor and Edward the Seventh, both mixers, underwent in their young days. The Duke of Windsor's tutor-in-chief, Henry Peter Hansell, clearly saw how mistaken the system was. Indeed, he risked his job by repeatedly advising George the Fifth to let the Prince of Wales and his brother the Duke of York, as they then were, take their chance with Tom, Dick and Harry in prep. school. But the King would have none of it. The sort of teaching that had been good enough for him was good enough for his sons. He said this in his gruff, sailor-like way nearly half-a-century ago. Our educational notions, even as affecting royalty, have changed since then.

Ottawa Hospital's New Rates

(Ottawa Citizen)

The Ottawa Civic Hospital trustees have avoided a minor increase in the mill rate by imposing a major rise in hospital rates. The increases, which range from $2.50 to 50 cents per room daily, will bring in an estimated $108,000 in revenue. Had the money been sought from the taxpayers, it would have meant a tax increase of less than half a mill—or, for the house assessed at the average of $3,000, only about $1.40 a year.

It is no doubt a matter of opinion whether the hospital patients or the taxpayers could better have borne the added burden caused by rising hospital costs.

The new rates again underline the need for a broad public health insurance scheme. Only 57 percent of the hospital's bills to patients are paid by insurance. Of the patients (although no precise figures are available) more than 57 percent of those from the city are undoubtedly insured. Company and group schemes take care of that. But only a negligible proportion of the rural patients is insured, and for these hospitalization can be a financial calamity. And the reason they are not insured is, usually, that they cannot afford to pay the premiums charged by private insurance companies.

HIS FAULT

"How did you get here?" asked the prison visitor of the old lag.

"Burglary — and it was all my own fault. I spent three months and ten pounds of horsemeat making friends with the dog, and then in the dark I trod on the cat."

An American Opinion: "WHILE THERE'S LIFE . . ."

Letters To The Editor

A BY-LAW FOR GOOD FORESTRY

Sir: I was very interested in reading in the Examiner, that the County Council had discussed a by-law aimed at regulating the cutting of trees. I noted too, that there was considerable opposition from the northern portion of the county, and that was to be expected, because Peterborough county is peculiar in that the southern portion is almost entirely agricultural, while the north-[illegible] culture, but can grow trees, and has value as a resort and recreational area.

The Trees Conservation Act is a piece of permissive legislation whereby a County Council is authorized to pass a by-law respecting the cutting of private woodlands. Its objective is to preserve a forest cover mainly on land that is only suitable for tree growth, but it also includes all woodlands unless it can be established that, all things considered, the plot of wooded land is more valuable for growing some other type of crop, in which case the land must be put into cultivation.

The demand for this type of control originated in the southerly and south westerly part of the Province where the woodlot was becoming non-existent, and the agricultural economy was being seriously affected by the disappearance of the beneficial effects afforded by an adequate percentage of forested land.

These benefits go much deeper than the money value of the wood products immediately available. The complete slashing of wooded areas was taking place at an alarming rate—and to a lesser degree that same condition prevails right here in Peterborough county.

The value of wooded land is measured in several ways:

1. The control of excessive run-off in the spring and after heavy rains is governed by forested land.

(a) Water is the essence of life and must be conserved for the use of crops during the growing season. This generally referred to as the maintenance of an adequate water table.

(b) The drying up of wells that have always supplied sufficient water in the earlier days is one direct result of too little forest cover.

(c) What were once permanent streams have in many cases become rampaging rivers in the spring, and dry beds in summer. Fishing has been destroyed due to over-cutting in large sections of southern Ontario.

(e) The clear cutting of large areas of low-lying land has had a serious effect on the water supply for towns and cities. Streams and small rivers in southern Ontario often carry too little water to provide the requirements of industry, and good water for domestic use is a constant source of concern.

(f) The control afforded by woodlands of run-off greatly reduces soil erosion, the cancer in present-day agriculture.

2. A well-managed woodlot is capable of producing not only larger quantities but also products of higher quality. Good husbandry in the woods, or good forestry, will yield more to local industry than is possible when trees are cut just because they are wood. People do not kill little pigs for market—a 200-pounder yields a much higher return.

It is therefore of some concern to urban [illegible] given a fair chance to serve the people, the accident of ownership notwithstanding. This principle bears some significance when it is realized that a generation or more is required to restore a slashed woodlot and its lost benefits, and that during the intervening years many people may be adversely affected.

Bad farming practices can be corrected in a few years. Bad forestry practices may take 50 years or more for recovery.

It was the realization of these factors that prompted the passage of the Trees Conservation Act. Many counties including Northumberland and Durham have taken advantage of this legislation. It is generally accepted that the Act has great value where the forest cover has ben reduced to dangerous levels.

The Act was never intended as an attempt at dictatorship, rather it is an appeal for good management, a request to woodlot owners to look on their forest cover as a crop to be carefully supervised and marketed to bring the greatest return, and at the same time give a sustained yield through several generations.

I feel the County Council acted wisely in postponing the decision on the Act until the next session, but by the same token I think it would be unwise to discard it entirely. Perhaps it has reasonable application only to the southern townships of Peterborough.

If they wished to go a step farther, the Council could encourage farmers to fence their woodlots.

Yours truly,
PETE McGILLEN

CONDEMNS CHRISTMAS TREE CUTTING

Sir; I see our County Council is talking of making a by-law before long advising us what to do with our wood lots and timber. I think already they have enough on their hands without interfering with the ratepayers' rights. If it was to pass it would rob hundreds in this county of their living. How could the owners pay the taxes, as they depend on the wood and logs they sell throughout the year to meet this large expense. Also if this by-law was to pass, some white-collared man would be appointed to oversee it, who not likely would know one tree from another. If they are so very interested in saving the wood and timber of our county, why don't they forbid this Christmas tree cutting. That is the largest waste of good wood and timber we have to contend with. They are only a fad; used for a few days and then taken to the dump and burned. I believe that the proper way to handle this question is to bring it up before each township and have a vote on it, giving the people the right to handle their own business.

MELVILLE MILLER.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it came to pass also on another sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue and taught: and there was a man whose right hand was withered. And the scribes and Pharisees watched him, whether he would heal on the sabbath day; that they might find an accusation against him.

But he knew their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Rise up, and stand forth in the midst. And he arose and stood forth. Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you one thing; Is it lawful on the sabbath days to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to destroy it? And looking round about upon them all, he said unto the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he did so, and his hand was restored whole as the other . . .

And it came to pass in those days, that he went out into the mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer to God. And when it was day, he called unto him his disciples: and of them he chose twelve, whom also he named apostles . . .

And he came down with them, and stood in the plain, and the company of his disciples, and a great multitude of people out all Judaea and Jerusalem, and from the sea coast of Tyre and Sidon, which came to hear him, and to be healed of their diseases; and [illegible] 17, 18.)

Bravo, Kingston!

(St. Catharine's Standard)

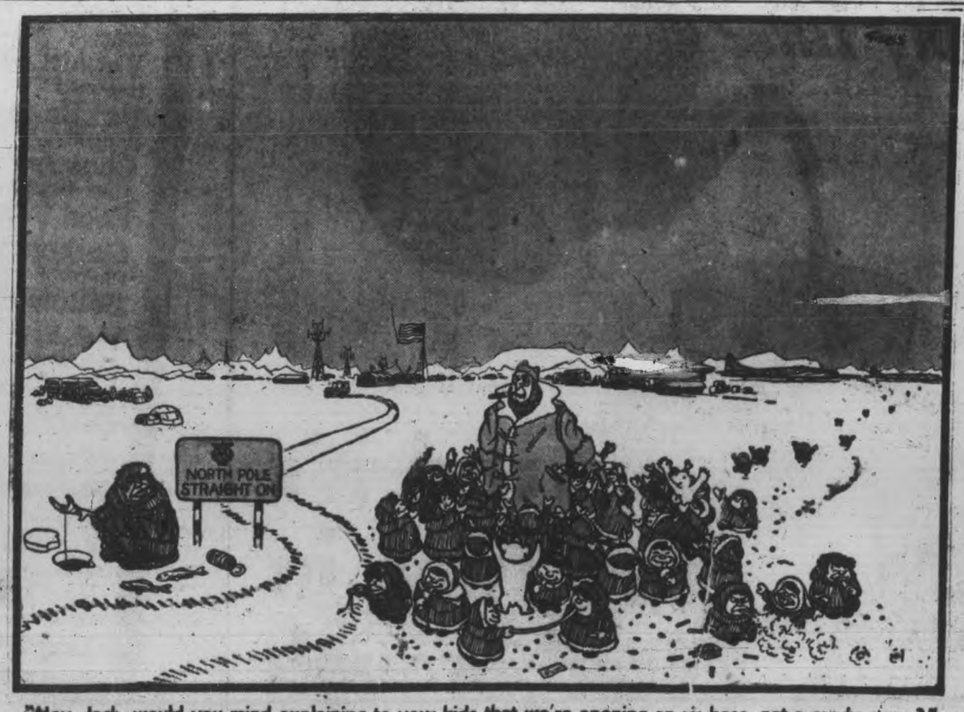
The Kingston Whig-Standard, historically a Liberal newspaper of the old school, the publisher of which is Hon. Rupert Davies, Liberal Senator, who received his appointment from Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, applauds Farquhar Oliver, the acting leader of the Liberals in Ontario, for his deliberate and frequent use of the word "Dominion" when Mr. Oliver spoke in the Legislature last week.

In an editorial in The Whig-Standard, the position is made plain by that Liberal newspaper. Come drought, famine, blizzard or earthquake, that paper declares, in effect, it will continue to use the word "Dominion" and advises everybody else to do so, if they feel like it. For good measure this is added to the declaration.

"Furthermore, the mails will still be 'Her Majesty's' or 'Royal' whenever we feel like using those words, and we shall call No. 2 a Queen's Highway, if the Department of Highways ever gets around to making it for a Queen. And in the same manner July 1 will, as far as we are concerned, continue to be called Dominion Day."

As we take it, here is an issue which transcends paltry and party politics, it touches at the root of things, tradition and history. Moreover, unless this threat is fought now to the finish, the extinction of the fine word "Dominion" from our common language of patriotism, Canadians will awake some fine morning confronted with the sinister menace of abolishing the Union Jack for some cheap tawdry substitute, and even the singing of "God Save the Queen," the National Anthem, may be put under duress.

The time has come to put some stop to the unity-breakers who seem to have become entrenched so strongly in the highest echelons of the Liberal government at Ottawa. And sensibly, the job develops to a greater degree on that kind of independent Liberalism as represented by The Whig-Standard of Kingston.



"Hey, Jack—would you mind explaining to your kids that we're opening an air base, not a candy store?"

Bill To Outlaw Casinos Gets Rough Ride

BONN—(CP)—Is tax revenue collected from gambling casinos "sin money?" Is it such filthy lucre that it can't even be purified when spent to build houses for refugees from the Communist east?

These are questions posed for the West German parliament by a measure to outlaw the Republic's nine licensed casinos (Spielbaken). Most of these are in famous spas such as Wiesbaden, Bad Homburg and Travemuende. They attempt wealthy tourists.

The bill, introduced by members of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic party, has been sent to committee for further study after a lively debate on morality.

Anti-gambling forces were led by 71-year-old Dr. Helene Weber, former social worker.

"I have had opportunity to visit these hells of moral depravity," she said. "And even if the revenue obtained from licensing casinos is used for social purposes, the end doesn't justify the means. The State must safeguard its citizens. We don't want to use this money—which is tarnished by a dark, demoniac power."

Paul Bausch, another Christian Democrat, backed Dr. Weber.

Bausch questioned whether German youth would ever rise to defend a country of such doubtful morals that it countenanced gambling casinos.

Hans Ewers, of the right-wing German party, said his party was not only against gambling casinos but against the football pools and lotteries.

"Furthermore," he said, "we are against boozing and lust. But it's childish to try to legislate such things out of existence. Close the casinos and people will gamble in illegal clubs. After all, the casinos are no hells. They attract a lot of fashionable foreigners and why shouldn't German casinos collect this foreign exchange instead of letting it all go to Monte Carlo?"

ernment had "erred in adopting a policy favoring export of natural gas."

Joint Contribution

Premier Douglas Campbell told the Manitoba Legislature that plans are under way to have the Federal and Manitoba governments contribute jointly towards "fundamental" research in agriculture. The provincial government would provide funds for construction of an addition to the University of Manitoba to be used as research headquarters.

In the Saskatchewan Legislature Liberal member Lorne Blanchard said the C.C.F. Government had a policy of "senseless compulsion" in the province's far north.

He said fishermen, trappers and lumbermen resented the C.C.F. and its "high-handed" actions, and termed the vote taken in an area on the question of marketing through the government fish-marketing service a "farce." Anyone willing to vote for the service was offered every inducement and assistance to get to a polling place and once a majority had been obtained all the fishermen in the region are compelled to sell through the service, Mr. Blanchard said.

The Progressive Conservative opposition leader in the Nova Scotia Legislature, R. L. Stanfield told the House today some liquor commission employees and civil servants campaigned for the Liberal government in the last election. Premier Macdonald said that if such employees took part in the campaign they did so in defiance of a government directive.

In the New Brunswick Legislature C. I. L. Leger (Lib.-Moncton City) was directed by speaker H. O. Downey to withdraw a remark during the throne speech debate which characterized the small Progressive opposition as "a quintet of men in their dotage."

Former opposition leader Hugh Maskay in objecting to Mr. Leger's remarks said: "It would be equally courteous of me to turn around and refer to that silly little ass in the back row."

WMS Hear Of Laws Oriental Immigration

WESTWOOD, March 6 (ENS)—Mrs. Aubrey Wood entertained the members of St. Andrew's Woman's Missionary Society on Wednesday afternoon and took charge of the program.

The topic, "Our Fellow Canadians from the Orient" dealt with Chinese and Japanese immigration to Canada and its restrictions.

More just laws recently passed by the Canadian government in regard to Chinese immigration have resulted in many wives and children of Canadian Chinese now coming into the country, Mrs. William Brackenridge related.

A short skit on the Japanese-Canadian was presented by Mrs. H. Neilson and Mrs. E. Sargent. Many Japanese-Canadians who came to the west coast many years ago, who were evacuated during the war into camps in the interior of British Columbia, and then resettled on the prairies and in eastern Canada are grateful to the United Church of Canada.

The scripture lesson from Ephesians was read, and prayer offered by Mrs. Wood.

The president, Mrs. Clayton Brackenridge, presided for the business period. Various methods were suggested for raising the allocation. The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Rendle Dickson.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Stay of Execution

ATHENS, March 6 — (AP). — Eight Greek Communists sentenced to die as spies have won a stay of execution until their cases can be reviewed by a pardons board. A military court convicted the eight Saturday of heading a spy ring that radioed military secrets to neighboring Iron Curtain countries. A government spokesman said Wednesday night that the pardons board will begin operating as soon as possible. Previously military court decisions had not been subject to such review.

Western World Tungsten Comes From BC

VANCOUVER — (CP) —British Columbia is rapidly becoming one of the key suppliers of tungsten for the western world.

Two mines are already producing tungsten, at least four more operating as soon as possible, and many properties are being investigated.

Most of the tungsten for North American industry once came from the Orient. With these supplies cut off, the price has almost tripled to $65 a short ton unit and defence industries are snapping up any tungsten available.

Doubling of production of Canada's biggest mine, at Salmo, B.C., 300 miles east of here, is expected by spring. A 250-ton mill being run for the Canadian government is being enlarged for the owners, Canadian Exploration Ltd. to make a total capacity of 500 tons of ore a day.

The second producing mine is the Red Rose of Western Uranium near Hazelton, 450 miles north of here, which is shipping to Britain.

Black Diamond Tungsten Ltd. expects to start underground work this spring at a site near Atlin Lake, 900 miles north of Vancouver.

Along the Alaska Highway, five miles north of Mile 701 in the Yukon, the Yukon Tungsten Corp. Ltd. is developing a deposit.

Another property being developed is on the Strikine River, 40 miles south of Telegraph Creek.

British Columbia and Yukon Chamber of Mines reports properties are being investigated all over the province in a search for this strategic metal.

Salads For Health

BRIGHTON, England—(CP)—Wilfred Hill, 84, who started as a druggist with £2 capital and now cleams to be Britain's oldest millionaire, says his longevity is mainly due to eating green salads.

Keene Women Mark World Day Of Prayer

KEENE, March 6.—The annual World Day of Prayer service was held in Keene United Church with about 40 ladies of the Presbyterian and United Churches taking part. Mrs. Herbert Macfarlane presided and took the "Adoration" section from the Day of Prayer leaflets. Other parts were taken by Miss Viola Wilson, Mrs. David McIntyre and Mrs. Charles Mather.

Prayers were led by Mrs. Comrie, Mrs. Ross McIntyre, Mrs. John Renwick and the Rev. H. B. Herrington.

A very appropriate talk was given by Mrs. Herrington entitled "The Day Thou Gayest" in which she told of the world-wide scope of the Day of Praper and also somethting of the work around the world which our gifts help to make possible.

Mrs. George Hawke and Mrs. Harold Wilson sang a duet with Miss Bryce at the piano. The offering was taken by Mrs. Fred Nelson and Mrs. Blackburn.

Fryia and Greenlaw Lead With 46 Points Each For the Petes and Eagles

Chum Fryia of the Petes and Toodie Greenlaw of Eagles led their O.H.A. senior "B" squads in scoring with 46 points apiece for this season. Each of these speedy forwards played in but 25 games of their 30-game schedule but romped home in front by two points over their nearest teammate. Freddy Mortimer was second for Eagles with 44 points in 30 games, while Arn Dugan and Gus Leonard tied for second among Petes with 44 each in 30 games. Fryia's total was made up of 25 goals and 21 assists, as Greenlaw also notched 25 markers and aided on 21 others. It was the first time for either player to win the scoring crown in senior "B" ranks.

TOPS THE PETES. — Chum Fryia showed the way for Petes' scorers this senior "B" hockey season, when he accounted for 46 points in 25 games of the 30-game puck schedule.

LED THE EAGLES.—Toodie Greenlaw led Eagles in scoring this O.H.A. senior "B" schedule, with 46 points in 25 games played in the season that ran 30 games, exclusive of playoffs.

Some Replaced

Only those who performed in more than half a dozen regularly scheduled games for these teams in the Central Ontario group race have been listed. Both Eagles and Petes tried out some players a few games and then replaced them, or the players in question moved elsewhere after the season got underway. Leading league scorers will be announced shortly by Convener Lorne Cook of Kingston.

Besides the first and second snipers of the local clubs, those getting a point or better a game over the route for Petes were: Fred Garvey 38, Junior West 35, Curly Mason 34 and Jake Wade 30. The latter was tops among defencemen in scoring for the Ellis' squad. Eagles who also did a point or more a game were: Bert Hill 39, George Samalenko 38—and he was only in 19 games—Reg Stewart 36, George Brabin and Keith Montgomery 31 each (with the latter tops among defencemen), and Dootch Vitarelli 30. Previous high scorer Joe Rochetta was injured in the first game of the season and didn't play again. The scoring marks:

P.C.V.S. Seniors Turn Back Lindsay Cagers

Coach Bev Goulding's senior Garnet and Grey cagers worked their way into the C.O.S.S.A. basketball finals for the seventh straight year Wednesday night. The Collegiate cagers with only a fair display of basketball ground out a 59-39 win over Lindsay Collegiate.

That victory gave the Garnet and Grey a 37-point margin on the two-game round, winning the first game in Lindsay Friday, 55-38.

The seniors are the first collegiate team to qualify for the C.O.S.S.A. tournament. The Jack Cullis-coached junior "A" squad will move into Oshawa Friday for the first game in a two-game series with Oshawa Central for the right to enter the C.O.S.S.A.

Also on Friday night Audry Hustwitt's senior girls team enters a two-game series with Port Perry High, the winner to enter the C.O.S.S.A. on March 15 in Toronto.

Lindsay's senior and bantam teams were the best teams to represent the town in the past eight seasons. The seniors won their "B" setup and the bantams their grouping.

For a while Wednesday night the Lindsay Collegiate senior cagers made the game uncomfortably close for the Garnet and Grey. With a dash unnoticed in previous seasons, the Lindsay quintet were playing on a par with P.C.V.S. They controlled the backboard and had a record of nine out of 21 shots good in the first half.

Took A Lead

Controlling their half of the play Lindsay took the lead several times in the first quarter, but it was never more than three points. The Garnet and Grey held a one-point, 14-13, edge at the first quarter. They continued to lead at the half 29-23.

Lindsay in the second half slipped both on the rebounding [illegible] way to the Garnet and Grey attack. Slowly the P.C.V.S. lead became larger, 47-36, at the third quarter and then they outscored Lindsay 12-3 in the fourth.

Don Ash with set shots in the first half totalled 13 points to edge Bryon Young by one point for the Collegiate's scoring honors. Young was driving in from the guard position for layup shot points. Murray Grafstein, also a guard, scored nine points, mostly a driving in layup chances.

Defensively, Grafstein and Young stood out once more. They grabbed rebounds at the defensive boardback to give P.C.V.S. a record of 25 rebounds out of a possible 32. Larry Cunningham played his best game since joining the quintet, working from the keyhole for six points and snaring rebounds.

MacDuffee, Lindsay's tall pivot man, topped the scoring with 14 points, mostly scored in the first half from the pivot. The Garnet and Grey checked him closely in the second half. Graham, with a tricky shot from the foul shot line, scored nine points.

MacDuffee and Smith accounted for Lindsay's zip in the first half. Both were grabbing rebounds to lead attacks up the floor.

For the second time in the past week the Lindsay Collegiate bantams proved they were too strong for the P.C.V.S. midgets. Lindsay were down 8-6 at the quarter but led 15-11 at the half and 20-15 at the three-quarter mark.

Blackwell again led the Lindsay scoring with 14 points while Keating scored 11 for P.C.V.S.

In the first quarter the Garnet and Grey outshot Lindsay 12-9 and outscored them 8-6. But then the Lindsay cagers outshot and outscored P.C.V.S. all the way.

The midgets looked better this game than they have for some time. They started to play as a team and worked their pattern plays well on several occasions. Lindsay's wins were both due to their superior height.

Lineups:

Senior—P.C.V.S. (59): Ash 13, Young 12, Grafstein 9, Hempstead 6, Brown 1, Langhorne 8, Cranfield 4, Cunningham 6.

Lindsay C.I. (39): MacDuffee 14, Maidens 2, Graham 9, Taylor, McLean 6, Logan 4, Smith 4, Schenk, Windrem.

Exhibition—Lindsay (29): Sinclair 6, Blackwell 14, Pennock 4, Georgas, Laidley 1, Webster 2, Hunter, Weldon 2, Browry, McLean.

P.C.V.S. (22): Davis 4, McKinney 1, Ash 1, Boorman, Keeting 11, Palmateer 1, Stewart 1, Smythe, Gallagher, Lang 3, Cournyea.

Turf Conference

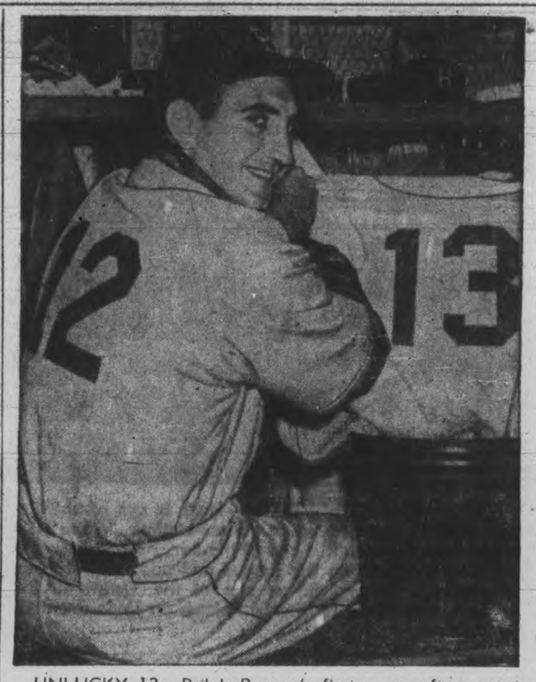
TORONTO, March 6 (CP). — The Royal Canadian Golf Association Wednesday announced that the third annual turf conference will be held at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, on March 17 to 19. Chairman will be C. E. Robinson of Ottawa, greens consultant of the R.C.G.A. Speakers will include: Prof. B. Musser, Penn State College; Dr. Fred Grau, U.S.G.R. green section; Dr. O. J. Noer, Milwaukee Sewerage Commission; Bill Glover, Fairfax, Va.; E. I. Wood, Ottawa, James Boyce, Ottawa; Howard Watson, Lachute, and Caspter McCullough, Banff.

Bancroft Victors

LAKEFIELD, March 6—(ENS)—Bancroft took a 12-11 exhibition puck win over Lakefield here in a wide-open tussle. C. Wasson scored from Fawcett in the first as E. Brough got one from N. Brough for the other side. E. Brough notched four in the second period and N. Brough one, Delyea getting the assist. For Lakefield, Heffernan, Williams, C. Wasson and Jopling counted, an assist each going to Coyle, Blewett and Fawcett. Blewett and Eady got two each for them in the third and Miller one, as Jopling aided on one. For the winners, Delyea counted three and Green and E. Brough one each, the latter and Stringer having an assist apiece. Teams:

Bancroft: McGee, Milton, Stringer, Hatten, E. Brough, N. Brough, Delyea, Bruce, Maxwell, Laing, Green, Hogarth.

Lakefield: Wingett, Jopling, Miller, Fawcett, C. Wasson, Hunter, Coyle, Heffernan, Twist, McCracken, Eady, Williams, Blewett, D. Wasson.



UNLUCKY 13—Ralph Branca's first move after reporting to Brooklyn's Vero Beach, Fla., Spring training base was to chuck his old number 13 into the ash can. After what the Giants' Bobby Thomson did to him in last season's final National League play-off game, the big Dodger right-hander has good reason to be superstitious.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Puck playoffs start here tomorrow eve for two senior "B" squads at 8:30 in Civic Arena. It'll be Belleville Hawks vs. the Petes to open their best-of-seven O.H.A. group semi-finals, second one being Monday in Bella Villa. With the Quinte crew at full strength again after a lot of injuries the last half of the season, Hawks might pull an upset to dump the loop leaders. But we look for a local win to start it off on home ice. Both sides will be hustling plenty as every game is really important when it comes to playoff time, and this Friday night fray should fill the place.

* * * * * *

here Monday p.m. These teams, too, will be giving it all they have to capture the opener of the semi-finals, and it should be a tight fit for the victor. Next week the games are Monday, Wednesday and Friday, with Eagles at home first, then Petes, then Eagles again, and these clubs away on alternate nights in Belleville and Kingston. Sounds like long series, but they'll shoot by rapidly with two clubs eliminated right shortly, and the stage set for group finals. Fans shouldn't pass up any of these as they'll produce the most exciting hockey of the lengthy senior season.

* * * * * *

The Scoring Champs

Chum Fryia and Toodie Greenlaw led their respective teams in scoring this schedule. Each played 25 games, each tallied 25 goals and each had 21 assists for 46 points. Neck-and-neck, eh? First time for either to capture the senior "B" scoring crown for Petes and Eagles, and both have turned in a fine performance. Two hustling young forwards every game. Toodie is following in the footsteps of brother Bob Greenlaw, a former leader of Eagles. Chum and Toodie came pretty close to averaging two points a game over the long haul, and that's nice work. They should be hot during the playoffs, also.

* * * * * *

Second were Fred Mortimer of Eagles, along with Arn Dugan and Gus Leonard of Petes in 30 games each with 44 points apiece. Mighty neat marks. No one else got more than 40, but several on each squad did better than a point a game. Keith Montgomery proved his value as a bumping defenceman and also clicked for 31 points in 29 games, while Jake Wade was another valuable blue-line guardian who came up with 30 points in 29 tilts. George Samolenko shone in just 19 jousts with 38 points. Players who took part in only a few frays or who have been dropped from club rosters some time now haven't been listed. High snipers for Kingston and Belleville will be listed when reports come through from those centres.

Wolves Win Opener

Otonabee Wolves, sponsored by Empress, won their O.M.H.A. bantam "B" semi-final opener at Midland last evening by a 9-7 score. So they'll tote a two-goal lead into the return match at 8.30 p.m. Saturday in Warsaw. Good stuff for George Heron's scrappy young crew, which recently was upped from "C" to "B" calibre in provincial playdowns. Al Watkin's juvenile Outboard Marines play Toronto Downsview this weekend in Toronto to open what may turn out to be semi-finals, with the return tilt here the following Thursday. No word yet on the next round for St. Peter's bantams or Martin-Hewitt in "A" competition.

After a lengthy and keen season of hockey, the Public School Leagues wound up playoffs yesterday when King Edward captured the senior championship. Earlier, Prince of Wales won the intermediate title, while Queen Mary took the junior crown. Trophies were presented to the three victors, who deserve congratulations for their hockey ability and sportsmanship. The losers rate credit, too, for making it a fine ice semester, and we must remember that the teachers who acted as coaches and referees all season on their own time after school hours made these leagues possible. They appreciate the ice time allotted to them afternoons at Civic Arena.

Emmett Smith of Bouriamaque, Que., becomes first vice-president. W. C. Boyd of the Saskatchewan Curling Association succeeds Smith as second vice-president.

J. K. Watson of Winnipeg was returned as chairman of the school boys' committee.

Walter B. Cowan of Toronto remains honorary secretary-treasurer.

Gordon Hudson of Winnipeg was elected an honorary life member.

Lakefield Gets E.P.L. Win Over Warsaw

LAKEFIELD, March 6—(ENS)—Lakefield Merchants trimmed Warsaw Flyers 13-5 last night to open their best-of-five E.P.H.L. finals. It was a clean, exciting joust and close till Lakefield ran wild in the final 10 minutes of play to chuck in seven goals. The second tilt will be in Lakefield on Friday.

Lakefield took a 4-1 lead in the final period, each side tallied twice in the middle stanza, and Lakefield broke out to notch seven in the third after Warsaw had shoved two home. The teams split four penalties.

Henry shone for the winners with four goals and four assists, while Birch had three and three in a nifty showing. Hockaday clicked for two goals, R. Calberry and Wilford a goal and two assists each, Hamblin two assists, Chittick one and one, P. Calberry a marker and Sabatino one assist. S. Lonsberry led the losers with three tallies, R. Batten and Paterson getting one each. E. Payne had a pair of assists, and L. Lonsberry, Clements and M. Batten one apiece.

Lakefield: Wasson, Hamblin, P. Calberry, Chittick, R. Calberry, Hockaday, Birch, Henry, Wilford, Sabatino, Morrison.

Warsaw: B. Payne, G. Payne, Sharp, Paterson, L. Lonsberry, Evans, S. Lonsberry, E. Payne, Clements, Crowe, Watts, M. Batten, B. Batten.

Referees—C. Puffer and R. Garden.

U.T.S. Defeats Port Hope 5-4

TORONTO, March 6.—University of Toronto Schools Firsts Wednesday won the Prep League hockey championship with a [illegible] ing schedule-ending game at Varsity Arena.

U.T.S. which had tied T.C.S. earlier this season, had to come from behind in the last five minutes to win its third successive title, following a T.C.S. rally which saw the visitors score four times in two minutes.

Joe Walker sent Toronto ahead, 2-0, in the first period and Don Borthwick added one more goal to make it 3-0 when the second ended. But in the third period T.C.S. secured goals from Al Arnold (10:41), George Currie (11:38), Bob McDerment (11.44) and John Long (13:37).

Walker's third goal, coming at 15:28, tied the score at 4-5. Then, in the last minute, Walker passed to Don Cossar, who relayed the puck to Bill Naylor. Naylor put it in the net at 19:16.

Trinity held a 37-31 edge in shots on goal, and had the better part of the play in the second and third periods. The game was delayed for five minutes in the third period when U.T.S. goalie Henry Lafleur hit his head against the goalpost. He was given temporary repairs and finished the game, but was later taken to the Medical Arts building for stitches.

Curling News

Dr. Ralph Clark's rink had a somewhat easy win over Prince Edward Island yesterday afternoon in the Macdonald Brier, but late reports show him trailing 4-3 at the end of the sixth against Newfoundland. The result of this game will be known long before this column is read.

Mrs. M. McCartney, Mrs. C. Coons, Mrs. F. Stenson, and Mrs. H. Baptie motored to Guelph yesterday afternoon. They are taking part in the ladies' bonspiel sponsored by the Guelph lady curlers. Play began this morning. It is for lady curlers who have not curled longer than seven years.

The Sturgeon Trophy competition begins Saturday evening. First draw at 7 o'clock.

We had four rinks playing in the Colts' competition at Lindsay yesterday. At a late hour Herb Bradburn's rink was in the final with a Lindsay rink.

Flash: Bradburn wins.

Belleville Hawklets Down Kingston 5-1

BELLEVILLE, March 6.—Belleville Hawklets defeated Kingston Vics 5-1, in the first game in the best-of-seven series for the O.H.A. Junior "B" group title and the right to advance into the provincial playdowns. The game, played in the Belleville Memorial Arena attracted 1,323 customers.

The Hawklets were in command throughout. They took a 3-0 lead in the first six minutes and were never seriously threatened.

Pat Gilmour, Ross Mason and Bob Wilson were each credited with a goal and an assist for the winners while Henry Therrien and Ted Degray also found the mark. Bob Vallier was the Kingston marksman.

Second game is slated for Kingston Thursday night.

C's Bowlers Second

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6—(ENS)—The number one team of the Campbellford branch of the Canadian Legion bowlers took second place last week when they competed in a tournament in Brighton with teams from Cobourg, Trenton, Colborne, Brighton and Campbellford.

The local boys finished in the number two position with a total pinnage of 3,399, just eight pins short of first place. Jack Stocker was high bowler for the evening, with a three-game total of 809.

Campbellford will now advance to the district playdowns at Tweed near the end of the month. Competition will prove much tougher at Tweed, with entries from Peterborough, Belleville, Oshawa and other points.

Senior Crown To K.E. Against P. of W.

King Edward blanked Prince of Wales 4-0 at the arena yesterday to capture the senior Public School Hockey League title and the Board of Education Trophy, held last year by Central. The trophy later was presented to Captain F. Rusaw by Mr. J. Weir, president of the Public Schools Sports Association.

Play was fast and referees A. Olmstead and J. Barnard kept it clean. K. E. had two goal lines and Prince of Wales had one, which matched the winners' first string. The second line scored all four goals against the losers' second line. J. Rose scored early in the first and, after Rusaw got one in the second, Rose added one from Stevens. The final counter was by Beggs. The teams split 10 minor penalties. Coach J. M. Burns' crew had a fair margin on play throughout the neat playoff number. Teams:

King Edward: Curtis, Mills, [illegible], Floyd, Feeley.

Prince of Wales: Bowen, Coombes, J. Sutherland, Hunt, Carl, Reid, Hawthorne, Boyce, Huffman, Ashby, Allen, Trotter, Faulkner, Johnston.

Referees: A. Olmstead and J. Barnard.

Marmora Takes Div. Title In Trent Loop

MARMORA, March 6 (ENS)—Before the biggest crowd of the season numbering about 900, Marmora won the championship of the Central section of the Trent Valley League by defeating Wellington by the narrow margin of 6-5. With nine seconds to go in the third, the visitors pulled their goalie, Parks, but Marmora's defensive tactics proved equal to the occasion, and the tying goal did not materialize.

Lighthall, who had been playing a good game for the southerners, had the misfortune to fall and dislocate his shoulder half-way through the first stanza. The game was full of thrills, each team in turn putting on the pressure. Scott for the losers was the outstanding player of the game, beating Killian four times. Stewart was top scorer for Marmora with three goals and an assist. Trumble got two goals and an assist and Jones one goal and an assist. Both goalies made spectacular saves to keep the score down. Marmora it is understood, will next be matched with the winner of the Southern section laurels.

Wellington: Goal, Parks; defence, Cork, Platford; centre, Scott; wings, Twigg, Istead; alternates, Cole, Stacey, Gassiro, Pettingill, Dumas, Lord, Lighthall, Wright.

Marmora: Goal, Killian; defence, Maynes, Gray; centre, Forestell; wings, Lavender, Trumble; alternates, Stewart, Jones, Mantle, Brown, Kerr, Smith, Darrah, Doyle. Spare goalie—Drummond.

Referees—W. Leggitt; P. Scarrow.

Peterborough Rink Now Tied For 2nd Spot In Competition

By AL VICKERY

WINNIPEG, March 6, (CP)—Nova Scotia suffered its first defeat Wednesday in the Canadian Curling Championship, leaving Manitoba the only unbeaten rink. The 9-8 loss to Reg Stone of Duncan, B.C., dropped the Maritimers into a three-way tie for second place with Ontario and Alberta. Each has four wins and one loss. British Columbia follows in fifth place with four wins in six starts. Manitoba, after drawing a bye Wednesday night in sixth-round play, now sports a 5-0 record and a big chance to wrap up the championship today. The Winnipeg rink meets lowly Prince Edward Island, which has lost five of its six games, in the seventh round and takes on winless Newfoundland in the eighth.

The key game of the spiel may came in the ninth round tonight when Manitoba and Nova Scotia clash.

In sixth-round play Wednesday night Dr. Ralph Clark of Ontario had to go all out to win 9-6 from the stubborn Newfoundland rink, skipped by Tommy Tomelin of Corner Brook. Alberta defeated Quebec 13-11; Saskatchewan outlasted Northern Ontario 14-10, while New Brunswick trounced P.E.I. 14-8.

The British Columbia-Nova Scotia game drew the most attention with Manitoba's Billy Walsh on the sidelines. It was a see-saw battle all the way, with B.C.'s deadly knockout game on the last end preserving the lead.

For skip Henry Blanchard it was a heart-breaking loss. The turning point probably came on the 11th end when Blanchard, shooting the final rock, tried a double raise off a B.C. rock.

His stone was true, raising his opponent's rock up to his own, but it was inches light and failed to get his other rock into the shot position. B.C. counted two to go home two up.

Come From Behind

Art Simpson of Bassano, Alta., had to come from behind for his 13-11 victory over Ken Weldon of Montreal. A big three on the tenth end gave the western rink the margin of victory. The rinks split singles on the last two runs.

In other sixth-round play, [illegible] defeated 14-8 by Ralph Limerick of New Brunswick. Earlier Wednesday, a spectacular last-rock draw to the four-foot circle by skip Billy Walsh gave Manitoba an 8-5 victory over New Brunswick. Nova Scotia kept pace with a 13-8 win from Quebec.

Other fifth-round play saw Ontario's Dr. Clark trounce Hansen of P.E.I. 20-4; Stone of B.C. batter Newfoundland's Tomelin 18-4, and Simpson of Alberta down Saskatchewan's Hastings 12-4.

Clark and his rink showed a good variety of shots in trouncing Prince Edward Island, 20-4. Four's on the second and 10th ends and three's on the first and last ends came from a combination of good shooting by the Peterborough aggreation and misses by Frank Hansen's men. Ontario had a 9-0 lead before the islanders hit the board on the fifth end.

Complete morning draw for today is:

Manitoba vs. P.E.I.; New Brunswick vs. Newfoundland; Nova Scotia vs. Ontario; British Columbia vs. Alberta; Quebec vs. Northern Ontario. Saskatchewan drew a bye.

Red Wings Win NHL Crown

By The Canadian Press.

As everyone expected, Detroit Red Wings are National Hockey League champions for the fourth straight year.

The idle Red Wings slipped in the side door to the title Wednesday night when the second-place Montreal Canadiens were beaten 6-2 by the Maple Leafs at Toronto.

Neither third-place Toronto nor the Canadiens can catch the Wings in the remainder of the 70-game schedule. If Montreal wins all its remaining eight games and Detroit lose their nine, the Wings still will have a one-point mar[illegible]

The victory also meant that Detroit will take the Prince of Wales Trophy for the fourth straight time, equalling Montreal's mark during the 1943 to 1946-47 seasons. Until Wednesday night Canadiens had won it more times than any other team since its award to the N.H.L. champions in 1938.

Closing On Habs

Toronto, hot in the stretch drive to the four-team Stanley Cup playoffs, moved within two points of the Habitants and a massive 15 ahead of Boston Bruins and New York Rangers, deadlocked for fourth position.

The Montrealers found themselves hoist with their own Petard. They've been trying out a "youth movement" with some success. Toronto tried the same trick Wednesday night—and won going away.

The Leafs used two forwards from Toronto's Marlboros of the Junior Ontario Hockey Association—Earl Balfour and Eric Nesterenko. They benched left wing Danny Lewicki to make room for one and an injury to defenceman Gus Mortson provided a spot for the other. Rookie Jim Morrison moved back from centre to fill Mortson's rearguard duties.

Busy Night

Altogether, it made a busy night for Montreal goalie Gerry McNeil, who handled 42 chances—20 in a torrid second period—to 27 by Al Rollins in the Toronto cage. Leafs pumped in their [illegible] on a two-period basis, [illegible] and Ted Kreiger contributing two each and Howie Meeker and Max Bentley adding singletons.

Montreal scores were by Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, who tipped in a Bill Reay pass in the second period, and a crackling shot in the final minute of the game by rookie Dick Gamble which caught Rollins by surprise.

Fifteen penalties marked the play—five minor and one major to the Canucks and eight minors and one misconduct to Leafs. Max Bentley drew the latter for back-talking over a high-stick penalty.

The Wings come back into action tonight when they encounter Boston. Meanwhile, New York takes on the last-place Chicago Black Hawks.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

The lone game in the National Hockey League Wednesday night—a 6-2 decision for Toronto over Montreal—failed to produce any change in the individual scoring race.

Gordie Howe of Detroit continues to head the list with 71 points, made up of a record 39 goals and 32 assists. Elmer Lach of Montreal holds down second spot with 13 goals and a pace-setting 46 assists for 59 points.

The leaders:	G	A	Pts.
Howe, Detroit	39	32	71
Lach, Montreal	13	46	59
Lindsay, Detroit	21	33	54
Raleigh, New York.	16	36	52
Smith, Toronto	22	27	49
Geoffrion, Montreal	27	20	47
Peirson, Boston	18	28	46

Dutchmen Edge Mercurys In 7-6 Tussle

By The Canadian Press.

The underdogs came up with a pair of victories in the Ontario [illegible] play-offs Wednesday night.

Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen defeated Owen Sound Mercurys 7-6 in Kitchener to take the third game of their best-of-seven semi-final and leave the score in games between them at 2-1.

In Stratford it was the same story. The host Indians whipped Brantford Redmen 5-3 in the third game of their best-of-seven semi-final. Brantford now has a 2-1 edge in games.

In the O.H.A. Junior A League Toronto St. Michael's used the second period to pile up a lead over Galt Black Hawks and win the game, first of their best-of-seven semi-final 6-3. Toronto scored two goals in the first two minutes of the fatal second period and added two more before the period ended.

Do Scoring

The Owen Sound scorers in Kitchener were Bill McComb with a pair and Andy Grant, Tommy Burlington, Doug Gillespie and Jack Macdonald with singletons. Art Hurst and Paul Oliver each scored twice for Kitchener, singles coming from Edward Stankiewicz, Don Kope and Maurice Levesque concluded the Dutchmen scoring.

For the Indians at Stratford, Mickey Roth with two, Dinny Flanagan, Bill Walsh and Pat Wilson were the scorers. Marksmen for Brantford were Lloyd Ferguson, Bill Shill and Robin Hewson.

Ted Toppazzini scored two goals for Toronto St. Michael's in the Galt game and Bill Dineen, Bob Sabourin, Bill Lee and Michael Ratchford scored singletons. Goal getters for the Galt Black Hawks were Bill McIntosh, Tony Poeta and Jim McBurney.

Crippled Boy To Share Sport Limelight

TORONTO, March 6 (CP). — Freddie Atkinson, a 12-year-old crippled boy from Woodstock, will be the envy of sports-minded boys across Canada March 13.

As the 1952 "Timmy," symbol of Canada's crippled children, he'll rub shoulders with 21 of the continent's greatest athletes at the first annual sports celebrity dinner of the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association.

The association today announced a sellout of the 417 tickets available for the $25-a-plate dinner which marks the opening of the national Easter seals campaign for crippled children. All dinner proceeds, more than $8,000, will go to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

Timmy, a cripple from birth, will join the sports stars in a one-hour broadcast of the dinner program over 13 CBC and private radio stations.

Born with a condition known as spinal bifida, Timmy didn't learn to walk until he was seven. He wears metal braces, gets about with the aid of crutches and can take some steps without them. He goes to school, is an apt student, plays shinny on the street with neighborhood youngsters, goes to the show on Saturdays, builds model boats in a basement workshop with his father and some day hopes to study medicine.

The dinner menu includes venison and beaver meat contributed by the Ontario Lands Department. A group of business men have underwritten the out-of-pocket cost of the meal ($6 a person) so all proceeds may go to crippled children. The association said it is not paying any expenses of celebrities who are coming at their own expense or under sponsorship.

Here is the full list of celebrities:

Boxing—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, and Rocky Marciano, heavyweight contender.

Football—Coach Frank Leahy of Notre Dame; Frederick Miller, Milwaukee brewer, Leahy's vol-

Cummings who won the Big Four's Jeff Russell Trophy last season with the Dominion champion Ottawa Rough Riders.

Golf—Francis Ouimet, first American to captain the Royal and Ancient at St. Andrew's; Sandy Somerville of London, Ont. only Canadian to win the U.S amateur; Marlene Stewart, of Fonthill, Ont., Canadian ladies' champion who was voted by the association as Ontario's outstanding athlete of 1951.

Harness racing—Clint Hodgins of Clandeboye, Ont., who has achieved outstanding success on U.S. tracks.

Hockey—Joe Malone, famous Bulldogs in the N.H.L. some 35 years ago; Bill Cook, Aurel Joliat, King Clancy and Eddie Shore—the four surviving members of the first Canadian Press N.H.L. all-star team of 1931.

Lacrosse—Newsy Lalonde of Montreal, famed also as a hockey star.

Outstanding athletes of the first half-century—Jim Thorpe of the U.S.; Lionel Conacher and Bobby Rosenfeld of Canada.

Racing—Pat Remillard, veteran Toronto jockey.

Track and field—Bobby Kerr of Hamilton, former Olympic star; Alfie Shrubb of Bowmanville, famous in walking races years ago.

Campbellford Boys Lead Semi-Finals

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6 — (ENS)—Campbellford's high-flying O.M.H.A. midgets defeated Richmond Hill in the first game of a home-and-home semi-final on Wednesday night, in Richmond Hill, by a score of 10-5. A return game between the two clubs will be played on Campbellford ice Saturday night.

The next round will be the Ontario championship finals and the local lads will likely have to travel to Western Ontario, providing they take the game here on Saturday night.

When the lads played their last game on home ice a week ago, the arena was nearly full, and the game on Saturday is expected to draw the largest crowd of the season. Officials of the arena here were concerned over the small crowds attending the games in the early part of the season. As the season progressed, however, the crowds became larger and larger until now there is a rush for the choice seat long before game time.

Barons Blank Pittsburgh 3-0

By The Canadian Press.

The Cleveland Barons, fast-gaining on league-leading Pittsburgh Hornets, retained their chance of winning the western division of the American Hockey League by blanking the Hornets 3-0 Wednesday night.

The Hornets now lead the loop with 91 points, just six ahead of the Barons. Pittsburgh has four games left to play while the Barons have five.

Johnny Bower, the league's leading goaltender, handed the Hornets their first shutout of the season. Ike Hildebrand, rookie right wing, returning to the Cleveland lineup, scored two Cleveland goals, and Steve Wochy scored his 36th of the season.

At Hershey, the Bears defeated Syracuse Warriors 2-1 to take a firmer grip on first place in the eastern division.

La Motta Gains 10-Round Draw

DETROIT, March 6 (AP). — Jake La Motta, the former middleweight champion, won't have to hang up his boxing gloves.

The 30-year-old fighter, showing the strain of 12 years campaigning in the professional ring, gained a 10-round draw with up-and-coming Eugene (Silent) Hairston in the Motor City Gardens last night.

On the eve of the bout, La Motta let it be known he would retire for good if the 23-year-old Hairston beat him decisively.

Now La Motta says he is going to keep on fighting. He wants a shot at Joe Maxim's light heavyweight title.

The hard-punching Hairston lost no prestige in the bout which he hoped would earn him a chance at the middleweight title.

A holler went up from Hairston's corner when the decision was announced. Manager Mike Miele declared La Motta had paced himself, fighting in the last few minutes of each round to impress the judges.

La Motta's tactics paid off. Both judges scored it as even 50 points for each boxer. Referee Morris Sherman gave the verdict to Hairston by a 52-48 margin. Under Michigan boxing rules the majority decision made it a draw.

Comiskey Stalks Out Of White Sox Setup

CHICAGO, March 6 (AP). — Charles A. Comiskey II stalked out of his family's White Sox baseball organization Wednesday night and said he might be gone a "lifetime."

He got a job with the Liberty Broadcasting System, which recently filed court suit against most of the major league baseball clubs for $12,000,000. Comiskey 26, said he will be a vice-president in charge of all sports coverage. His salary wasn't disclosed but it was reported close to $20,000 a year.

Comiskey resigned as Sox vice-president almost two months ago. He said he wanted more money than he was getting ($10,000 a year) and some sort of definite contract.

Since then there have been a number of published reports about his disagreements with his mother, club president Mrs. Grace Comiskey. At various times he's been rumored either going back to the Sox, with a raise, or joining some other firm, including Liberty.

50-50 Club Meets

NORWOOD, March 6 (ENS). — The regular meeting of the 50-50 Club was held in the United church Sunday school rooms, with the president, Stanley Flett in charge.

Following the business discussions Max and Ruth Scott and their group took charge of the meeting.

Prayers were read by Marguerite Stewart and Ruth Scott, scripture by Max Scott, and a short talk on "Prayer" by the Rev. H. K. Wright. A quartet composed of Mrs. Williams, Ronald Webster and Mr. and Mrs. Scott sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul." Remainder of the program consisted of a reading by Florence McNab, a song by the men of the group, and a short play, "Melvina Entertains."

N. Dummer Triumphs

WARSAW, March 6 (ENS). — North Dummer defeated West Douro 7-3 in a fast fray here on Tuesday. The winners now go into the final series with Burns' Bridge. North Dummer goals were by J. Cameron (2), D. Matthews (2), L. Crowe, K. McClure and J. Burley. The West Douro goals were by J. Cupoli (2) and Murdock.

Campbellford Speaker

CAMPBELLFORD, March 6 — (ENS) — All Campbellford churches will take part in a special Sunday evening service on March 9, when Dr. C. A. Ratz, principal of the Ontario Pentecostal Bible College of Peterborough will be guest minister.

Service will be held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. A. E. Toombs of St. Andrew's will be in charge.

Members of the ministry will take part in the service and special music is being arranged. These services have always been well attended in the past.

Good Record

STOCKHOLM—(CP)—Total of epidemic disease cases in Sweden in 1951 was 14,673 compared with 37,827 in 1950. The official reports just issued showed polio cases reduced from 1,164 to 39, with 32 deaths. Reductions were also shown for diphtheria, scarlet fever and other diseases.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Doug Grimston, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Wednesday in Vancouver that he will recommend Canada drop out of Olympic hockey competition.

"There is no use carrying on any longer," he said. "European nations in particular, will not agree to uniform rules. As a result every game is confusion of shinny, with a sprinkling of hockey."

Grimston arrived home from the games yesterday.

"In Europe bodychecking is not permitted. . . You cannot skate with your opposing check. If you do and if you hit his stick, that's interference. What we call 'shadowing' is bad taste over there."

He said Russia has virtually decided to enter a hockey team in the 1956 Olympics. He found this out at a hockey meeting at the Olympic games which the Russians asked permission to attend.

He also told of an exchange he had with Russians.

"They informed the press that we had tied with the United States so that the Americans could finish in second place.

"I told them they were crybabies, and that's quite a feat getting it over to them, as they use an interpreter who only speaks French."

Jack Fairs' Western Colts chalked up their third win of the season in the Intermediate Inter-collegiate Basketball League in London, Ont., last night as they downed Ontario Agricultural College (Guelph) 63-52. The Colts have dropped one league game to take second place behind the pace-setting University of Toronto.

Edmonton Mercurys, Canadian Olympic hockey champions, Wednesday trounced the Bern Sports Club squad 16-2 before a crowd of 3,000 in Berne, Switzerland. The period scores were: 6-0, 3-2, 7-0.

Lloyd Percival, well-known Toronto track and field coach, has been appointed athletic consultant at Queen's University, it was announced Wednesday in Kingston. He will work in conjunction with the department of physical education and will also conduct sports clinics in secondary schools in Eastern Ontario.

Edmonton Eskimos' efforts to obtain all-American Bill McColl, Stanford University end, received a sharp set-back Wednesday in Edmonton when the University of Alberta turned down McColl's application for entry as a medical student. The Edmonton entry in the Western Interprovincial Football Union said it "was sharply disappointed" at the university's decision. A club statement said "despite this setback," the club is continuing to negotiate."

University of Toronto's senior and intermediate basketball squads took both halves of an intercollegiate double - header from McMaster University Wednesday night in Toronto. The Varsity Jay Vees opened with a 68-23 mauling for the Buccaneers and the Blues clinched it 57-47 for the Marauders.

Canada's Lorne Main and Brendan Macken advanced into the second round of the Caribbean tennis championships Wednesday in Kingston, Jamaica. Main, up-and-coming internationalist from Vancouver, had an easy time in defeating E. C. Aris of Jamaica 6-1, 6-3. Macken, veteran Montrealer, took the measure of L. A. Kirkaldy, Jamaica, 9-7, 6-2.

New Cases Recorded

COBOURG, March 6 (ENS) — Twenty-three new cases of communicable disease were recorded for the week ending March 1, by the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit. Of these, chickenpox led the list with 11 new cases, seven of them in Cobourg; German measles totalled seven, red measles, three and two cases of mumps.

Edmonton Plans West's Fourth Stock Exchange

By The Canadian Press

Three western stock exchanges trading about 135,000,000 shares a year soon will be joined by a fourth. Edmonton, its commercial importance enhanced by the discovery of oil nearby and the location there of a number of new industries, expects to have its own exchange operating before the year is out.

The Edmonton Stock Exchange was incorporated by special act of the Alberta Legislature in 1949, but until this year organization had been held in abeyance. At a meeting last week 12 members were added to the 50 charter members. The exchange now is looking for trained personnel and premises to house its trading facilities.

A statement of aims of the exchange says it is "calculated to assist materially in providing capital to further development of the oil, mineral, timber and other natural resources of Alberta and the Northwest Territories and to foster expansion of local industries in the Edmonton area."

Join 3 Others

The newcomer will take its place beside three other west exchanges which, as things go in the west, have already attained a venerable age. The Winnipeg Stock Exchange was organized in 1903; Vancouver in 1907, and Calgary in 1913.

Of the three, Calgary ranks first in the number of shares traded. But Vancouver has the edge in the value of stocks changing hands.

The Vancouver Exchange now is believed to be the third largest in Canada after Toronto and Montreal. In 1951 it enjoyed its second highest year with 51,265,000 shares traded for $56,180,000. This was a big jump over 1950, when 35,000,000 shares worth $37,500,000 changed hands.

1929 Banner Year

Still ranked as Vancouver's banner year is 1929, when securities traded to the tune of $103,000,000. The exchange deals in mines, oils, industrials and the oils are the most active but industrials are getting more action as British Columbia's industrial expansion gathers momentum.

In Calgary, volume last year exceeded all previous records. Just under 85,000,000 shares were traded for a value of $33,572,927. This compared with a former record in 1950 of 628,998,118 shares traded for $20,211,600.

Current turnover compares with fewer than 20,000,000 shares traded in the 1929 banner year, but even at the lower turnover the total value of shares traded then was $37,274,000, or more than the value of four times as many shares traded last year.

Winnipeg, oldest of the western exchanges, also ranks as the smallest. Shares traded in 1951 totalled 2,322,511, worth $1,165,046. The previous year volume was 1,401,000 shares worth $1,226,588. Mines and oils are the main trade in volume, but industrials have the edge in dollar volume. Most trading is in locally-listed companies.

Einstein Has Renewed Plea For Supra-National Authority

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA, March 6 (CP) — Albert Einstein has renewed a plea for a supra-national authority, equipped with strong executive power, to protect mankind against the atom bomb.

The world-famous mathematician, author of the involved theory of relativity which contributed towards development of the bomb, says the danger that threatens mankind is that no one appears prepared to organize the international authority.

Each waits "idly" for someone else to make the move. If the goal is not reached in time, the fault will lie with "each one of us," he said.

The 72-year-old scientist touched briefly on the atomic future in a 300-word message to Canadians on Canadian Education Week. The message was sent from his home at Princeton, N.J., at the request of 12 organizations sponsoring the week.

Need Not Have Destruction

Living in retirement, the professor emeritus at the Princeton school for advanced studies said:

"The discovery of nuclear chain reactions need not bring about the destruction of mankind, any more than did the discovery of matches. We only must do everything in our power to safeguard against its abuse.

"In the present stage of technical development, only a supra-national organization, equipped with a sufficiently strong executive power, can protect us.

"Once we have understood that, we shall find the strength for the sacrifices necessary to ensure the future of mankind. Each one of us would be at fault if the goal were not reached in time. There is the danger that everyone waits idly for others to act in his stead."

A staunch believer in world government, Einstein suggested that the traditions and institutions which the peoples of the world should adopt should be the ones that make them happy. It didn't matter where they originated.

Don't Form A Whole

"In my opinion," he said, "it is not reasonable to even talk of 'our way of life' or that of the Russians.

"In both cases we are dealing with a collection of traditions and customs which do not form an organic whole.

"It certainly makes more sense to ask what institutions and traditions are harmful, and which are useful to human beings; which make life happier, or more painful.

"We then must endeavor to adopt whatever appears best—irrespective of whether, at present, we find it realized at home or somewhere else."

Suggest Compensation

TORONTO, March 6 (CP)—The Ontario government was urged Wednesday to set an example to private companies by compensating workers laid off at the Ontario stockyard because of slow marketing of cattle. Sam Hughes, international representative of United Packinghouse Workers (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) told Premier Frost and his cabinet that a third of the 65 stockyard employees are slated for layoff because of uncertainty caused by the ban on cattle from the west due to foot-and-mouth disease.

Have Many Legends About MP's Clothes

OTTAWA, March 6 (CP) — There are all sorts of legends around parliament hill about members of parliament who were rushed into the House to vote in anything from pyjamas—covered by overcoats of course—to evening clothes.

One of those incidents really happened Wednesday. A vote was called and before the doors were closed one member surged in and collapsed into his seat.

He was Hoard Winkler (L—Lisgar). He was wearing his overcoat and hat. By the time his name was called for a vote, he had them off. He wasn't wearing pyjamas though, he was wearing a dark suit.

Arrest Student 13

SMITHTOWN, N.Y., March 6 — (AP)—Police arrested a 13-year-old honor student Wednesday night and accused him of killing pretty Lyde Kitchener, a 12-year-old schoolmate. Suffolk County District Attorney Lindsay R. Henry identified the boy as Harold Lorentson and booked him in the strangling last November 29. The little girl was found dead in a wooded area, her clothes in disarray.

Have 36,000 Churches

WINDSOR, March 6—(CP)—In 50 years the Pentecostal revival has reached more than 100 countries and 36,000 churches have been established, the Rev. David duPlessis, Glenbrook, Conn., secretary of the World Fellowship of Pentecostal Churches, told the Canadian Fellowship's fourth national Sunday school convention Wednesday night.

Visiting Paris

MOOSE JAW, Sask., March 6—(CP)—Major A. J. Wickens, Q.C., Dominion president of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada, left Wednesday by plane to attend an international veterans' meeting in Paris. The 43-year-old Moose Jaw barrister was elected second vice-president of the International Federation of War Veterans' Organizations last July in Rome.

Allowance Cut

LOS ANGELES, March 6 (AP) — The $3,333 monthly family allowance of Al Jolson's widow was cut to half Wednesday because of her December 7 marriage to a Hollywood producer. Superior Court held that Mrs. Erle Jolson Krasna, under California law, no longer is entitled to the family allowance for herself, but will continue to receive the one-half for Jolson's adopted son, Asa, 3.

Negro Discrimination

RICHMOND, Calif., March 6—(AP)—Bricks smashed a window in a home just bought today by Wilbur D. Gary, 42, Negro building contractor, in an all-white residential district. Gary was in the office of Neitha Williams, who sold him the $8,700 residence in the Rolling Woods suburb, when a rock also broke a $75 plate glass window. A movement to purchase the home was launched by the Rolling Woods Improvement Association "as a fair way to solve our present difficulty and restore harmony to our community."

Liberal Education Vital–Hutchings

TORONTO, March 6 (CP)—Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, associate director of the Ford Foundation, said Wednesday night that if modern industrial democracies cannot provide everyone with a liberal education, universal suffrage should be abandoned.

He told a lecture audience here: "I'm not saying that everyone should become great philosophers, historians and artists, but they should be able to understand them."

Liberal education has disappeared in the United States—displaced by schools which teach know-how instead of know-why, he said.

Workers with more free time than ever before raise the problem of what to do with leisure time after the monotony of the assembly line. "All one has to do to realize the importance of the question is to spend an evening watching television."

New Margarine Debate Looming In Senate

OTTAWA, March 6—(CP)—A new debate on margarine is looming in the Senate.

Senator W. D. Euler (L—Ontario) Wednesday moved in the Upper Chamber a bill to amend the Canada Dairy Products Act to allow the free movement of margarine in or out of any province. The measure was given first reading.

Interprovincial movement of margarine now is banned under the act, though its manufacture and sale is legal in all provinces except Quebec and Prince Edward Island.

THE LAUGH'S ON HIM—Arthur Noworyta (second from right) gags under the grip of ex-Marine Gale Zenner (right) after being apprehended by Zenner following a $2,500 hold-up of a Buffalo, N.Y., department store. Crowd's happiness at his capture evidently isn't shared by Norworyta.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP).—The Sault Humane Society is remodelling its headquarters into one of the most modern animal hospitals in the province. Plans include a glass brick front, soundproofed walls, a fully-equipped operating room and an X-ray machine.

Union Asks G.E. For 25-Cent Boost

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—The International Electrical Workers' Union (C.L.O.) revealed Wednesday it is asking a 25-cent-an-hour wage boost and other benefits from General Electric Company.

The I.E.U. and its rival, the United Electrical Workers (Ind.), opened negotiations during the day with the big electric firm.

The U.E. hasn't specified its demands on the company. But presumably they lag far behind the I.E.U.'s.

The I.E.U. estimates the present average wage in G.E. at about $1.88 an hour.

Rising Costs Chief Factor In Big Saskatchewan Water and Power Scheme

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 6—(CP)—A Royal Commission probing the economic feasibility of the proposed South Saskatchewan River irrigation and power project still is deep in its studies, with little indication that an early start can be made on the $125,000,000 scheme.

The Commission plans to hold public hearings in the West this summer and informed sources say it won't be able to make its report before August at the earliest.

Thus, there appears to be little likelihood that parliament will be able to take any steps towards a start on the project in the current session. If there is a fall session, the report should be available then.

Government officials say the estimates tto be placed before parliament this spring contain no appropriations for work on the scheme, though the government could decide to make some provision in supplementary estimates to be tabled later.

The project calls for the throwing up of a huge earthen dam—the biggest in the world—across the South Saskatchewan River below Saskatoon to create a 135-mile artificial lake, thus providing water for irrigation and production of power.

Cost of the undertaking has been placed at $103,000,000 with the Federal government spending $68,000,000 and Saskatchewan $35,000,000, but officials now say those figures, based on estimates made in 1947, have been out-dated by rising costs.

They suggest that $125,000,000—and probably even more—would represent a more realistic cost figure, with the Federal government probably paying $85,000,000.

Engineers have determined that the project is feasible from an engineering standpoint, but the Royal Commission is trying to determine whether the economic benefits to Saskatchewan and the country as a whole would warrant heavy expenditures.

Plan Summer Hearings

The Commission, established last year and headed by Dr. T. H. Hogg of Toronto, former chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, will hear representations from the three prairie governments and other interested groups during public sessions this summer.

The objective is to provide stabilization for agriculture in Central Saskatchewan where prolonged droughts have created serious economic problems for more than 50,000 farmers. The population already is declining.

Other benefits would be flood control, power production, better urban water supplies, recreation and employment.

The dam, 210 feet high and 1½ miles long, would be erected across the South Saskatchewan River about halfway between the towns of Elbow and Outlook. It would take 35,000,000 cubic yards of earth and gravel to complete it.

The waters collected in the 135-mile-long reservoir would be used primarily to irrigate approximately 600,000 acres of land in what is one of the worst dust-bowl areas of Saskatchewan, Canada's biggest wheat-producing province. The area covers more than 300 miles and contains more than 50,000 farms.

Officials said the irrigation would at least double the productivity of the land, increase farm revenue, more than double the number of farms in the region and bring about an increase in both rural and urban population.

Power Potential

Power installations at the dam would be capable of producing 435,000,000 kilowatt hours of electrical energy each year, which is 1½ times the present total power consumption in Saskatchewan.

As irrigation developed and more water was needed for that purpose, the quantity available for power production would decline until it reached 395,000,000 kilowatt hours a year.

The power output, it is expected, would facilitate the province's industrial development.

The dam would provide a means of regulating the flow of the river in flood periods while the diversion of water would provide an assured supply for Moose Jaw, Regina and other urban centres.

At the same time, the dam would raise the waters of the Qu'Appelle and Assiniboine Rivers in Manitoba and maintain the water levels of Long Lake and seven other lakes along the Qu'Appelle Valley. This would safeguard these areas as summer resorts.

Engineers estimate it would take 10 years to complete the dam, the cost of which would be borne by the Federal government. Then it would take another 25 to 30 years before the irrigational phases of the project would be in full operation. That province would take care of the costs of the irrigation works.

Construction of the over-all project would provide jobs for hundreds of workers for 25 years or more.

Teachers Get Raise

PORT ARTHUR, March 6 —(CP)— Secondary and public school teachers here have been granted salary increases of $350 a year, chairman Gavin Young of the city board of education announced yesterday. The agreement also increased maximum salaries by $350.

Request Report

TORONTO, March 6—(CP) — Board of Control Wednesday agreed to ask Dr. L. A. Pequegnat, Toronto's medical health officer, for a report on the possibility of introducing fluorine into milk instead of the city water supply as a less expensive method of preventing tooth decay.

Aneurin Bevan's Star Rising In Labor Party

By ALAN HARVEY,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 6—(CP)—New developments in an old story—the struggle for power within the Labor party—suggest a sharp increase in the personal popularity of Aneurin Bevan and a corresponding decline in the standing of his old rival, Herbert Morrison.

It is certainly true that Morrison's authority has diminished. His loss of status coincides roughly with his decision to succeed the late Ernest Bevin as Foreign Secretary in the last Labor government, a job for which even loyal Labor friends say he was not suited.

His stock slumped further during last week's House of Commons debate on foreign affairs. Morrison and Clement Attlee, former Prime Minister, as chief official spokesman for the Labor Opposition, were placed in the position of criticizing Prime Minister Winston Churchill's policy in the Far East.

Costly Disclosure

Then Churchill blandly revealed, to Labor's dismay, that the Attlee government, in secret agreements, had committed itself to a similar policy before relinquishing office. In the parliamentary lobbies afterwards, some members were saying Churchill's disclosure would cost the Labor Party 1,000,000 votes.

While Morrison and Attlee were thus discomfited, Bevan scored heavily. Even before Churchill had finished outlining the nature of Labor's commitment on the Far East, Bevan intervened to suggest that the Prime Minister was violating parliamentary protocol in quoting "Cabinet papers." (It has since been generally accepted that Churchill was summarizing messages between governments, and that no conventions were broken.)

The effect was to place Bevan in the role of the redeemer of Labor's honor and to enhance the reputation for responsibility in parliamentary affairs that the former Labor cabinet minister—once called the "wild man of the left"—had to be trying to establish.

Goldfish Bowl

There is a fascinating, goldfish-bowl quality about this struggle for the Labor leadership. It exercises such a powerful influence on the political correspondents that they sometimes write a little fancifully. The latest developments, while undoubtedly a boost for Bevan, do not mean he is ripe for power.

In the parliamentary ball game, Bevan is the big hitter, the clean-up man, the slugger from South Wales. Farther down in the batting lineup, unmentioned even by the students of the box score, there may be a quieter player who could one day make the boys in the bleacher seats sit up and take notice.

Some Labor men will tell you, in other words, that if it ever came to a vote of the parliamentary party James Griffiths, former Colonial Minister, might well prove more acceptable than Bevan.

Bevan's solid following is limited to about a dozen members. The rest applaud his fleshy intervention in the Commons, but when pinch might be more attracted to Griffiths, another former miner with some of the same Welsh fervor when roused but a man less open to charges of overweening personal ambition.

WARDROOM ART, SOVIET STYLE — Something new was added to U.S. icebreakers Westwind and Northwind just returned by Russia, which used the ships during World War II. The American crews who brought the ships to South Boston naval annex found Soviet posters aboard. Poster at left reads: "They (fight) for peace." Second poster, with a picture of Joseph Stalin, bears his father's name, and below it, the name of a Baltic city. Posters are held by George Hubert, Worcester, Mass., left, and Attilo Valentino, Winchester, Mass.

Charge Ottawa Blocks Plan For Society

OTTAWA, March 6 — (CP) — Delegates to the Co-operative Union of Canada annual congress Wednesday charged that federal government advisors were blocking establishment of a national co-operative credit society.

The charges came mainly from Isaac, of Antigonish, N.S., secretary of the 22,000-member Nova Scotia Co-operative Union.

Both referred to the federal government's rejection on constitutional grounds of an application last year to incorporate a national co-operative credit society.

Co-op Farms

REGINA—(CP)—Nine new co-operative farms were organized in Saskatchewan during 1951, reports H. E. Chapman; of the Provincial epartment of Co-operation. Saskatchewan now has 29 co-operative farms with total assets of more than $1,000,000.

Over-Population Big Trouble Doctor Claims

OTTAWA, March 6 (CP). — Senator J. P. Howden (L.-Manitoba), a medical doctor, said on Wednesday over-population has provoked the wars and troubles of the 20th century.

Moving the address in reply to the speech from the throne in the upper chamber, he welcomed the appointment of Canadian-born Vincent Massey as Governor-General as "a sign of growing-up and putting on the garments of nationhood."

He dismissed as "the idlest of talk" any suggestions that the naming of a Canadian will weaken ties with the crown, adding "I feel that the ties will be stronger and more intimate."

Senator Howden said he does not think the Korean war arose because one nation seeks to force its ideology on the world.

"I think not," he said, "because that nation itself has forsaken that ideology."

"Maybe I am sticking my neck out but I believe that over-population has been the underlying irritant that has set the war gods going in most of our troubles for the last half century. Jealousy in an over-crowded South Africa republic started things frying there in 1899. Overcrowded Germany burst her bonds in 1914 and again with Italy and Japan in 1939."

Trial Delayed By Argument Over Statement

CORNWALL, March 6 (CP)— The murder trial of farmhand Elias Meek, charged with the stabbing death of Mrs. Allan Alguire last September 28, bogged down Wednesday in legal argument over the admissability of a statement.

Inspector James Blackladder, of Cornwall township police, said the statement was made by Meek after his arrest.

Mr. Justice H. A. Aylen ruled the statement could not be admitted as evidence because it was not a voluntary one. Part of the prescribed police warning to the accused was omitted, he said. Inspector Blackladder said some of Meek's answers were written down in his (Blackladder's) own words.

The jury was excluded during argument over the statement.

Meek was arrested 14 hours after the body of Mrs. Alguire was found on a walk near her farm home 10 miles north of here. Knife wounds six inches deep pierced her chest and there were signs of a beating about the head and abdomen.

Five Federal By-Elections Expected Before June Ends

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 6 — (CP)—A miniature general election may be held in late spring or early summer. Five of the 262 House of Commons seats now are vacant, and a sixth is a possibility. The government may decide to fill all the vacancies at the same time, through by-elections in late May or mid-June.

Present vacancies are in the Federal constituencies of Victoria-Carleton, N.B.; Outremont-St. Jean, Que.; Brome-Missisquoi, Que.; Waterloo North, Ont., and the constituency of Ontario, around Oshawa, Ont.

Another possible vacancy is the constituency of Gloucester, N.B.

ber for the riding, is being mentioned for a post on the New Brunswick bench.

Present standing in the Commons: Lib. 183; P.C. 45; C.C.F. 13; Social Credit 10; Ind. 4; Ind.-L. 2; vacant 5. Total 262.

The government has until April 10 to fix a date for a by-election in Ontario constituency, vacant by resignation last October of Walter Thomson, who left the Federal House to lead the Liberal party in the Ontario provincial election. There is a statutory requirement that a by-election date must be decided within six months after a seat becomes vacant.

The government however could announce in April that the Ontario riding by-election would be held in May or June, along with others needed to fill vacancies.

Old Liberal Seat

Te Liberals have held Ontario constituency almost continuously since it was established in 1924. Liberal members were returned from 1926 until 1948 when Arthur Williams, C.C.F. candidate, won the seat in a by-election. Mr. Thomson regained the seat for the Liberals in the 1949 general election.

In that election, Mr. Thomson polled 13,412 votes compared with 9,803 for F. N. McCallum of the Progressive Conservatives and 9,344 for Mr. Williams.

Waterloo North became vacant in January when the Liberal member for the riding — L. O. Breithaupt—was appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario.

In the 1949 election, Mr. Breithaupt had 11,601 votes; W. J. Graber, Progressive Conservative, 10,105; and G. Milling, C.C.F., 625.

In general elections and by-elections since Confederation, Waterloo North has returned a Liberal 78 times and a Conserva-

Quebec Vacancies

In Quebec, the Outremont-St. Jean vacancy was caused by the recent appointment of Hon. Edouard Rinfret to the Quebec court of Queen's Bench.

The seat, established in the redistribution of 1947, gave Mr. Rinfret 16,215 votes in the last general election. His sole opponent, A. Belanger, of the Progressive Conservatives, obtained 5,030.

Brome-Missisquoi, another consistently Liberal seat, was made vacant through the recent death of Henri Gosselin, who carried the seat for the Liberals in the last election with 8,831 votes. V. Leonard, Progressive Conservative, obtained 6,266; G. A. Chevalier, of L'Union Des Electeurs, 396, and G. M. St. Amour, C.C.F., 279.

In New Brunswick, the Victoria-Carleton vacancy resulted from the January death of H. H. Hatfield, Progressive Conservative. Mr. Hatfield held it successively from 1940.

In the last election, Mr. Hatfield polled 10,429 votes against 8,539 for D. R. Bishop, his Liberal opponent.

French Crisis Causes Touch Of Impatience

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 6 — (CP) — The French crisis is regarded here as the most serious Britain's Gallic neighbor has encountered in modern times.

For the first time, a touch of impatience can be detected in British reaction to French perversity. Instead of the half-amused sighs of resignation which usually greet another "waltz of portfolios," editorial comment is to the effect that there wouldn't be a crisis at all if only Frenchmen would pay their taxes.

British politicians, too, are aware of the dangers of a breakdown of parliamentary government in France and this may explain the somewhat belated signs of sympathy for a British contribution to the European defence community which have been noted here lately.

As portrayed here, the problem is that of a country with everything it needs, including abundant resources and a hard-working artisan class, corrupted by an almost mediaeval fiscal system. A recent report by a French finance commission estimated that the government is cheated out of the equivalent of £400,000,000 in taxes every year.

Devious Methods

Persons in France paid set sums by an employer can't get away with much, though their allowances and exemptions tend to keep their payments small by most western standards. The real evaders are the industrialists and the shopkeepers. Latest available figures show that 27,000 French building contractors declared an annual average profit equivalent to £300.

Shopkeepers, who also by their own admission manage to keep their profits small, avoid turnover, luxury and excess-profits taxes through the fiscal general practice of handling transactions without invoice.

"There is one solution in France . . . that Frenchmen should pay their taxes," says the Spectator, a right-wing British weekly. "If they did, there would be no real need to think up new ones."

Efforts have been made to reform the French taxation set-up but a combination of vested interests always block the way. In the present crisis the same story is being repeated.

But there are no signs yet that Labor is looking for a new leader. That Attlee still remains the mentary party was indicated in Tuesday's vote at a private meeting of M.P.s, which in effect revealed a 3-1 preference for Attlee over Bevan.

Italy's Worker Federation Under Control Of Commies

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

ROME, March 6—(AP)—The Communists evidently are organizing furiously in Italy to build their Trojan horse, Moscow's 1952 version of the storied steed that broke the defences of ancient Troy.

The chain of command from Cominform through the World Federation of Trade Unions and into Italian labor is easily discernible.

The Communists, in control of the big General Confederation of Italian Labor, have imposed a high-level, hard-core command over the unions, and the command is organized down to the factory level.

Giuseppe di Vittorio, a Moscow-trained Communist, has installed in each factory what he calls a "peace committee." This committee is the cell through which the Communists will exercise their control when and if the chips are down.

Foreign observers in Rome have little doubt these committees are the "action committees" of the future, ready to react swiftly in the event of crisis. The Tabel "peace committee" clearly shows the influence of the Cominform and the W.F.T.U.

The C.G.I.L. is one of three major labor organizations in Italy, and by far the strongest. It claims more than 5,000,000 members, although a more accurate figure probably would be 3,500,000. The non-Communist unions are represented by the Confederation of Italian Trade Unions, claiming more than 2,000,000 members but probably having only 1,400,000, and the United Italian Labor, with 400,000 members, mostly Socialists.

The Italian Communist command includes strongmen Palmiro Togliatti, Pietro Secchia and Luigi Longo.

All are Moscow-brand communists. Togliatti, 59, a veteran of fascist jails, is a scholar who knows how to use words with telling effect. While he still seems to be the boss and to enjoy the favor of Moscow, a large body of opinion in Rome is that he would be displaced in a time of crisis.

The man who might take over is Secchia, 49, a tough, Moscow-trained communist who is a member of the Italian Senate. He did a five-year stretch in jail for organizing labor in Turin during the fascist regime.

Longo, 52, is considered a powerful behind-the-scenes string puller.

Canadian Cattle Win In Cuba Exhibition

TORONTO, March 6 — (CP) — Cattlemen here learned Wednesday that 81 Jersey cattle, Canada's first exhibit in the International Exhibition at Havana, Cuba, last week carried off most of the top prizes in their classes. All the cattle were sold in Cuba.

Manor Avonc Val's Bas, bred by William Davis and Son, Palmero, Ont., and shown by Hays Ltd., of Oakville, won the grand championship male prize. All the cattle were shown by Hays.

Four animals sired by Brampton Jest Beacon, owned by George H. Ihnes, of Woodstock, won the get-of-one-sire award.

3-Man Commission Suggested For C.N.E.

TORONTO, March 6 — (CP) — Controller Louis Shannon wants to replace the present 33-man Canadian National Exhibition board of directors with a three-man commission, he said in effect at Wednesday's board of control meeting.

Members of the three-man commission would be the mayor of Toronto, a non-member of the city council appointed by the council and one appointed by the province.

V.C.'s Widow Dies

OAKVILLE, March 6—(CP) — Mrs. Mary B. Kerr, widow of Capt. George Kerr, V.C., died Tuesday night. She was born in Centreville and spent her early life in Newburg. She was married in 1924. Survivors include Brig. W. G. Beeman of Kingston, a brother.

Locate Missing Girl

TORONTO, March 6—(CP). — Linda Putnik, 16, whose father is dying in hospital here, was located Wednesday night in Windsor, Ont., after being missing for 11 days. Her father, Julius Putnik, has been asking to see his daughter but surgeons were afraid to tell him she was missing for fear of causing a relapse.

Best Possible Training Given Boys Who Carry Paper Routes

Urge your boys to carry newspaper routes says Dr. George W. Crane in his column "The Worry Clinic". Circulation managers are the best professors of practical economics, he goes on to say. Newspaper boys operate their own businesses. They learn gumption and salesmanship, diligence to duty, applied psychology and credit management.

Dr. Crane then tells of an interesting case.

Jimmy B., aged 14, is a high school freshman.

"Dr. Crane, he wants to have a newspaper route," his college-educated mother informed me.

"But I feel that he would be tied down unduly. If the weather is bad, the newspaper boys must still deliver their papers.

"And Jimmy doesn't really need the money, for my husband makes a good salary. So do you think I ought to encourage him in carrying a newspaper route?"

YES, AND here is what all of you mothers and fathers ought to keep in mind.

Carrying a newspaper route is the BEST possible training for youth in our "free enterprise" system.

For it lets boys operate their own private business. They work on the "small merchant" plan by which they buy their papers wholesale from the newspaper.

Then they must use modern merchandising methods to sell them. Even if they already have a route of possibly 100 customers, it is to their advantage to recruit new customers, for they make more money thereby, and gain bonuses.

Money management is one of the blind spots of modern schooling, but circulation managers make up for this lapse by their wonderful training of 500,000 newspaper boys each year.

For newspaper carriers must collect from customers and keep books. Sometimes they lose 70c or more when an unscrupulous person moves without paying up.

Newspapers reward their carriers very generously with various prizes, including all-expense trips.

They often make college scholarships available to them, too. But the boys themselves learn to be [illegible] of money.

Mothers, even if your husbands earn $1,000 per week, it is still valuable for your sons to carry newspaper routes.

In fact, it would be worth it, even if you parents had to pay your local newspaper a "tuition" fee just to permit your boys to gain this valuable practical education, for circulation managers are the best professors of economics in Canada.

The sons of millionaires often become profligate spenders and ne'er-do-wells, chiefly because they have never learned the value of money.

They may have no practical gumption at all regarding business methods. For they can't "catch" business gumption from their Dads. No, they must learn it by themselves.

Carrying a newspaper route under the "small merchant" plan thus ranks next to membership in the Boy Scouts in character building.

Surveys also show that newspaper carriers rank above average in both health, as well as in school marks.

The also make ideal Canadian citizens, and stable husbands in later life. Newspaper boys do not become Communists. They are the very best roofers for Canada's "free enterprise" system.

Aid To Farmers Leading Topic For Commons

OTTAWA, March 6 (CP)—The Commons today got down to other business but foot-and-mouth disease among Saskatchewan livestock and the government's plans to help farmers injured by it still were the centre of attention.

The Commons Wednesday gave third hearing and sent to the Senate the government's bill to loosen the federal purse strings for those whose herds must be destroyed to check foot-and-mouth disease.

The bill went through the Commons in a fast three days. But in that time the results of the outbreak of the disease began to appear among interests other than the farmers who will receive federal aid.

The packing industry was faced with layoffs if the movement of livestock remained in a state of near-paralysis as a result of interprovincial and international embargoes.

Main Topics

The interprovincial bans by British Columbia, Manitoba, Quebec and Nova Scotia on livestock and meats will be one of the main topics discussed at a forthcoming Dominion-Provincial conference.

During debate on the government's measures for aid to the farmers, Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced that such a conference will be held at the earliest possible moment. He indicated he felt the provincial bans were unconstitutional.

The United States embargo on livestock, hay and straw remained in force. That was a factor in the threatened layoffs in the packing industry.

Union officials in Calgary estimated that by the middle of next week 1,500 meat packing employees will be out of work out of the 7,000 in Western Canada.

The forecast lay-offs of 750 in Winnipeg, 400 in Edmonton, 225 in Southern Saskatchewan and 150 in Calgary. Already 100 were out of work in Toronto.

These sections of the industry would not come under the government's expanded aid to the industry. The legislation provides [illegible] assistance to farmers whose livestock, buildings and crops are destroyed in stamping out the easily-spread disease.

Only for Farmers

The compensation will apply only to farmers within the 50-square-mile quarantined area around Regina.

If the various embargoes result in surplus of meat in Canada, Agriculture Minister Gardiner promised that every effort will be made to sell either in the United Kingdom or elsewhere.

Livestock markets continued unsettled. Quebec's controls on livestock import caused the Montreal livestock to come to virtual standstill. At Toronto, prices were down from $50 to $125 a head.

During its three hearings in the Commons, the government's emergency bill survived several opposition attempts to change it.

An argument moved by John Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre) was ruled out of order. It would have made compensation to farmers payable on the basis of "economic value" of cattle destroyed. The government's bill provides for "fair and reasonable" compensation.

On third reading, Mr. Diefenbaker tried to have the bill sent back for reconsideration of his amendment but was defeated 130 to 50.

Not a Candidate

OTTAWA, March 6 — (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson confirmed Wednesday that he is not a candidate for the job of N.A.T.O. Secretary-General and could not take it if it were offered to him. He told a reporter: "I am not a candidate for this high and responsible position and regret that I could not accept it if I were asked to do so."

Mrs. Weir Heads Norwood IODE

NORWOOD, March 6 (ENS).—The annual meeting of the 40th Northumberland Chapter I.O.D.E. was held in Norwood Legion Hall.

Reports were received from all secretaries and treasurers, and showed that the year had been a successful one. Contributions had been made to national and provincial funds, monthly food boxes had been sent overseas to aged people, also a total of 90 knitted or made articles sent for British and European relief.

Prizes had been presented to High School pupils for proficiency in English History, and the Kiwanis musical festival entry fee paid for the Public School choir.

A contribution had been made to the salary of the swimming instructor for the village swimming pool, and assistance given to enable a crippled child to take swimming lessons in Peterborough. Shut-ins were remembered and many worthy causes assisted.

The following were elected to office for the coming year: Hon. regent, Mrs. Walter Bitten; regent Mrs. Armar M. Weir; first vice-regent, Mrs. W. H. Giffen; second [illegible] recording secretary and press, Mrs. C. A. Copp; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Percy Kempt; treasurer, Mrs. Aubrey A. Waddell; standardbearer, Mrs. George Bitten; educational secretary, Mrs. W. E. Metcalfe; councillors, Mrs. Charles Puffer, Mrs. Arthur Spring, Mrs. Rod. Webb, Mrs. A. R. Atkinson; convener membership, Mrs. W. H. Giffen; convener for services at home and abroad, Mrs. Gerald W. La Brash.

Following the election of officers Mrs. Weir, regent, thanked members for their splendid work.

Plans were made for a St. Patrick's tea and sale at King's Hotel on March 15, and a salvage drive in April, and a euchre in the near future.

Closing exercises brought the meeting to a close, and tea was served by Mrs. Percy Kempt and Mrs. Rod Webb.

Milk Drivers Reject Offer From Dairies

TORONTO, March 6 (CP)—The Milk Drivers' Union (A.F.L.) has rejected a proposal by Toronto dairies for delivery of milk five days a week and has applied for conciliation in its wage dispute with the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association.

A spokesman for the dairies said Wednesday the restricted delivery was advanced as a means of raising wages without increasing milk prices.

Approve Legislation

ALBANY, N.Y., March 6 (AP) —Legislation to kill a 66-year-old [illegible] was approved Wednesday by the Assembly. The controversial repealer, backed by Governor Thomas E. Dewey but fought by the State's $350,000,000 dairy industry, was sent to the Senate after the Assembly cleared it 90 to 52.

Which Will Correctly Predict Spring, Gauge Day Or District Horses Shedding Hair?

Would you like a sure-fire method for predicting what spring is going to be like? So would we The best methods obtainable are clashing The prospects are for a highly mixed up next three months.

Today is guage day. This is the day—the first Thursday in the third month—that is supposed to set the pattern for the next three months.

The prospect isn't too pleasant. The day started off at a brisk 11 degrees at 9 a.m. A warm sun that made a brief appearance at noon helped to heat things up to 18 degrees.

But then it clouded over again. The weatherman predicted that Friday would be much the same. The best we could expect was sunny skies, but cold.

That is what we can expect on into June.

On the other hand, horses are shedding their hair in handfuls. And that's a sure sign, say country experts. It means that we are going to have a warm, early spring. And there are many groundhogs going about their business. That is another good sign.

So who knows. Either gauge day will be shown up for a fraud or every horse in the district is going to catch the flu.

Collapsed

A collapsible chair did just that at a bingo in the Legion Hall Wednesday night. When the chair she was sitting on fell apart unexpectedly, Mrs. Elizabeth Bauch, 71, 86 Morrow St., fell to the floor and injured her head. She was given out-patient treatment at Civic Hospital, where four stitches were required to close the cut she received, when she struck the back of her head on another chair as she fell.

100 Policemen Attend Annual Dinner

More than 100 district police officers attended the Kawartha Police Association's annual banquet and ladies' night held at the Kawartha Club Wednesday night.

The evening of entertainment and dancing began with a ham steak dinner at 7:30, followed by a short address by Inspector Allan Stringer of O.P.P. district 8 headquarters.

In his remarks, Inspector Stringer emphasized the importance of co-operation between local and provincial police departments in effective law enforcement Inspector Stringer praised the good relations which he said exist between many police departments in the Kawartha district and expressed the hope that they will not only continue to remain so in the future, but that they will become even closer.

High point of the evening's entertainment for the policemen from Lindsay, Campbellford, Havelock, and Lakefield was the humorous story telling and musical entertainment provided by James Millen.

Mr. Millen is a public relations executive of John Labatt Co., of London, and is well known as a raconteur and entertainer throughout the province, and is much in demand as a service club speaker.

President Harold Andrew introduced Inspector Stringer and thanked the guest entertainer Mr. Millen. Don Mackay introduced Mr. Millen.

Out of town policemen attending included: Chief George Hardy of Campbellford and O.P.P. Constable Donald Erskine, also of Campbellford; Chief Garnet Samis of Lakefield, and members of the Lindsay town police force.

Inspector and Mrs. Allan Stringer, Mr. Millen, Harold Andrew, president of the Kawartha Police Association and Mrs. Andrew and Harold Mesley, vice-president of the association and Mrs. Mesley were seated at the head table.

Louis Rodreque said grace.

Third World War Not Imminent Says J. C. Reade

War between the eastern and western powers is not imminent John Collinwood Reade, noted radio news commentator said during an address in P.C.V.I. auditorium Wednesday night.

Mr. Reade addressed approximately 600 people at this year's speaker's evening sponsored annuolly by the Peterborough Teacher's Institute. This year, the speaker's evening was held in conjunction with Peterborough's observance of Education Week.

"There is a tendency towards peace rather than war in international relations," Mr. Reade said. "The present situation is not nearly as fierce as has been painted. There is nothing going on now with regard to national antagonisms and economic strife that hasn't gone on many times before. We are making it out to be much more than it actually is."

Mr. Reade went on to state that he would not say war would not take place in the future, but that in his opinion it is not near at hand. He explained that he based his opinion on the fact that the world is now divided into two armed halves of which are so powerful that they are afraid to launch a world war.

"Neither side is willing to undertake what looks like total destruction," Mr. Reade stated.

Russia he believed to be particularly afraid of war because of the present flimsiness of her national structure. He pointed out that Russia is not sufficiently confident that enough loyalty or unity of action could be commanded to face the combined forces of the west and survive.

Turning to the trouble in the Middle East, the news commentator said that the fact that Russia had had to resort to cold war tactics and shove someone else into action shows she is afraid.

"This cold war is a war of indoctrination, and although it has been successful in some respects, it has tended to drive the countries of the western world into each others' arms," he added.

Mr. Reade went on to say that there are other trends in the world which are more upsetting than the present international situation. He pointed to centralized industrialization as one of the most important trends, and called it one of the greatest incitements to violence.

With its uninteresting jobs and unpleasant living conditions such concentration ot industrialization is not conducive to good living, because people are not able to fulfill themselves in their work and are given no other compensations.

"The trade unions are working for these compensations in higher wages and shorter hours. But in this age of transportation, we should develop the garden city instead of the industrial city with its slums," the speaker said.

Mr. Reade called upon the churches and schools to help modern man to fulfill himself.

"The purpose of education in this country is to educate people first for living and then for making a living. Otherwise professional men who are entrusted with the greatest power in our communities are wielding this power without wisdom or a practical philosophy of life.

"In this education week I would call for stress on education showing how to live, how to enjoy life and how to live so that others enjoy life."

Mr. Reade said that he believed that the theory of the whole man should be emphasized in these times. That all the multiple parts of man and not only a few of them be considered in our educational system and way of life.

"Every man should remember that no matter to what class, group or sect he belongs, he always has responsibilities and duties to the whole of society. And remembering this he should live with tolerance, moderation, temperance and justice."

Mr. Reade was introduced by W. B. Gordon, chairman of the Board of Education, and thanked by Harvey Wilson, of Prince of Wales School.

Chairman of the evening was Miss Clara Doughty, of Queen Mary School and president of the Peterborough Teachers' Institute.

Musical entertainment was provided at the beginning of the evening by the P.C.V.S. Choral Group under the direction of M. J. Curtis. The group sang three Negro spirituals, "Little David Play On Your Harp," "Hear Dem Bells," and "Deep River"; "Red River Valley" and the "Vesper Hymn."

FOUR PETERBOROUGH YOUTHS in a 1933 model car, and blinded by headlights, crashed into the box of a dump truck on Highway 28 opposite Winona Camp at 10:30 Wednesday night. Kenneth Saunders, 16, of 610 Lundy's Lane, is in hospital with concussion and possible fractured skull. His pals, though injured, were not taken to hospital. The car, owned and driven by Raymond Nolan, had the complete right side ripped out in the crash.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Unemployment Increases Slightly To New High

Unemployment in the Peterborough district continued to increase during February to reach a new post-war high for the second time this year. The National Employment Office reported that 2,088 men and women from the city and district were drawing unemployment insurance at the end of February. A record high for the district was reached in January when the unemployed total went over the 2,000-mark. This record high came only one week after the previous record low was struck in July, when only 500 men and women were reported unemployed.

The February total was 588 more than the same time last year.

Despite the record high, working conditions in Peterborough are better than a year ago. William Mellis, office manager, pointed out that in February there were 1,062 men and women from the city drawing money as compared with 1,094 in 1951.

Situation Improving

Mr. Mellis said that employment conditions are beginning to become better. The Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company and the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Company have been reported hiring help. At the same time conditions are poor at the Western Clock Company and fair at the C.G.E., the Dominion Woollens and Worsted Company, and the Peterborough Lock Company. Some of these companies are working a four-day week.

The unemployment peak is due to the poor conditions in the district where 1,026 men and women are unemployed as compared with only 406 at the same time a year ago.

Mr. Mellis blames the high district unemployment on the layoffs in Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor, London industries. He explained that a number of these people, originally from the district, have returned to their homes and they are waiting until working conditions are better.

Hard Hit

Campbellford has been hit hardest by the sales slump which has also affected Peterborough industries this winter. Three companies, the Campbellford Cloth (including the Toronto Carpet Company), the Gair Company and the Briethaupt Leather Company, have been forced to cut to short work weeks and lay off some help.

The unemployed there, numbering in 229 men and women, has forced the Peterborough office to open an auxiliary office in Campbellford twice a week. Then the people are paid and new claims taken, if there are any.

The other 797 unemployed are scattered through the district which includes Haliburton, Victoria, Peterborough counties, parts of Durham and Northumberland.

The office reported only 33 jobs were available at the end of February as compared with 77 last year. These jobs require experienced machinists, toolmakers, draftsmen, stenographers and typists.

Council Asked End School Area

DOURO, March 6.—A deputation Monday asked Douro township council to dissolve the present School Area 2, and revert to to the original sections. The deputation presented two petitions, one signed by five Otonabee ratepayers, the other by five Douro ratepayers.

Council took no action, as they could find no provisions in the Public School Act allowing a township council to dissolve a school area.

K. O. Birkin, Inspector of schools for Peterborough east, attended the meeting with Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H. for Peterborough. Dr. Kelly spoke on the formation of a health unit, and estimated the cost per person per year would be 65 cents.

Jerry Mahoney was appointed to enforce the Warble Fly Control Act. Treasurer's salary was fixed at $360 yearly.

General township accounts ordered paid totalled $705.20, road accounts were $1,632.84, and relief $291. Frank Payne's application for insurance coverage on the township truck, Workmen's compensation, public liability and property damage was accepted with premiums respectively of $60.54, $40.25, $132.50.

Minor Accidents DoSlightDamage

Seven minor traffic accidents were reported to city police Wednesday. There were no injuries, and in most cases, there was only slight property damage to the vehicles.

Stewart Grant, 262 Wolfe St., was driving east on Wolfe St., Wednesday morning, and as he approached the CNR crossing, a yard engine was backing south.

He told police he heard the engine and applied his brakes, but skidded in front of it. Grant's truck was pushed about 35 feet by the slow moving engine before engineer Monte Chemilion of 78 Glenely St., Lindsay, could bring it to a stop.

The left front fender of the truck was crushed and torn, and the cab body was badly damaged.

Wednesday night, Stuart Frey, 105 Princess St., was travelling south on George St., when his car went into a skid on the icy street surface and slid into a parked car owned by George McPhail, 53 Alfred St. An estimated $125 dollars damage resulted to McPhail's car, and $25 dollars damage to the Frey car.

In the other accidents, cars escaped with banged fenders as icy streets made driving more difficult.

Expansion Of Grace United Discussed By Committee

The immediate future of Grace United Church on Monaghan Road at Howden Ave. is being considered today by the Home Missions Committee of the Bay of Quinte Conference meeting in Belleville.

The Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United Church is submitting from the Presbytery to the committee the question of making a canvass of church members of the area which would include Stewart's Hall in Otonabee as to supporting a regular minister.

Grace United has been virtually a mission church with the Rev. E. W. Roland as minister. It has been growing to such an extent in membership and activities that it is now generally considered as having passed through the foundation stage.

Rev. Mr. Rowland retired from active duty at Mark St. United, but accepted the temporary responsibility of ministerial leadership at Grace.

The project includes the addition of the Otonabee community and also the matter of the Home Missions Committee providing assistance in the building of a new larger and permanent church for the future in that new section of the city on either side of Monaghan Road south.

The Grace United Church property was a gift from the late Hon. G. N. Gordon who at one time had a considerable holding of land in that area, as suburban part of the North Monaghan township prior to annexation.

Mr. Gordon designated an ample area for a future United Church site, and the congregation of Grace has been the outcome of his vision of the development of Peterborough in that direction.

City To Take Step Toward Land Agreement

Mayor Waddell has called a special meeting of the council for 5 p.m. today to pass a bylaw committing the city to the Land Assembly Project involving eventually the incorporation of approximately 1,000 acres of Smith township farmland.

The bylaw is expected to have the effect of giving a more definite tilt in growth of the city to the north.

It authorizes the city to enter into agreement with the Ontario Government and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

This prospective development was reported some weeks ago. It will embrace a broad belt of farming area immediately north of the city between the Chemong Road and the Peterborough Lakefield Highway. The Sanderson, Hetherington and Stalker farms are the largest components which join together along that southeast margin of Smith from the Roy Sanderson place to the vicinity of the city's waterworks.

Approval of the agreement immediately ensures the performance of the options to buy those farms.

The government acquires the land, and the city will be obligated to provide community services, such as roads, sewers and so on.

One result of this decision of the council is the switching of the course of the city's expansion from the south and west. The northern suburb has been taking shape as home-seekers crossed the Smith boundary and bought building lots. With the Land Assembly Project established for Peterborough, the haphazard development in that section will become more orderly and organized.

The essence of the Land Assembly plan is that properties may be purchased by people wishing to erect houses in blocks or in single dewellings.

It is understood that the property values are fixed, and that there can be no increase to people who buy lots from the administering commission that is to be set up by the government.

Call For Tenders For Wading Pool

The Lions Club is calling for tenders for the wading pool they plan to build in McKellar Park. President Jim McCulloch hopes the pool will be ready by mid-June.

Built of cement, the pool will be 50 feet square, with a four-foot catwalk around the outside. Water will be six inches deep at the edge and 18 inches deep in the centre of the pool.

Water will all be chlorinated, and the pool will be supervised at all times.

Side Of Car Ripped Out In Crash With Truck, Hitchhiker's Skull Injured

Kenneth Saunders May Have Fractured Skull As Car Hits Rear Of Parked Dump Truck On Highway 28

A Peterborough youth is in Civic hospital with concussion and a possible fractured skull after a collision late Wednesday night on Highway 28 between a car and the left rear end of a dump truck. Three other occupants of the car were also injured, though not taken to hospital. Most seriously hurt was Kenneth Saunders, 16, of 610 Lundy's Lane. He was in the right rear seat of the southbound car as it crashed into the back of the dump truck.

The box of the dump truck ripped out the whole right side of the 1933-model car, causing concussion to Saunders, as well as a possible fractured skull. His right temple was punctured and he also received a deep cut over the right eye as well as other facial cuts.

His condition is said to be satisfactory by hospital authorities.

Ducked Out Of Way

Only a last minute lurch by Fred Griffin, 16, of 733 Water St. saved him from being decapitated.

Griffin was sitting in the right front seat of the car. The driver, Raymond Nolan, 21, of 433 Downey St., lost sight of the road in front of him when blinded by the headlights of an oncoming motorist. And he did not see the dump truck which was parked, partly off the highway.

Ken Saunders

Griffin told The Examiner that he, too, was blinded by the headlights.

"But a second or so before the impact I saw a big object coming toward me," he said. "I ducked toward the driver. And I can't remember anything after that until I got out of the car."

As it was he received cuts on the right side of his forehead, right ear, and scrapes and bruises on his right arm and side.

Nolan, the driver, was given outpatient treatment at Civic for bruises on his chest, a cut on the upper part of his left leg and a scrape on his right shin.

The fourth occupant was Jack Harrison, 16, of 711 Aylmer St. He received a cut on the right side of his head and a deep cut on his nose. At first it was thought his nose was broken.

Confirmed Story.

Harrison confirmed the tale of the other occupants that the glare of the headlights blanked out the highway in front of them.

"I wasn't looking closely in front of us,' he said. "I was more interested in seeing if the northbound car would dim its lights. Just a couple of seconds before we struck I saw the truck. Then I was thrown forward against the back of the front seat."

Nolan picked up the three 'teen-aged youths on the outskirts of Lakefield. They were hitchhiking back after visiting a friend in the village.

Unknown to him the construction truck, driven by Elmer Kelly of Bancroft had run out of gas and had been pulled off to the right of the highway, as far as the snow would permit.

Kelly had refilled his tank and was just preparing to pull away when the Nolan car crashed into his rear. The car then veered acrossed the highway and stopped in the driveway of the Winona tourist camp, a mile and a half north of the city.

The car is a complete wreck and the truck received about $200 damage.

OPP Constable Roy Feeley investigated.

No Layoffs Yet In City Over Sick Cattle

Slow marketing has not yet hit Canada Packers in Peterborough with the same impact as it has in Toronto, Calgary and Vancouver.

To date there have been no employees laid off at C.P. here, company officials say.

Company officials, when queried by The Examiner, refused to comment on future employment prospects. But this week it is known that there has been a decline in the usual number of cattle and hogs slaughtered.

Either the packers aren't buying or the farmers aren't selling.

The decline in the number of livestock in the stockyards is attributed to the ban on cattle from the west since the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease out there.

In Peterborough this doesn't apply. The packers here get their livestock direct from local farmers and drovers.

100 Off In Toronto

In Toronto the United Packinghouse Workers (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) report that 100 men have been laid off by Canada Packers and 50 by Swift Canadian. And the union is asking the Ontario government to compensate unemployment workers who have been laid off because of the declining market.

Calgary union officials estimated that 1,500 meat packing employees will be out of work by the middle of next week.

Vancouver is also facing extensive layoffs.

In some places packing plant workers have agreed to work 36 hours instead of a 40-42 hour week to spread the work around.

Norman Riches, western director of the U.P.W.A. said that unless markets can be found for processed meat products all storage space will be filled. And this will mean that 50 per cent of western packing plant workers will be jobless.

There is also reported to be a demand for cold storage facilities right now in Peterborough.

The federal government is being asked by the union to compensate laid-off employees by making up the difference between lost wages and their unemployment insurance benefits.

FIREMEN POUR tons of water on the blazing structure housing the Montreal Repertory Theatre in downtown Montreal as flames and sparks, fanned by high winds, spread to two adjoining apartment biuldings in a recent three-alarm fire that left two persons dead and 300 homeless. The intense heat soon caused the roof of the 60-unit Grosvenor Apartments to catch fire and before many minutes had passed flames were ripping through the top apartments.

Dollar Reserves At Low Point In Sterling Area

LONDON, March 6—(AP)—A qualified informant saidWednesday the sterling area's gold and dollar reserves have slipped below $2,000,000,000—long regarded as the minimum safety level.

There is some concern that by June 30 these reserves of the sterling area's capital for trade with the rest of the world—may sink as low as $1,600,000,000.

This would be only $250,000,000 more than the crisis level reached just before devaluation of the pound in September, 1949. From that low point of $1,350,000,000 the reserves had climbed almost to $4,000,000,000 by the middle of last year before the current decline started.

Some Good Omens

Gloomy as the British picture is, there are some counter-balancing omens. The informant said the drainage to the dollar area and to European countries still is going on, but at a much less alarming rate than at the close of last year.

Economists agree that the first half of this year is Britain's critical time. If the present difficulties are weathered, the going should be better in the second half. By that time the full effect of the austerity measures undertaken by Prime Minister Churchill's Government will have had time to make themselves felt.

The sterling area is made up of the British Commonwealth except Canada and a few small countries whose currency is linked with the pound.

Last Nov. 7 shortly after the Conservatives came into office, they announced import cuts amounting to $980,000,000 a year. Jan. 29 they tacked on an additional cut of $420,000,000.

The budget to be brought down March 11 will mark the third step in this campaign to hammer down the amount of goods Britain buys abroad.

Y.W.C.A. Has Served Community For 60 Years In Peterborough

By COLLETTE FERGUSON

What would happen if the Y.W.C.A. discontinued its services in Peterborough?

Immediately 60 girls, now in residence at the Y would be forced to seek new homes in the city.

events of the past for 425 girls and young women now attending swim classes at the Y pool.

Gymnasium, ballet and archery classes, games of basketball and badminton would cease for the 550 registered in these activities.

Thirteen Special Clubs

The 13 individual clubs and interest groups which include the activities of interior decorating, rug making, smocking, oil painting, square and folk dancing, current events, hobby nights and bowling sponsored and conducted by the Y would discontinue for the 540 girls and young women registered for them in 1951.

The YW.C.A. was organized in Peterborough 60 years ago to fill a need in the community. Today that need is still the reason for the Y's existence and the motivation behind its administration.

By meeting the needs of young women in this city, the Y provides an important service for the community. Through the Y, recreation for girls and young women is provided in the proper environment. Its activities are planned to develop in them a sense of responsibility and integrity that will make them better citizens.

To develop good physical and mental health there are the gymnasium and swimming pool activities, training in skills and leadership, and opportunities for friendship and broader interests through self-governing clubs and classes.

1,395 Members

In 1951, the Y had 1,395 members. There was an aggregate attendance at gym classes of 17,241 and a 10,409 aggregate attendance at swimming classes; 18,700 at club meeting and 5,565 at interest groups.

pass life saving examinations every year in the Y pool. Courses for instructors resulted in awards to 27 last year.

Swimming classes for young people handicapped by polio is another service the Y provides.

A group of 60 enjoy themselves and learn at the Y camp, Camp Kawartha, held each summer. And for those who must stay in the city a day camp provides camp activities.

In addition, the Y provides accommodation for meetings of city organizations. During the past year, 78 organizations held 290 meetings and social events with an aggregate attendance of 23,800.

Its role as an information bureau should not be forgotten in listing the Y's services. In this respect the Y provides a rooms' registry, counselling, travellers' aid and vocational guidance and an employment placement bureau.

In its residence the Y not only provides accommodation for girls working in the city but also for transient guests. Last year 432 girls, visiting the city, stayed at the Y.

The Y is only partially self-supporting. Because of this, money is needed from outside to maintain its services in the community. The Y is making an appeal for financial support through the Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign, March 7 to 15.

In 1951, the Y.W.C.A. received $13,500 from the community fund.

Partnership Still Undecided

TORONTO, March 6 (CP). — Ontario's partnership with the United States in the future development of hydro power on the St. Lawrence River is still unsettled and may not be decided until after the U.S. decides whether or not to join Canada in the St. Lawrence seaway project.

A reliable government source said Wednesday night there is a good chance of U.S. seaway participation and that such a development will dim the hopes of New York State's power authority for a share in the hydro development, which is tied in with the seaway plan.

The Ontario Legislature last night approved the principle of a bill ratifying a Federal-Ontario agreement for the province to undertake the hydro development in conjunction with an "appropriate authority" in the United States.

Since the end of the war, the New York State Power Authority has been prepared to partner Ontario in the development of the river's 2,200,000 horsepower at the international rapids.

The government source said on Wednesday night, however, that the Federal Government would likely step in as partner in the hydro plan if the U.S. Senate ratifies participation in the seaway canal project.

3 Policemen Found Guilty

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 6 — (AP)—A state supreme court jury Wednesday night found three police officials guilty of all 81 counts of charges of conspiracy, bribery and taking unlawful fees in Buffalo's second major pinball trial.

Convicted were Deputy Police Commissioner Glenn G. Pauley and Capts. Raymond J. Smith and George F. Tourjie.

They were indicted by a February, 1951, holdover grand jury on charges of extortion, bribery, conspiracy and taking unlawful fees in connection with the jury's charge that a pinball dealers association paid off certain officials to the tune of $100,000 during 1950.

My Favourite Time-Of-Day . . . when the dinner dishes are done and we relax by the fire for a quiet chat. And—haven't you noticed?—when the dinner's been specially good—it's a particularly happy time. That's why I'm sure HEINZ OVEN-BAKED BEANS will be one of your favourite main-course dishes. They're so easy to prepare in lots of budget-wise, taste-tempting ways . . . and they're always so delicious—mellow and mealy, with real baked-in savour. Yes, this famous meatless dish makes a happy meal . . . so easy on the budget and the cook—and so very easy to eat. You'll want to keep a supply of Heinz Beans always on hand to please the folks. And try Heinz Cooked Spaghetti, too—for the same reasons!

"Mothers-In-Law are mighty handy people—at least that's the way I feel about mine!", Alice said the other day. Her mother-in-law told her how to get sparkling white washes and Alice says she'll be forever grateful. She says it's so easy—so inexpensive—and it really works! Blue does the trick! Prevents clothes turning yellow. Just a swish or two of Blue in the final rinse and your wash will be snow white! And, when you use Blue, you're not taking chances with anything that might damage fabric for Blue is kind to all fabrics. Inexpensive, too. Costs just a few pennies a month for snowy, brilliant beautiful washes!

Yes, for the whitest wash, it's RECKITT'S Blue.

Is Dry Skin Stealing Your Youth? Those little dry-skin lines and tiny rough flakes can develop into a drab, permanently wrinkled complexion and make you look older than you are. But that needn't happen! You can do something about it at the very first warning. You can give your skin wonderful care . . . with WOODBURY DRY SKIN CREAM containing wonder-working Penaten. Penaten carries all the rich oils in this famous cream deeper into the corneum layer of the skin. Lanolin and 3 other special lubricating oils in Woodbury Dry Skin Cream are allowed to penetrate more thoroughly than ever before. So keep your skin youthful-looking with Woodbury Dry Skin Cream — 23c, 45c, 78c and $1.15.

Hoot Mon! But it's a bonny sight to me to see the way my budget is balancing these days. One of my thriftiest tricks is to serve Jell-O desserts — often. Try it, and see the family applaud this economy . . . because JELL-O JELLY POWDER desserts are so wonderfully tempting and flavorful. With 7 exciting "locked-in" flavors to choose from, each member of the family will have a favorite. And that fresh Jell-O flavor is locked right in each tiny particle until you release it by adding hot water. It's hard to believe — but perfectly true — Jell-O costs only about 2c a serving. Serve Jell-O desserts and salads regularly.

Good News! Just for you—the wonderful dorothy-jeanne Maternity Fashions to keep you looking your attractive best while you're waiting for Mr. Stork. Just wait 'til you see the versatile rayon suits and the pretty, 2-piece cotton dresses in a wide range of lovely colours. Their softly tailored lines, hand-finished details and adjustable double zippers are so figure-flattering. And you'll like their small price, too! Just $17.00 to $29.00. Then there are smartly tailored skirts, slacks, shorts, clam-diggers and separate tops. Yes, dorothy-jeanne Maternity Fashions will keep you well and comfortably dressed in town and country—summer and winter. Ask for them at better stores everywhere.

Like To Be A "Comparison Shopper"? Well, the folks at Blue Bonnet would like you to compare their margarine with any spread at any price. They're so sure you'll find, as thousands have, that BLUE BONNET MARGARINE is "tops" in flavour, nutrition—and economy!. Being a gal who likes a "bargain" . . . I've already compared Blue Bonnet with several other spreads and I agree—"Flavour! Nutrition! Econom-ee! Blue Bonnet Margarine gives all 3!" Just try it for yourself and see! Look for the fresh, bright yellow package with Blue Bonnet Sue on the front. I'm sure you'll thank me again and again—for introducing you to this budget-wise margarine with the delicate country-sweet flavour.

Wouldn't You Like 55% less tooth decay in your children's teeth (and yours)? It was proved in a 2-year test among school children: DENTOCILLIN, the original penicillin tooth powder, actually did reduce decay 55%—5 times the reduction reported for a famous university's ammoniated formula. And note: Because penicillin fights decay up to 24 hours after use, compared with only about ½ hour for anti-decay ingredients used in other dentifrices, Dentocillin is effective with just morning and evening brushing. Recommended by thousands of dentists for nearly 2 years. Gets teeth clean, tastes wonderful. Change to Dentocillin, now. 3 months' supply, 75c.

The Whole Family will be giving you compliments on this delicious fish dish . . . flavoured with the spicy excitement of SUNKIST CALIFORNIA LEMONS. M-mmm! Sunkist Lemons are the finest, juiciest lemons grown! Try them tonight with this Salmon Cheese Ring Loaf:—

3 Sunkist lemons (quartered)
2 c. (1 lb.) canned salmon
1 c. grated Canadian cheese
1 c. cracker crumbs
1 egg, beaten
2 tbsp. melted butter
1/4 c. Sunkist lemon juice
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. celery salt
Dash of pepper
2/3 c. milk

Drain and flake salmon, reserving 1/3 or 1/2 cup for decoration. Combine salmon with other ingredients, except the lemon quarters. Shape by hand into oval ring on oiled shallow baking dish. Top with reserved salmon flakes, dot with butter, bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 30 minutes, or until golden-brown. Fill center with hot parsley-buttered potatoes and garnish with Sunkist lemon quarters. Serve with medium-thick white sauce. Serves 6.

Having Fun? Aren't you glad you tried this pleasant, effective remedy for "The Blues"? Yes, speedy, sparkling SAL HEPATICA will transform you into the "Belle of the Ball" in no time! It brings fast, welcome relief from headaches due to irregularity, cold symptoms, stomach upsets or constipation. A glass of Sal Hepatica before breakfast or supper will make you feel like a new woman. You see, with Sal Hepatica there's no "Laxative Lag"—that feeling of discomfort that continues for hours 'til ordinary, slow-acting laxatives bring relief. Effective and safe for all members of your family, Sal Hepatica is a product of Bristol-Myers who also make BUFFERIN pain relief tablets.

Like Spring Flowers . . . the glorious colours of this spring's dress fabrics are such a delight to the eye you'll find it hard to decide which you want. And during this Sew and Save Week, the stores are blossoming with special displays of yard goods and all kinds of sewing essentials that are sure to make you want to start right in now so you'll be ready for the first sunny day this spring. But whether you favour rustling silk or soft delicate crepe, Lightning has a zipper specially made for such featherweight fabrics—their style No. 702. So slim and flexible, it practically disappears into the seam without wrinkles or bulges. And Lightning never lets you down—it always locks where it stops and can't slide until you move it yourself. Choose your LIGHTNING FASTENER Style 702 from 22 fashion-right colours to match your "fashions by the yard" this spring!

Running Out Of Ideas For Nutritious Lenten Meals? Then you'll be glad to know that on every package of KRAFT DINNER there are several helpful suggestions. And, of course, delicious "Kraft Dinner" is an ideal main dish for a Lenten meal. A wonderful macaroni-'n'-cheese combination—it cooks to tasty lightness in only 7 minutes . . . costs less than 4c a serving. And there are four servings in every package of "Kraft Dinner". So easy to prepare . . . "Kraft Dinner" is off the shelf—into the pot—onto the table. So for truly economical—completely delicious—jiffy-quick Lenten meals—ask your grocer tomorrow for "Kraft Dinner" in the new yellow and red package.

Are You Planning A Spring Wedding? Well, when all the excitement has died down—here's something I'd like you to remember. Something every bride should know about is that truly satisfactory method of feminine hygiene . . . ZONITORS. Zonitors are greaseless, stainless, snow-white vaginal suppositories—dainty and convenient to use—powerfully germicidal, yet absolutely safe to delicate tissues. Ask your druggist for Zonitors—and for some important facts about feminine hygiene—write to me—Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q. A free booklet will be sent to you in a plain wrapper.

Denies Post Office Ordered Deleting Words 'Royal Mail'

TORONTO, March 6—At no time have the Post Office authorities issued instructions for the deletion of "Royal Mail" from any property, whether that property belonged to the Government or not, Walter J. Turnbull, deputy postmaster general, told the Public Relations Association of Ontario at a luncheon here today.

Charges that orders had gone out to remove the words from mail-trucks and other installations were untrue, the deputy said. A "mare's nest" had been stirred up, compounded of equal parts of ignorance and, perhaps, malice.

"You can see the words 'Royal Mail' at any time on plenty of vehicles used in postal work," he said. "They are embossed on the boxes of the mail-collection systems in most hotels and larger office buildings. We have not interfered with them; we have no intention of doing so."

Why "Royal Mail" appeared only in spots and was not in general use was easily explained, declared Mr. Turnbull.

"The vehicles used to transport mail simply do not belong to the Post Office. They're the property of the mail-contractors — truck-owners and larger transportation companies. The trucks and vans are theirs, not ours."

When a contract was let for the carriage of mail, the contractor was also given the right to adorn his vehicle with the Canadian cot-of-arms and the Royal Cipher—the initials of the reigning monarch. Today, it is "E.R." (Elizabeth Regina). These are the official imprimateurs of royal authority, Mr. Turnbull said.

There was nothing new in that. The situation had prevailed since Confederation, the speaker said. When the Post Office gave a mail contractor official authority to use the national coat-of-arms and the Royal Cipher, it had done everything that lay within its power. The Post Office had no warrant to order contractors to inscribe "Royal Mail" on their vehicles and equally it had no warrant to order them to remove it.

"And we've never told them to remove it," Mr. Turnbull said.

Here was an instance where the public at large had not taken the trouble to check up or inform themselves if they were right or wrong. So, declared the deputy, "when Noah Webster defined a 'mare's nest' as something grossly absurd that is credulously believed to be genuine or true, you can see how aptly this pother about 'Royal Mail' falls into the classification."

FLOWN TO HOSPITAL—Four adult and three young Eskimos from Spence Bay and Arctic Bay arrive in Edmonton aboard an R.C.A.F. plane for treatment at the Charles Camsell Hospital. The plane previously had returned three convalescent Eskimos to their Arctic homes. Shown arriving in Edmonton are: Nina Noyak and her eight-month-old baby; Kaohoka Malla and Dr. W. Bryk of the Camsell Hospital, who flew with the plane to the north and back; Dorothy Mangak, 6, and Etook, holding Ernest Elijah. Another patient, Naloongeak, was a stretcher case.

Home and School Association News

OMEMEE, Mar. 6 (ENS)—Omemee Home and School sponsored open house at the school Monday evening. It was designed primarily to acquaint parents with the work being done at the school and to give them an opportunity to talk over problems with the teachers, but all interested were invited to attend to view the display of pupils' work.

After the rooms had been visited the guests were invited to sit in on the regular Home and School meeting and stay for coffee and doughnuts. Out of town guests consisted of four ladies from Bobcaygeon — Miss Margaret Oliver, school principal; Miss P. Junkin, teacher of grades 3 and 4; Mrs. B. Kennedy, Home and School president, and Mrs. G. Oliver.

Guests of the society were welcomed by the president, Mrs. H. Green. The secretary read a letter from the secretary of the school board in reply to a recent Home and School recommendation. The letter stated that a record player for use in the high school had been purchased, but crafts could not be taught at present, because of lack of space. It assured Home and School that their recommendations would always be welcomed.

The parents' roll call again gave the shield to the high school. A nominating committee for election of officers for next year was appointed. They are Mrs. Vaughan, Mrs. Hough and Mrs. C. Clifford. After some discussion it was agreed that a project for next year would be two pictures of Queen Elizabeth II, one for the high school and one for the public school. It was decided to hold a tea and bake sale at the school on March 28.

Miss M. Rea reported on her interview with the Film Council in Peterborough. Miss Joan Whitmore entertained with two piano numbers—"Dance of the Brownies" and "Laughing Water". A vote of thanks was extended to Miss Whitmore, to Miss Rea and Mrs Kenny, the committee in charge of open house arrangements, and to the teachers for their co-operation.

A fine variety of art was displayed including water colors, crayon drawings, pencil and ink drawings, spatter work, mounted cut outs, silhouettes, and modelling. There were Social Study projects including relief maps and a miniature Holland. One came across carefully printed texts; and pictured posters bearing such words as—"Prevent Fire", "Be Kind to Animals", "Do not shoot out of season". The illustrated nursery rhymes in crayons, in the primary room showed imagination, as did also a series of "men who work for us".

The high school displayed students' work in science, mathematics, French, English, composition and health posters. On the wall was a set of six pictures on

LIKES MATRIMONY — Mrs. Betty Calamusa, 39, holds up 10 fingers to indicate the number of men she has married in the past 15 years, after filing suit in Houston, Texas, to divorce spouse No. 12. Mrs. Calamusa married two of them twice. Admitting that she is fast becoming the most divorced woman in the world, Mrs. Calamusa still feels that "marriage is a wonderful institution."

Millbrook W.A. Plans Rummage Sale

MILLBROOK, March 6 (ENS)—The town group of St. Andrew's W.A. met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wilfred Fallis. Mrs. Chester Fisher, the president, opened the meeting. She read the poem "They are not Gone", and the group joined in the singing of the late King's favorite hymn—"The King of Love My Shepherd Is". Mrs. H. Armstrong led the devotional period. Articles for the rummage sale to be held on May 3 at the waiting room are to be left at the home of Mrs. J. H. Barringer. Canvassers were given [illegible] final supper in the fall.

Mrs. John McKnight gave a reading, "I know something good about you" and closed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Arthur Fallis, Mrs. Harry Armstrong and Mrs. A. R. Payne.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Northey are attending a convention in Toronto this week. Master Gary Northey is visiting his aunt, Mrs. Roy Brown, Peterborough.

DOROTHY DIX

Immature Husband Shirks Duty To Wife And Child —Most Dangerous Men

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married just a few months, and my husband has informed me that he doesn't love me any more and doesn't want to live with me. We went together for seven years, and though we had our quarrels during that time, we always straightened them out. Since our marriage, he has refused to make a home for me; we are living with our respective families, though I am expecting a baby. We see each other only three nights a week—the usual date nights. I know now that I'm just banging my head against a stone wall when I ask him about finding a place for us to live. We're old enough to be established, too; I'm 24 and he's 26. Should I get a place of my own and make him pay the bills or just wait and see what time will do?

MARY ELLEN H.

ANSWER: The most dangerous men in the world are the mild individuals who will never to able to accept the responsibilities of marriage, but who, nevertheless, do inveigle trusting women into marrying them. They are incapable of attaining emotional maturity, and want everlastingly to be mothered. Their instability is manifested often during courtship, but the little woman, ever avid to acquire a wedding band, or perhaps swept off her feet by the lure of baby blue eyes or appealing blond hair, lulls her doubts with the eternal hope of, "He'll change when we are married."

Was He Ever Reliable?

I'm sure, Mary Ellen, you'll remember, if you look back, that your husband was never a reliable suitor. His feelings were easily hurt, he wasn't prompt at keeping dates, or considerate of your welfare at any time. Your admission that you quarreled during this period indicates many causes for dissension, all undoubtedly based on the same disinclination, on his part, to accept a man's place in the world.

Marriage to him was to be merely an extension of courtship, with added attention from you—but, again, no responsibilities incurred on his part. The bitter blow was struck when you found you were to have a baby. Hubby finds he is to take second place—a fact incomprehensible to his small, egotistical soul. So he blithely shirks off what little responsibility he had acquired, and announces that he will not live with you. There is nothing you can do to give him manhood, and he wouldn't be worth the trouble if you could. You must face the future alone with your baby; there's nothing you can count on from the pseudo-man you call a husband.

As a first step toward making a new life for yourself, I suggest a visit to a lawyer, or, if you cannot afford one, the Legal Aid Society. Find out how much support you can force your husband into, and get your own home as soon as you can. Since you realize how futile are the attempts to get him to establish a home for you, stop trying. You'll need all the physical and emotional strength you can muster to carry on your life, and care for your baby. As a final try, after you have ascertained your legal rights, tell our husband you won't see him again unless he is prepared to make a home for you, and be the man of the family. There's a faint possibility this may work; I doubt it, but it's worth a try.

✧ ✧ ✧

Dear Miss Dix: Is there a law compelling a husband to allow his wife so much money every week for her own use? My husband won't give me a cent unless I [illegible] for it.

M. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Regrettably, there is no such law; we could use it, though. The only recourse a wife has when she is fettered to a stingy husband is either to earn her own spending money or demand pay for her housekeeping chores. A man with padlocks on his wallet is a hard creature to reform, but sometimes he can be shamed into parting with a few pennies.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 34 years old and go with a man 39. I have known him four years. I have two girls, and he has four children, smaller than mine. He loves me very much. I want to know if it would be a happy marriage.

J. B. L.

ANSWER: If you are sure you love each other, and are both possessed of infinite patience and mutual consideration, yours could be a fine marriage. Its drawbacks are that both of you will have to consider all the children together as one family, treating each alike—rather than breaking the unit up into "my children" and "his children". Unless your economic position is fairly sound, you may have to do some close figuring to care for the family. On the other hand, you will have the advantage of giving a home, complete with father and mother, to six children. If you have the qualifications, go ahead and God bless you.

I.O.D.E. Group Learns About Metallurgy

LAKEFIELD, March 6 (ENS). Mrs. Ken Morris was hostess to members of the Catherine Parr Trail Chapter, I.O.D.E., at her home on Monday evening. The Regent, Mrs. K. Lichty, presided, and 15 ladies were present. Mrs. James Brown, a new member, was welcomed by the Regent.

Conveners were named for the year as follows: child and family welfare, Mrs. W. W. Leonard; press and publicity, Mrs. Earl Orr; social convener, Mrs. B. Q. Dench; program, Mrs. J. A. Arnott; Empire study, Mrs. James Brown; ways and means, Mrs. E. H. Northey.

Treasurer Mrs. Morris reported on the skating revue held recently, stating that the financial results had been very gratifying

Guest speaker, L. Shaheen of Lakefield Research, was introduced by Mrs. Lichty and gave a most interesting talk on metallurgy. He explained the various treatments given to different types of ore, and had samples of minerals from many parts of Canada such as silver, cobalt, gold and asbestos. Mr. Shaheen had with him, an ultra violet lamp, and by using it was able to show the effect of the lamp on some types of ore. He also explained the type of work carried on by Lakefield Research.

The dates at which the proposed cooking school could be held were found to be not suitable and the matter was left over until fall.

Misses Florence and Annie Atwood donated the raffle which was won by Mrs. James Brown.

Tea was served by the hostess assisted by Miss Lichty.

Hastings W.A. Meets Plan Dinner

HASTINGS, March 6 (ENS)—Group 3 of the Women's Association of Trinity United Church met at the home of Mrs. R. R. Burnham with 14 members and two visitors present. Mrs. C. Scriver was worship convener. Scripture was read by Mrs. W. A. Thomas. Theme "In the Church," was taken by Mrs. C. Scriver.

Secretary and treasurer's reports were given and approved. Reports from the flower, visiting and quilt conveners were heard.

Mrs. C. Huard and Mrs. Ethel German were appointed to purchase the materials for a quilt. Members were asked to keep the St. Patrick's supper in mind to be held March 17th. It was also announced that the canvass for the United Church training school would commence April 28 and last until May 5.

Rev. N. Cole closed the meeting. A white elephant sale was conducted. Mrs. W. J. Johnston moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Burnham for her hospitality.

What's Right?

When you have guests at home you suggest playing cards—and no one seems particularly enthusiastic about the suggestion.

WRONG: Get out the card table and get a game going anyhow, since you are the hostess.

RIGHT: Let the matter drop.

W. M. Gemmell Addresses St. Peter's C.W.L.

St. Peter's sub-division meeting of the Catholic Women's League, on Tuesday evening in the social centre, was addressed by Mr. Wilson M. Gemmell, Royal Bank manager, who spoke on the Victorian Order of Nurses for which board of directors he is president. He recounted the origin of VON and gave a detailed list of the duties performed by the nurses who are skilled in bedside nursing for out-of-the-hospital patients.

Mr. Gemmell was greatly applauded by his audience. He was introduced by Mrs. F. J. Lynch and thanked by Mrs. F. Guilfoyle.

Under the capable convenership of Mrs. Lynch a project was started two weeks ago to raise funds to buy 25 card tables, at a cost of $168. Mrs. Lynch reported that $105 has been received to date.

President Mrs. J. Begley announced a St. Patrick's tea to take place in the social centre Sunday March 16. Arrangements were completed with Mrs. Guilfoyle in charge of table decorations and Mrs. E. Quinlan and Mrs. J. Lane the food conveners.

Announcement was made of card parties to be held every second Wednesday commencing March 19 at the centre. There will be cash prizes. Arrangements were made to hold a plastics demonstration Friday evening, March 28th.

It was moved that a donation be given the new social centre for the use of it during the season, which members have greatly enjoyed. Also that a donation be given the Knights of Columbus for use of the club rooms.

Five dozen cups and saucers are to be purchased for use of the League at the social centre.

Discussion was held regarding the forming of a Mothers' Auxiliary for St. Peter's Girl Guides.

Elected to form a nominating committee were Mrs. Guilfoyle, Mrs. L. Lucas and Mrs. Lane. Miss Agnes Grant offered to prepare form letters to be mailed to all CWL members re election of officers.

Success In The Public Health Field Largely Due To Nursing Profession

By DR. G. S. CAMERON
Chairman of Public Relations Committee of Civic Hospital.

Nursing has long been considered a vocation practised by young women who believe, or should believe, they have some special aptitude for ministering to the sick. It is one of the oldest vocations in the world. Centuries ago, in the very beginning of medical care for the sick, women were recognized as the natural associates of the doctors in bringing succor and relief to those stricken with disease.

Tradition tells us the scholars of the ancient world recognized three professions, theology, law, and medicine. Nursing was and is today ancillary to the practice of medicine. When the study of medicine was placed upon a scientific basis by the discoveries of Pasteur and Lister profound changes in our hospitals and in our nursing practices naturally followed. From that time, about a century ago, to the present the type of student, the scope of her training and the fields of her activities have been constantly changing in unison with the vast changes in medical thought.

Bedside care is the oldest form of nursing and is still very important. The rapid changes in the world economy wrought by the discoveries in science, particularly during the last half century, have modified our ideas concerning the prevention and treatment of disease. Through all these changes the trained nurse has had an increasingly important part to play until today her horizon is lifted beyond that of bedside duties. We find her in our modern hospitals, in public health field and in our industry, to mention only three. It would have been impossible to have obtained the success we have without the assistance of our nurses.

Must Complete Grade XII.

A young woman today seeking entrance to an approved School of Nursing in this province must have successfully completed Grade XII. in a high school or collegiate institute. Her application having been accepted she enters the probationary class the following September. During the preliminary period of 18 weeks, students who, for reasons, are considered unsuited for a nursing career are recognized and advised to pursue some other occupation. The remainder of the class then enter their regular studies. At the end of three years' tuition, provided all examinations have been passed, the student is graduated as a trained nurse. If this graduation is from an approved school she may then try the examinations set by the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario, the passing of which qualiffies her as a Registered Nurse and permits her to use, after her name, Reg.N.

The curiculum in all Grade A schools is practically the same. The teaching staff is composed of ... graduate nurses, fully ... [illegible] graduate training. These are assisted by a selected group of the younger doctors on the staff who lecture on the basic subjects of medical science.

Many of our universities have established departments of nursing education where post-graduate training may be sought. A graduate of any of our approved schools may enter one of these universities and prepare herself in some one of several departments such as public health nursing, industrial nursing or hospital administration. Many of our graduate nurses, on the permanent staff, have their diploma from one or other of our well-known universities.

We have given these details about the education of a nurse so that people may realize the scope of her training together with the time necessary for its successful completion.

Conservation of Health

In the Charter of the League of Nations, created after the first World War, one of the early items mentioned, in the list of objectives of the League, was the conservation of the health of the people of the world. Assisted by this high recognition of the value of health and stimulated by a knowledge of the splendid advances that had been made in preventive medicine during the First World War, plans for greatly extended social services were begun in the interval between the two wars. One of the most important of these services is Public Health. Over night, as it were, Canada became health conscious. If our readers have any doubts about this they should look into the origin and rise of our own City Health Department where the use of nursing services was greatly increased during that twenty-odd years of peace. We mention this because many people probably do not realize that bedside nursing may be becoming one of the lesser objectives in the mind of the present day nurse.

We think it should be said that the majority of young women choose nursing for one of two reasons: (1) as a means of earning living, or (2) for a career. In this choice they are prompted by the same emotions that influence the vast majority of our young adults. Today, in their chosen vocation, they see many roads they may follow. The increased competition for the service of the trained nurse has become so pronounced that there is a real shortage of those qualified to fill the positions that are offered. This has caused an increase in the salaries now paid in the many fields where nurses are employed. The civic hospitals have to meet this increased cost in just the same way as they have to provide for all other increases. In civic hospitals the only source of revenue the governing bodies have is from the fees paid by patients for services rendered plus the obligatory grants by provincial and municipal governments. This is never enough, in any community, to meet all these expenses so the deficit has to be made up out of the general taxes.

In passing, may we say that we must train our own nurses, some 90 of them in the school, or else the supply of graduates would be further depleted. We believe it would be helpful if citizens would consider the present arrangements whereby our Schools of Nursing are maintained. Is it fair that the whole expense of this educational venture should be borne by the respective hospitals? It has been estimated that it costs from $200 to $300 a year for each student nurse. Some believe that the Schools of Nursing should be integrated into our general educational system and receive assistance from the Provincial Government in somewhat the same manner as do other departments of education.

May we emphasize the fact that the educaiton of a modern nurse has long since emerged from the Victorian idea that gentle hands and loving smiles were all that were required. Undoubtedly these are still necessary, but we submit that, in her academic and vocational development, and because of her place in all health activities, she should be considered on the same plane as those who have long since been recognized as necessary, in the maintenance of our modern civilization.

Colors Of Ireland's Patron Decorate Knox Tea Room

St. Patrick's favorite green was very much in evidence in the Knox Church Sunday school hall Wednesday afternoon, where shamrocks large and small were reproduced in natural color to decorate for the W.A.'s Shamrock Tea.

The old Saint would no doubt have been greatly delighted could he have attended this event. Tiny replicas of his clay pipe were fastened to the handles of some tiny candy baskets, all made up in green and white frills, and models of his top hat were fashioned in green with big silver buckles at the front and featured on the tea table.

Green and white streamers festooned the pillars in the room and the small tea tables were each centred with a doll in bouffant gown of the green. Large shamrocks mounted on lacy white doilies were hung as wall pictures. Bazaar tables were all attractively skirted in the St Patrick's colors and one was printed with pictures of the leprechaun of Irish folklore.

The tea table had a charming centrepiece of shaded pink and white snapdragons set on a circular base of green and silver and cornered with the snappy little green hats with sparkling buckles to match the silver tea things. This arrangement was originated by Mrs. Clare Grainger. The small tables, each with a dainty bridge cloth cover, were decorated by Mrs. Gordon McGavin and Mrs. Donald Ireland. Th... [illegible] were made by ... [illegible] luncheon cloths and tea towels, was attended by Mrs. Lloyd Little. A miscellaneous table was looked after by Mrs. K. Fairbairn and Mrs. E. Crough.

A wishing-well, also decorated all over in green, was full to the brim with small, wrapped parcels that were extricated for customers on a hook and chair by Mrs. J. Chambers.

Hostesses Serve

Following their tour of the various stalls guests could enjoy dainty refreshments served at 16 small tables by the hostesses, Mrs. J. Kempt, Mrs. A. Kempt, Mrs. C. Hancock, Mrs. G. H. Westlake, Mrs. J. A. Waldron, Mrs. A. Sproats, Mrs. A. Piercy, Mrs. O. James, Mrs. S. Adamson, Mrs. G. Morrison, Mrs. A. Gertley, Mrs. W. E. Sharp, Mrs. Harold Murduff, Mrs. S. Aulbrook, Mrs. A. F. Pilley. Mrs. George Hutchinson was in charge of these tea tables.

Presiding at the centre tea table were Mrs. H. Clegg, Mrs. H. Darling, Mrs. L. Londerville and Mrs. C. Weldon in turns. This table was replenished by Mrs. J. Hooper, Mrs. G. P. Bennett and Mrs. Clare Grainger.

Mrs. C. Ross was in charge of arranging the plates and making tea assisted by Mrs. W. Dale, Miss Phyllis Kidd, Mrs. H. Todd, Mrs. H. McIntosh, Mrs. F. Gilders, Mrs. G. Miles, Mrs. D. Rose, Mrs. M. Jude and Mrs. A. Dugan.

Pontypool Couple Are 55 Years Wed

... [illegible] anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Cain of Pontypool was quietly celebrated Monday, March 3rd, at their home. The couple have spent their entire lives in that district, both being of families well known and highly respected. Mr. Cain is the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Cain and Mrs. Cain the only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Bowen. They were married in Millbrook, March 3, 1897, by the Methodist minister. Mr. Cain has been treasurer of Pontypool church, now United, for more than 40 years. They lived on the groom's farm south of Pontypool for 28 years then retired to the village. Mr. Cain remained active as a farm machinery agent in the district and still does a share of this work. Three children were born to them, Mr. Aubrey Cain, now living on the homestead, Mrs. George Bond of Toronto, and Norman Cain deceased. They have two grandchildren, daughters of the former, Mrs. Ernest Cook of Peterborough and Mrs. Charles Palmer of Bethany. Because of Mr. Cain's poor health only a small celebration was held on their anniversary but a good many friends called, coming from Toronto, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Orono, Bethany, Smith, Peterborough and Keene as well as Pontypool and district. Numerous gifts and many cards were received.

RIFLE RANGE SCHOOL

Rifle Range Home and School Association met Monday evening, with Mrs. E. Davis presiding. Mrs. L. Welch read a poem in memory of the late King George VI, followed by a scripture reading by Mrs. H. Quinn and a vocal duet, "Beneath the Cross of Jesus" by Mrs. N. Andrew and Mrs. P. Lavictoire.

Mrs. E. Davis, Mrs. W. Muir and Mrs. W. Amos were nominated to attend the federation meeting of Home and School Associations at Toronto next month. The president announced a special program has been arranged by Home and School Council for the March meeting and urged all members to attend if possible. A nominating committee was appointed, with Mrs. R. Brinson as convener and Mrs. M. Northey and Mrs. N. Andrew as assistants.

Dr. Eldon P. Ray was introduced by Mrs. Davis, and took the chair for part of the meeting. Following an interesting commentary, read by Dr. Ray, a film, "The Feeling of Rejection," was shown. This film portrays in very

Short Women Demand Style

LONDON — (CP) — The short women of Britain have clubbed together in an attempt to do for the under-sized what another association has done for extra-tall women.

The tall women got together several years ago and are well on the way to convincing manufacturers that they are as interested in smart styles as women of medi... height.

The short women have the same battle on their hands. They have already spent years condemned to choosing clothes from teen-age ranges.

"I could more easily jump over the moon than buy ready-made adult clothes," said Bunny Williams, an inch under five feet.

Chief complaint is that although a limited range of small sizes now is somethimes obtainable, these do not cover underwear, gloves and hats. And as for corsets, made-to-measure garments are the only possibility.

A good sponsor for the new society is six-foot-four George Herring, deputy manager of a London store, who is lending a room for meetings. "Men's clothing comes in 120 sizes," said Herring. "I don't know how you ladies have put up for so long with only eight."

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Serving of Florida Pompano With All Pomp And Swish

Over the weekend we visited a city of one hundred thousand population in the States and I was impressed with the number of family people who were eating in restaurants.

We were being entertained by a glarorous New York business girl so had our choice of the town and went to a very swish sea food restaurant and ate Florida pompano.

On the previous day we had taken a rather dim view of the attitude of two American gentlemen to all of the ceremony observed over our beloved King George's death both in England and Canada.

But nothing we do can equal the ceremony which went with the service of that Florida pompano. A young lady had taken our orders, and all went quietly while our jumbo shrimp cocktails were served, eaten and cleared. Then through the doors swung three male waiters each bearing a large tray with one pompano for each of us on his. The table next to us being unoccupied was cleared for their next action. With the skill acquired from long practice those boys slit open, boned the broiled pompano, folded back the top fillets and placed them before us in one minute flat. The fish were broiling hot and super-delicious with Tartare Sauce.

We were hugely amused with their concentration on this tricky task. When our plates were in place we grinned our appreciation, and only then did they permit themselves to smile too.

In different ways, for instance over broiled lobster for a family of four, all of the diners were given this courteous and skilful attention. The atmosphere was charged with service-plus. (I use the word "charged" advisedly).

But we are home again now and I think had nearly as much fun at our own table, with Pete for a waiter, over a casserole of smoked whitefish that my sister Doris dreamed up. I raved over it so much that she said " I wondered if it would make the grade." (meaning reach this column).

Smoked Haddock Casserole.

Buy a piece from the centre portion of a smoked haddock — the kind with skin and bone still present — it should weigh 1¼ lbs. to yield the 1 lb. flesh you need for this. Peel off skin, pull flesh from bones with strong fork and place fish in buttered casserole. Cover with 2 sliced hard-cooked eggs and pour over 1½ cups medium white sauce (3 tablespoons each butter and flour and 1¼ cups milk). Sprinkle this with 1 cup grated old cheese. Bake about 20 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. or until heated through and bubbling and golden. With this we new cabbage our sharpest knife could produce. I highly recommend this dish .

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS MOORE: Recently my husband was dining at the —— Hotel and ordered Country Style Scrambled Eggs. They were delicious and creamy looking. I don't think they were cooked in a skillet . . . Would you kindly give me the recipe for fluffy scrambled eggs?—Edna K.

ANSWER: You are right. They are cooked in a double boiler.

Creamy Eggs

Three eggs, 1 tablespoon butter, ¾ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, 2-3 cup whole milk. Beat eggs slightly, add soft butter and seasonings and milk. Cook over hot water and, as the mixture begins to thicken around the sides and bottom draw it away with spoon. Continue until all of mixture is cooked, but do not stir continuously. Serve as soon as it is "set" on toast garnished with parsley. A good variation is to add a little grated cheese OR chopped bacon.

Love, Ballet Don't Mix Dancer Says

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 6—(AP)—"Romance and ballet do not mix too well," sighed Maria Tallchief, latest of the ballerinas to be imported to Hollywood.

Miss Tallchief, one of the stars of the New York City centre ballet, was brought here to portray Anna Pavlova in "The one-Piece Bathing Suit." Her Indian-sounding name is the McCoy; she was born in Oklahoma to an Osage father and Scottish-Irish mother. The young dancer isn't like the aloof ballerina of legend. She talked animatedly on many topics, including matters of the heart.

"Of course, some people in the ballet do get married and have families," she said. "But many people find that mixing ballet and marriage is too difficult.

Odd Habits

"For instance, when I am doing a night performance, I generally have dinner at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Then I have a bite to eat after the performance. It would be hard to find a man who could understand and adjust to such habits.

"A ballet performer would have little time to devote to a home, what with practising and rehearsing. Then there are the tours. I will be leaving soon when our company tours Europe for five months. How could I explain that to a husband?"

Miss Tallchief added that the most likely mate for a ballerina would be someone who was also connected with the ballet. She tried that herself but failed. Her marriage to George Balanchine, the famous ballet director, was annulled.

Little Temperament

The ballerina punctured some beliefs about the ballet, particularly concerning temperament.

"The old-time ballerina who would blow up at the slightest mishap is a thing of the past," she remarked. "Dancers don't make big scenes backstage any more; the companies just won't put up with it.

[illegible] temperament in the ballet. Naturally, when you get so many sensitive people together, there is bound to be some temper. But they are generally minor flareups over such things as the orchestra tempo not being right."

Adjudicator Sees Possibilities In London Play

HAMILTON, March 6 (CP)—"Sit Ye Doon" has plenty of humor and with some tightening up has a chance of becoming a charming and effective comedy on an aspect of Canadian life, Pierre LeFevre, adjudicator of the Western Ontario Regional Drama Festival, said Wednesday night.

The play, written by Will Digby, London, Ont., playwright, was presented by the St. Mary's Theatre of London.

Mr. LeFevre said the play fulfilled in part one of the main functions of good theatre — it entertained — but the device on which it depended was not enough for three acts.

However, he said "it achieved a lot and was true for about two-thirds" but there were parts in which it was crude.

6—In Memoriam

COX—In memory of a loving husband, Frank H. Cox, who passed away four years ago, March 6, 1948.
And while he sleeps in peaceful sleep,
His memory we shall always keep.
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

McILMOYL—In loving memory of a loving husband and father, Gilbert McIlmoyl.
Only a memory of bygone days
And a sigh for a face unseen;
But a constant feeling that God alone
Knows just what should have been.
—Sadly missed by wife and family.

MONTGOMERY—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Joseph Wellington Montgomery, who passed away March 7th, 1938, 14 years ago today.
The one we loved he passed away
Death leaped into our home
Where all seemed bright
And took from us
Our guiding light.
—Sadly missed by his wife and sons Arnold and Noble.

7—Cards of Thanks

I wish to take this opportunity to thank attending physician, and the nurses and staff of the Civic Hospital, for their kindness during my recent illness. Also the Peterborough Police Association, Kawartha Ladies Police Association, and the many friends and neighbors for their gifts and cards.—Mary S. Scott.

Mr. Arthur H. Andrus wishes to express his sincere thanks to his neighbors and friends who were so kind in bringing fruit, sending flowers, cards etc. Also the doctors and nurses of Civic Hospital for their attention during his recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Grills wish to thank friends and neighbors for their kind expressions of sympathy during their recent sad bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert LaRush wish to thank attending doctors, the nurses and staff of Civic Hospital, the Rev. C. Richmond of Omemee, all kind neighbors and those who helped in any way during their recent sad bereavement.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 6 — (AP)—Only very small price changes were recorded in grains at the opening today. The trading pace was slow and the market lacked any real trend.

Wheat started unchanged to ⅛ cent higher, March $2.52¾; corn was ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, May $1.82¼-⅜, and oats were ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, March 83¼. Soybeans were ¼ cent lower to ¾ higher, March $2.95¾.

TORONTO, March 6 (CP)—The cattle market was active with prices firm at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: Cattle 1,120; no calves; hogs 60; no sheep or lambs. There was no leftover from Wednesday.

Good to choice weighty steers sold at $29-$30.50 with medium steers at $27-$29. Medium to good heifers were at $26.50-$28 with common downward to $22. Good cows sold mostly $22-$22.50 with a few tops at $23. Fed yearlings were selling at $27-$31.

There were no prices established on calves.

Hog prices were at $26 for grade A with sows $15 dressed.

There were no sheep or lamb sales reported.

MONTREAL LIVESTOCK

MONTREAL, March 6—(CP)—The uncertain livestock situation affected trading this week on the Montreal livestock markets.

Receipts for the week were 583 cattle, 781 calves, 16 sheep and lambs, and 2,891 hogs.

Light cattle offerings moved very slowly with prices on Monday about $3 to $4 lower than the previous Monday. The rest of the week trading was dull and prices were steady to a bit stronger. Some mixed lots of good and choice steers sold at 26-29, good only 26-28, medium 23-26 and common 20-22. Medium heifers were 21-23 and common 16-20. Good cows sold at 19-20, a few at 21, medium 16-18, common 14-16 and canners and cutters 8-14. Good bulls made 21-22, a few 23.50 and common and medium 15-21.

The Quebec embargo on all livestock from other provinces brought a wide spread of prices for calves. In general, calves were hard sellers and prices dropped from $5 to $10 throughout the week. The range of prices was 15-32 for all grades combined, with most good vealers at 25-27 and most common and medium 20-23.

The few lambs sold were 22-24. There were no sales on sheep.

Hogs were steady at 26 for Grade "A" (about 15 sold early at 26.25). Sows dropped $4 from last Monday, selling at 14.

New Two-Part Pension Plan For C.N.R. Staffs

MONTREAL, March 6—(CP)—Donald Gordon, president and chairman of Canadian National Railways, today announced a new two-part pension plan for employees, one liberalizing the existing plan, the other for employees agreeing to compulsory contributions in return for higher pensions. The plan became effective Jan. 1. 1.

The first part provides a basic or service plan at the expense of the company and a supplemental pension based on joint contributions. The employee contributes from one to 10 per cent of his wages and after 10 years' service the company matches his contributions up to five per cent. Amount of the supplemental pension is that which the joint contributions with compound interest will buy.

Disabled employees reaching 50 years of age and with at least 20 years' allowable service may retire on pension. If the company's share is less than $40 a month it will increase its portion to $40 until the employee is 65. Provision is made for certain partial payments to dependents in case of death.

Under part two, employees must contribute five per cent of their compensation from Jan. 1, 1935, or from the date they entered service to date of retirement. At 65 their pension will be based on average compensation during the last five or 10 years of service, whichever is more favorable to the employee. The percentage will be one per cent for each year's service up to 20 years; 1¼ per cent for each year during the next 10, and 1½ per cent for each year over 30 years' service. Certain provisions are made for retirement at 50 of disabled employees and for dependents in case of death.

Contributions of more than five per cent of compensation made by present employees transferring to part two will be returned. If total contributions before transfer are less than the required amount, employees can make good the arrears by contributions or lump sum.

Although normal retirement age is 65, provision is made under both parts of the plan for early retirement with reduced pensions. For each year below 65, one additional [illegible] tarily at 64 if he has 21 years' service; at 60 if he has 25 years; at 55 if he has 30 years.

Man Arrested, Jailed On Woman's Report

A man about 34 years of age was arrested shortly after noon today, as the result of several complaints from women, that the man had accosted them at the corner of George and Hunter Sts.

A woman rushed up to Constable Donald Mackay who was patrolling his beat and complained about the man's actions. She pointed him out, and Constable Mackay was just taking him into custody when two other officers in a cruiser arrived. Two or three others converged on the spot by foot.

The officers in the cruiser were answering an alarm phoned in to the police station.

In less than three minutes, the man who had been drinking, was handcuffed and taken to the police station and locked up in a cell.

Short Industrial Course Proving Success In Collegiate Experiment

The new two-year industrial course at P.C.V.S. is credited with reducing the number of student "dropouts" by as much as 20 per cent in the industrial department.

Fifty-two students— more than were expected—are now enrolled in the course which equips the students for a job in the workaday world at the end of Grade 10.

G. W. Switzer head of industrial arts, estimates that three years ago, before the new course began, dropouts in the industrial department at the end of Grade 10 were 50 to 60 per cent of the original enrolment in Grade 9.

In brief, the course is a boiled-down of the four-year industrial course, designed to get the student a job if he either wants or has to leave after Grade 10. It is patterned after the two-year "terminal course" suggested by Technical Research Council of the Ontario Educational Association.

No Building Trades

It differs from the "terminal course" in that there is no shop option permitting a student to learn the building trades (bricklaying, plastering, painting and decorating.)

"Peterborough is too small a place for a building trades option," says Mr. Switzer. "We haven't one at present and it would be a costly one to begin. Besides most of the jobs here require machine shop training."

Many boy students don't want a full, four-year industrial course. And they don't want a straight academic or commercial course. Some of them are just putting in time until they can leave school at 16 years. Others are forced to leave school through no fault of their own, say, helping out the breadwinner. Still others feel they haven't the aptitude for the longer courses demanding a higher degree of study and concentration.

For all these students the two-year industrial course is a welcome alternative.

In Second Year

Now in its second year, the course has attracted 52 students, more (Mr. Switzer concedes) than had been anticipated.

[illegible]

course. Grade 9s in both courses are similar so there can be a free interchange at the end of the year).

"As a matter of fact," says Mr. Switzer, "the two-year students have done better, by comparison, than I expected. They have been marked by the standard demanded in the regular course and have stood up pretty well."

He says there is little probem of discipine because the students are interested in completing their course and getting a job.

"They have a vocational goal," says Mr. Switzer.

Curriculum.

In Grade 9 (the same as Grade 9 in the regular course but with more time on English and extra emphasis on academic subjects) the curriculum (subject and number of periods a week) follows:

English 8, history 4, geography 4, physical education and health 3, mathematics 5, science 5, occupations 2, library science half period, auto mechanics 5 periods half year, drafting 5 periods half year, electricity four periods half year, machine shop 4 periods half year, sheet metal 5 periods half year, woodworking 5 periods half year.

In Grade 10 (second and final year) the emphasis switches to shop work.

The weekly curriculum: English 7 periods, history 4, geography 3, physical education and health 3, mathematics 5, science 4, occupations 1, blueprint reading 1, and one of the following shop options for 19 periods: machinery repair (machine shop, auto mechanics and sheet metal); electrical wiring (electrical wiring and sheet metal); woodworking (carpentry, cabinet making and sheet metal.)

Next year the electrical wiring and woodworking options will be joined into a "building trades" option.

"The two-year course is an educational experiment," says Mr. Switzer "but we feel it has been successful. The purpose is to keep students in school for two years when otherwise they would have dropped out. They are taught something academic and some-come useful members of society which is the object of education. They don't leave school with a sense of grievance or a feeling of frustration."

Tax Exemptions To Be Reviewed

TORONTO, March 6 (CP). — The Ontario Legislature's private bills committee decided today to review the principle of all requests by charitable organizations for municipal tax exemptions.

The committee made the decision when it deferred decision until March 20 on a request by the Sarnia Y.M. and Y.W.C.A. for exemption of its land and buildings from municipal taxes except for local improvements.

Several other private bills before the committee which ask similar exemptions will also be studied in the interval.

Bryan Cathcart (P.C.-Lambton West), who sponsored the bill, said the councils of Sarnia and of Plympton township, where the Sarnia Y has a 12½-acre summer camp, both had approved the exemption.

W. M. Nickle (P.C.-Kingston) chairman of the committee, said the members should try to agree on "some sort of principle." The Sarnia bill and similar ones would remove from future councils the right to levy taxes.

A second bill affecting Sarnia got more favorable treatment. It will change the system of election of members of Sarnia's separate school board to provide for eight, instead of the present 18 members. Four will be elected each year to two-year terms.

Break 'Teen-Age Ring Stealing Automobiles

DETROIT, March 6 (CP) — The 'teen-age ring responsible for the theft of automobiles in Detroit, Ohio and Indiana has been broken up, police said today.

They said they arrested five youths when a 14-year-old girl told of participating with them in the theft of three cars.

They believe the youths responsible for a wave of thefts during the last two months. Dozens of automobiles were driven for a few hours and then abandoned.

BREAK THE [illegible] HABIT

[illegible] regularity, controlled tests prove.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead, every night for one week take two Carter's Little Liver Pills. Second week—one each night. Third week—one every other night. Then nothing! Every day drink eight glasses of water; eat a definite time for regularity. This plan was proven in scientifically controlled tests.

How can a laxative break the laxative habit? Because Carter's unblock the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers. Further, Carter's contain no habit forming drugs. Break the laxative habit with Carter's . . . be regular naturally.

HONG KONG SCENERY reflects its jitteriness. This club-carrying turbaned Indian guards a warehouse in the port city. The island is surrounded by water—and Communists.

HONG KONG LIFE goes on, despite the makings of violence—distrust, tension, intrigue, that are apparent on every hand.

Political Intrigue Rampant In Riot-Torn Hong Kong

By GERALDINE FITCH

HONG KONG (NEA)—This jittery British crown colony, last corner of freedom on the Chinese mainland, is a small body of land completely surrounded by water and Communists.

On every side in Hong Kong one sees and senses the makings of violence—the clash of political beliefs, distrust, tension, intrigue.

The port city's two and a quarter million population, widely mixed politically and racially, is jammed into a 391-square-mile area, with Communist China on one side and the Pacific Ocean on the other.

Northeastward, 1,200 miles as the jet flies, lie Korea and Japan. Nationalist China's island stronghold of Formosa is 400 miles due east.

The city teems with Communists and their sympathizers on one hand. On the other hand are the most violent of anti-Communists—refugees who have lived under Communism's terrors, and escaped.

There are bankers doing steady business with the Communists, despite recent orders barring trade in strategic materials with the Reds.

Typical of Hong Kong's confusion today is a scene on the airport at Kowloon (part of the city). Near the road are 75 airplanes of Gen. Claire Chennault's China Air Transport.

Twice British courts have awarded them to the Chinese Reds. Twice the decisions have been appealed. Now the planes are impounded awaiting final decision.

And guarding them are two sets of police—one from British Hong Kong, the other from Communist China, each watching the other.

Bankers Aid Communists

The Chinese have a saying that, "Righteousness is forgotten in the face of profit." This explains why many of the big bankers are still doing business with the Communists. It explains the case of one particular Chinese banker. He has seen his way clear to manage a Communist - controlled bank, though he is not a Communist himself.

Hearing the stories of many people who have escaped through the bamboo curtain from Communist China, one is struck with one point. That is how gradually, little by little, men of high principle and integrity can become enmeshed in the Communist net.

In taking control of China, the Communists have been clever enough to persuade good people first to make small decisions, which in themselves seem either good or unimportant.

The bigger, vital decisions come later but when they come the individual is so implicated by earlier ones he can no longer resist.

[illegible] city of Canton he was not afra[illegible] because they had promised freedom of religion as well as freedom to reject religion.

As chairman of the Presbyterian synod, he could not be too outspoken because his actions involved those under him. So it seemed wiser not to take issue on small matters. Then, too, the Communist procedure was gradual.

Churches were called on by the Communist city government to help in relief work and other civic projects which seemed harmless enough. But soon the minister [illegible] Communist city government.

His life now is a nightmare. Recently he saw 198 Cantonese citizens executed in one day, 40 from his own neighborhood.

There is the case of Mrs. Man-Yu Wang. Her name can be used because she escaped from Red China and through the barbed wire into Hong Kong. She left no one behind. Her husband was executed.

The Wangs (he was a merchant) thought the Chinese Communists stood for a "new democracy" of land reform and that they would establish a Titoist regime in the Far East.

At first Wang was treated as a "democratic personage." he was allotted a certain number of Victory Bonds, but became uneasy when told he had to buy them. They cost $90,000, Hong Kong money.

This was followed by other heavy "voluntary" contributions. He finally had to give up his home to raise the money. Finally his business was confiscated.

Then he made his big mistake. He wrote his former American partner about the possibility of getting himself and his family into the United States.

The Communists intercepted the letter of reply and made a photostatic copy of it. Asked whether he had received a letter from America, Wang denied it for safety's sake. Then the Communists produced the photostat.

"You democratic personages," the interrogator said, "this is the kind of service you have rendered!" Wang was executed without being allowed to employ defense counsel.

Hospital Plane Crash

TOKYO, March 6—(AP)—A giant stratocruiser hospital plane carrying 58 patients cracked up on a take-off from Haneda airport today, but only two were injured. Pieces of propeller blades broke off and hit them when the props crashed on the runway. Their injuries were described as slight. The plane's landing gear collapsed as the C-97 was racing down the runway for its take-off for Midway Island.

Old Roman Port Located In East Norfolk

LONDON—(CP)—A lost port, built by the Romans in the second century, has been found by archaeologists at Caister, an East Norfolk fishing village. Previously experts had believed the only Roman town in East Anglia was at Caistor, near Norwich.

The discovery at Caister was made when workmen laying a waterpipe for a new housing estate, found some Roman coins, followed by the discovery of other relics. Since then, investigation has disclosed that the forgotten town was at one time a flourishing community of 34 acres, fairly town. Its location however, has become more of a mystery.

Excavations have shown that Caister was build in a roadless wasteland split by many waterways and surrounded by a giant wall, about 5,000 feet in length.

Charles Green, in charge of operations for the Ministry of Works, estimates at least 250,000 tons of imported flint were needed and that it took workers, probably brought in galleys from northern Gaul, five years or more to build the wall.

Mr. Green say that great quays have been unearthed and many fine houses, some as large as present-day country mansions and far better than those of Caistor which was the ancient provincial capital.

Plucky Woman Lawyer Defies N.Y. Robber

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y., March 6—(AP)—A woman lawyer—plucky, shrewd and a good screamer—defied a knife-toting robber Wednesday and had him arrested.

With a 10-inch blade pressed against her back, Mrs. Carolyn B. Dissosway was forced to drive the robber toward New York city in her car after he had robbed her of $57 in her home.

But they didn't have to go far. Mrs. Dissosway remembered seeing a policeman on the street on her way home. She followed a route that took her past the same spot. When she saw the policeman still there, she pulled to the curb and screamed.

The policeman seized the man, booked as Jodie Brown, 24.

Brass Has Done Job Crerar Dinner Set

TORONTO, March 6 (CP)—The "brass" has done its job. An all-Canada attendance is assured for the VE-Day testimonial dinner to Gen. H. D. G. Crerar at Toronto May 8. The only worry now is whether someone will be missed.

Seven hundred of Canada's wartime army officers will gather to honor their Western Front commander seven years after the end of the war in Europe. Their applications piled in after a high-powered "steering committee"—including three generals and 11 brigadiers—blanketed the country with a 13-page "Operations Order" on the dinner.

"The problem isn't attendance—it's capacity," said Lt.-Col. Ernie Whelpton, of Toronto. "We want to make sure every interested officer knows about the show. We've covered units and organizations. But wo don't want to miss some individual who would really like to be at the do for his old chief."

Street Urchins Create Serious Korean Problem

By BILL BOSS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

SEOUL, Korea, March 6 (CP)—The jeep had barely stopped before a boy with bright black eyes popped up beside it from nowhere.

"Want whisky?" he asked with easy familiarity. "Canadian whisky."

His name was Lee Dong Soo, 16. The whisky was $12 a bottle. Lee said he would get 2,000 won (34 cents) if he sold it.

That proved he was a middleman, no in business for himself. He was getting his commission in won on a dollar transaction.

Lee knew what soldiers liked and what they usually had to sell. He knew where they could get what they wanted and who would buy what they offered.

Lee dealt in anything from women to army boots, from whisky and beer to chocolate bars and cigarettes.

The United Nations Civilian Assistance Command estimates there are 10,000 youngsters like him in Seoul and 17,000 in the whole of Seoul province.

Says the C. A. C. provincial team commander: "They're a terrific problem, caused by the breakdown or disappearance of the home influence and the lack of schooling."

Earnings High

Some, like Lee, are nominally cigarette boys. Others are either shoeshine boys or newsboys.

"They get 1,000 won (about 17 cents) a shine. Two a day gives them more than a laborer earns. Some earn as much as 10,000 or 12,000 won a day.

"Every one helps worsen inflation, and some are petty thieves and pickpockets."

The superintendent of Seoul's civilian police said he is trying to work out a licencing system, authorizing boys who help support their families to shine shoes and sell newspapers. The other urchins would be rounded up and put in institutions.

That, said a C.A.C. welfare officer, is wishful thinking at this stage.

"For the time being we have all we can handle with the children already in institutions."

Meanwhile boys like Lee live by their wits on the streets. He had completed his first year of technical high school when hostilities began. He worked for a while with United States Army units, then returned home two weeks before to find his mother keeping herself alive by dealing in firewood and doing needlework, earning 6,000 won ($1) a week.

He hadn't enough money to set himself up as a cigarette dealer, so he patrolled a corner far from the congested centre of the city. He said he averaged as much as other boys—between 3,000 and 5,000 won a day—because in town they forced one another to divide their earnings.

The smile vanished and an unexpected tear dropped when he was asked what he thought of himself and his work.

"A year ago I'd have said I was a bad boy," he said.

"Today some neighbors say I'm bad, but others say I'm good because I'm doing this to help my mother. What do you think?"

Czechs Ready Talk About Oatis

PARIS, March 6 (AP).—A diplomatic source said Wednesday the Czechoslovak government has expressed a willingness to conduct official talks about the case of William N. Oatis, imprisoned United States correspondent.

This source said the willingness to talk represents a step forward, since at one time the Czechs refused to listen to any mention of the subject.

Oatis was convicted on charges of espionage, along with two other Associated Press employees who are Czechoslovak citizens. Oatis was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment with a recommendation that he be released after five years and expelled from the country. The U.S. State Department has made numerous protests to Czechoslovakia on the case.

Cars with the provincial or city crest get such stickers, but the department said these cars were used in investigating welfare claims and therefore were not labelled.

Swedish Steel

STOCKHOLM (CP). — Iron and steel production in Sweden reached record total in 1951. The annual report just issued showed a total of 1,438,200 tons of steel, 1,500,000 tons of cast iron and 851,400 tons of pig iron. Exports of iron ore reached 15,000,000 tons.

Serious Students

AUCKLAND, N.Z. —(CP)—New Zealand youths are returning from summer holidays after earning high pay at temporary jobs, to resume trades training. One boy earned £150 during his three-week vacation but returned to prepare for an apprentice job which pays £6 a week at the start. Technical school teachers said practically all boys were staying in their courses.

Lakefield Competes In Cobourg

LAKEFIELD, March 6 (ENS)—A number of Lakefield Lions journeyed to Cobourg this week to take part in a Broom-a-Loo contest in which Lions Clubs from various centres participated. The final victory went to Bancroft.

Clubs were present from Oshawa, Whitby, Bancroft, Peterborough, Keene, Lakefield, Newcastle and Port Hope.

Those from Lakefield attending were President Douglas Davis and Lions Frank Coyle, Harold Hamblin, Dr. R. H. Campbell, Pere Archer, Arthur Kingdon, William O'Brien and Jack Ryan. The men report a wonderful time.

Manitoba Rink Wins Curling Title

Clark Rink Downs Saskatchewan In 6-5 Triumph

WINNIPEG, March 7. (CP) —Manitoba won the Canadian Curling Championship today with a hard-fought 10th-round 10-7 victory over Alberta. It was Manitoba's ninth straight triumph against a 7-2 won-lost record for the second-place Albertans.

Ontario's rink skipped by Dr. Ralph Clark of Peterborough, edged Saskatchewan 6-5 today, giving them six wins and three defeats. Saskatchewan has four and four.

The final round of the championships will be played this afternoon but the outcome will [illegible] ern Canada after an absence of three years. A Northern Ontario rink won it for the first time in history in 1950 and last year Nova Scotia's Don Oyler of Kentville ran up 10 straight victories to give the easterners the title for the first time since 1927—the year the championship started.

Give Standings

Standings after 10 rounds are:

	W	L
Manitoba	9	0
Alberta	7	2
British Columbia	6	4
Ontario	6	3
Nova Scotia	5	4
Saskatchewan	4	5
New Brunswick	4	5
Quebec	4	5
Northern Ontario	3	6
Prince Edward Island	1	8
Newfoundland	1	8

The Nova Scotia rink, skipped by Hank Blanchard, started off like a champion with four straight victories but it slumped badly and lost its next four to lose any chance of repeating its 1951 title-winning effort. It defeated Prince Edward Island 11-8 today for a 5-4 record going into the final round.

In other 10th-round games, Quebec defeated British Columbia 11-9, and Northern Ontario defeated New Brunswick 7-5.

This afternoon's final round is anti-climax.

The 1952 champions meet Northern Ontario and Alberta takes on the lowly Prince Edward rink skipped by Frank Hansen. Win or lose, the Albertains will hold second spot.

Want More Snow

WINNIPEG, March 7. (CP) — Because it hasn't snowed much in Winnipeg this winter the city's snow shovelling crews are running into debt and some may be evicted from their homes. Leon Mitchell, Civic Employees Federation agent reported the men's trouble to the city auditor. Mr. Mitchell said about 40 part-time employees can't pay their bills because of the prolonged lay-off. He asked that the men be allowed to withdraw money from a pension fund. Snowfall this winter totals 25.5 inches compared with the normal 39.1 and most of it has melted.

275 Injured As Bleachers Fall At Show

BALTIMORE, Md., March 7 — [illegible] bleachers, "not even nailed down", collapsed on Thursday night and injured more than 275 persons. Thirty-two were reported in "serious condition".

As 10 hospitals continued treating the victims, the city revealed it had not issued the Sonja Henie show a permit for the temporary stands in Baltimore's 5th Regiment armory.

Though none was required by law, the show had asked for one and had been refused, building inspector Paul Cohen said.

The massive section shuddered and gave way about 8:25 p.m., five minutes before the show was scheduled to begin.

The heavy beams and planks went down with a roar. Men tore at the tangled beams to rescue screaming children and crying women.

No Panic

There was no panic among others in the crowd, and the rescue operation carried on by police, firemen and National Guardsmen was completed within 30 minutes.

Cohen said the show was refused a request for a permit because all stands were not up at the time inspectors called Thursday afternoon.

He added that none would have been issued anyway since the section which would seat about 700 persons was "of temporary construction and not even nailed down."

The armory is exempt from the city building code because it is State property but it is customary for those renting the building to apply for a permit.

An investigation has been ordered.

Miss Henie said the stands were erected under the supervision of a contractor, Ed Coronati of Park Ridge, N.J.

Coronati was unavailable for comment on the mishap, although his wife in New Jersey confirmed her husband's firm put up the bleachers and that he was at the scene.

A crowd of 7,000 persons was on hand for the show. Miss Henie cancelled the performance and said ticket-holders could have a refund or attend another show Monday night.

Police estimated about 600 persons were seated in the section which collapsed.

2 Casualties In Blaze At Cobalt

3 Buildings Gutted In Worst Fire During Last 5 Years

COBALT, March 7. (CP) — One man was found dead and another was listed as missing today in this Northern Ontario silver-mining town's worst fire in five years.

The body of Cecil Gennoe, a Kirkland Lake diamond driller about 40 years old, was recovered from the ruins of three business premises and second-storey rooming quarters. Missing and believed dead was an old-age pensioner, Peter Chuchrowski, 70.

The blaze was in the heart of the business section of this community 65 miles south of Kirkland Lake.

The two victims roomed in the [illegible] where the fire started. It spread through the Silver Bar lunch and a barber shop.

Another roomer, Herbert Parker, jumped from a window to escape the flames. He was taken to hospital with a broken leg.

Shifting winds threatened to drive the flames along the street to the Silanco building. Late reports said the structure was being evacuated of furniture and other valuables.

Clouds of dense smoke masked the entire business section and rose hundreds of feet into the air.

The fire is said to have broken out about 8:30 a.m. Gerard Presse, operator of the barber shop, said that when he came to work about 8:30, he saw clouds of smoke coming from windows over the street-level Welcome Inn. "I went upstairs yelling at the top of my lungs, but the smoke forced me back."

Mrs. Cora Petrakos helped remove Mrs. Pete Dworski, an invalid, from her living quarters at the Silver Lunch bar.

Bus driver Lloyd Hammond said that as he stopped his vehicle outside the building, a man came running out of the Welcome Inn in his underclothing.

Firemen were covered with ice as thousands of gallons of water were poured on the blazing structure. The building is one of the oldest in Cobalt and "tinder dry," firemen said.

Believe Gunmen In Gang Hideout, 1,000 Join Search

TORONTO, March 7. (CP)—Police seeking two gunmen for wounding two detectives expressed belief today the fugitives have made a rendezvous with Edwin Boyd, wanted for armed bank robberies and jail-breaking. They think the three men—Steve Suchan, 24, alias Valino Lesso, Leonard Jackson, 29, and Boyd—have taken cover in an underworld hideout. Suchan and Jackson are sought on warrants charging atempted murder and a $2,000 reward has been offered for their capture.

Wheanwhile Sergeant of Detectives Edmund Tong—English but nicknamed "The Chinaman" by the city's crimial element—continued to fight for life in hospital. He was shot through both lungs Thursday when he and Det.-Sgt. Roy Perry stopped a car on west-end College Street Thursday to question its occupants. Sgt. Perry suffered bullet wounds in the right arm and wrist.

[illegible] to work on what was to have been their day off, combed the city, particularly the west end. Squads of detectives raided west-end rooming houses, walking in with drawn guns and questioning the occupants.

3 Women Held

Three women were taken into custody in connection with the case. One was held as a material witness and the other on vagrancy charges.

The women were arrested Thursday night after raids on west-end rooming houses. Held as a material witness is Mrs. Anna Camero, 28-year-old blonde whose car was identified as the one driven by the gunmen. Police said the car was reported stolen after the shooting.

Those charged with vagrancy were identified as Jane Blahut, 40, of Toronto, and Betty Huluk, about 25, also of Toronto.

Sgt. Tong was able to whisper Suchan's name and a west-end address to a woman eyewitness to the shooting before he slipped into unconsciousness.

Sgt. Tong, a gangland nemesis with a long memory, and Perry were assigned to the $24,000 armed holdup of the Bank of Montreal branch at College and Manning Avenue last Tuesday.

Bevan Revolt To Be Taken To Committee

LONDON, March 7 — (AP) — Labor moderates decided today to place the left-wing Bevan revolt before the party's ruling body—the 27-member National Executive Committee.

Secretary Morgan Phillips [illegible] of the committee next Thursday. This is what Aneurin Bevan, leader of the rebels, asked for Thursday night. Just as eager for a showdown are many trade union leaders and party moderates behind Clement Attlee.

Attlee apparently is in this position: He must either put down the revolt and restore party unity in the Commons or be prepared in the next few months to surrender leadership to Bevan or a man Bevan chooses.

Labor's National Executive Committee sometimes is referred to as the "high court" of Britain's Socialist movement. It runs party affairs between annual conferences.

Serve On Committee

On th committee are representatievs of the Labor delegation in parliament, local party organizations, trade unions and the various Socialist, co-operative and professional bodies which form the movement.

Bevan is a member of the committee; as are three of his staunchest backers in the House—Tom Driberg, Mrs. Barbara Castle and Ian Mikardo.

The Labor Party crisis came to a head during parliamentary defence debate Wednesday. In voting, Bevan and 56 other Labor members of parliament deviated from the decision of a party caucus and the personal appeal of Attlee.

Bevan's request for a meeting of the committee was interpreted this way: he does not want to be placed in the position of a defendant called to account before the party's elected leaders.

Predict No Tax Cut Likely

Prime Minister St. Laurent made this plain Thursday as the Commons swung briefly into the traditional, wide-ranging Throne Speech debate and quickly defeated two opposition motions of non-confidence in the government. Members voted 88 to 44 against a Progressive Conservative motion charging that government taxes are excessive and burdensome; that the government refuses to cut out waste and extravagance and that it isn't dealing adequately with the cost of living. They voted 90 to 45 against a C.C.F. motion criticizing the government for having "failed" to inaugurate a national health-insurance program with provision for participation by the provinces.

The votes came surprisingly early in the debate, which usually runs for weeks and concludes with divisions on the traditional non-confidence motions.

Finance Minister Abbott adjourned the debate on the main motion and will speak today. As many members as wish can follow. The opposition parties also can present new motions of non-confidence.

Won't Go Up

Mr. St. Laurent not only indicated there will be no substantial tax cuts this year, but he said they should not be anticipated "so long as the world situation continues as it is." He also indicated that taxes will not rise upder present circumstances.

His statement, scooping Mr. Abbott's April budget, came in reply to a demand from George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, that the government give immediate assurance of tax reductions in view of a $700,000,000 surplus at the three-quarter mark of the fiscal year which ends this month.

The only cheerful financial news Mr. St. Laurent brought forth was his statement that there will be some tax adjustments in the budget and that the cost of living shows signs of stabilizing.

From the standpoint of interest to the man in the street, his statement highlighted a day which saw himself, Mr. Drew, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit chief, touch off the debate which normally lasts for weeks.

Other highlights:

1. Mr. Coldwell urged Canada to take the lead in advocating a new political approach to end what he called a military stalemate in the search for a Korean armistice. He said American leadership, if unchecked, may touch off a general war with China.

2. Mr. Drew questioned whether the government has the authority

Rental Boards Appointed Under New Regulations

TORONTO, March 7. (CP)—The first of a series of rentals boards appointed under Ontario's new Rent Control Regulations were announced today. The boards, for the most part one-man affairs, will replace the former courts of rental appeals. Three-man boards will be appointed later to handle increases in appeals under the new regulations.

All of the appointments, made by order-in-council, have been serving on courts of rental appeals.

While actual rent ceilings are to be established by rental appraisers, the rentals boards will hear appeals from their decisions and also cases where landlords seek eviction of tenants. The boards can exercise wider powers of arbitration than appraisers.

Five one-man boards have been set up in the Toronto area, and will cover rental cases from the counties of York, Ontario and Peel as well as Toronto.

A three-man rentals board consisting of Judge G. A. P. Brickenden of Simcoe, Alfred M. McIntyre and F. J. Waud of London, has been appointed to handle cases from Elgin, Huron, Middlesex, Oxford and Perth counties.

Sit On Board

Mr. McIntyre and Mr. Waud will also sit on a rentals board headed by Judge A. J. Gordon of Windsor, which will deal with cases in Essex and Kent counties.

Judge W. F. Schwenger of Hamilton is apointed the rental board for Brant, Haldimand, Halton, Lincoln, Welland and Wentworth counties.

Judge W. T. Robb, who will handle some rentals appeals in the Toronto area, will also deal with those from Bruce, Dufferin, Grey, Simcoe, Waterloo and Wellington counties and Parry Sound and Muskoka districts.

Gordon H. Hewitt of the rentals administration said that most of the new boards will be dealing at first with eviction requests by landlords on the grounds of hardship and obnoxious tenants. A large number of these cases had been piling up in rentals offices while the regulations were being revised.

In counties and districts where no rentals board appointments have been made, members of courts of revision can be appointed to deal with rental appeals.

Pork Canning May Be Boosted

OTTAWA, March 7 — (CP) — Canada may soon go into the pork canning business in a big way with government support.

The move may partially overcome the economic blow resulting from the United States embargo on Canadian livestock and meats. The embargo does not include canned meats.

Agricultural officials disclosed today that the cabinet has passed an order-in-council widening the scope of the government's pork price-support program as another emergency move concerning the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak in Saskatchewan.

The original support program covered only the five basic pork cuts—hams, backs, bacons, shoulders and butts.

Cold storage plants across the country now are piled with these products as a result of the U.S. embargo. Storage now has become a critical issue.

Chances of exporting canned pork and finding a favorable market are considered good.

Out To Beat Blockade

MUNSAN, Korea, March 7—(AP)—Communist truce negotiators today sought to forestall a possible naval blockade of the Red China coast or an invasion of the mainland.

The Reds proposed writing a ban into a Korean armistice.

"It seems that what they are trying to do is to stretch the armistice agreement to any place in the world where forces in Korea have any territory under their control", said Col. Don O. Darrow.

Pearson Promises Inquiry About Plane Being Held

OTTAWA, March 7 —(CP)— Trans-Canada Air Lines said an unexplained breakdown in normal routine procedure was responsible for a delay of passengers who were kept in their planes for four hours Tuesday at Buffalo, N.Y., airport when four flights were diverted there.

A T.C.A. spokesman said it appeared that Canadian customs men at Fort Erie, Ont., a few miles from Buffalo, who would normally have been informed of the diverting of the planes in time to meet them, had not received such a message.

The planes, all bound for Toronto but diverted because of weather conditions, were cordoned off on landing by Buffalo officials. The passengers—reported to number about 60—were kept in the planes until officers arrived from Fort Erie.

The passengers complained they were not allowed to send messages to relatives. When Canadian customs officers arrived, the passengers were cleared and continued to Toronto by bus.

The T.C.A. spokesman said an investigation is being made as to why the Fort Erie officers were not informed of the diversion beforehand.

In the House of Commons Thursday External Affairs Minister Pearson said Canada is asking U.S. authorities about the incident. He was replying to a question by Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative member for Peel.

Five Youths Killed In Truck Collision

QUEBEC, March 7 (CP) — Four youths were killed Thursday night and a fifth died in hospital today after their automobile collided with a truck near Les Ecureuils, Que., about 15 miles west of here. All are from Neuville, Que.

The dead:

Raymond Delisle, 23, Guy Nadeau, 23; Jean-Loen Lapierre, 19, Gerard Hardy, 18, and Albert Burns, 23, who died in hospital.

Occupants of the truck were unhurt.

Loot $100,000 At Navy Base

NAVAL AIR STATION, Quonset Point, R.I., March 7 — Two masked men carrying revolvers held up the Credit Union at the Naval Air Station here today and escaped with $100,000 in cash.

The bandits raced their getaway car through the station gate at 50 miles an hour. Three Marines were on duty at the gate.

Gerald Lynch of Apponaug, R.I., Union manager, and Thomas Smith, civilian guard, were about to carry the funds—in canvas sacks—from their parked cars at the rear of the building when the bandits drove up.

Lynch said the gunmen jumped out of their car, waved the guns at them and one of them said:

"We're not kidding."

One of the Marines at the gate jumped into a car and gave chase but was unable to overtake the men. The bandits' car was found abandoned and ablaze about five miles from the station.

Lynch received the money from the naval disbursing department to cash pay cheques for civil employees at the station. No government funds were involved in the holdup.

The Credit Union is an organization composed largely of civilian employees at the station. Its assets are listed at $1,500,000.

Denounces Hatred

BONN, Germany, March 7 — (AP)—West German president Theodor Heuss tonight attacked the "racial hatred" of the Nazis and "injustices" of the postwar denazification program. He also took a brief sideswipe at Allied dismantling of German factories, calling it "economic nonsense." He did not amplify this one-sentence reference.

Truman Makes Third Plea

WASHINGTON, March 7. (AP) —President Truman forecast today the "ultimate decay of the Soviet slave world," provided free countries build up their military strength.

But, he told Congress, the free world cannot rearm adequately without continued United States help.

Submitting to Congress the first report on the $7,900,000,000 mutual security program, Truman made his third plea in 24 hours for the plan's approval.

Congress, still talking about scaling down the program despite his 7,500-word special message to the legislators Thursday followed by a direct radio-TV plea to the country Thursday night, heard the president say:

"The ultimate decision between free world and slave world lies in the balance . . .

"For the nations of western Europe, the year 1952 may well be the critical time in the defence build-up, bridging the period between extreme vulnerability and effective preparedness."

Kills Officer By Mistake

SEATTLE, March 7 (AP) — A country club dishwasher, mistaking four officers for returning safecrackers, killed a deputy sheriff and wounded two others early today.

Four safecrackers had tied up Ralph Bishop, 62, and two watchmen nearly two hours earlier while they looted the safe of the exclusive Inglewood Golf Club of an estimated $8,000 to $10,000.

Norman Silkworth was killed and two other officers wounded as they responded to the burglary call at 5:30 a.m. The others were not critically injured.

The officers were felled with blasts from an automatic pistol as they entered the clubhouse.

Bishop told officers he freed himself by working his way to a meatblock and sawing the ropes from his arms and legs. He then went to his room, got his automatic and hid in the attic for "more than an hour."

Police Get 3rd Man In Bank Holdup

TORONTO, March 7 (CP). — The third man sought in connection with the $50,000 Bank of Montreal holdup Feb. 22 is in the hands of East York police.

Leo Archibald Laramie, 24, of Toronto, accompanied by a 16-year-old girl, Shirley Lupson, was arrested near Brantford by gun-wielding police who "weren't taking any chances" after Thursday's Toronto shooting of two detectives on the trail of robbery suspects.

Laramie told police he knew he was being followed by a police cruiser, but thought they merely wanted to give him a ticket for speeding as had been done in Syracuse, N.Y.

He was charged with armed robbery of the bank. The girl was held as a material witness.

Missing Nurse In Hospital

TORONTO, March 7 (CP). — Lieut. Elizabeth Sansom, Canadian army nurse recently found in New York City after being missing since Christmas, is a patient in Toronto Military Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said Thursday night Lieut. Sansom came in for observation a few days ago from her Stanley, N. B., home. He refused to amplify.

A brief statement from the army Feb. 27 said the 26-year-old nurse had been located in New York and that she appeared to "have been a victim of amnesia."

Won't Forget Supporters

Pinay Insists Backers In Cabinet

PARIS, March 7 (AP)—Antoine Pinay, newly confirmed right-wing premier of France, said today he will form a cabinet only if it has ministers from groups that voted for him.

Pinay wants a political truce so that a team of experts can try to free France from the threat of financial disaster. Premier Edgar Faure's cabinet, France's 19th since the liberation, fell last week after parliament voted funds necessary for defence projects, but refused to vote the taxes to raise the funds.

"It is quite evident," Pinay told reporters after a morning of political parleys, "that if the M.R.P. (Catholic Republicans) refuse to participate, my job will be very much simplified—all I will have to do is draft my reasons for giving up."

The M.R.P., which includes foreign minister Robert Schuman, voted almost unanimously to confirm Pinay Tuseday. Like most other politicians, however, they had not expected him to win. They were showing reluctance today to become "the left-wing of the right-wing." Among their number are many trade unionists who dislike Pinay's plans for a wage freeze, longer work hours and changes in the social security system.

Their decision was expected tonight.

One source close to Pinay suggested he may have to offer cabinet posts to one or more of the 27 former De Gaullists, in an effort to guarantee their support in the National Assembly.

Pinay said he wanted to make a big reduction in the number of ministers. Faure, had 40 members in his cabinet. Since his program was based on financial reforms, Pinay said, he himself would take over the portfolio of finance and economic affairs.

Pinay's confirmation of promises to hunt down tax evaders and avoid raising tax rates brought a heavy demand for government bonds on the Paris bourse today, with gains up to three points. The value of gold and the black market dollar declined sharply. Gold was selling at 609 francs a gram instead of 624, and the dollar at 464 instead of 480 (legal rate 350).

17 Boards Now Organizing Fight Teachers' Federation

OAKVILLE, March 7. (CP)—Seventeen Central Ontario school boards Thursday disclosed plans to meet a situation caused by demands from school teachers for higher pay and "blacklisting" schools which do not meet standards of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

It was learned Thursday that representatives of the 17 boards met last weekend in Richmond Hill to draft policy. They came from municipalities in an area stretching from Oakville to Kingston. No Toronto or suburban representatives attended.

The trustees decided that the provincial government should be advised of the "serious condition" existing and should be asked to prevent the OSSTF from blacklisting school boards. Their decision will be forwarded to the Urban and Rural Trustees' Association and the Associated High School Boards of Ontario for action.

The Teachers' Federation, to which all secondary school teachers in the province must belong, sets the salary scale for its members for the province. This year the federation decided on a minimum of $3,000 and a maximum of from $6,000 to $7,000 for its teachers. Boards which do not adopt the schedule can be blacklisted—the federation can forbid its members to take positions in its schools.

Prepare Own Schedule

The 17 representatives also decided to ask its two parent bodies to prepare its own salary schedule keeping in mind the ability of taxpayers to pay and the worth of the teachers.

The group's action will not likely have any effect this year as most salary increases have been agreed upon and budgets made up. But a spokesman said last night the federation has been pressuring the boards for years and the trustees are determined to put a stop to it in future.

"Many of us have run into the federation's power," he said. "We feel boards should have the right to consider their own salary [illegible] teachers in battle."

Stock Market Prices Mixed On Exchange

TORONTO, March 7 — (CP) — Stock market prices remained mixed and trendless today in dull early afternoon dealings.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,592,000 shares.

Miscellaneous issues posted a scattered list of fractional advances to form industrials strongest section. Agricultures and retail stores also drew firm support but papers, foods, refining oils and manufacturing companies slipped.

Base metals were mixed as Anacon Lead, Falconbridge, Coldstream, Hudson Bay, Sherritt-Gordon and Steep Rock strengthened while Barvue, East Rim, Sullivan, Quebec Copper and United Asbestos weakened.

Western Oils showed gains and losses in balance. Canada Southern, Canadian Williston, Federated Petroleum, Calgary and Edmonton and Selburn edged upward. Anglo-Canadian, Calgary and Edmonton, National Petroleum and Scurry eased.

Senior golds posted two small gains against three moderate losses. Juniors, prospects and holding companies showed little trend.

$3 Increase Reported In Cattle Price

TORONTO, March. 7 (CP)—Cattle prices jumped upward again this week at the Ontario stockyards. A $3 to $4 gain was reported on steers while heifers were up $2 to $3 and cows up $2. Calves dropped $2 while hogs were steady and lambs firm.

A record light receipt of 1,500 head was reported. The supply was too small for local requirements due mostly to the confusion of interprovincial embargoes. Good to choice weighty steers closed at $29-$30 with one load selling at $31. Medium steers sold at $26-$28. Common to medium light steers and heifers were $24-$27. Good heifers sold at $27-$28. Medium to good cows sold mostly $18-$22 with canners and cutters from $12-$15. Bulls were generally $19-$20 with heavy bulls from $17-$18.50. Good to choice fed yearlings were at $28-$30. There were no stockers traded.

Calf recepits totalled 500. Good to choice vealers sold at $32-$34 with common to medium from $21-$31.

Hog recepits totalled 2,300. Prices were at $26 for grade A with sows $15 dressed.

Sheep and lamb receipts were light at 140 head. Good lambs were selling at $30-$30.50. A few common sheep sold at $8-$15.

Canadians Return To Battle Line

SEOUL, Korea, March 7 (CP)—The 1st Commonwealth Division of which the 25th Canadian Brigade group is a part, was identified today by the United States Eighth Army among three divisions on the battle line.

The 1st Commonwealth division, made up of the 24th, 28th, and 29th brigades, has men from the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, India and South Africa in its ranks.

[illegible] divisions are on the western front facing the Chinese. The U.S. Marine division is on the mountainous eastern front.

Reports from the Commonwealth division said Chinese machine-guns opened up at long range on a patrol but inflicted no casualties.

Nine Race Horses Lost In Barn Fire

PLEASANTON, Calif., March 7 (AP). — Fire which swept through one of the huge horse barns at the Alameda county fair grounds Thursday night cost the lives of nine thoroughbred race horses and caused damage of at least $125,000.

Seven of the thoroughbreds were burned to death, one was killed by a truck as it ran wild on a highway, and another had to be destroyed after it was hit by a truck.

Sheriff H. P. Gleason said it was believed that a carelessly tossed cigarette had ignited the straw or hay about the big barn, one of 15 such structures which houses some 700 horses, most of them in training for the California tracks.

Church Paper Predicts May 1953 Coronation

LONDON, March 7—(AP)—The coronation of the Queen might take place in May or early June next year, the Church of England newspaper predicts today.

The paper says such an important event "is bound to be related in some way to the Christian calendar."

It therefore "could not take place until after Easter and probably not until after Whitsuntide," the official church organ says.

"If other circumstances are suitable, the coronation would be a seemly event to fix for a day within the octave of Whit Sunday, the first of the Holy Spirit, and nothing could be more appropriate to such solemnities associated with the head of a Christian state."

Whit Sunday in 1953 falls on May 24. The Church paper's speculation thus suggests the coronation might take place in, or soon after, the week beginning May 25.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, March 7 (CP) — A firm tone was evident today in early trading in coarse grains futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Most prices were slightly higher.

Commercial demand and offerings were light. Some buying was stimulated by firmness on U.S. markets.

There were domestic shipping orders in oats and barley and a suggestion of export interest in barley. U.S. interests bought a small amount of rye.

Trading was on the dull side.

11 a.m. grain prices:

Oats: May ½ higher 93¾B; July ¼ higher 83¼B; Oct. ¼ higher 80¼B.

with the holdup. On west-end Dundas Street Thursday they sighted a car answering the description, caught up to it and forced it into the curb.

As Tong stepped from the police cruiser, one of the men in the vehicle ahead stepped out with drawn gun and shot him through the body. The second gunman, leaning out of the window, swept the police car with a fusillade of shots.

Perry painfully restarted the cruiser's radio microphone and summoned aid.

In Charge Of Search

Chief Constable John Chisholm and Inspector of Detectives Alex McCathie took joint control of the search. The Chief Constable said he was authorized by Mayor Lamport, chairman of the Police Commission, to post "a substantial reward" for Suchan's arrest.

Police described Suchan as 6 feet 1½ inches tall, medium build, dark brown hair and brown eyes. Jackson, the other man sought, escaped with bank robber Edwin Boyd last November 4 from the Don Jail.

Ironically, it was Sgt. Tong who captured Jackson, wanted for at least four bank robberies throughout Ontario.

Special Squad

Attorney-General Dana Porter said today that a carefully screened group of police officers, unknown to the underworld, may be appointed to combat the epidemic of bank holdups and general robberies which has swept this city. He said the secret squad will operate as a special "bank" force under an inspector.

Mr. Porter said this "bank" squad will function on lines similar to those of the anti-gambling force. He added that discussions already have taken place between the Ontario Provincial Police and the Canadian Bankers Association at which means of combatting the recent wave of holdups—12 in 14 months—were considered.

"All we can do is our very best to apprehend these people," said the attorney-general. "We will use all the means at our command."

Society Lawyer Wounded Entering Home

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—Sol. A. Rosenblatt, society lawyer and disputed heir to a J. P. Morgan granddaughter's fortune, was wounded Thursday night by a mystery gunman as he entered his Park Avenue home.

The lawyer, one-time general counsel for the Democratic National Committee, was struck in the left thigh by one of three shots fired by his assailant, who escaped in a car with another man.

The car, reported stolen, later was found abandoned four blocks away.

Rosenblatt, 51, a key figure in the currently-contested will left by Mrs. Eleanor Morgan Satterlee, kin of the late J. P. Morgan the elder, said after the shooting:

"I wish I had something to tell you but I don't know anything."

Not Serious

His wound was described as not serious. A policeman was assigned to guard him in hospital.

Rosenblatt, besides handling the legal affairs of numerous society figures, is impartial chairman of the New York cloak and suit industry, often a storm centre in labor relations.

The shooting came six hours after hearings on the disputed will had been postponed without explanation until Monday.

The will of Mrs. Satterlee, who died last April 11, made Rosenblatt the chief beneficiary to an estate estimated from $35,000 to several hundred thousand dollars. The document is being contested in surrogate's court by Mrs. Mabel S. Ingalls, Mrs. Satterlee's sister, who received nothing.

Mrs. Ingalls charges that Rosenblatt and Dr. Richard H. Hoffmann, Park Avenue psychiatrist, exerted undue influence over Mrs. Satterlee.

Say Dairymen Badly Worried

OTTAWA, March 7 — (CP) — National Dairy Council said today that Canadian dairymen are deeply concerned over the United States embargo on Canadian livestock and meats and the problems involved will be studied at the council's annual meeting March 17.

About 300 dairymen from all provinces are expected to attend the three-day conference at Montebello, Que. Federal, Provincial and international dairy experts will lead panel discussions.

The council said the American embargo, resulting from the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in South Saskatchewan, blocks exports of Canadian pure-bred cattle and milk-producing cows.

This will result in greater milk production in Canada this year than previously anticipated and possibly increased marketing problems.

Production of butter, cheese and milk products are all expected to climb.

Other subjects up for discussion will be the question of protecting the Canadian market, possibly through import controls, against dairy products from low-cost producing countries and the impact of vegetable-oil imports for margarine production on the Canadian dairy industry.

to drop the term Dominion from official documents without consulting parliament and the provinces and said any tampering with the term should be done in the open in parliament and not "by indirection."

3. Mr. St. Laurent said the most careful inquiry should be made by a Commons committee of the handling of the foot-and-mouth cattle outbreak by government officials. The officials should not be judged before they have a chance to explain themselves.

4. Mr. Low accused the government of dragging the office of Governor-General into the realm of contentious politics by naming a Canadian. He added, however, that he has only admiration for Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, the first Canadian-born Governor - General.

Point By Point

Mr. St. Laurent's speech was a point-by-point reply to Mr. Drew. In it, he contended that "most Canadian taxpayers feel that under semi-peaceful conditions, even under conditions of a cold war, taxation has just about reached as high limits as it is proper for them to bear at this time."

He said there is no way that inflation can be completely choked off by government action but he pointed to the fact that there have been no startling developments in the cost-of-living index in the last two months and said the trend indicates a stabilization.

The Prime Minister indicated that the government's surplus, $721,000,000 after nine months, will taper off to somethting more than $500,000,000 compared to the $30,000,000 originally forecast by Mr. Abbott.

Set 28 Billion Arms Budget In Soviet Union

MOSCOW, March 7 (AP).—The Soviet Government Thursday unveiled a budget proposing 113,800,000,000 rubles for military purposes in 1952. This figure—$28,450,000,000 at the Russian-fixed rate of 25 cents to the ruble—is the U.S.S.R.'s highest since the Second World War.

Finance Minister A. G. Zverev presented the budget to a joint session of the Supreme Soviet — parliament—for approval. He said it estimates total revenue for the year at 508,800,000,000 rubles and expenditures at 476,900,000,000.

The government took in 468,000,000 rubles last year, Zverev said, and spent 441,200,000,000. Last year's military expenditures were listed at 96,335,000,000.

Members of the Politburo present were V. M. Molotov, L. M. Kaganovich, K. E. Voroshilov, A. I. Mikoyan, A. A. Andreyev, N. S Krushchev, G. M. Malenkov, L. P. Beria, N. A. Bulganin, A. N. Kosygin and N. M. Srvernik.

Prime Minister Stalin, who attended the 1951 budget session, was not present for the presentation Thursday.

Russ Figures Mislead

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP) The above dispatch, which passed through Soviet censorship, did not mention intricacies of Russian finance which have led to western charges that the Soviet budget figures do not tell the whole story about the buildup of the Soviet military machine.

The U.N. Economic Commission for Europe reported Feb. 4 that the military machine last year absorbed 77 per cent of the Russian gross investment—money put into plants and equipment, plus depreciation.

The comparative figure for the U.S., on an expenditure of $37,000,000,000 was listed at 67 per cent.

Chicken Dinner Costs Brothers $29

LINDSAY, March 6 (ENS). — A chicken dinner on Feb. 28 cost two boys from Beaverton $29 and a year's suspended sentence in court here Friday. The two, Mason Jewell, 24, and Lewis Jewell, 16, brothers, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing one chicken, the property of Lewis Jarvis.

Jarvis stated that he had found tracks into his hen-house on the morning of Feb. 29 and the door to the hen house pried open. He called constable Al Rawlings from Fenelon Falls and the two men followed the tracks of the brothers and found them in a small cabin in the bush. The boys admitted the theft of one chicken although Jarvis stated that six of them had been stolen. Feathers, feet and entrails of one hen were found in the cabin.

"You boys will have to start eating weiners," said Magistrate E. A. Gee, assessing costs of $29 and a year's suspended sentence.

Pianist, Soloist Present Recital Tuesday

Wo prominent students in the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, Senior School, Ray Dudley, pianist, and Margo MacKinnon, soprano soloist, will present a recital in P.C.V.S. auditorium Tuesday night.

Ray Dudley is well-known to Peterborough music audiences. He was gold medallist at the first Kiwanis festival in this city and later appeared as a guest artist at a concert here.

Since that time has appeared with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra and in Times Hall, New York. He also gave a series of guest recital performances in California.

A pupil of the well-known Chilean pianist, Alberto Guerrero, Mr. Dudley is in his third year of the Conservatory Senior School and is considered an outstanding student.

Scholarship Winner

Miss Margo MacKinnon, also enrolled in the Conservatory's Senior School, was winner of the Rose Bowl and major scholarship grant in the 1950 Kiwanis Festival in Toronto and also received a scholarship at the Canadian National Exhibition musical competitions that year.

While at the University of Toronto she starred in the All-Varsity Revues of 1949 and 1950 and in the University College production of, The Red Mill.

Miss MacKinnon now leads a busy life giving recitals and filling radio engagements and in the Conservatory's opera activities.

Tuesday's recital is being sponsored by the Peterborough O.R.M.T.A.

This is the fifth picture in the Examiner's Baby Picture-Quote contest. For the first five days of each week the Examiner will publish a baby picture and quote from the collection of Constance Bannister and on Saturday will publish the winning local pictures. In the Examiner's contest readers are being asked to submit baby pictures and the trick is to write a suitable caption implying what could have been on the baby's mind to create such an expressive picture. Every home where here are children has an unusual baby picture, so look over your family album, pick out and write the caption and send picture to Baby Photo Editor, Examiner, Peterborough. Pictures must be of babies two years and less. Two prizes of five dollars a week are given and a grand prize of ten dollars at end of contest.

Comets' Rally Fails, Lose 7-6

LINDSAY, March 7 (ENS)—Cobourg's Comets staged a valiant last-period rally here Thursday night to score four unanswered goals and almost tie up the game which ended in a 7-6 score for the Lindsay Muskies.

Playing their third game in a [illegible] league championship in which the Muskies, after last night, hold a 3-0 lead in games, the Comets were outplayed in the first two periods and the locals took a 7-2 lead at the end of the second period.

Second period action saw the game roughening up. Hicks scored for Lindsay and then Maundrell and Cooper combined for Cobourg. Even when Lindsay had three men to five, Cobourg managed only one clear shot on the net. Two match-misconducts were handed out by Referees Pete Nigh and Dick Ouimet of Peterborough.

MacMillan was dumped for swearing at the referee and Bobby Lewis of Lindsay sat out 10 minutes for attempting to hit a spectator after he had received a hot cup of coffee down the back of his neck [illegible] the building. Bill Dysart scored one more for Lindsay in the closing minutes of the period.

Dies Going To Work

BARRIE, March 7 — (CP). — Charles Edward Sullivan, 69, Deputy Registrar of the County Registry and former Deputy Registrar of the Toronto Registry Office, died today on his way to work at the Court House. He was born in St. Catharines and had been with the Barrie Registry Office for 11 years.

Woman Dies On Way To Civic Hospital

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7 — (ENS) — A 64-year-old Meyersburg woman died in an ambulance Thursday on her way to hospital in Peterborough. She was Mary Ida Elliott, wife of Grant Elliott.

Mrs. Elliott had been sick only three days and her family doctor advised her husband that she should be taken to hospital immediately.

The ambulance was halfway between Meyersburg and Campbellford when Mrs. Elliott died.

She was formerly Mary Ida Chase, daughter of the late Joseph Chase and Mary Hatchett, and was born and educated at Belmont Lake. For nine years she had lived in Meyersburg, coming there from Campbellford. Earlier, she lived for several years in Havelock and Peterborough.

While at Belmont Lake she was a member of the Free Methodist Church, and in Campbellford she attended St. John's United Church.

Surviving are four daughters: Mrs. Ralph Wright (Mary) of Petherick's Corners, Mrs. Malcolm Reid (Elva) of Peterborough, Mrs. William Tapp (Jean), of Toronto, Mrs. Allen Worby (Lucille) of Strathroy, one son, William Joseph of Oshawa.

There are two brothers, Finley Chase of Peterborough, and Fred Chase of Havelock.

Funeral service will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Bennett funeral home, Campbellford, the Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith officiating. The body will rest in Mount Pleasant Cemetery vault until spring, when burial will be in Belmont Lake Cemetery.

Awarded Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. March 7—(AP)—The wife of William Saroyan was awarded a divorce decree Thursday after testifying the author "told me he didn't want to be married any more". The couple, wed in 1943, were divorced once before—in November, 1949. They remarried last March and separated last Aug. 10. She charged mental cruelty.

Pay Back Taxes

LOS ANGELES, March 7 (AP) —The Duncan sisters—Rosetta and Vivian—Thursday danced to Uncle Sam's tune and paid up back income taxes of $3,577. The once-famous dance team thus ended a 10-year squabble. The government first filed suit in 1942 and received a judgment which was reaffirmed in 1950.

ANCIENT LAND

Until the first British settlers were established in 1788 Australia was inhabited only by descendants of the stone age natives.

O.P.P. Cruiser, Auto Damaged In Crash

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7—(ENS)—Two cars were damaged Thursday afternoon on Highway 30 at the intersection of the county road running from Warkworth to the highway.

One was a Provincial Police cruiser driven by Constable Bill Baluk of Cobourg. Driver of the other auto was Arthur Yabsley of Warkworth. Yabsley had been driving east on the county road and started out on the highway when the crash occurred.

Damage to the cruiser was about $150 and to Yabsley's car, $10.

$200 Bonus Awarded By Bd. Of Education

TORONTO, March 7 (CP)—All Toronto Board of Education employees, teachers and non-academic staff alike, will get a straight $200 cost-of-living bonus this year.

The board decided on the move Thursday night as a stop-gap measure for 1952 to aid employees who have been asking for higher pay.

The bonus will add about $740,000 to the tax bill, since there are 2,800 teachers and 900 non-academic employees.

Business Good

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March 7 (AP).—J. R. Lawson, a chain-store supervisor, couldn't believe his eyes. When he shouted "drop it" at two women, here's what he said fell out of the skirts 10 steaks, two hams, two packages of sliced ham and four chickens. The women were charged yesterday with shoplifting.

FRIDAY, MARCH 7, 1952

A Week For $85,000

The Community Fund campaign to raise $85,000 for social services in Peterborough begins today. We do not feel that it is necesseary to go into details here, for the uses of the Fund have been fully explained elsewhere, and it has proved itself to be a local cause of the greatest importance and value. But there are two things which we would like to bring home to our readers respecting this campaign. The first is that the workers who are giving their time and skill to the collection of this sum of money are greatly helped if you make your contribution promptly. They are busy people, and no doubt you, too, are a busy person; if you are ready for the canvasser you will save your own time, and his. You are not doing him a personal favour by giving to the Fund, nor is he a solicitor who is in any way obliged to give you special attention: he is someone who is taking time from his own business to help to do the community's business, and he deserves your consideration and help.

* * *

The second point is this: the Fund saves you money and a certain degree of uncertainty—perhaps annoyance. It enables you to give, at one time, to a variety of causes, all of which you know to be worthy of your support. It spares you several campaigns during the course of the year, and thereby it saves you money—for money-raising campaigns cannot be conducted for nothing. Therefore it is up to you to give generously. You may regard your contribution as charity, in the Christian sense of that tion to the community. You may think of it as a sum which you pay in gratitude for your own good fortune. Whatever your attitude toward the Fund, help the public-spirited men and women who have undertaken to do its work to finish the job as quickly and easily as possible. You owe them any cooperation that may lie in your power.

Seven-Tenths Down

We are rather surprised how few newspapers have bothered to comment on the seven-tenths of a point drop in the cost-of-living index. It seems not quite polite of them, who have been wailing and ranting at every rise month after month, year after year, not to have a kind word about the first significant drop since 1945.

The cries of pain in newspapers all across the country grew loudest last summer. The Government, they said, was doing nothing to check inflation. When the Government did bring in some measures (new taxes, quotas on steel, reduction of bank credits, curbs on instalment buying) they said that these were not enough. Within a few months various industries and business were complaining about the hampered effects on their business of some of the regulations. And now, in the cost-of-living figures for January is a seven-tenths drop in the index. Whether this is due chiefly to the Government's action or not, surely some credit must be given it.

It is notable that the lowering of the index comes at the same time as a decrease in employment and therefore fewer full pay envelopes. Is it not possible to have both a stable cost of living and full employment? Must lower prices be got always at the cost of unemployment?

Price Support For Beef

As inevitably as night follows day was the request of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture for price support for beef and lamb following the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease. The Federation describes the emergence of the disease as a national calamity. It is not. Only a few hundred head of livestock have been infected and slaughtered, so far, and the owners are to be paid for them at current rates.

What has made the affair calamitous in the mouth of livestock men is the dislocation of prices and markets following various Provincial, Federal and American bans on shipments. Nobody seems to know quite what will happen to beef prices, and consequently to other meat prices. Therefore, the Federation and farmers, playing it safe, want price floors put down by Ottawa. Nobody, on behalf of the consumers, has asked that price ceilings be set up, to protect them should the effect of the scare be a shortage.

This running to the Government every time something happens to upset the even flow of profits—and everybody is doing it, in business and industry as well as in agriculture—makes us wonder if it would not be better to let the Government run everything. Set up a completely socialist, communist or fascist state. Let Ottawa decide everything—how many tooth picks shall be made in one year, how many potatoes planted, how many cattle bred, how many refrigerators manufactured, what prices may be charged, what profits (if any) allowed, and who and how many may engage in what business, industry, profession, and where and how they shall live.

Then nobody would have to run to Ottawa, for Ottawa, holding all the cards and calling all the tricks, would be immune from outside direction. Think of the railway fares saved, the time saved which lobbying now wastes, the reams of petitions and briefs saved. Think, too, of the national palpitation quieted, the frenzies of crises avoided. There would be no more "national calamities" to fret the whole country, or to be whipped up by some section of it for their private interests. Every calamity would be an Ottawa calamity, for Ottawa to deal with. The rest of us could live in peace and quiet, pursuing the even tenor of the ways laid down at the capital. We should all be as happy as slaves.

Free and Fair Play In South Africa

The South African government has introduced a new bill into Parliament whose purpose is to break up commercial monopolies. The bill would give the Government sweeping powers. It provides for penalties up to £10,000 or imprisonment up to five years. The Minister of Economic Affairs is given absolute powers to investigate cases where he believes a specified business arrangement exists for the creation or maintenance of a monopoly. Anyone who fails to supply information asked for is liable to a fine of £5,000 or two and a half years imprisonment. The Minister can take steps, under the new Bill, to dissolve any business if he considers it necessary in the public interest.

Like other measures of the Malan Government which, on the face of them, seem designed for the protection of people and the preservation of their freedom (the segregation of the natives, for instance), this proposed measure has two sides. The reverse is less shiny than the obverse. It seems to be a measure to ensure free and fair play in business, liament may review the operations of the Act; and no industry or business declared a monopoly has the right of appeal to the courts. The Act in fact gives dictatorial and inquisitorial powers to the Minister of Economic Affairs, acting through the government department called the Board of Trade. The new Bill has an unwholesome air of absolutism which has marked all dictatorships from Cromwell to Mussolini and Stalin.

Spectator Musically Muddled

That highly regarded journal, the London Spectator, does not think much of God Save the Queen. Indeed, it calls it a "deplorable jingle", and continues, "Why should we be content to cut this figure among nations like France, or the United States, or Canada, which have notable and worthy anthems of their own?"

Somebody on the Spectator must have very poor taste in music, or he would not be so quick to throw God Save the Queen out of the window. It is a noble tune. Beethoven admired it greatly, and several other nations, including the U.S.A., have stolen it for their own purposes. The words are simple, which is a good thing, and as patriotic verse goes they do very well. France has La Marseillaise, which is a good song, but too uproarious and too long for many of the uses of a national anthem. The U.S.A. has The Star Spangl'd Banner, which is a pleasant and formal piece of music, but too long and too hard to sing to be really useful; that is why God Save the Queen has been pinched and outfitted with those unfortunate verses beginning "My country, 'tis of thee".

As for Canada, which the Spectator mentions with envy, we have O Canada, which suffers from the fault of undue length, and musically it languishes in the middle. Furthermore, we cannot agree about the two sets of indifferent words which belong to it. The Maple Leaf is a finer tune, but it offends the French. Our national anthem is, and will continue to be, God Save the Queen.

The Spectator does not usually fall over its feet in this manner. It should permit its musical articles to be written by its music critic.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Lots of people cherish the foolish notion that our forefathers were more moral than we are. And yet, as the Whig-Standard points out, what could be more old-fashioned than sin?

We apologize for the error which crept into Wednesday's type. The cost of loving is not one of the items covered by the researchers' statistics which go to make up the cost of living index. Therefore, we should not state positively, as we did in Wednesday's news column, that the cost of loving has become less.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: Two questions. (1) Where was the last Drama Festival held? (2) They must have made a lot of money if 4,000 people attended at season tickets seats for $3.50 and single tickets a dollar each?

ANSWERS: (1) Kingston. (2) I believe that the financial as well as popular and artistic success of the Festival gratified the officials. The amount of money that rolled in was not as great as the 4,000 attendance would indicate; for instance every actor, stage manager, director etc. of every play in the Festival received free tickets to all the performances.

Expenses, other than local, of a festival of this kind are heavy. For instance, the Regional Festival must share in some way or other, the cost of bringing an adjudicator from England, paying his salary and his keep. Mr. Le Fevre has been in Canada since the third of January. In addition there is the cost of bringing another adjudicator out to judge the final Festival. Then, regional companies of actors have some right to expect that their travelling expenses to Peterborough will be met, at least in part . . . . Incidentally, the Dominion Drama Festival, of which the 13 Regional Festivals are a part, receives not a penny of government money.

DEAR ALPHA: What do the Roman and Arabic numerals mean at the upper left-hand corner of the Examiner?

ANSWER: Today's copy reads Vol. CIV, No. 57. I presume it means the 104th year of publication and the 57th publishing day in the year.

There is an apparant discrepancy in the CIV. If the publishing year dates from the Despatch of 1847, which the Examiner succeeded in 1856, this should be the 105th year of publication, unless, of course, it is dated from some time in the middle of the year, and not from the beginning of the calendar year. But if this were so, today would be the 89th or 221st (etc.) publishing day of its year. The "No. 57" is all right—57 publishing days excluding Sundays and New Year's Day since the beginning of 1952.

Most periodicals date their issues by Volumes (one year) and issues—four a year if they are quarterlies, 52 if weeklies etc.

Sometimes these "volumes" are bound into real books or volumes. Until recently the Examiner has its year's issue bound. In 1900 a whole year formed a quite slim volume. Last year the size of the paper required a big thick volume for every two months.

SIR from information given in the programs [illegible] lives in London?

ANSWER: His father was employed with the French Cable Company in New York for several years around 1914. Mr. Le Fevre left the U.S.A. when he was a small boy and has not been back since. In his youth his father's work took the family to London. (By the way, Mr. Le Fevre's French is as exquisite and perfect as his English.) An odder fact than his migrations is that both his parents were born on St. Pierre and Miquelon islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. He was never in Canada before and has never been to St. Pierre and Miquelon, although the islands and the cemeteries are full of his cousins, aunts and uncles.

DEAR ALPHA: Please settle an argument which has arisen as to the birthplace of St. Patrick, patron saint of Ireland. My Scots friends insist that he was born at Dumbarton (Scotland), whilst I insist that Bannauenta his recorded birthplace should be identified as Banwen (Glamorganshire, Wales) — See Willistan Walker's "History of Christianity". Please confirm this, and settle once and for all that St. Patrick was a Welshman.

ANSWER: Sorry for the delay in replying . . . not that I have anything to add but confusion to your letter. Authorities whom I have consulted say variously that he was born at Boulogne-sur-Mer in France, Daventry in England and Ailclyde (now Dumbarton) and Kilpatrick in Scotland. Incidentally, his original British name was Sucat; no doubt changed to Patrick out of deference to the Irish. I really can't see why the Welsh want to claim him; they've got enough saints of their own to fill the heavens. You and your author Walker may be right; I don't care, so long as St. Patrick's heart is in the right place—Armagh in Ulster, Northern Ireland. Which it is, according to St. Bernard.

Since nobody knows for certain either when St. Patrick was born or when he died, there is reason to believe that nobody can know for certain where he was born.

SIR: Supposing the Queen Mother Elizabeth were to marry again, and she married a plain Mr. Jones or Chomondley, what would her title be: "Mrs. Jones, the Queen Mother"; or just "Her Royal Highness, Mrs. Jones"? Or would she and her husband be reported thus: "Queen Elizabeth and Mr. Jones spent the week-end at Brighton"?

ANSWER: It is unlikely that Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, will marry again. If she did, it would undoubtedly be to a person of high rank. She would keep her own rank, but if he was not already a Duke, her husband would probably be created one, and she would be known as "H.R.H. the Duchess of X". Incidentally, she would have to get her daughter Queen Elizabeth II's permission to marry . . . I consider your question fatuous and in bad taste.

✧ ✧ ✧

LEARNED SIR: In recent reading re royal tour, I read that the Duchess of Kent, Mother of Queen Victoria, had two children by her first husband. I knew of her first marriage but never before had read or heard of a first family. What can you tell me about these half-sisters and or brothers to Victoria?

ANSWER: (I blush for the flattering salutation. You should see the way some readers address the venerable Alpha!)

This matter came up in one of Alpha's first columns, but that was so long ago that you were probably only an infant then. You will get the story of Victoria's progenitors and relations as well as a vivid biography of the great Queen, in Lytton Strachey's "Queen Victoria" or Edith Sitwell's "Victoria of England".

When Victoria's father the Duke of Kent, son of George III, brother of George IV and William IV, decided to give up his faithful mistress Madame St. Laurent who had lived with him in Canada and Europe for many years—to abandon her so as to do his duty, marry and provide an heir for the throne (and thus encourage Parliament to pay his debts and increase his allowance)—he had a couple of Princesses in mind, but chose the Princess of Saxe-Cobourg-Saalfeld, a German. She had married at the age of seventeen the elderly and impoverished Prince of Leiningen. He died after eleven years of marriage, leaving her with two children, Princess Feodore and Prince Charles. Prince Charles was left with his German relatives when the Duchess and Duke moved to England just before the birth of Victoria, but Princess Feodore came with them, and was, in their childhood, an older playmate at Kensington Palace for her half-sister Victoria. Both her sister and her brother were present at the Coronation in 1838 . . . I shall have to postpone further revelations about them until another Friday.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAD BIRDS: What happens to their corpses? A few weeks ago this question was put into my hands, and I could not give a satisfactory answer why there are so few to be seen. A reader has volunteered this information: If the birds were killed by accident (on highways, for instance) they are usually eaten by other animals. If they die of disease or natural death in private haunts, scavengers eat them. One of the chief of these are called Sexton Beetles. They have extraordinary nocturnal habits, which include, it seems, grave digging (hence their name). They can bury the body of a dead rabbit, my correspondent tells me, in a single night.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THE RECORD: Nice bright snow, and a return to winter this week, after one of the warmest Februaries on record. Perhaps our 17th of March snow has come early and Wednesday's snow will have been the last buffet of winter.

Letters To The Editor

RESTRICTIONS ON TIMBER CUTTING DICTATORIAL

Sir: Several major issues have come up in the, not too far distant, past, that have been most vital to the interests of the people of Peterborough County Council and that body of citizens whom they represent. The three major issues have been the market square, the business tax issue and now the by-law restricting timber cutting, all of which have not had the vote of the people.

My main issues against timber restrictions [illegible] have not the interference of outsiders out of the county or non-property owners voicing their own opinions and in this case, seem biased.

2. Timber restriction by-law was placed in hands by a new solicitor before the citizens were publicly informed of such an issue pending.

3. I have travelled through most barren sections, studied and taught all phases on such a by-law necessity but knowing this entire county, I class such a by-law, far distant premature and destroying rights inherited. When territories are so wooded, that only one home can be seen between timber lines, as in this county is proof of prematurity.

4. Hundreds of acres of timberland exist here where dangerously wild animals are so numerous that they endanger the settlers, domesticated beasts, poultry and peace of our tourist business.

5. Hundreds of citizens have timber work [illegible] the lumber men, lumber mill workers, planing mills, truckers, log and wood cutters and the grower of timber, who lives where no other occupation can earn him a living. Why should any of these be forced out of business when their timber work has not destroyed the protection necessary?

6. Why permit and propose as being O.K. to raise good timber, for decorative purposes, such as Xmas trees, that sell by the farmer for about 10c to 50c and have so many dealers handle them, that, when they reach the U.S. they cost from $3 to $10 and up to exorbitant prices and be used only about one to 2 weeks, then burned? Land that produces Xmas trees is drained of growing substance and forms no protection in any form.

It is past due time for citizens to stop being dormant concerning major issues and time to act to maintain the rights for this and future generations. Awake Canadians and don't let such destruction of rights rise as do the mushrooms of the fields do over night, some being innocent while so many are so innocent in appearance only yet so deadly for action against the good of the people. You may voice your assent opposing timber restriction by-law by signing your name on a petition placed in public places over the county and within your reach.

MRS. JOSEPH HAMILTON.

Stony Lake.

REPLIES TO LOVER OF DOGS

Sir: In regard to a letter in your paper on Tuesday night signed "Lover of Dogs", in the first place may I say that that pen-name alone is about the best sample of a misnomer I have ever seen.

Everyone in this district, on reading that letter, instantly recognized the writer and everyone is equally aware too, that the greatest pleasure these people derive from their own dogs seems to be in seeing them aggravating, if not terrifying other people. In fact, not too long ago the situation did progress to the point where a neighbor did not dare to go out in her own yard to hang clothes. It's really a fine state of affairs when a person cannot enjoy the use of about half of his own property because of a situation like that. At length, with all due justification, a petition made the rounds of the community and was signed by all peace-loving neighbours, to the effect that these animals should be confined or at least securely chained where they couldn't molest other people.

The Humane Society and police investigated the case and the offending dogs were ordered to be kept chained at all times. But that is in the past now and everyone has been only too glad to forget it. We all try to mind our own business around here and get along beautifully, but that isn't enough for some people. Having been brought to task to their own detriment in the interest of a very real cause in the past, they are evidently just breaking their necks to find something to complain about to get back at their neighbours.

Now we all know this small spaniel mentioned in "Lover of Dogs" letter. He is a constant playmate of the neighborhood children and perhaps his only fault is an excess of youthful exuberance. Granted there is an older lady who passes by here frequently who is truly terrified of the little animal, and she has the sympathy of those who know her, for she is very high strung and extremely nervous and refuses to be convinced that the dog is harmless.

As for "Lover of Dogs" young son having to get off his bicycle to ward off the animal—if that is true then he has probably brought that state of affairs on himself for he has often been seen pegging stones at the pup and dogs do remember unkindness.

Regarding the hounds being tied outside, I believe it is the custom to have hunting dogs tied by their kennels. Each dog has a comfortable, well strawed house and is well protected from the elements. I might say in passing that this is much to be preferred to "Lover of Dogs" system of housing two or three large dogs in the cellar, from the sanitary standpoint alone. However, the way one chooses to live is his own business as long as it doesn't adversely affect others.

I am a strong advocate of that old adage "live and let live." Yours for,

"PEACE AND GOODWILL."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also. (Matt. 6: 19-21.)

Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven . . .

Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock: and the rain descended, and the floods came, and winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock.

And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand: and the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house: and it fell: and great was the fall of it. (Matt. 7: 21, 24-27).

Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not highminded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy; that they do good, that they be rich in good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicat; laying up in store for themselves [illegible] they may lay hold on eternal life. Seeking Origin Of French Bell

FORT FRANCES, Ont.—(CP)—For 27 years a fur buyer from Ranier, Minn., across the international boundary from this northwestern Ontario town has been trying to find out the origin of a small bronze bell he found on Rainy Lake.

George Stoffels, says he found the bell in 1925 while on a hunting trip. It bears the date 1878 and the inscription "Saigne Legier" on one side and "Chiantel Fondeur" on the other. Seven small rosettes adorn the top.

The bell is clear toned and measures four inches across the base and 3½ inches from top to bottom. It has a handle shaped in the form of a rectangle as though it was designed for a heavy strap.

Stoffels learned recently that similar bells have turned up in the Duluth area of Minnesota and as far away as Oregon. Other bells have been found at Two Harbors, Minn., and along the shore of Lake Superior. One was found hanging from a tree top in Eastern Oregon.

The theory has been advanced that the bells were hung in the forests by some forgotten religious order to remind travellers that God is always watching.

Another possibility is that the bells were carried west by French lumberjacks several generations ago as good-luck charms. Stoffels discounts the latter theory because he found the bell in an area that hadn't been logged.

DOG-GONE REUNION—Stella Jozwiak, seven years old, is re-united with her two St. Bernards, King and Lady Patricia. The two doughty descendants of the famed rescue dogs who search for travellers in the Alps, wandered away from their Philadelphia home in a snow storm, and managed to lose themselves for two days in a snowdrift. Found and fed by Edward J. Sprague, they were turned over to the SPCA and returned to their home.

Babe In Bush

SEROWE, South Africa—(CP)—A three-year-old child wandered 24 miles from his home here into country where lions are numerous. He was found three days later in good shape and not at all alarmed. He said he had lived on wild berries.

Artist Works On Cobwebs

VIENNA—(Reuters)—A strange exhibition, unique even in Vienna, home of many curious arts, will open here shortly.

It consists of 48 miniature paintings— all painted on cobweb.

Justice Szodan, a Vienna artist who died two years ago, devoted his life to this work and produced in all 60 perfect miniature paintings but 12 were literally "blown away" by the blast of bombs in the last days of the Second World War.

Szodan devoted several years of his life to mastering the art of painting on cobweb. He read in a newspaper of this novel technique which had been practised in the 16th Century and started experimenting in 1924.

He had to have special brushes of extreme delicacy. He fixed the cobweb in a frame and covered each separate thread with a special foundation color which also gave the web more strength.

One of Szodan's trouble was the supply of web. He used to take a ladder and visit stables where he found the best webs.

Later he brought home two dozen large spiders instead, and set them free in his studio.

Soon, they had spun magnificent webs in every corner.

But after Szodan had taken the webs away two or three times the spiders went on strike and refused to spin any more.

Szodan's first painting on web took him two years to complete. It showed an Indian elephant.

Later he did a series of portraits of Franz Lehar, Richard Strauss, Richard Tauber and other prominent persons in the world of music and art.

Tough On Bookies

LONDON—(CP)—The high cost of living is hitting small independent bookmakers. Annual report of the West Ham police court clerk noted that bookies requested time to pay fines imposed for making bets on the street, whereas, in former years they paid on the spot.

Big Shipments

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil —(CP)—Brazil's Rio Doce Valley Company shipped 1,284,000 tons of iron ore abroad in 1951, according to the annual report. Exports were about 80 per cent more than in year's total went to the United States.

Bright And Cool

WITH EAST TORONTO CAGERS—Belle Stalter of Port Hope is playing for East Toronto girls' basketball team, intermediate Ontario champions last year. She played formerly for Port Hope High School and then with the girls' Canadian Army team in British Columbia. The East Toronto team meets Towne Togs at the Y.W.C.A. here Saturday evening in an exhibition game.

Oslo Dispute May Affect Hockey Future

By JACK SULLIVAN.

TORONTO, March 7 (CP). — A chubby, pink-cheeked Canadian and a slick, sharp-eyed Irishman collided in an Oslo hotel a couple of weeks ago.

The repercussions may affect Canada's future representation in international amateur hockey.

That's the interpretation going the rounds of a scrap between Doug Grimston of New Westminster, B.C., president of the Canadian Hockey Association, and John F. (Bunny) Ahearne of London, travel agent and European representative of the C A H A. It happened Feb. 25, closing date of the Oslo winter Olympic games but became public only yesterday.

The scrap started over Edmonton Mercurys who won the Olympic hockey title for Canada. They threatened to cut short their continental exhibition tour, charging that Ahearne siphoned off the profits. Ahearne who made all the bookings, became indignant.

Clash Over Issue

He and Grimston clashed in a hotel over the issue. After heated discussions it was decided that Mercurys would fulfill their commitments and return to Canada by air around April 1.

Grimston said yesterday he "definitely" will suggest to the C A H A annual meeting at Minaki, Ont., June 15-19 that Canada step out of the Olympic hockey picture. The odds, however, are that Canadian hockey players will be around for the 1956 games at Cortina, Italy.

Grimston and Ahearne will give their versions of the Oslo incident at Minaki. There will be plenty of talk about firing Ahearne who is used to being called a "chiseller," "grafter" and so on.

There also will be talk about stopping all European junkets by Canadian teams. The bet is that these will continue and that Bunny, as usual, will handle the financial arrangements, draw up exhibition dates and, of course, take his 10 per cent cut on the teams' travelling costs and other "incidentals."

PUBLIC SCHOOL SENIOR CHAMPS—Defeating Prince of Wales in the final game Wednesday, King Edward School won the senior championship of the Public School Hockey League and the Board of Education Trophy, held last year by Central. Galt Protests Toronto Teams Won't Play Tilt

TORONTO, March 7 (CP). — An attempt by Galt Black Hawks to force Toronto St. Michael's and Toronto Marlboros to play the final game of their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A schedule failed Thursday at a meeting of the O H A council.

Officials of St. Michael's and Marlboros, with the approval of the O H A had agreed to forget their last league game because it would have no effect on the league standings.

Galt had contended that in not playing the game the Toronto teams were liable to forfeiture of their $500 league bond and were ineligible for the playoffs.

The council took no action on the charge but passed a measure making it obligatory in future for all teams in the league to consent to a game cancellation

Young's Pt. Win Downs Apsley

YOUNG'S POINT, March 7 — (ENS)—The first game of the Kawartha League finals took place in Lakefield with Young's Point and Apsley as contenders. It was a close hard-fought contest with plenty of action and scoring, and saw two 10-minute overtime periods before Young's Point gained an 8-7 victory.

In the first frame, B. Houle (Howden) netted one for Apsley and a minute later J. Howden was penalized for boarding. S. McNaughton received a tripping penalty and B. Howden went off for boarding. While each side was a man short, C. Russelle tied it up. A double penalty to S. McNaughton and V. Tucker for unnecessary roughness, completed the first-period action with the teams tied 1-1.

The second was free from penalties, but saw seven goals scored as each team battled vainly for the lead. B. Houle put Apsley one up, but the Point went out in front again on goals by D. Heard and J. Darling. V. Tucker evened it again but Church (Russelle) made it 4-3 at the 14-minute mark. Two goals by V. Tucker made it 5-4 in favor of Apsley.

The rapid pace continued in the third although both teams tired. D. Heard (Church) tied it up once more and B. Houle turned the hat trick on a pass from G. Watson. Young's Point tied the score once more on D. McIsaac's goal and C. Russelle put them out in front. It looked as if the game would end that way but G. Watson (B. Houle) put it into overtime at 16.35. The only penalty of the period was a double to D. Heard and K. Delahaye for roughing.

There followed two overtime periods, during which the tired players were further handicapped by soft ice before the tie was broken. In the first period both teams played it cagey while they waited for the breaks. Jacobs went off for tripping but Apsley were unable to do anything while they had the advantage In the second overtime period, play opened up again somewhat. At 7.42 J. Darling and K. Delahaye were given two minutes for roughing. J. Tucker followed at 8.25 for tripping and at 8.49 C Russelle drilled a long shot from the blue line to give Young's Point a well-earned 8-7 win.

Young's Point—Goal, B. Kyle; defence, E. Tedford, S. McNaughton; forwards, D. Heard, J. Church C. Russelle; alternates, J. Darling, D. Jacobs. D. McIsaac, J. Barber, P. Heard, R. Freeburn D. Hogarth.

Apsley—Goal, G. Spencely; defence D. Tucker, J. Tucker; forwards, G. Watson, B. Howden, B. Houle; alternates, K. Delahaye, J. Post, L. Smith, V. Tucker, S. Jeff, J. Murray, A. Wagner, R. Jeff, T. Wilson.

Referee, T. Junkin; linesman, J. Chittick.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By GEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Belleville Hawks fly at the Petes tonight in Civic Arena to open O.H.A. senior "B" group semi-finals. First of a best-of-seven serial, return one Monday in Bella Villa, then back here next Wednesday for the only home appearance of the Ellis outfit next week. Red Doran's Hawks are claiming that, at full strength again, they can take any club in the circuit—same as they did the first half of the schedule when they led the loop. However, they'll find the classy Petes a tough nut to crack in these playoffs. Should be a swell scrap (most important to both teams) before one of the biggest puck crowds of the season.

Eagles commence their semi-finals in Kingston tomorrow night, and these clubs then clash here Monday eve. They're away next Wednesday and back again Friday. It could be all over by then. Yes, playoffs rush along pretty fast and one hot club in the sawoffs can mean curtains right quickly for the opposition. Let us hope that it is Petes and Eagles who survive the semi-finals, and then local fans will be assured of a steaming group final series with all games right here. But neither Petes nor Eagles can be regarded as a shoo-in yet in the semi-windup set. They'll have to hustle all the way to survive.

Girls' Hoop Play Starts

Girls' basketball playoffs begin this e'en in the Y.W.C.A. gym. A twin bill, starting at eight, with Lindsay vs. Black's, and followed by Nurses vs. C.G.E. These are two-game semi-finals, points counting. Neill's drew a bye in the upper bracket with 18 wins, as Lindsay and Black's had 12 each, Nurses eight and C.G.E. six. Normals get a bye in the junior series. Winner of Lindsay-Black's meets Neills' in senior finals. Loser goes against the Nurses-C.G.E. victor in intermediate finals. The loser of Nurses-C.G.E. meets Normals in junior finals. That's the setup and it'll be all over ere the end of this month. Drop around and see the lasses in hoop playoffs.

Chic Lee, son of Knotty Lee of baseball fame, leads his East Toronto girls into the Y.W. here tomorrow p.m. at seven. They have an exhibition cage contest with Towne Togs. Latter were intermediate provincial champs two years ago while East Toronto won out a year back and lost in Eastern Canada intermediate "A" playoffs to Montreal by one point last spring. Belle Stalter of Port Hope plays for 'em. Togs recently rubbed out Whitby by hefty scores in L.O.B.A. first-round playdowns, and they should go quite a piece along the provincial path this spring. The Toronto team will provide them with a stern test, and the game should be well worth viewing.

Cage Play For Collegiate

Collegiate cagers are active this weekend, too. P.C.V.S. senior girls are playing Port Perry after four this aft here with the return tussle Monday in C.O.S.S.A. quarter-finals. Tonight in Oshawa the junior P.C.V.S. boys open against Central with the second back here Monday eve to see which squad goes in C.O.S.S.A. playoffs in Toronto a week later. And Collegiate juveniles meet Toronto tomorrow e'en at 7:30 in the local gym to begin their O.A.B.A. playdown series. That joust is followed by the provincial junior return fray between St. Kitts and Bev Goulding's crew, the Saints having a good lead on the round.

President Bob Batley of the men's City Softball League has called the annual open meeting of the loop for Monday night at seven in the hall above Lowe's store on George St. —just north of Hunter. Reports of 1951 will be read, officers elected, entries taken and plans for this coming season discussed. They hope for another fast four-team circuit playing double-headers under the lights in the Ashburnham Bowl twice weekly, commencing about mid-May. First applicants for entry will have the inside track during the spring reorganization period. Other summer-time sports clubs here no doubt will be holding early huddles to get things lined up well before the playing season begins.
